Rosa Droll; song, "'Tis Santa Claus," Grace Murphy, chorus by pupils of 4th year A; song, "In Remembrance," by eight girls, 7th grade; Christmas play, "Mr. St. Nicholas," by pupils of 5th, 6th and 7th grades; song, "Ye Bells! Ye Bells!" school.

One of the most elaborate programmes of the day was given at the Bryant school under the direction of Miss E. V. Shattock, principal. This morning special exercises were held from 9 to 10 o'clock. A novel feature appeared in the introduction. After the processional and a carol, "Beautiful Story," by the school, Miss Shat- read the prophecy from Isiah telling of the coming of Christ. Then seven girls from the Seventh grade, the Misses Martha Klein, Lillian Thorn, Elizabeth Bartlau, Lottie Chamberlain, Carrie Mulford, Emma Stratton, Bessie Bond and Juliet Hall, recited the Scriptural story of the coming while "While Shepherds Watch Their Flocks by Night" was played softly. The rest of the programme was as follows:

Carol, "Little Town of Bethlehem;" recitation, "The Glorious Song of Old," Ethel Boice; carol, 'In Remembrance;" song, "Away in a Manger," first year class; recitation, "Christmas," fifth year B; carol, "The Message of the Bells;" "Lullaby," Julia Crane; carol, "The Message of Peace;" "Twinkling Star," 4th, 3d and 2d classes; carol, "A Song of Christmas;" carol, "A Star in the Sky," fourth year B; carol, "Why Do We Sing;" "Oh, Wond'rous Star," sixth year class; "Tell Us Ye Shepherds," seventh year class; recessional.

This afternoon the cantata "Court of King Christmas" will be given to the friends of the school.

The exercises at the Plainfield High School were held this morning and attended by a large number of graduates and friends. The building was prettily decorated with the various class colors. Charles J. Baxter, State Superintendent of Schools, was present, but did not speak. The address was by Rev. C. E Herring.

After the exercises the presentation of the usual gifts to the Juniors from the Seniors took place. The Juniors heaped coals of fire upon the heads of the graduating class by presenting each with a box of home-made candy. Various mottoes calling attention to the verdancy of the Freshmen were conspicuously posted about the building.

WHAT'S TO BE DONE IN HOLIDAY WEEK.

Various Happenings Planned for Plainfield During Holidays.

TOMORROW IS CHRISTMAS.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES WILL BE HELD IN ALL CHURCHES TOMORROW.

Monday Will be Date of Legal Celebration—Social Affairs Arranged for the Week—Church Entertainments Are Numerous—Some Other Important Happenings of the Week are Told.

The small boy is happy. Tomorrow will be Christmas, school is closed for a week and there are all sorts of strange and secret happenings going on in the household that presage many pleasant surprises on the morrow. All that lacks to make his job complete is a real big snow storm.

Christmas falls on Sunday this year so the day will be legally observed Monday instead. Tomorrow is the true Christmas, however, and this evening possesses all the magic perogotives usually attributed to Christmas Eve. All the stores will be closed Monday and nobody will do business unless necessity absolutely compells them to do so. Today, every store is crowded and wears that air of bustle and excitement that always accompanies the holiday season.

Many of Plainfield's sons and daughters who have been away at college or some far off town have returned to spend Christmas at home. Then there is another host of strange faces, that are spending the day at Plainfield homes. In consequence, Plainfield has waked up during the last week and promises to be even more lively during the holiday week.

Tomorrow will be devoted to the home celebrations and religious observance of the day. There will be special services in all the churches with varying programmes. They will be found in another column. Tomorrow, too, the members of the Gesang and Turn Verein will hold their Christmas festivities for their families at their hall.

Society has prepared for a fairly active week. The Park Club will hold one of its popular dances one evening of the week. Monday will be principally devoted to family gatherings and dinners, but after that the young people will be free for a good time.

Tuesday evening will see the dance at the Seminary on West Seventh street. The next evening Miss Emma Schoonmaker gives a dance at the home of her uncle, S. L. Schoonmaker, of Central avenue. Thursday the principal event will be the dance at the Casino, given by Miss Louise Fisk, daughter of Mayor Charles J. Fisk. That evening there will be a progressive euchre party at the home of F. H. Ball, of Myrtle avenue, and a luncheon by Miss Ethel VanBoskerck, of West Seventh street. The dance at Miss Scribner and Miss Green's school will be held Friday evening. Saturday night of that week will see the second game in the series between the Bachelors and Benedicts on the Park Club alleys. Although a bowling match, it has long since become a social function among the club people.

All the Christmas entertainments of the various churches will be held during the week. Tuesday night entertainments are announced at the Congregational, First Presbyterian, Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, First M.E., Monroe Avenue M. E., Seventh-Day Baptist churches and Warren chapel. Wednesday being All Innocents Day will be the occasion for the Christmas festivals in all the Episcopal churches and also at Hope chapel. Thursday evening the First Baptist, Park Avenue Baptist and Trinity Reformed churches will hold their entertainments.

The Y. M. C. A. will hold "open house" Monday and then on the following Monday, which is to be celebrated as New Year's day. Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will have its big time Thursday evening.

While not intimately connected with the Yuletide season, there are several events of importance to the city that will take place during the week. Tuesday night, the members of the incoming Common Council will gather for a caucus and plan out the organization for the coming year. Thursday night, the last hearing for the trolley ordinance will take place and on the evening following, the Council will, in all probability, adopt the ordinance.

Music Hall will see two good entertainments when Thatcher's Fashionable Vaudevilles will give a matinee and an evening performance. The programme for the rest of the week will be announced later.

Some of the Features That Local Congregation Will be Able to Enjoy.

GOOD CHEER FOR SOLDIER BOYS.

Christmas Box Sent to Boys of Fourth New Jersey.

The Plainfield boys of the Fourth New Jersey Volunteers have not been forgotten in the general good feeling of the Christmastide. They are not as numerous as the local recruits in the Third, but they have their friends as well. Thursday a capacious box, filled with many good things, was shipped by express to the boys in the Fourth, now encamped at Greenville, South Carolina. The box is expected to reach there tonight, Christmas Eve.

The box included packages from Mrs. Hewitt, Chris Sorensen, Sr., Wm. Mattox, H. Bennett, E. J. Cleveley, W. W. Warnock, Jerry Callahan, Mrs. Gray and E. Uren; boxes from Miss Sorensen and J. Hewitt; chickens from the Armour Beef Company, D. Uren, J. Sorensen and Mrs. Hewitt; turkeys from the Swift Beef Company and M. C. Sorensen, and various contributions from P. Hansen, L. Hummer and J. Hewitt.

There is so much in the box that the Plainfield boys will have to call in their friends to assist in caring for the contents.

Woodhull & Martin's Big Business.

Woodhull & Martin, the popular dry goods merchants, say that yesterday was one of the busiest days that they have had. From the time the doors were open in the morning till they were closed last evening every clerk was kept busy and the sales were large. This firm claim that the people of this city have remained at home this year instead of going to New York to make Christmas purchases. They are using several delivery wagons and they are kept going from early morning till late at night.

Syrian Infant Very Ill.

The infant girl of Mrs. Mary George, the Syrian woman, who is now stopping at the City Industrial Home, is very ill and it is thought cannot possibly live. Mrs. George expects to take up her home in New York or Philadelphia at a Syrian home, which will be provided for her by the local charity people.

Close Up City Business.

At the last meeting of the City Council to be held next week the annual reports of the various committees will be presented.

Death of Henri DeMaziere.

Henri DeMaziere, of this city, died Thursday. The funeral services will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Mary's church.

PARK CLUB ENTERTAINED

CHRISTMAS SEASON AT THE CLUB OPENED LAST NIGHT.

Miss Ida Strauss, Chas. Pettinos, of Bethlehem, and Judge-Elect W. N. Runyon Furnished the Programme.

The opening of the holiday season at the Park Club was marked last evening with an informal entertainment for the members and their families. This evening will see the opening of the series of bowling matches between the Bachelors and Benedicts of the club. Next Friday evening the club will hold its formal dance, and the night following will take place the second game in the Bachelor-Benedict series.

The entertainment last evening proved a decided success. The entertainers were Miss Ida Stauss, pianist; Charles Pettinos, of Bethlehem, formerly leader of the Lehigh University Banjo Club, banjoist and vocalist, and City Judge-elect William N. Runyon, vocalist.

It was the first appearance of Miss Strauss in public and she proved herself a talented musician. She had a pleasing manner and a bright smile that delighted the audience. Her selections were difficult but she gave them with ease and expression that was very pleasing. Her technique was excellent.

Mr. Pettinos was greatly handicapped in the absence of his regular accompanist. He gave several spirited banjo solos and then sang. His selections were funny and new to most of the audience so his reception was a very enthusiastic one.

With the dignity of the city judiciary to sustain, William N. Runyon will not be the genial entertainer next year that he has been for the past three years. He will make only one more appearance after last evening. He had several "coon songs" that were well received and then sang his famous "Irish Jubilee."

B. Arrowsmith Hegeman, Jr., president of the club, acted as master of ceremonies. After the entertainment the floor was cleared for a dance. Part of the evening, William N. Runyon at the piano and Charles Pettinos on the banjo, rendered a number of selections. Some of the returned college boys sang their college glees as well.

CROWDING IN GYMNASIUM.

Y. M. C. A. Directors Had No Intention of Violating the Law.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Considerable has been mentioned in your paper regarding the visit of Chief Doane to the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. and his strictures upon the crowding of the gallery at times of exhibitions. Allow me to say that the first intimation that the board of directors has had that any action of theirs, in allowing the said galleries to be open to visitors, and its being unlawful, was at the time that we were given notice by the chief. It would seem as if it only needed to be mentioned that the board of directors have no desire to do anything which is contrary to either city or State law, and if the number allowed in the gallery of the gymnasium in the past has been more than was allowable, it was done through ignorance and not in defiance of law. Also allow me to say that arrangements are now in preparation to arrange the seating in conformity to the demands of the chief. We trust that you will give this the publicity that you have your criticisms of the management. John Valiant,

Chairman of Physical Work Committee.

Mrs. McKenzie Introduced.

Mrs. Angus McMenzie, who has just taken up her residence on Central avenue, in this city, was introduced to a few of Plainfield's society people yesterday afternoon at a tea given in her honor by Mrs. Israel C. Pierson, of 733 Watchung avenue. Mrs. Pierson was assisted in receiving by Mrs. McKenzie and others. It was a small affair and very informal.

A Profitable Affair.

As a result of the tea and birthday party given at the home of Miss Wilson, "Tunlaw," for the benefit of the Church of the Redeemer, $176.50 was received clear of expense. This is reported to be the largest amount ever received at a similar affair, and the gratitude of all is extended to Miss Wilson for her earnest efforts.

Christmas at the Hospital.

The Christmas tree at the Muhlenberg Hospital will be lighted Monday afternoon next at 3 o'clock. The members of the Woman's Auxiliary Board, the Board of Governors and all those interested in the hospital work are most cordially invited.

—There will be no meeting of the Browning Circle of the Congregational church until after the beginning of the new year.

PUPILS' YULETIDE GLEE.

IRVING SCHOOL CHILDREN DISPLAY ENTERTAINING ABILITIES.

Exercises Held in the Assembly Hall, Which Was Filled With Many Admirers of the Little Folks—Programme.

Christmas was made much of this year at the Irving School, and a pretty entertainment entitled "Yuletide Glee" was given yesterday afternoon by the pupils under the direction of their teachers. It consisted of recitations and songs by the little ones, and closed with a Christmas play, "Mr. St. Nicholas," which was taken part in by ten boys and girls.

The assembly hall, where the exercises took place, was darkened and lighted only by the electric lights which made the costumes worn by some sparkle and glisten like gold. The platform was arranged so as to represent a parlor, with greens placed around, and an open fireplace in which a make believe fire was burning.

To the procession the pupils marched in from their different classrooms and took their seats and joined heartily in the song, "Message of the Bells," which opened the programme. Then followed recitations and songs by the pupils singly or as parts of classes. The entire programme was gone through with without a break, and as many of the reciters and soloists were very young, it was somewhat remarkable.

Recitations were given by Hattie Walls, Mabel Hand, Stanley Childs and Jerry Manning. A recitation and song by the pupils of the first year, B, was well gone through with. "Santa Claus," was the name of the piece, and each of the little ones wore a letter on her bosom, the whole of which spelled "Santa Claus." A song was sung by Florence Phillips, and in another Grace Murphy sang the verses as a solo, the pupils of the fourth year, A, joining in the chorus.

"Winter," by eight pupils of the seventh grade, was very good. Lois Huson was winter; Hannah Higgins, snow; Lillie Duckworth, ice; Florence Chichester, frost, and Rosa Droll, wind. "Christmas in different parts of the world" was told about by little girls dressed so as to represent their country, who explained how they spent Christmas in their homes.

The play, "Mr. St. Nicholas," was taken hold of by the pupils with vim. It opened by showing a group of children gathered about the fireplace, some of them about to hang up their stockings for Santa Claus to fill. One or two, with more modern ideas, sneered at Santa and said that they wanted a new plan. Just then in popped Mr. St. Nicholas, a modern youth, attired in a tall silk hat, who began bustling about, taking the names and addresses of the company, and offering to send them their gifts by messenger or express. But after all Mr. St. Nick did not receive an enthusiastic reception and soon left. Then the genuine old Santa Claus appeared and met with a jolly reception, which ended by his distributing all kinds of gifts and filling the various stockings.

Charles Burt made an excellent "Mr St. Nicholas" and Santa Claus was Frank Kline. The others who formed the group and hung up their stockings were Sidney Gilbert, Sanley Childs, Margie Phillips, Winona Dodds, Ada Rogers, Wm. Montgomery, John Kenney and Ethel Walsh.

A Handsome Souvenir.

L. W. Randolph, the West Front street pharmacist, is giving his patrons one of the handsomest of the holiday souvenirs. It is a calendar called "Our Army and Navy Calendar," made by the Crescent Embossing Company of which F. C. Lounsbury is the president. The calendar shows excellent pictures of all the army and naval commanders and prominent men and shows sketches of the different happenings of the war. It is far better than the usual calendar given away.

Entertained at Euchre.

A progressive euchre party was given last night by Mrs. H. Augustus Schuyler, of 319 LaGrande avenue, for her daughter, Miss Schuyler. There were guests present from New York and from Plainfield, and the first prizes were carried off by Miss Marion Bowen, of this city, and Allan Hartley, of New York. Miss May Evans and Bryant Harman, won the second prizes.

Little Tots Made Merry.

Many parents and friends assembled at Miss Scribner and Miss Green's school yesterday morning to see the little children of the kindergarten make merry with games and carols around a beautiful Christmas tree. All the decorations and presents were the handiwork of the little ones and certainly did great credit to their teacher, Miss Juanita Machado.

TROLLEY LINE COMPLETE

PERMISSION GRANTED TO PUT TRACKS ON THE BRIDGE.

That Will Complete the Through Line From Plainfield to New Brunswick—Trolley Company's Share—New Bridge.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, December, 24.—The last link in the trolley connection between Plainfield and this city has now been secured. Yesterday, at the meeting of the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders held in this city, permission was granted to the Brunswick Traction Company to lay its tracks over the iron bridge over Bound Brook at Bound Brook. The freeholders of Somerset county had already granted a similar permission to the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company, now the same as the Brunswick Company.

For the permission, the Brunswick Company agrees to paint the bridge and keep it in repair as long as the tracks are on it and to give a bond of $1,000 to indemnify the county from damage.

The line from New Brunswick to Bound Brook is now completed, the bridge connecting the present line in Bound Brook with the line being built from New Brunswick through East Bound Brook. From Bound Brook to Dunellen and thence to Plainfield the line is now in running order.

The big bridge over the tracks of the Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central at East Bound Brook is progressing rapidly and the contractors are hoping to have the cars running over it in a few months.

ANOTHER LODGE.

Grand Fraternity Branch Organized in This City Last Night.

Plainfield is to have another fraternal and beneficiary organization. The latest is known as the Grand Fraterity and was organized last night at the office of Lawyer Brady in the First National Bank building.

The officers of the new order, which will be called Plainfield Camp of G. F., are as follows: Commander, J. Henry Buchanan, M. D.; Recorder, Irving L. Brady; Collector, Thomas E. Currin, Jr.; Treasurer, Horace J. Martin.

The preliminar organization was effected last night and the charter left open for further applicantions. The society has social features as well as a beneficial side and is expected to become popular among Plainfield people.

The society will meet in January at the call of the Cammander to receive further applications.

Special Church Music.

There will be a special musical service at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning. The choir will render the following anthems, solos, etc.: "Sweet Christmas Bells," Stainer; "Arise, Shine," Foote; "How Brightly Dawns," Shelley; "See, Amid the Winter's Snow," West; "The Christ Child," Coombs; "A Christmas Song," Brown; contralto solo by Mrs. Ward; "The Angel Heralds," Coombs; soprano solo by Miss Harris; violin obligato by Prof. Conde.

Odor From Unharvested Cabbages.

The neighbors living near the farmer who has an unharvested cabbage crop situated on the corner of Eighth street and Monroe avenue, complain of the bad odor that arises from them constantly. The Board of Health took such prompt and effective steps towards abolishing the patch a square below Monroe avenue a few weeks ago that they will be appealed to again.

Held for Grand Jury.

Mrs. Annie Doyle, at her hearing yesterday afternoon before Justice Moeller, was held for the Grand Jury on a charge of malicious mischief. Mrs. Julia Siracker, who lives in the same house with her, charged Mrs. Doyle with deliberately smashing the lock on a door, as told in yesterday's Press. The plaintiff in the case was represented by Walter L. Hetfield, the defendant by W. A. Codington.

Simply Trusting.

The mother of J. P. Laire, residing at Asbandale, Hunterdon county, in the eighty-sixth year of her age, has recently been stricken with a second stroke of paralysis, and although she is blind as well as paralytic, she is as submissive as a child and often glorifies her Heavenly father and causes a thrill of joy to those about her as she audibly says "I am soon going home to Glory."

THE WIFE MUST PAY.

Judge Vail Hands Down a Decision in an Important Case.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Dec. 24 — Judge Vail handed down his decision Thursday in the case of James E. Codington against Mrs. Caroline Clark, of Plainfield, giving judgment in full for the plaintiff. The case was tried Wednesday, the 14th.

The case was one on contract. Codington, who is a farmer, sold Mrs. Clark vegetables and fruit to the amount of nearly $150. The case was tried originally in one of the justice courts in Plainfield, and was carried up on appeal, Codington & Swackhamer representing the plaintiff, and W. S. Angleman the defendant. Some nice points of law were raised, one of which was decided in favor of the plaintiff, that a married woman, when owning property and buying groceries and provisions which were to be used in a boarding house, the profits of which were to go to the woman, is liable for the payment for those groceries and provisions. The judgment also carries the costs of court with it.

KRIS KRINGLE WAS THERE.

Yuletide Season Made Pleasant for a Party of Little People

One of the most delightful events of the Yuletide season was that of yesterday afternoon when Mrs. William Truman, of West Seventh street, gave a Christmas party at her home to Kate and Mary Barlow. There was nothing left undone to make the affair complete and the genuine pleasure afforded Mrs. Truman as well as her assistants, Miss Wilson, Miss Barlow and Miss Martin, was only increased by the unlimited pleasure of the children.

The little tots appeared in pretty white gowns and kid slippers. A portion of the afternoon was spent in playing games, and when this form of amusement was suddenly brought to a close by the appearance of Santa Claus the joy experienced by the children knew no bounds.

A feature was the supper served by the hostess. The table was decorated in true Christmas style, with flowers, greens, holly, etc., while lighted candles gave a brilliancy to the scene. At this time everyone received a present in the shape of a gold ring which the receiver possessed by unwrapping the pretty fixings around motto candy.

MAY BE MUSTERED OUT.

No Definite Decision as to the New Jersey Regiments.

Adjutant-General Corbin being absent in New York, the Acting Adjutant-General stated that no decision had been reached respecting the two remaining New Jersey regiments in the service, the Third and Fourth. It would, however, be determined what would be done in the matter within four or five days. This is the most definite information obtainable. Intimations from other sources led to the belief that the Third Regiment will be mustered out.

FAIR GROUNDS TO BE SOLD.

Agricultural Society Provides for Disposal of Waverly Land.

The New Jersey State Agricultural Society has appointed Henry H. Isham, of Elizabeth, and Elisha B. Gaddis, of Newark, a committee with power to effect a sale or lease of the Waverly Fair grounds. No restriction as to price was placed upon the committee.

The authorization of the sale of the property is said to mean that it will be transferred to the Essex County Park Commissioners and will become a part of Weequahick Park.

Burning Oil on the Waters.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lincoln, Dec. 24—A break took place in the pipe line of the Standard Oil Company Thursday, about a mile and above Lincoln. The oil flowed into a creek and thence into the Raritan river via Green brook. It continued down the river, and at New Brunswick the surface is covered with a thick scum of oil. Some one, yesterday morning, applied a match to the oil near where the break is supposed to be, and the oil burned fiercely all day.

CHRISTMAS CANTATA AT BRYANT SCHOOL.

"The Realm of St. Nicholas" Was the Title.

MANY VISITORS PRESENT.

THE ENTERTAINMENT WAS HELD AT THE SCHOOL YESTERDAY.

Simple Plot to the Cantata—Costumes Were Quite Elaborate, However—Affair Was a Great Success—Was Repeated at Request of Audience—The Names of Those Who Took Part.

"The Realm of St. Nicholas" was the title of a pretty musical cantata given at the Bryant School yesterday afternoon. The regular Christmas exercises were given in the morning, but a more elaborate entertainment was given in the afternoon for the parents and friends of the children. A small admission fee was charged.

The platform was converted into a stage with curtain, wings and all complete. The first two scenes were laid in the Court of St. Nicholas, which was prettily arranged with plenty of greens and white and silver trimmings. The plot of the cantata was simple. It introduced a dance by Snow-flakes and Holly-berries, the arrival of the Postman with the mail for the jolly old saint, and the subsequent arrival of his assistants with their hosts of gifts, Christmas trees and Christmas stockings.

Then they all prepared to depart under the direction of St. Nicholas who led the procession about the stage. The last scene showed St. Nicholas' first visit with the little tots fast asleep on the rug and their stockings hanging in the foreground. As the programme was so short, it was repeated at the request of the audience. The dress rehearsal was held Thursday afternoon and was attended by the children from the Lincoln school.

Santa Claus, Herbert DuBois; Prince Bon Bon, Robert Chilton; Prince Playfellow, Edward Heyman; Prince Gift Book, Harold Tenno; Paul Pry, Raymond Harvey; Robinson Crusoe, Shepherd DeKay; Baby Days, Katharine Waldo; Mother Goose, Emily Templin; Kate Greenaway, Ethel Skillman; Mrs. Dolls, Emily Winant; Snow Flake Fairies, Louise Davis, Ethel Guilberg, Clara Guilberg, Anna Morrison, Bertha Hill, and Bessie Pound; Holly Berries, Herbert Grant, Fred Crook, Arthur Bingaman, Irving Walsh, Clyde Doane, Harvey Morrison; Christmas Trees, Frances Anderson, Lawrence Miller, William Walsh, Ralph Bingaman, Margaret Kenney, Mary Templin, Louise Klein, and Hazel Grant; Christmas Stockings, Helen Johnson, Violet Hope, Grace Linberger, Alice Sharkey, Charles Hellyer, Eugene Walsh, Walter Wilson, and George Rittenhouse; Postman, George McVoy; Secretary, Leslie Palmer; Switchman, Raymond Harvey.

Indicted for Murder.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Dec. 24.—The Middlesex County Grand Jury ended its sessions, and was discharged by Justice Gilbert Collins yesterday. The Grand Jury considered 140 cases, and found thirty-eight indictments. Warren Streeter and Joseph Spencer, now confined in the Somerset County Jail, were indicted for the murder of William Drobney, at Bound Brook, on the night of October 15th.

Ninety-third Anniversary.

The ninety-third anniversary of the New England Society was celebrated Thursday night in the large banquet hall of the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, and was one of the most notable patriotic demonstrations of the year. Among the guests were Augustus D. Shepard, of "The Gables," Fanwood, and J. Evarts Tracy and John Bushnell, of Plainfield.

SAILOR'S HEAD CUT OFF

CAUGHT BY BROKEN PLATE

The Same Piece of Metal that Cut Off Fireman Smith's Head Also Tore Out Fireman Birch's Collar Bone. Fifteen Plates Destroyed on the Idaho.

New York, Dec. 24.—The Wilson line freight steamer Idaho, from Hull, England, arrived at Prentice's Stores yesterday shortly after ten o'clock, with two great holes stove in the starboard side of her bow and with one man decapitated and another seriously injured on board.

The dead man was William Smith, a fireman, and the other, John Birch, also a firemian, is now at St. Peter's Hospital with his left collar bone torn out bodily, a fractured skull and every indication of his injuries proving fatal.

Yesterday morning the Idaho was making her way to her Brooklyn berth when she was run into by the tramp steamer Flower Gate bound out for Philadelphia, opposite Liberty island. The force of the impact destroyed fifteen plates on the Idaho, knocked two great holes in her bow, just above the water line, and, it is said, injured the Flower Gate so badly that she had to return to her dock for repairs.

Reporters were refused admission to the dock at Prentice's Stores when the Idaho arrived, but Dr. Heffer, the port physician, was at the gate waiting for the coroner's arrival, and told the story of the accident.

He stated that Smith and Birch, the firemen, were asleep in their bunks forward when the vessel came into collision. Smith's head was cut off by a plate that had been pushed through the bow of the ship, and at the same time it tore a frightful hole in Birch's shoulder. Birch was sleeping in the bunk below Smith.

An ambulance was summoned when the ship reached her dock, and Birch was removed to St. Peter's Hospital, where he now lies in an extremely precarious condition.

CHRISTMAS DINNER FOR THE POOR.

Department of Charities Get Provisions Enough to Feed Ten Thousand.

New York, Dec. 24.—New York's poor and the sick in the city hospitals will be given a Christmas dinner on Monday, the like of which some of the unfortunates have never even dreamed of enjoying.

Former Alderman Tom Campbell, who is purchasing agent for the department of charities, has completed arrangements for the Christmas spread.

Enough good things have been provided to feed ten thousand persons and no one need go hungry on that day.

Among the good things Mr. Campbell has ordered for the Christmas dinner are five thousand pounds of turkey, five thousand pounds of chicken, twenty-five hundred pounds of goose, one thousand pounds of ham, forty barrels of pork, six hundred quarts of cranberries, fifty barrels of apples, thirty boxes of oranges, one hundred bunches of bananas, twenty boxes of figs, five hundred pounds of mixed nuts, six hundred mince pies, four hundred pumpkin pies and five hundred bunches of celery, besides large quantities of all kinds of vegetables.

Besides these there will be coffee, tea, milk and cider to drink.

Mr. Campbell has prepared a surprise for the little children on Randall's island. Each will be given a stocking full of candy and nuts and in the toe of each stocking will be some neat little toy.

The city lodging house at Twenty-third street and First avenue will be open all day and dinner ready all the time. The dinner will be free to all who wish to partake of it, and everybody will be welcome.

PEACE COMMISSION ARRIVES.

Treaty of Paris Will Be Delivered to the President To-Day.

New York, Dec. 24.—Soon after two o'clock this morning the American line steamship St. Louis, from Southampton, having aboard the members of the American peace commission, arrived at quarantine.

She will remain there until 7.30 a. m., when she will proceed to the American line pier, No. 14 North river.

It was expected that the St. Louis would reach this port early yesterday afternoon or some time in the evening and arrangements were made by the American line to have the St. Louis docked if she arrived in quarantine by 9 p. m.

The peace commissioners were to remain on board the vessel until she tied up.

The commissioners will go to Washington to-day to deliver the treaty of Paris to the president as a Christmas present to the people of the United States.

The treaty is in the possession of J. B. Moore, secretary of the peace commission.

Safe Blown Open.

Lavonia, Ga., Dec. 24.—The safe of M. Crawford was blown open by burglars early yesterday morning and between one and two thousand dollars and account of the Bank of Lavonia for $1,500 taken.

The report of the dynamite was heard by many, who thought that it was some one celebrating Christmas.

The Situation in Spain.

Madrid, Dec. 24.—There is much comment upon the conference that has just taken place between Marshals Martinez de Campos, Primos de Rivera, Blanco and Dominguez.

THE CARLIST UPRISING

Preparations in Spain Made With Marvelous Skill.

DETAILS OF THE BIG PLOT

Thirty Million Pesetas in the War Chest. A Secret but Real Army Ready 100,000 Strong and Arms Hidden All Over the Land. Don Carlos Waiting for a Crisis in Madrid.

London, Dec. 24.—From a Carlist agent in this city, whose identity must be kept secret, is learned many details of the preparations for a rising in Spain, which are almost marvelous as an example of patience, intricacy and detail.

In the first place there is the Carlist war chest. It consists of twenty million pesetas, half of which has already been distributed in small amounts and by trusty hands throughout the peninsula.

Ten million pesetas are held beyond the frontier as a reserve fund.

While rapidly perfected in the last few months, the plans now maturing were begun ten years ago.

First, there was the listing of sympathizers and the bringing together of those listed.

Next came organization. The able-bodied men were organized into small companies and these, under the direction of experienced officers, met in obscure places to plot and drill.

The companies were not brought together, but their officers were, and they chose from among themselves leaders who should be colonels of regiments or generals of brigades.

The colonels had never seen their regiments, and generals had never mustered their brigades, but both were present, though unnoticed, in every province.

Occasionally meeting near Madrid is a general staff, which has sought, with some success, to unify their spectral but real army, and to smuggle into the country arms and ammunition. This army is now one hundred thousand strong.

Each village conceals a squadron or a company, each town a battery or a battalion. And in more than one hiding place is a commission signed Carlos VII.

Arms are hidden in various ways all over the land. No one seems to find them now, but at the words "El Rey" their owners will find them and bring them forth.

The plan of mobilization is that of the Prussian army. Beyond the border waits Don Carlos; first, for a crisis in Madrid, which he expects during the debate on the peace treaty in the Cortes; second, for something which will keep the powers occupied elsewhere, as he wishes no Franco-German interference, as in 1883.

A dispatch from Madrid to the Exchange Telegraph says that the Carlist agitation in the Basque provinces is daily becoming more active and is strongly supported by the inhabitants of the French basques.

Upwards of one hundred thousand rifles landed at French ports have been smuggled over the Spanish frontier with cargoes of coal.

An Exciting Chase After Thieves.

Utica, N. Y., Dec. 24.—John Mooney, a hired man employed by a widow named Margaret Brown, at Cassville, was shot in the abdomen early yesterday morning by burglars who had entered the barn.

The men did not enter the Brown house, but had committed a burglary some miles beyond, at Thirdilla Forks, securing $137 in money and a number of checks. They also stole a horse and cutter.

After leaving the Brown farm the men drove toward this city. The news of the shooting had been telephoned here and when the men reached the canal James Beard, a bridge builder, followed them.

After a long and exciting chase, in which Beard was twice shot, one of the robbers was captured. The other at last accounts was being closely followed about nine miles west of this city.

Dock Trial of the Kearsarge.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 24.—The first class battleship Kearsarge, nearly completed at Newport News, had her first dock trial yesterday, which was successful, the machinery working beautifully.

The dock trial of the Kentucky will take place next week, after which both vessels will have their builders' trial trips at sea.

To Close All Offices.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—An agreement was reached at the meeting of the cabinet yesterday to close all the executive departments at noon on Saturday before Christmas and New Year's day.

They will not be opened again for business until the Tuesday morning following.

SAGASTA AT DEATH'S DOOR

Queen Sends Her Own Physician to Attend the Premier and a Nation Offers Her Condolences.

Madrid, Dec. 24.—The condition of Senor Sagasta, the premier, now causes grave anxiety. Six physicians were in consultation yesterday afternoon regarding his case, and concurred that he is suffering from broncial pneumonia, with high temperature and an unfavorable absence of expectoration.

There is no doubt that his illness is aggravated by the strain of recent events. The queen regent twice telephoned inquiries as to his condition and last evening sent her own physician to attend him.

The list of callers at the premier's residence includes all the foreign diplomats and a host of other distinguished persons.

DUN'S WEEKLY REPORT.

New York, Dec. 24.—It is a year beyond parallel, and goes to its close with the biggest volume of business ever seen.

Enormous transactions at the Stock Exchange make some difference and heavy railroad earnings, but when all the transporting and speculative interests are eliminated there is still a much larger business than in any other month of any year.

Last year the exports were in volume greater than in any previous month in the history of the country, but this year the three weeks' report shows an increase of twenty-five per cent. against nine per cent. in imports, which would indicate much more than seventy million dollars in excess of exports this month.

Until now no greater volume of business has ever been done in the history of this country than in the closing month of this year.

The building of new roads is reported by the railway asette at 2,857 miles, more than in any year since 1892, though its reports obviously do not include part of December. But the car famine crowds both railroads and car works to the utmost.

Shipments of wheat have been 4,885,704 bushels, flour included, at Atlantic ports, against 1,698,321 bushels last year.

Corn exports also have been 3,834,834 bushels, against 4,540,612 last year, and for the month thus far 11,012,128 against 10,867,402 last year. The price has advanced about 2 3-8 cents, but the continued foreign demand is astonishing.

The shipments of boots and shoes from the East have been smaller than in December of last year to date, and yet larger than in any other year, exceeding those of 1892 by 14,000 cases.

The story of iron is like a dream. With twenty-five thousand tons Bessemer pig sold at Pittsburg for $10.60, and rey Forge at $9.40, and Chicago sales limited only by the capacity of the works, and eastern sales so numerous and large as to rise the price twenty-five cents, there is an enormous demand for finished products. Prices of iron and steel products have not materially changed, although the tone is everywhere stronger, and for wire nails quotations have been advanced to 1.30 at Pittsburg. But this country is leading the world in this industry.

How Europe will be able to pay more than seventy-five million dollars due on merchandise account for the month of December, besides the enormous balances due for November and previous months, is a question which the country can afford to consider at its leisure and with comfort.

Failures for the week have been 258, against 252 in the United States last year, and 31 in Canada, against 33 last year.

Will Not Visit Cuba.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—The war investigating commission will not visit Cuba and Porto Rico.

The idea has been abandoned owing to the fact that a great number of witnesses have been examined who took part in the campaigns in both islands. The examinations have covered every possible point, and thousands of pages of printed testimony are before the commission of inquiry for review.

The members of the commission have commenced the preparation of the report which is to be made to President McKinley. It will probably be completed during the latter part of January or early in February.

They have been careful not to give any inkling of what the finding will be.

The understanding is that, in addition to the conclusions reached regarding the conduct of the war with Spain, the commission will submit a number of recommendations for the future, and these will be based upon the suggestions of the officers of the various grades, whose opinions were requested.

All of the commissioners, with the exception of Colonel Denby, the vice chairman, will be absent from the city for some little time during the holidays.

Colonel Denby and General John M. Wilson, the only members of the war investigating commission remaining in Washington, held a session yesterday morning and examined General O. O. Howard, retired, a delegate of the Army and Navy Christian Commission.

A $26,000 000 Gas Deal.

New York, Dec. 24.—Brown Bros. & Co., bankers, of this city, have just completed the successful financing of a deal which involves the consolidation of all of the local gas, light and heating companies of Pittsburg.

The capital invested in the consolidation is $26,000,000.

ADMIRAL SAMPSON HOME.

New York, Dec. 24.—The flagship New York of the North Atlantic squadron, having on board Admiral Sampson, Mrs. Sampson and Miss Sampson, arrived yesterday morning from Havana.

As the New York steamed through the Narrows it was noticed that the flagship had been newly painted white, having discarded the gray, or war color.

She is the first warship to arrive at this port in her new white dress since the close of the Spanish war, and she presented an imposing sight.

The flagship was saluted by passing craft and steamers at anchor, and when she dropped anchor at ten o'clock the auxiliary cruiser Scorpion fired the admiral's salute.

When some newspaper men boarded the New Yorw with the health doctors, Admiral Sampson said that he had come home to attend his daughter's wedding, which takes place at Glen Ridge January 4.

Admiral Sampson was not inclined to discuss the Cuban situation or his connection with the Cuban evacuation commission, and stated what he would have to say on such matters he would do so officially.

The League Island Trouble.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—Secretary Long has taken action in the cases of the mechanics in the department of construction and repair at the navy yard at League island, who were recently suspended as a result of an investigation of the administration of that department.

He wrote letters to each of these mechanics saying that the previous action of the navy department "is so far modified that your absence from the yard is considered a suspension from rank and duty during that time, and you are now reduced from the position you held to the next lower grade in the same department."

Secretary Long, in speaking of his action, said that these men were at fault and have suffered their punishment, and it must not be made to appear that they have been restored to their former positions, the fact being that each one was reduced in grade, thus suffering a loss of pay.

News from Manila.

Manila, Dec. 24.—The United States cruiser Boston and the gunboat Petrel have arrived here from Chinese ports. The steamer St. Paul has arrived here with the Christmas mail.

The steamer Union, which has returned here from Iloilo with native and Spanish soldiers, has been refused a landing here.

The native troops encamped in the suburbs are again causing anxiety. The attitude of an insurgent detachment at the Paduchan bridge on last Wednesday was such that the Californ'a, Idaho, and Washington regiments were concentrated in light marching order, at short notice, at Pago. Trouble, however, was avoided.

The first American flag was raised over the Malate school house yesterday. It was sent by the University of Pennsylvania.

The honor of raising the flag was accorded to the Rev. Father McKinnon of California, in recognition of his services in reopening the schools.

More Fighting at Iloilo.

Madrid, Dec. 24.—According to a dispatch received here from Iloilo, island of Panay, several engagements have taken place between the Spaniards and insurgents and many of the latter have been killed or wounded.

It is asserted that Aguinaldo has cabled to the government saying that he will shortly release the Spanish prisoners in the hands of the insurgents.

This statement, however, has not been confirmed.

There is much comment upon the conference between Marshals Martinez de Campos, Primo de Rivera, Blanco and Dominguez.

The minister of the colonies, Senor Giron, announces that the payment of the coupons of the Cuban mortgage bonds has been assured.

Sultan's Favorite Murdered.

Constantinople, Dec. 24.—The Perquerter is greatly excited over the murder of Ghani Bey, an Albanian, one of the sultan's aides-de-camp, by Hatuz Pacha, business representative of Razhio Bey, one of the sultan's chamberlains.

The murder was committed in a pastry cook's shop. Ghani Bey was notorious on account of his lawlessness in Epirus and in Constantinople.

He had extorted money from various persons, threatening them with death and inspiring general terror.

The foreign embassies had made several complaints of his actions to the Porte, and demanded his punishment, but always without success.

Meeting of the Cabinet.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—At the cabinet meeting yesterday it was decided to issue an order regarding the granting of public franchises in Havana.

It has not yet been determined exactly upon what lines the order will define franchise rights, but it is quite probable that contracts entered into by the Spanish authorities after the beginning of the war will be declared void.

Postal Regulation in Porto Rico.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—The postmaster general has received word from the postal agent at Porto Rico that he has stopped, out of fairness to this government, the practice which has been carried on by certain mayors of Porto Rican cities of affixing simply the mayoralty seal to mail matter when postage stamps are lacking in their offices.

TO ABROGATE TREATY

Belief in England That Clayton-Bulwer Law Will Be Waived.

MR. HENRY WHITE'S ACTION

He Has Visited Salisbury and Now Goes as a Guest of the Duke of Devonshire. Where American Question Will Be Discussed.

London Dec. 24.—There seems to be little doubt that Great Britain will agree to abrogate the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. The temper of the cabinet and public opinion, which largely influences the government's policy, points to such action, though no definite understanding with the United States has been reached.

Great Britain desires that the Nicaragua canal be constructed and is willing that the United States should control it if the United States guarantees its neutrality and safeguards British interests.

The reports from Washington that British Ambassador Sir Julian Pauncefote has been instructed to negotiate the abrogation of the treaty are incorrect, though it is likely he will soon receive instructions to that effect.

The impression here is that the British foreign office, and the United States charge d'affaires, Mr. Henry White, incidental to his visits to cabinet ministers, will arrange the basis of action.

Mr. White spent part of the week with the Marquis of Salisbury at Hatfield House, and has gone with his family to spend Christmas week with the Duke of Devonshire, at Chatsworth House, Derbyshire, the country seat of the Duke, who is lord president of the council.

There Mr. White will meet another influential minister, Lord George Hamilton, the secretary of state for India. Anglo-American questions will naturally be discussed.

Pauncefote Not Acting.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—It is accepted as little short of certain in the best informed official and diplomatic circles that negotiations will be opened at an early day toward modifying the Clayton-Bulwer treaty so as to meet the conditions of the present day, concerning American construction and control of the Nicaragua canal.

The British ambassador, Sir Julian Pauncefote, has not received instructions to open negotiations, nor is there any intimation that they are about to be received.

In the absence of such instructions the ambassador could not have made an authoritative statement. It is thought likely that the near future will bring about negotiations.

It will be recalled that the president's recent message, referring to American construction of the canal, was misinterpreted by the English press to mean that the United States intended to disregard the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and go ahead without reference to England.

This view promptly was disavowed by officials here.

Since then there has been about time for the official mail to reach London, and this doubtless permits a fuller clearing up of the erroneous impression that the English press and public and possibly the officials took of the president's reference to the canal.

An Editor Sent to Jail.

Dedham, Mass., Dec. 24.—Torrey E. Wardner, editor of the Boston Traveller, has been sentenced to serve thirty days in Dedham jail by Judge Sherman of the Norfolk county court for contempt of court in permitting the publication in his paper of comments and editorials on the Getchell manslaughter case, which, in the court's opinion, would have influenced the minds of the jury had the paper containing the matter reached the court house before the case was submitted for final consideration.

The trial referred to was that of Engineer Getchell of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, who was charged with manslaughter, in connection with a collision which occurred at Sharon last August, in which several persons were killed.

The Magowans Discharge.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 24.—Judge Dissette in the criminal court yesterday sustained the demurrer made to the indictment returned against ex-Mayor F. E. Magowan, Mrs. Magowan and Mrs. Wynn, Mrs. Magowan's sister, upon the charge of child stealing.

The court ordered all the defendants in the case discharged, saying that it was not a crime for a mother to steal her own child in the state of Ohio. The Magowans were not in court when the decision was rendered and are said to be in Toronto.

Thanks to the President.

Havana, Dec. 22.

McKinley, President of the United States:

The city council in solemn session has resolved in the name of the people of Havana to return its warmest thanks to you for the contribution sent in aid of the needy poor.

MARQUIS ESTEBAN,
President.

The French in China.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—It is stated here that the land which the French government is charged with appropriating at Shanghai, China, against which action America protested, consisted of certain property, valuable mainly for riparian uses, which long had been occupied or enjoyed by American citizens and American corporations.

Had His Coffin for Years.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 24.—Herman Grunberg has just died at the Pacific Hebrew Home, aged 102 years. Nineteen years ago he bought a coffin, had a shroud made and selected his pall bearers, and will be buried in the casket he kept so long.

He survived all but three of the men who were chosen to bear his remains to the grave.

CLEVELAND'S EISTEDDFODD.

It Will Rival That to be Given Later in Milwaukee.

Cleveland, Ohio, December 24.—The greatest of the Christmas festivals in the Central West will be the Eisteddfodd, which begins here to-morrow, and in which the famous Welsh singing societies of the Central West participate. It will rival the national affair to be given in January, and most of the societies which will participate there will also take part here.

To the patrons of the national Welsh institution is hardly necessary to state that the mission of the eisteddfodd is chiefly to encourage by example and competitive effort that love of music planted in the hearts of every Cambrian. Its success is unquestionable, for it has been a foundation which imbued contestants with abiding faith in the ultimate success of their exertions to reach the goal to which their aspirations lead.

With the object of bringing together on the eisteddfodd platform the foremost Cambrian choral societies of the Central West, the Cleveland society has arranged an interesting programme and the prizes offered are extremely liberal. The chief choral test selection of the eisteddfodd will be Dr. Jenkins's masterpiece "Let God Arise." The award is a purse of $500, and a gold medal to the conductor of the successful choir. The various contingents have been concentrating their energies in perfecting a rendition that will be adjudged the best. The second test choral selection is Fanning's "Daybreak," the prize offered being $200.

The selection for the male choruses is De Rille's "Destruction of Gaza," and the prize of $100 originally offered has been augmented to $200. It will doubtless prove one of the most enjoyable contests of the festival. For ladies' choruses, numbering not less than 24 voices, a prize of $100 is offered for the best rendition of "Sweetest May."

T. J. DAVIES, CONDUCTOR.

The most famous of the conductors at the Cleveland festival is Professor T. J. Davies, the leader of the Pittsburg contingent. Mr. Davies was a pupil of Dr. Parry of Wales, and later studied at the London Royal Academy of Music, the title of Mus. Bac. being conferred on him. He is also an author of no mean repute. Perhaps his best composition is the "Cambrian Song of Freedom," which was the test selection at the national eisteddfodd at the World's Fair, and which is the test selection at the eisteddfodd at Hazleton. This chorus is acknowledged by critics to be one of the best compositions ever arranged for eisteddfodic contests.

He Stole Books.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 24.—James Miller, a graduate of three years' standing in the Yale University Divinity School and at present enrolled as a graduate student, is under arrest and is held in two thousand dollar bonds on a charge of shoplifting.

Miller was yesterday caught in the act of taking three books from the book store of Herbert J. Augur and was taken into custody.

Miller occupied a room at 64 West Divinity Hall, and when the detectives visited the place a large number of books were found.

He also had a room in Hamden, this state, and a large number of books were located there by the police authorities.

All told it is estimated that Miller had in his possession at the time of his arrest about five thousand books. A number have been identified by local booksellers.

The Pope Attacks Italy.

Rome, Dec. 24.—The pope yesterday received the cardinals, who waited upon him to offer their customary Christmas congratulations.

His holiness addressed the cardinals, and in the course of his remarks referred to the international anti-Anarchist conference just concluded here. It should be impossible to combat Anarchism, he said, while the rights of the church were not respected.

He then proceeded to make an attack upon the ecclesiastical laws of the Italian government.

El Caney Hero's Body.

Washington, Del., Dec. 24.—The parents of Lieutenant Clarke Churchman, who reside near Claymont, Del., have been informed that the body of their son will reach New York from Santiago December 28 on the transport Port Victor.

Lieutenant Churchman was killed at the battle of El Caney.

The remains will be interred at West Point.

Might Have Taken More.

New York, Dec. 24.—Burglars early yesterday gained entrance to the mill of Jean A. Roebling's Sons Company and took four hundred dollars from the safe, money that had been put up in envelopes to pay off some of the employes.

It is believed that the thieves were frightened away, for they overlooked several thousand dollars in another part of the safe.

Aids for Leader.

New York, Dec. 24.—It has been practically decided that Jotham P. Allds of Chenango will be chairman of the ways and means committee in the assembly and leader of the majority on the floor.

To Otto Kelsey of Livingston, who was a candidate for the place, will be given the chairmanship of the judiciary committee.

Christmas.

It is peculiarly fitting that of any holiday falling on a Sunday Christmas should do so, as it does this year, and thus doubly emphasize the holy significance of the Christian festival commemorating the birth of Christ. The day is deeply associated with the faith and inspiration that surrounds this earthly sphere and sheds the light of eternal life to lead us on in the path of righteousness. Coming at the time when Christians gather to pay devotion to the worthy example of the life of Him whom the day celebrates, the natal event assumes more of the holy day than the holiday and gives added impressiveness to the true view that should be held of it. There is no other holiday that is looked forward to with such sentimental feelings and sense of gratification at its arrival as Christmas. Its mingling of praises to Him and the remembrance of earthly friends with little tokens of love and esteem answers the thought of "peace on earth and good will to all men."

The practice of gift giving at Christmastide has its faults, too, in that often those whose means do not justify them go beyond the bounds of common sense to "keep up appearances" and to follow the practices of the wealthy in self pride and the display of generosity that has reached the point where it is considered almost compulsory. The gift, no matter how inexpensive, that is accompanied with the feeling of love and friendliness from the donor, begets more of the true Christmas spirit than all the diamonds and jewels in the world that are given to maintain pretences that fashion dictates.

As might well be anticipated, Somerville has already shown its hand in the matter of consolidating North Plainfield and Plainfield into one municipality. Somerville seems to take an ugly view of the project—conceived, no doubt, in the view that the making of a Greater Plainfield will clip Somerville's wings so that she won't fly quite so high after the proposed consolidation has been effected. We presume that no matter what terms are proposed for the consolidation of the borough and the city, Somerville and a good portion of Somerset county will be "agin" it on general principles. The creation of a city the size that a Greater Plainfield would be is a terrible bugbear to the rural denizens of Somerset.

If the officials of the borough persist in their determination to rigidly enforce the law in reference to the collection of taxes—even going to the extreme of seizing the bodies of the unfortunate delinquents and casting them into jail until they settle up accounts—we may expect to see either a large addition made to the Somerset county jail, or a new brand of expert tax dodgers developed.

Secretary of Navy Long, it is said, is desirous of resigning from President McKinley's cabinet, and will probably do so after the first of January. As anxious as many are to possess the honor of being a member of Cabinet and in close touch with the President, it is seldom that one man serves continuously during a Presidential term as the head of any of the important departments of government.

The much-mooted question of erecting a monument to the memory and honor of the heroes of the Civil War comes again to the fore. Rev. Mr. O'Donnell will find a big job before him if he succeeds in raising the necessary funds to secure it, but he will be thanked in proportion to the size of the undertaking.

If you want to be in fashion don't refer to your slight indisposition as a cold; speak of it as the grip. Besides, it helps the sensational newspapers to make out that the whole face of the universe is populated with nothing but victims of the grip.

A physician declares that people who sleep with their mouths shut live longest. However that may be, we know that people who keep their mouths shut when awake have the hardest job.

The world has 200,000 postmasters now. What the number will be after the United States closes up accounts with the Phillippines and other recent possessions of the Spanish is mere conjecture.

The young generation will have an incurable attack of insomnia tonight, which will become decidedly acute immediately after midnight.

We have heard of eminent men being unhorsed in fame and prestige, but we suppose we will have to change the description somewhat in Hobson's case and make it miskissed.

Father Time is sprinting fast just now.

Merry Christmas to all.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

BE EASY ON TAXPAYERS.

That is What James Trewin Wants Borough Officials to be.

To The Editor of The Daily Press:—I have read with interest your article which lead one to infer that the Borough Council and Collector are about to place in solitary confinement 700 of North Plainfield citizens for the nonpayment of taxes.

The motto for the holiday season is "good will toward men," but it seems the good will of these officers of the borough is at a discount. The great percentage of the delinquents are hard working mechanics, a large number of whom are out of work owing to the lack of the good times which were promised us, and who are therefore unable to settle. These "tax terror" articles seem to me ridiculous as I do not for a moment suppose that seven hundred (700) delinquents will be arrested in the next 30 or 45 days, and to my mind the articles are misleading, for no power on earth can arrest a man who has not paid his taxes on real estate. The law does provide that a man who is delinquent in paying his poll tax can be arrested, and he can also, under certain conditions, be arrested for non-support, but it would seem to me only fair for the Council to desist from forcing the Collector to extreme measures and to allow him to temper justice with mercy. I am not speaking for myself as I was fortunately able to pay my small share before it was due, but God pity the poor.

Nasal Catarrh quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface over which it diffuses itself. To test it, a trial size for 10 cents or the large, for 50 cents, is mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York. Druggists keep it. A remedy for Nasal Catarrh which is drying or exciting to the diseased membrane should not be used. Cream Balm is recognized as a specific.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

THE WOMAN'S WORLD

Lack of Tact in a Hostess.

He was a very clever man, but he did not shine in general society. She was a clever hostess, and she believed that her guests who would not shine must be made to shine, and she knew the man very well. He had come in answer to her invitation under protest, but one must be agreeable to one's wife and oblige a friend occasionally. But it was not so bad as he had thought it would be. He found a congenial spirit almost immediately, and settled down for a good talk. The congenial spirit was another bright man. The hostess saw the two together and was shocked. She flew to them. "The idea," she said, "of you two men wasting yourselves on each other," and she took them to opposite corners of the room, where they would be more useful to the company at large. But there was a force of gravitation which gradually drew them together again, and they were soon lost to everything around them. But again the hostess discovered them and again they were separated. Then the man went to his wife.

"I am not going to stay any longer," he said. If he had been a boy he would have said: "I'm mad, and I'm going home." And he would not have been treated with more consideration if he had been a small boy. His wife was a woman of tact. "Very well," she said, "I am not ready to go yet, but you go and don't say anything about it and no one will know it." And he did go and no one did know it, and the hostess does not know even now that if she had not been such a good hostess one of her guests might have enjoyed himself more thoroughly.—New York Times.

New Uses for Kerosene Oil.

Kerosene oil is good for many things besides fuel and lamp oil. It should always be substituted for soap in cleaning shellacked floors. Use a cupful to a pailful of lukewarm water—hot water spoils the varnish—and wipe with a floor mop or a soft cloth. After scrubbing oilcloth, if a little kerosene is rubbed on it and rubbed dry, the colors of the oilcloth will be wonderfully freshened and improved by the process.

For removing rust nothing is equal to kerosene. If the article is badly rusted pour the oil into a pan and lay with the rusted surface in the oil so as to cover it. Leave for as long as may be necessary for the oil to penetrate the rust; then wipe off, and polish with sand or soap, or rub with bath brick, according to the article to be cleaned.

On washday, cut up a quarter of a cake of soap into the wash boiler, and allow it to dissolve which it will do by the time the water comes to a boil. Then stir in a teacupful of kerosene and put in the sheets, towels, pillow cases, etc.,—that is, the clothes which are not badly soiled. Boil for fifteen or twenty minutes, stirring frequently. Then rinse, rubbing them out in the rinsing water to wash out the soap. This is all the washing they need, and you will find them all clean and ready for the blueing. The kerosene dissoves the dirt and whitens the clothes without injury to the fabric.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Carving as an Art.

Only persistent practice and definite knowledge make carving a pleasure and a success. Neither illustration nor diagrams are of much assistance in learning this art.

By right of precedence the carver's chair belongs to the head of the house, either father or mother, but weariness, preoccupation, or, more often, a parent's pleasure in contemplating the increasing deftness of a clever son or daughter in presiding over and properly distributing a joint, fowl or fish, leads the elders to resign in favor of the youth when guests are not present.

Carving at the table, it is said, is now considered not only a useful art, but a social accomplishment as well. A practical knowledge of its process should be a part of the education of all young people.

Children should know how to carve by the time they are 15 years old. In France a boy is required to take his turn in cutting and serving meats at table as soon as he is strong enough to handle the knife and tall enough to readily reach the joint or fowl. Sometimes he stands upon a broad stool made for the purpose, and is proud when he is successful, and ashamed when found imperfect.

To Remove Ink Stain.

If ever you are so unfortunate as to have a very bad ink stain on a carpet of very delicate colors, rub it with buttermilk, and when the stain is almost effaced wash the place with a cloth wrung out in boiling water without soap. This done cover the spot with a dry cloth and so let it remain for a day.

A Marvel of Good Taste.

Frank Daniels has a son who appears to be a chip of the old block. Recently the elder asked the younger: "My boy, when you are older, and done with your preparatory schools what college do you want to attend?"

"Vassar," was the unhesitating reply.

"Um," And the comedian got up and softly whistled. "Huh! Hanged if I wouldn't like to go there myself!"—Detroit Free Press.

Fashion's Fancies.

Black velvet ribbons edge the mass of white ruffles which form the petticoat front to some evening gowns. The skirt proper of the gown is of some pretty color shaped off into a train at the back, and slightly draped at the sides. Model gowns of this style show the Princess and tight-fitting effect in the back. The bodice of a gown with a ruffled petticoat of this kind will frequently have a wide pointed opening from the shoulders to the waist, also filled in with ruffles of the white, though narrower, edged with the narrow black velvet ribbon to match the petticoat.

Fringe is rather the most novel trimming at moderate price, I should say. So new is it, yet so smart, that the dealers, while they do not attempt to keep in stock any colors in all widths but black and white, make it to order in whatever shade and depth a patron fancies.

Such fringe, silk, is ch.:. A gown of bluet poplin, trimmed with bands of bluet satin and fringe of the same shade, is simple and modish.

Buttons as ornaments are in high favor. Any strange button or buttons corresponding with the gown for which it is purposed to use them may be employed fashionably. Rarely are they used, except on shirt waists, for actual fastenings.

Glass buttons are novel for fanciful afternoon gowns. They are the size of small marbles, made from glass, which is uncolored and cut.

Pearl buttons, white, are the fastenings of colored flannel shirt waists, even dark plaid. It is queried whether the gentler feminine vocabulary has not been too delicate to express the strain from the daily use of disappearing shirt studs. Anyway, they have gone.

Some haberdashers, in the ecstasy of novelty, run double rows of brass buttons from the belt to the neck of their blouses, along the two box plaits which, one on either side of the front, distinguish many new waists. But they are too much. "Much too much," as the popular heroine says in "the greatest play since Shakespeare's."

Jackets of All Descriptions.

There is no particular shape in jackets this season which can be said to take precedence of all others, for there are jackets and jackets, short, medium, three-quarter, and those reaching the skirt-hem in redingote form; and they are made for every possible occasion and of every sort of wrap material, from serge to satin or velvet, and lined with satin brocade. First come the practical jackets of black or dark broadcloth, with closely-fitted backs, a turn-down collar, narrow revers, and fronts cut either in double-breasted style, or open simply over a dress waist, with trimming in vest style. Then appear the elegant "dress" jackets, made of the palest shades of ladies' cloth or light-weight Melton, lined with silk of a delicately contrasted colors. These imported cloth jackets cost quite as much as a jet-trimmed coat of velvet. Conspicuous among the latest garments offered at noted importing houses are jackets of vivid military-red tailor cloth, some perfectly plain, others with vest and revers of cream cloth, or again showily trimmed, with black gimp or elaborate soutache braidwork.

Ornaments for the Hat.

Hat ornaments are enormous. It is going to be a marvel how the heads upon which they are to appear will support them. It will require some management of the head to obtain an equilibrium. Many of these enormous clubs are of jet, and two stylish ones seen in one hat—big pins with enormous round head, in the front of it—cut steel. Many pretty bonnets are made of slung jet, or black sequins, as many people would say. All colors are combined with the black. A beautiful shade of orange that appears in millinery might be called frosted orange in contradistinction to the burnt orange which has been so much used. It has a pretty white frosted effect.

Less Fanciful Trimmings.

In imported models received thus far, we still see the sheath-fronted, full-backed skirt, repeating its decorations more or less elaborately according to its style of material and the occasion for which it is desired; the sleeves small and close, the bodice much trimmed. Many of the smart effects of the autumn will be repeated on winter gowns, but, as a rule, there will be much less of the reckless cutting up of yards and yards of material into small fanciful trimmings, and more of braid decorations en applique, soutache work, milliners' folds, ruches, over-skirt panel, and peplum effects, and redingotes, and princesse overdresses, both plain and decorated.

Five and Seven Gored Skirts in Favor.

The skirt models cut with five or seven gores gain rather than lose in favor. The five-gored shape has a rather wide side breadth. The popularity of the seven-piece suit is largely due to the fact that it is a moderate style—neither too full nor too scant in breadths—and also to its general contour and effect; it proves alike becoming to stout as to slender figures, to women tall or short, and is an excellent model for either silk or wool material.

OUR YOUTHS' COLUMN.

The Good Reader.

It is told of Frederick the Great, King of Prussia, that, as he was seated one day in his private room, a written petition was brought to him with the request that it should be immediately read. The king had just returned from hunting, and from the glare of the sun, or some other cause, so dazzled were his eyes that he found it difficult to make out a single word of the writing.

His private secretary happened to be absent; and the soldier who brought the petition could not read. There was a page, a favorite boy-servant, waiting in the hall, and upon him the king called. The page was the son of one of the noblemen of the court, but proved to be a very poor reader.

His pronunciation was bad, and he did not modulate his voice so as to bring out the meaning of what he read. Every sentence was uttered with a dismal monotony of the voice, as if it did not differ in any respect from that which preceded it.

"Stop!" said the king, impatiently. "Is it an auctioneer's list of goods, to be sold that you are hurrying over? Send your companion to me."

Another page who stood at the door then entered, and to him the king gave the petition. The second page began by hemming, and by clearing his throat in such an affected manner that the king jokingly asked him if he had not slept in the public garden with the gate open, the night before.

The second page had a good share of self-conceit, however, and so was not greatly confused by the king's jest. He determined that he would avoid the mistake which his comrade had made. So he commenced reading the petition slowly and with great formality, emphasizing every word and prolonging the articulation of every syllable. But his manner was so tedious that the king cried out:

Stop! Are you reciting a lesson in the elementary sounds? Out of the room! But no; stay. Send me that little girl who is sitting there by the fountain."

The girl thus pointed out by the king was Ermestine, the daughter of one of the laborers employed by the royal gardener; and she had come to help her father weed the flower beds. It chanced that, like many of the poor people in Prussia, she had received a good education.

The king gave her the petition, and she rapidly glanced through the opening lines to get some idea of what it was about. As she read, her eyes began to glisten and her breast to heave.

"What is the matter?" asked the king; "don't you know how to read?"

"Oh, yes, sire," she replied, addressing him with the title usually applied to him; "I will now read it, if you please."

The two pages were about to leave the room. "Remain," said the king. The little girl began to read the petition. It was from a poor widow, whose only son had been drafted to serve in the army, although his health was delicate and his pursuits had been such as to unfit him for military life. His father had been killed in battle, and the son had a strong desire to become a portrait painter.

The writer told her story in a simple, concise manner, that carried to the heart a belief in its truth; and Ernestine read it with so much feeling and with an articulation so just, in tones so pure and distinct, that, when she had finished, the king, into whose eyes the tears had started, exclaimed, "Ah! now I understand what it is all about; but I might never have known,—certainly I should never have felt its meaning,—had I trusted to these young gentlemen, whom I now dismiss from my service for one year, advising them to occupy the time in learning to read."

"As for you, my young lady," continued the king, "I know you will ask no better reward for your trouble than the pleasure of carrying to this poor widow my order for her son's immediate discharge. Let me see if you can write as well as you can read. Take this pen and write as I dictate."

He then dictated an order, which Ernestine wrote, and he signed. Calling one of his guards, he bade him go with the girl and see that the order was obeyed.

Ernestine had the satisfaction of aiding her father to rise in the world, so that he became the king's chief gardener. The king did not forget her, but had her well educated at his own expense. As for the two pages, she was indirectly the means of doing them good, also, for, ashamed of their bad reading, they commenced studying in earnest, till they overcame the faults that had offended the king. Both rose to a distinction, one as a lawyer, the other as a statesman; and they owed their advancement chiefly to their education.—Success.

Her Sawdust Scare.

A little Boston girl, only three years old, who had had no experience in the matter of broken limbs beyond that afforded by the causalties in her family of dolls, had the misfortune to fall and break her own arm, and as soon as she discovered what had happened to her, she cried out:

"O, mamma, will it drop off?"

"No, darling," the mother answered. "I will hold it so that it will not hurt you till the doctor comes and he will fix it all right."

"Well, mamma," the little one said, pressing her lips together and trying to be brave, "do hold on tight so that the sawdust won't runt out."—Youth's Companion.

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text—For unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Savior, which is Christ, the Lord—Luke ii: 11. Dec. 25, 1898.

Instead of a quarterly review we are given the choice of a Christmas lesson, which probably many will prefer.

1. "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in times past unto the fathers by the prophets." We have in a previous lesson been considering how God by the prophets entreated the people to turn again to Him that He might bless them, and since the time when in the garden of Eden He sought Adam with the question "Where art thou?" He has been ever seeking to win man back to himself. He does this in different ways, as it is written in Hos. xii, 10, "I have also spoken by the prophets, and I have multiplied visions and used similitudes by the ministry of the prophets." Job xxxiii, 29, 30, in the light of the previous part of the chapter, tells how in many ways He does this. The great thing to be remembered is that whatever or whoever may be the instrumentality it is God Himself that is doing it.

2. "Hath in these last days spoken unto us by His Son, whom He hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also He made the worlds." The Son Himself referred to this when in Math. xxi, 37, in the parable of the vineyard. He speaks of the Father as last of all sending to them His Son, saying, "They will reverence my Son." But instead of reverencing Him they took Him and slew Him. He came unto His own and His own received Him not. His own people would not have Him and His own possessions found no room for Him, just as at his birth there was no room for Him in the inn, and when they crucified Him He was numbered with transgressors, and they made His grave with the wicked.

3. "Who, being the brightness of His glory and the express image of His person, and upholding all things by the word of His power, when He had by himself purged our sins, sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high."

In Jesus Christ we see the character of God, and there is no character in us that amounts to anything apart from Christ in us. He, by the sacrifice of Himself, put away forever the sins of all who receive Him. He has made provision for the salvation of all, but those only who come receive the benefit. How can they come unless they hear?

4. "Being made so much better than the angels, as He hath by inheritance obtained a more excellent name than they." The angels are ministering spirits sent forth to minister unto the heirs of salvation, but to any of them God never said, "Sit on my right hand until I make thine enemies thy footstool" (verses 13, 14). He made Himself for a little while inferior to the angels, taking upon Him our nature that He might in due time lift us up to His position (chapter ii, 5-18).

5. "For unto which of the angels said He at any time, Thou art My Son, this day have I begotten thee?" And, again, "I will be to Him a Father and He shall be to me a Son." The first quotation here refers to His resurrection from the dead (Ps. ii, 7; Acts xiii, 33); the second to His being heir to the throne of David (II Sam. vii, 14). No angel can ever sit on David's throne, nor can an angel ever possess a mortal body made immortal. The word "better" is one of the key words of this epistle, and in chapters i and ii the central thought seems to be "better than angels," while in the following chapters it is better than Moses or Aaron or the tabernacle, and we are to run with patience the race that is set before us, "looking unto Jesus" and waiting for him to come back from heaven. He was with power declared to be the Son of God by the resurrection from the dead, and we shall be fully manifest as sons of God in the resurrection.

6. "And again, when He bringeth in the first begotten into the world He saith, And let all the angels of God worship Him." The margin says, "When He bringeth again," and evidently refers to His second coming in power and glory, and this is the sense of Ps. xcvii, from which the quotation is made, for it speaks of His reign and His judgment of His enemies and His kingdom. It is written in Dan. vii, 10, in connection with the judgment that thousands ministered unto Him and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before Him.

7. "And of the angels He saith, Who maketh His angels spirits and His ministers a ame of fire." This is from Ps. civ, 4, which is full of God's care of His creatures and endds with the first halleluiah in Scripture. In Ps. ciii, 20, we read, "Bless the Lord, ye, His angels, that excel in strength, that do His commandments, hearkening unto the voice of His word," and in the last verse of our lesson chapter we learn that they all minister unto the heir of salvation. They ministered unto our Lord, who for a little while made Himself lower than they. They minister unto us, who are for the present inferior to them, but when He shall appear we shall be like Him, in immortal resurrection bodies.

8. "But unto the Son He saith, Thy throne, O God, is forever and ever; a scepter of righteousness is the scepter of Thy kingdom." This verse and the next are from the fifth Psalm, which tells of the King and his marriage. Notice that the Son is called God, combining what we have already said in this lesson.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad. The Chinese got mad at the plug hats and tracts of the American missionaries, and have been throwing stones at them. China is destined to partition and extinction.

Bunches of bananas made of papier mache have been introduced as signs on the wharves of New York, where the depredations of hoodlums are frequent. It is proposed to add wooden peanuts for the benefit of policemen and other friendly samplers of the stock in trade.

The foundation of all lasting progress in Cuba must be hygiene. To establish promptly and maintain intelligently, in cities like Havana, a system of sanitation wholly foreign to their history and at variance with the lifelong habits of the people, is a herculean and costly task. If the more intelligent and influential of the Cubans could be persuaded to study the work thus far done in Santiago by Gen. Wood—with its significance in commercial revival and growth—there would soon be less of Cuban discontent at American control in the islands.

Major Gen. Merritt will reach the retirement age on June 16, 1900, and as his immediate superior, Gen Miles, has still five years to serve before retirement, he can be advanced no further in rank without special Congressional action. Gen. Shafter will be retired Oct. 16, 1899, and his wish to spend his military career in his adopted home on the Pacific slope will be respected. It is thought more than likely that General Shafter's services in Cuba will be recognized by advancement to the rank of Major General of the army before his retirement.

The naval engagements last summer, while not decisive as to the value of armor plate, at least did not prove it to be valueless, and therefore the announcement that the Bethlehem works have turned out a plate, which cannot be pierced or even seriously injured by an eight inch projectile fired at close range, is important. It has been fully demonstrated that American works can turn out the best ships and the best guns, and now it is seen that they can produce the best armor plate. "We don't want to fight, but"— no need to finish the familiar quotation.

Alfred Russell Wallace, the distinguished English author, credits this country with thirteen inventions of the first importance. These are railways, steam navigation, electric telegraphs, the telephone, friction matches, gas lighting, phonography, the X-ray, the phonograph, spectrum analysis, anaesthetics and the use of anaesthetics in surgery. The eighteenth century yielded but one, the steam engine; the seventeenth century one, the telescope; the sixteenth none, the fifteenth one, printing; and the fourteenth one, the mariner's compass. Back of these Mr. Wallace finds but two of equal rank, the Arabic numerals and alphabetical writing.

A French doctor professes to be able to preserve any dead person for statue purposes. The petrifying process consists in plunging the body into phenic acid, washing it in a solution of nitrate of silver, and then leaving it for a certain period in a galvano-plastic bath. The result is the deceased, exactly as he or she was in life, but transformed into hard stone, instead of yielding flesh. The hair, eyelashes and wrinkles remain, the only trouble being the loss of brilliancy in the eyes. This defect, however, can be remedied with glass eyes. It is a little too horrible to picture the petrified bodies of eminent persons fastened to pedestals or placed across petrified horses, for the adornment of a national metropolis. Besides, surely posterity can be contented with the biograph and the phonograph, if they want to recall any of us to memory as "we once was."

Rank for rank, the naval officer gets less than the army officer. A rear admiral gets $6,000 to a major general's $7,500; a commodore $5,000 to a brigadier general's $5,500; a captain $4,500 to a colonel's $4,500; a commander $3,500 to a lieutenant colonel's $4,000. Here an apparent change is to be noticed. A lieutenant commander gets from $2,800 to $3,000 to a major's $2,500 to $3,500; a lieutenant from $2,400 to $2,600, compared with an unmounted captain's $1,800 to $2,520; a lieutenant, junior grade, gets from $1,800 to $2,000, while a first lieutenant, unmounted, gets from $1,500 to $2,100; an ensign gets from $1,200 to $1,400, while a second lieutenant gets from $1,400 to $1,550. The difference noticed in favor of certain naval officers is due to the fact that the lowest amount of pay of the army ranks is that of the "grades;" each army officer is entitled to an increase of pay for each five years he serves in the army, while a naval officer is entitled to only one increase, which comes after serving five years in one grade. So a lieutenant, promoted lieutenant commander, after twenty-five years in the navy, begins at $2,800, and after five years gets $3,000, while a captain promoted major after twenty-five years, gets $3,500 to start with.

MICHIGAN'S "BOSS."

HE PLAYS A HAND WHICH NEITHER QUAY NOR PLATT CAN "CALL."

Pingree Has a Wonderful Knowledge of Human Nature and Uses It for the Accomplishment of the End He Desires To Gain.

Hazen S. Pingree, Governor of Michigan, is the greatest political boss that the country has seen, says the Chicago Times-Herald.

To-day he is the absolute master of Michigan. His will is law, and the people not only follow him wherever he leads, but they are proud of it. There is, to be sure, a difference in the methods he employs. Pingree is honest. One of the chief faults his enemies find with him is that he is incorruptible. This is an unusual charge to make against a boss. But Pingree is an unusual boss.

The last election held in Michigan illustrates the control which Pingree has over Michigan politics. The boss himself was a candidate for Governor. He won the nomination after the hardest kind of fight. Then he ran 30,000 or more ahead of his ticket. He named most of the Republican legislative candidates. Never has there been such a case of bossism as there was in the Detroit legislative districts. Pingree sent down to the convention a printed list of the men who were to be nominated. He admitted it and gloried in it. The opposition called the nominees the "O. K.'d ten," and the "branded slaves." They were held up to ridicule as being owned by Pingree. The nominees did not resent it. They went on the stump and publicly announced that if they were elected they would have no higher ambition than to do exactly what Pingree advised them to do. The result was that they ran away ahead of their ticket.

Can Croker, Quay or Platt show any parallel to that?

Pingree has his own methods. He is original. In the first place, he came into politics by accident. Before his nomination as Mayor of Detroit in 1889 he did not know the first thing about politics. He was a Republican because he was born in Maine. Beginning life as a journeyman shoemaker, he had become proprietor of a shoe factory, and his political duties consisted in sending a check each year to the campaign committee.

Pingree was nominated for Mayor in 1889 because Cleveland had carried the city a year befor by nine thousand majority and no one else wanted what was considered an empty honor. So soon as Pingree realized this he became angry and announced that he would be elected. And he was—by three thousand majority—after a hard fight, in which he pledged himself to redeem the city from corporation rule if elected. Workingmen supported him in spite of the fact that he was a millionaire. During the campaign he showed his genius for organization and knowledge of the wishes of the people. Elected, he fulfilled his pledges. He made the street railway companies reduce their fares to three cents, improved the streets, had the gas rates cut in half, taxd big concerns twice as much as they had paid before, and indeed reformed so much that when he came up for nomination again the politicians were against him. But the people were with him, and he won. Four times in succession he was elected Mayor of Detroit, and each time in spite of the politicians and the corporations. Each time his majority was increased.

Then he made his fight for Governorship, promising that if elected he would do for the State what he had done for the city. Opposed to him were all the veteran politicians, like Senator McMillan, Alger, Bliss, Burrows and O'Donnell. But he beat them all and got the nomination. Election as Governor followed as a matter of course. McKinley carried Michigan by 56,000 plurality. Pingree's plurality was 83,000.

Pingree set to work to reform the State. He f. and that Indiana secured about $2,500,000 a year in taxes from railroads, while Michigan, with a larger railway mileage, had been getting about $70,000 from the same source. Pingree had a bill introduced in the legislature, giving the various counties in the State the power of local taxation over the railroads and allowing them to assess railroad property the same as other property and collect taxes from the corporations independently. The railroads opposed this, but the people approved, and the result was the passage of a compromise bill increasing the taxation on gross earnings and doubling the amount of taxes received. But this was not satisfactory to Pingree, and in the last campaign he made his fight chiefly in favor of a further increase.

The general impression is that Pingree is a demagogue. Those who know him do not believe this. He is a man of high ideals and exalted principles. His reforms have always succeeded. None of them have been chimeras. In bringing them about he has used the methods of practical politicians and has proved himself their master. He has a wonderful knowledge of human nature and he has used it to bring about the ends he has sought.

In every way he has shown himself the master politician of the age. Quay does not own Pennsylvania as thoroughly as Pingree owns Michigan. Judging by results, he is the greatest boss of all.

THE KEELY MOTOR BUBBLE.

It Was One of the Most Successful Gold Brick Schemes of Modern Times.

With the death of John E. W. Keely probably ends the career of one of the most remarkable impostures that have ever obtained credence with men reputed, in other respects, to possess ordinary intelligence. Keely's claims rested entirely upon his own audacious assertions as to what he could do if the money to do it with were only given him, and to exhibitions of an apparatus which he would neither permit to be examined by experts nor explain himself. His was a confidence game, pure and simple, and out of it he made a comfortable living to the very last, in spite of his repeated failures to fulfil his promises to his dupes.

Keely's pretended discovery was that of a method of disintegrating water, by means of musical vibrations, into its component molecules, and of thus developing a vapor of an elasticity and expansiveness which far exceeded those of steam. In fact, his excuse for not demonstrating practically the availability of his new motive power, was its excessive intensity which defied the control of ordinary machinery, and needed engines of unusual strength to confine it within bounds. The same reason was given for not permitting any one but himself to manipulate his apparatus, and curious investigators were warned that they risked their lives if they meddled with it except under his supervision.

That Keely had a motive power of some kind, which he employed for exhibition purposes, is undeniable; and whether it was compressed air, or a gas liberated by chemical decomposition, or something else of that kind, it is, at present, impossible to say positively; but that it was nothing of the kind he asserted it to be, is none the less certain. The progress of scientific discovery is from one step to another; each step being but little in advance of the preceding one. Nothing approaching the disintegration of water by mechanical means, much less by musical vibrations, has yet been even indicated by science, and all known facts render it highly improbable. Indeed, were water in this condition of instability we should all be living over a volcano, the Croton reservoir would be as dangerous as a nitro-glycerine magazine, and the ocean would be a huge bombshell.

Keely's success in imposing upon men of the class that he did, shows of how little avail are business education and experience in aiding to judge of matters of physics and mechanics. If Keely's dupes had possessed only a moderate knowledge of the principles underlying his pretended discovery, they would have seen at once that his claims were absurd. But as all cats are gray in the dark, so to an ignorant mind all inventions are equally meritorious until they are proved to be the contrary. In this respect the victims of the Keely motor are like those of the Marine Salts Company, which was to extract gold from sea water, of the Electric Sugar patent, of Paine's water gas, and of dozens of similar schemes, which have proved highly profitable to their promoters, and of no use to anybody besides.—New York Sun.

An Uncomplimentary Compliment.

A young Dane who is trying to master the English language could not understand the other evening why every one laughed when he made what he thought was a complimentary remark. The question of introducing stringed instruments into church choirs was under discussion, and his opinion was asked.

Here is what occured, in his own language:

"I have enthusiasm. I say by all means let us have the guitar, the harp, the lyre—and here a polite compliment occurs to me, and I add, turning toward the minister—'though we have already a most accomplished lyre in the pulpit!'

"Everybody in the house joined in a positive roar of laughter, and the minister laughed more than any one else. I laughed, too; I like to be agreeable; though there was a humor I certainly missed. Will you kindly tell me what is amusing in comparing a minister to that beautiful stringed instrument, a lyre?"—Chicago Times Herald.

A Town Built of Zinc.

"A City of Zinc" is the name which may appropriately be given to the mushroom city of Portuguese East Africa, Beira. All the houses, all the hotels and public buildings, barracks and warehouses, are built of zinc. Thousands of tons of zinc from France, England and America supplied the material. The unpleasant impression produced by the aspect of this town is heightened by the thought that men have to dwell in these houses under a tropical heat. Everything in this strange city is under the dominion of the metal. Even when a person falls ill he is carried on a zinc stretcher to a hospital, which is also, of course, made of zinc. And if he dies he is laid to rest in a zinc coffin.

THE DANGEROUS BRITISH CHANNEL.

Plans For Reducing It From a Stormy Torrent to a Calm Pleasure Basin.

The Prince of Wales is greatly exercised over the recent accident in the English Channel. As a peer expressed it "His Royal Highness does not like to feel that he is living upon an island defended and barricaded like the feudal barons of old, by high seas that dash to pieces friend and foe alike."

The Crown, it is asserted upon the best authority, will shortly offer a prize to be tried for by a competition which will be opened to all civil engineers of the world. The prize offered will be no less than a fortune sterling for a plan by which the English Channel can be reduced from a rolling torrent to a calm, peaceful sea.

Crossing the Channel for years has been the dread of the transatlantic journey. Tourists who travel as far as London in safety are unable to cross the Channel to France without suffering untold tortures of seasickness.

Traffic across the Channel at certain periods of the year is absolutely dangerous, and at times commerce is greatly delayed by the uncertainty of the voyage. The journey which, under ordinary circumstances, ought to be taken in a few hours, is sometimes prolonged thirty hours, and then upon the very best steamers. Upon slow-going freight steamers it is almost indefinite. The highest type of machinery is required to make the journey on time.

At times various schemes have been proposed for stemming the current or undertow from the North Sea and the North Atlantic Ocean around the British Isles. The isles act as a dam to the water, which, sweeping southward by a mighty undertow, is caught by them only to break and sweep through the channel with incredible rapidity.

Many of the schemes have been almost unique, notably one advanced by a Danish civil engineer for building a breakwater north of Wales. This, which was to extend for many hundred feet into the water, was to be constructed south from Denmark and north from Wales, leaving a small open space through which boats could sail. This, the engineer claimed, would have a tendency to allow less water to sweep through the channel and would thus calm the tide. Other schemes of breakwater have been proposed, the most extravagant of which was the filling-in of the channel by means of mud scows, so that, instead of being a deep passage, it would be in places very shallow.

Modern engineering has become such a highly developed science that nothing seems impossible to it, and it is thought that some engineering genius will have a remedy by which the English Channel can be made calm.

Prominent engineers in this country shake their heads at the suggestion and say "Impossible!" But English engineers are more sanguine.

Prices of Flowers.

Several years ago a number of rose growers paid $10,000 to John Bennett of Shepperdtown, England, for the stock of the famous Bennett rose, and since that time fortunes have been made and lost on it, for, upon removing it to this country, it flourished finely for a while, but soon developed bad qualities supposed to be produced by the change of climate.

The fact that flowers are bred and cross-bred in pretty much the same manner as animals is another statement that few people would credit. Among those whose business brings them in daily contact with flower growers the experiment is a familiar one. Nature produced "hybrids" through the agency of bees and other insects that, upon entering the male flower of one sort, in their search for honey pollen, carried away upon their wings and bodies the "fructifying dust," and depositing upon the petals and stamens of the female flower of another sort, produced what Darwin has termed "a sport of nature."

The prices paid for flowers fluctuate as frequently as the prices of stocks and bonds, oil or grain. A great wedding or grand opera season, the public funeral of a noted person, in fact any big event that calls for flowers for decorative purposes, will send the prices flying upward in a manner that makes the folks that have to foot the bill a bit nervous, to say the least.

One instance of a society belle paying $300 for a corsage bouquet of American Beauties, when they were exceedingly scarce, is current among the florists. The Countess Castellane, nee Miss Anna Gould, whose favorite flower is the American Beauty rose, paid an enormous sum for the decorations of the church where the services uniting her to the Count Castellane were held.

A quaint story is told of the advent of the American Beauty rose. George Bancroft, the historian, made rose growing his hobby, and during a trip to Germany he purchased a single plant, placed it in his greenhouse upon his return to Washington, D. C., where he resided, and from whence it was stolen and sold to a firm of florists for the paltry amount of $1. These gardeners, ignorant of its great value, for it did not contain a bloom placed the plant in their common collection, where, when it had bloomed, it earned, on account of its rare beauty of color, rich fragrance and fine form and size, the title by which it is now known.

He—What is the name of your machine?

She—Do you mean the name the maker gives it, or the name papa calls it when he fell over it in the hall the night before last?"

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD.

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World.

Minnie Lester will make her last appearance at Music Hall tonight, when she will present the greatest play in her repertoire—"Jack Sheppard"—which has been rewritten and brought fully up-to-date, still retaining its historical correctness. The last time she appeared here one of the largest houses that ever appeared in Music Hall gathered to see it, and were delighted with her and the performance. It is full of striking sensational effects and features never seen in any other play.

* * * * * *

George Thatcher's Fashionable Vaudevilles is the Christmas attraction at Music Hall Monday, and it will be a gala event in every sense of the word. There will be two grand performances, one in the afternoon for the special accommodation of ladies and children who are unable to attend in the evening, and the other at night for older folks. They will be memorable events presented by Keith's Theatre artists, and in the same manner as at Keith's New York Theatre. One of the best Japanese troupes in the country; Prof. Hamtpon's great dog and monkey circus; little Gertie Cochran, the mental marvel; George Thatcher and Ed. Marble, in their latest and best sketches; the Raymond musical trio, and hosts of other novelties will be seen, the like never equalled in this city. Popular prices will prevail at both performances, 50 and 25 cents at matinee, and 25, 35, 50 and 75 cents at night.

* * * * * *

The celebrared Guy Brothers, with their famous minstrels, will be the attraction at Music Hall next Wednesday. The Guy Brothers (six in number) have surrounded themselves with more than twenty-five of the most popular and clever performers known in the world of minstrelsy and the tornado of specialties and cyclone of fun which they present is startling. The show itself is one grand carnival of fun and music, full of the latest songs, ballads, coon songs, original witticisms, etc.

The Yankee and the Prince.

One of the most valued treasures of the late Empress Elizabeth was the manuscript of Heine's "Buch der Lieder," which came into her possession through the courtesy of an American.

The Crown Prince, Rudolf, knowing his mother's fondness for the Jewish poet, and seeing the manuscript in the catalogue of a Hamburg dealer, resolved to secure it as a birthday gift. He was too late, however, for an American collector had snapped up the relic. Prince Rudolf tracked the purchaser down, and calling on him in strict incognito, offered him ten times the price he had given. The American refused to part with his acquisition on any terms, but noticing the young man's chagrin, asked why he was keen in the matter.

"I wanted to give it to my mother."

"And who is your mother?" inquired the other.

"The Empress of Austria," replied the Archduke.

This revelation at once changed the disposition of the gallant Yankee, who begged that he might be allowed to presented the document to her Majesty, a permission that was gratefully accorded.—London Chronicle.

HOME OF GOD'S PEOPLE.

DR. RICHARDSON THUS DESCRIBES THE UNITED STATES.

Last Night Given Up to a Praise and Thanksgiving Service in the Park Avenue Baptist Church—Country's High Stand.

The service in the Park Avenue Baptist church last night took the tone of a service of praise and thanksgiving. It consisted of responsive readings, anthems by the choir, a solo by Thomas A. Cuming and a sermon by the pastor upon the present and future possibilities of America.

Rev. J. W. Richardson mentioned authorities who claim that the Anglo-Saxon people are the descendants of the ten lost tribes of Israel, and that America is the future home of God's people. He said that God was with us, and gave as an example the fact that the United States had as yet never been defeated in war since its establishment. He also spoke of the American flag as adapted from the ancient flag of King David, as many people think, although that cannot be proven.

Mr. Richardson said that the attitude of all Europe towards us has changed during the past few months, and that where, before our war with Spain, the powers over there were ready to pat Uncle Sam on the back and tell him he was a quiet, dignified old gentleman, now they are ready to fly at his throat at the least provocation.

Mr. Richardson also urged the people to be zealous in pushing the work in behalf of missions, as in a few years the Russians and Germans, if they achieved success in some of their contemplated movements, and gain possession of China and some of the countries in the East, would no doubt prevent American missionaries, with their love of religious and National freedom, to enter their possessions.

BUSY RECEIVING TAXES.

Collector Brown Received $6,000 up to Saturday Night.

Last Saturday was a very busy one for Collector George F. Brown, of the borough. In all he collected about $6,000 and when he closed accounts Saturday evening he was escorted to the City National Bank by Chief Marshal Wilson and Marshal Wise, as protectors. Between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening Mr. Brown received over $500. Today and tomorrow Marshal Wise will remain on duty at the collector's office and assist in the watching of the collateral as it comes in. Today and tomorrow is the only time left to pay taxes and thus escape the provisions of the law which provides that a constable shall make collections.

STEAM PIPE BURSTED.

Accident to Heating Apparatus in Park Avenue Baptist Church.

An accident occurred to the steam heating apparatus of the Park Avenue Baptist church yesterday morning, before church time, that came near interrupting the service and compelling the pastor to take his flock into the chapel.

One of the steam pipes gave way about 9:30 o'clock, and filled the church with escaping steam. The fire was drawn, but as the day was mild and the church well-heated before the accident, there were no serious results. By hard work, Sexton Edgar Brokaw succeeded in repairing the damage so that at night the heater could be used.

Death of a Telegrapher.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 19—Wm. Smith, who for several years has been the efficient day operator at the Western Union telegraph office, died at his home in this place yesterday after a comparatively short illness. He suffered with a complication of diseases, including an abscess. Last September he was married. Both he and his wife were very popular among a large circle of friends. Mr. Smith's place is now being filled by John Gaffney, formerly night operator in Plainfield.

Mrs. Harry Roberts' Condition Critical.

The many friends of Mrs. Harry Roberts will be pained to learn that her illness is so critical that hopes of her recovery are given up. Her husband, who is a member of a theatrical company, arrived home Saturday evening in response to a telegram, so as to be with his wife. Dr. Zeglio is in attandance and everything possible has been done to prolong life.

"Uncle Dan" is Better.

After an illness lasting several weeks "Uncle Dan" Roberts was able to visit his office this morning and receive his friends. He is looking very much better and feels much stronger.

FOREFATHERS' DAY.

Special Sermon on the Subject Preached by Rev. C. H. Goodrich.

Congregationalists have a good right to number Forefathers' Day among their most religiously-kept holidays, and Rev. Charles Lyman Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, seldom lets the day pass without a sermon in memory of the landing of the first Congregationalists in America. Yesterday his sermon was an unusually strong one, dealing with the Puritan ideal in life. The first part of the sermon was historical treating of the early Puritans and the principles which earned them the name. The last part, however, was practical, pleading for a little more of the Puritan conscientiousness and courage in national affairs, in church work, and in the personal Christian life.

The mid-week service Wednesday night will also commemorate Forefathers' Day. The evening will be given to the history of the first Congregationalists, and refreshments will be served by a number of the young Priscillas of the church.

VOLUNTEERS TO DISBAND.

Local Post Fails of Success and is Heavily in Debt.

It is a fact to be regretted that the members of the American Volunteers of this city are compelled to give up and disband after a hard struggle for existence. This course, however, is inevitable and the belongings of the Post will be sold to help satisfy a portion of debt incurred. The chief officers of the organization in New York will be asked to help liquidate the balance of the debt. The movement in this city has not recently been ably supported and the lack of interest manifested is the real cause of failure. At present the few remaining members are meeting from house to house holding services and these are productive of much good. Just what action the chief officers will take regarding the local post has not yet been learned, but there seems to be no doubt but what they will readily assist their workers in this city.

GREATER PLAINFIELD.

A Correspondent Who Sees No Trouble With a City in Two Counties.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The question of consolidating Plainfield and North Plainfield into one municipality seems to be generally favored by the taxpayers of the two cities.

The politicians on the other hand are wirepulling to place the new city either all in Union county or Somerset county.

That is where the fight will be, and the battle to be fought this winter at Trenton promises to be bitter.

While the politicians are fighting, let the "business men" of the Board of Trade study the charter of the "Greater New York." They will find a big city, composed of three counties, viz.: "New York," "Kings" and "Queens," all working in harmony as far as the city and counties are concerned—one Mayor, one Board of Aldermen, one fire department, one police department.

Courts of justice are centered in each of the three counties, and no friction.

The "bugaboo" of taxation is only a matter of bookkeeping. In fact, "Greater Plainfield" will grow, and grow and grow until it reaches into other counties!

If the politicians will give way to the business men, there will be no trouble about consolidation. H. E. B.

Entertainment Postponed.

Owing to the illness of several of the members of the entertainment committee of Howell Division, Sons of Temperance, the entertainment that was to have taken place tonight will be postponed until a future date. Parties holding tickets will keep them, for they will be good. Notice of the date of the entertainment will be given later.

Honorably Discharged.

The case of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals against Fred W. Bowden, of this city, came up for trial before Justice Storms, of New Market, at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Wm. Newcorn, counsel for the defendant, moved for an honorable discharge of the prisoner, which was granted by the Court.

Handsome Stars and Stripes.

Collector George F. Brown, of the borough, has just made a handsome American flag, 6x10, for the Commission to Porto Rico. He has presented it to Dr. H. K. Carroll, the head of the Commission, and it will be taken to Porto Rico and brought back on the return trip.

Important Meeting of Board of Trade.

There will be a regular meeting of the Board of Trade this evening when business of importance to every member will be considered.

PORTO RICANS AND SELF-GOVERNMENT.

Dr. Carroll Believes They Will Eventually Be Qualified for it.

PRESUMTIOUS INFERENCE.

HAWAIIAN COMMISSION'S REPORT IS CRITICISED.

Dr. Carroll Says That Their Inference, Conveyed by Comparison of the Hawaiians and Porto Ricans, is Highly Incorrect—Porto Ricans, He Says, Show Plenty of Evidence for Self-Government.

Dr. H. K. Carroll, President McKinley's commissioner to Porto Rico to ascertain the actual condition of internal affairs on that island, spoke to a large audience in the First M. E. church last night on his observations in that country. The most important part of his address was his references to the ability of the Porto Ricans to govern themselves.

In discussing the question he referred to the report of the Hawaiian commission in which they advocated a territorial form of government for the people of that island, and by comparison inferred that the Hawaiians were much more capable of self-government than the Porto Ricans or Filipinos. Dr. Carroll said he had no personal knowledge of the condition of the Filipinos, but that the inference that the Porto Ricans were incapable of self-government after the United States had effected a suitable administration of the affairs of the islands was a highly incorrect and, he considered, presumptious view for the Hawaiian commission to make, especially in view of the fact that the commission had no knowledge of the condition of the Porto Ricans.

Dr. Carroll said that he considered the Porto Ricans quite as capable in every respect to govern themselves as the inhabitants of Hawaii are. He said that the Porto Ricans are not the barbarians and savages some people regard them as. While confessedly there is much illiteracy in the island Dr. Carroll believes that by the adoption of the customs and institutions of the United States on the island would gradually do away with that condition, and that eventually the Porto Ricans would evidence plenty of capacity to govern themselves with equal prospect of success as either the Cubans or the Hawaiians.

Their aspirations, said Dr. Carroll, are indicative of their reaching a useful and creditable state of citizenship. They are anxious for the introduction of American customs and institutions as fast as possible, as well as the adoption of the English language in place of Spanish as the native tongue. They are considerably different from the Cubans in that they are a peace-loving people. The fact that there is practically no system of registry in the island, but that estates and properties are handed down by common consent from generation to generation without litigation is an evidence of their peaceable characters and their recognition of right over wrong without the fear of legal punishment.

Today Dr Carroll finished an important report on the rates of tariff desirable for Porto Rican ports and forwarded it to the President at Washington. He declined to make public the contents of the report.

Dr. Carroll stated to a Press reporter this morning that he expected to sail for Ponce to resume his investigations either December 28th or 31st. If there is a proper transport ready to sail on the former date he will take passage on that, but otherwise he will sail on the Red D Line steamer Philadelphia the 31st.

Profitable Cake Sale.

A very profitable cake sale was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. A. Pope, under the auspices of the Advance Circle of the King's Daughters of the First Presbyterian church. There was a good attendance at the sale and the cakes were all sold, netting the sum of $10 to the society which will be used to sustain the city nurse in her work. The ladies who assisted at the sale were: Mrs. H. A. Pope, Mrs. J. A. Haines, Mrs. Searing, Mrs. John Beerbower, Mrs. Wean and Miss Blish. Another sale will be held soon.

Sociable for Workingmen.

The workmen at Scott's Press Works are all invited to attend a sociable at the Y. M. C. A. tonight, where a programme of music and recitations will be presented for their benefit. Refreshments will be served and an effort made to entertain the company in the best manner possible. The workmen of the other factories and press works will be invited in turn.

LETTERS FROM FOREIGN CLIMES.

Novelty and Instruction in a Missionary Service Last Night.

A novel and interesting missionary meeting was held last night by the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church. Two of the members had been directed to visit foreign countries and write home their experiences. Miss M. G. Morse went to Mexico, by the book route, and sent home to the chairman of the missionary committee a letter describing the people, the country, and the state of mission work there. This letter was read by Miss J. Louise Jenkins. Miss E. E. Chase visited the Pacific islands in the same manner, and another letter, telling of manners and customs, missionaries and mission work in those far-off bits of land, was the result. This letter was read by Miss Nellie Winckler. A real letter, written from China by a young woman visiting there, was read by Clarence C. Wilson. A letter from a missionary among the Zulus, read by Miss Julia M. Belknap, concluded this "foreign letter evening."

WENT TO STONY HILL.

The Return was so Hilarious That the Police Interfered.

Theodore Trundall went to Stony Hill soberly and in his right mind yesterday. Theodore Trundall came home from Stony Hill happily and hilariously drunk last evening. At Stony Hill he went to see Carl Peter Rubenstein. Some say that there was hard cider at Stony Hill yesterday.

At any rate Trundall had too much of something and so Rubenstein decided to bring him home. Rubenstein says that he, Rubenstein, was not drunk, hadn't touched a drop all day, and that his young companion made all the noise.

Roundsman Frederickson and Patrolman Saffron heard the shouting and saw a horse driven recklessly about the city streets. They arrested Rubenstein and his companion. This morning they were arraigned before City Judge Stillman and fined $5 each.

PROTEST AGAINST MORMONISM.

Dr. Lewis Visited Washington and Urged Unseating of Congressman Roberts.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis has returned from Washington, where he went last week commissioned by the Ministers' Association, of this city, to oppose the admission of Roberts, of Utah, to Congress. Dr. Lewis was gone from Tuesday until Friday, and joined with General Eaton and others in a protest against the admission of this man. Dr. Lewis intends to follow up this matter when the new Congress assembles in March.

Dr. Lewis also spoke at a hearing of the committee on territories, with others, against the repeal of the prohibition law in Alaska. Dr. Lewis attended the convention of the Good Citizenship Society conducted by Dr. Josiah Strong.

Death of John L. Moore.

John L. Moore, formerly of East Sixth street, died at Long Lake, Adirondacks, New York, Saturday, from consumption. He resided in this city for several years, having moved from Belfast, Ireland, some time before. He was a man of quiet, retiring nature, but greatly liked among his circle of friends. He was not in good health when he came here and his trouble necessitated his removal to the Adirondacks, where he died. He leaves a wife and several small children. His funeral will be from the home of B. T. Fawcett, 142 Grove street, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

A Volunteer Gets His Discharge.

Herbert Overbaugh, private in the Third New Jersey Volunteers, obtained his discharge from the service, and has returned to his home in Plainfield. A letter from the Third Regiment, encamped at Athens, Ga., says that Corporal McCarty has also obtained his discharge and will be home shortly.

Trial Adjourned for a Week.

John Lines appeared before City Judge Stillman for trial this morning. He was represented by Councilman W. L. Hetfield. The complainant, Isaac Shrager, was represented by William Newcorn. At the request of the latter, the trial was adjourned for a week.

A Trivial Affair.

The troubles of Mrs. Julia Serracker, of 332 West Fifth street, were heard by City Judge Stillman this morning. Mrs. Anna Doyle accused her of quarreling and being generally disorderly. The Judge dismissed the complaint for lack of evidence.

Frank Vosseller on Another Furlough.

Frank Vosseller, of the 12th New York Volunteers, encamped at Lexington, Ky., is home on a thirty-day furlough. He is spending the time at his home on East Sixth street.

TAKEN FOR RUNAWAYS.

RAN SHORT OF FUNDS AND STOLE A RIDE.

Boys Were Arrested and Locked Up—Proved to Be On Their Christmas Vacation—From Sacred Heart Academy.

Matthew Walsh and Harry Dalton left the Academy of the Sacred Heart in New York to spend the Christmas holidays in Plainfield. Before they arrived at their destination they went through all the excitement of a stolen ride on the rear platform of a midnight train, arrest and consequent imprisonment. This afternoon they finally reached the home of Mrs. Mary Buckley, of Cottage place, to spend the vacation.

Walsh is from Lakewood and Dalton from 747 Amsterdam avenue, New York. They are small lads of about twelve years of age. They attend the Academy of the Sacred Heart, a Catholic military school. Yesterday morning they were given permission to depart for the home of Walsh's aunt in Plainfield to spend the holidays.

The attractions dear to the boys' hearts had tempted the greater part of their spending money away and they discovered that there was not enough to take them to Plainfield by rail. With confidence in their ability to get along somehow, they started out and finally reached Roselle. There they waited until late at night. A newly-made acquaintance among the railroad men told them that they could steal a ride on a night train.

They waited until the "owl" train, due in Plainfield at 1:17 o'clock, came along and jumped on the rear platform. The excitement of the ride kept them warm. When they reached Plainfield the brakeman saw them and reported the fact to Sergeant Kiely and Patrolman Vanderweg. They found the boys at Fourth street and Watchung avenue and placed them under arrest. It was immediately supposed that the boys had run away despite their protestations that they were going to visit in town.

This morning they were brought before City Judge Stillman. He instructed the police to find Mrs. Buckley and see if their tale was true. The police did so and found that the boys were expected there for over Christmas. Then Mrs. Buckley went over to see the lads and took them home with her.

COUNTY COMMITTEE TO DECIDE.

Union County Assemblymen Unable to Agree on Man for Journal Clerk.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Dec. 19—There is a hot triangular contest among Union county Republicans for the position of Journal Clerk of the next House of Assembly. The candidates are Col. William A. Morrell, formerly superintendent of Monmouth Park, who has the backing of Assemblyman Squire; William H. Hulskamper, who has served two terms as clerk, and whose claim for reappointment is championed by Assemblyman Houston, while Assemblyman Murray, of Plainfield, is said to favor Noah Morrison, who seems to be the choice of the general Republican element.

So warm has the struggle became that it has been decided to leave the matter to the County Committee to settle. The inditations are that either Colonel Morrell or young Mr. Morrison will be chosen, with the chances favoring Morrell. The argument is being made against Mr. Hulskamper that he has already held the clerkship two years, and besides is also a member of the Union County Board of Freeholders.

Our Country's Greatness.

The greatness of our country is now universally acknowledged. We are greatest in material growth, greatest in the advancement of civilization, greatest in the encouragement of education, greatest in genius and invention, and the greatest place in this portion of our great country to see the perfection of this genius in holiday presents is at Collier's, No. 103 Park avenue.

Good Citizenship for a Subject.

Good speakers will be present at the Christian Endeavor Society meeting in Trinity Reformed church tonight, and the subject of good citizenship and temperance will be ably presented. Everybody is welcome.

An Informal Luncheon.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kline, of 21 Sandford avenue, gave an injormal luncheon at her home last Saturday afternoon. There were about fifteen guests present.

—A regular meeting of the Board of Trade will be held in its rooms in the Babcock building this evening.

—The funeral of Elizabeth Langhan, the old servant of Mrs. J. M. Myers, was held yesterday. Rev. E. M. Bodman officiated and there were about seventy-five in attendance.

HIS DAYS SPENT HERE TO THE VERY END

Death of a Life-long Resident of City and Borough.

JACOB JENNINGS NO MORE.

BORN SEVENTY YEARS AGO IN A HOUSE STANDING IN THE BOROUGH.

He Had Been in Feeble Health for Several Years, But Only Seriously Sick for a Short Time—A Veteran of the Civil War—Faithful Attendant at Seventh-day Baptist Church—Funeral to be Held Tomorrow.

Another one of Plainfield's oldest citizens passed away yesterday morning in the person of Jacob M. Jennings, who was familiarly known as "Uncle Jacob." He was taken ill two weeks ago yesterday with pneumonia and began at once to fail rapidly, owing to his advanced age and the weakened condition of his heart. From 5 o'clock Saturday evening until 6:30 o'clock yesterday, the time he died, he was in an unconscious state and did not recognize anyone. Death came peacefully and without a struggle. Dr. Tomlinson was the attending physician, and he did everything possible for the alleviation of suffering.

Mr. Jennings was born seventy years ago in the borough in the house that still stands in Hudson's lane. It was at that time known as Jenning's lane. He was the son of Benjamin Jennings, who was a familiar figure throughout Somerset county, and who was somewhat of a politician. Mr. Jennings lived in the borough about twenty-one years, and then moved to this city. In early life he learned the shoemaker's trade and followed it steadily until about twenty years ago. He then gave up his trade on account of his health.

When Mr. Jennings gave up his trade he entered the newspaper business and up to the time of his death he was one of the best known paper dealers in this vicinity. He at first began to sell Sunday newspapers, and he lived to see the business grow to large proportions. Later he began to sell the New York morning papers and had a stand in the men's waiting room at the North Avenue station.

When the Civil War broke out Mr. Jennings enlisted for nine months as a private, and while in the army he contracted a disease that materially weakened him for life. He served in Captain Hubbard's company, which was the Thirtieth, N. J. Volunteers. He was a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and until recently always took a lively interest in its affairs.

Mr. Jennings was a faithful attendant at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, where he was a member. He was a Christian of sterling qualities and respected by all who knew him. Among those who he leaves are two brothers, Augustus Jennings, of Rahway; Isaac Jennings, and a sister in Decatur, Illinois; also a half-brother, Benjamin Jennings. The address of the latter is not known. He also leaves a wife, a dughter, Mrs. M. L. Haven, of Washington, D. C., and a son, Andrew Jennings, first assistant chief of the fire department. The daughter, Mrs. Haven, is seriously ill at her home and will not probably be able to come to Plainfield to attend the funeral, which will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late home on West Second street.

Entertained at Euchre.

The Watchung Avenue Euchre Club was pleasantly entertained Saturday evening by Mrs. Kampman, of 45 Sandford avenue. The usual club membership was present, and the play resulted in Miss Marie Kampman and Miss Lillian A. Force winning first and second prizes. Seymour G. Smith and Harry Salkeld were the winners of the first and second prizes for the men. After the play refreshments were served to the guests. Mrs. Slocum, of Sandford avenue, will entertain the club at its next meeting.

Miss Daly Says She Was Not Sued.

To The Editor of The Daily Press:—I wish to state for the benefit of the public that I was not sued for rent, as I never rented a house and never paid rent. The amount that my parents were held responsible for was for the month the house was vacant, and for which we never had a lease.

LET US ARM YOU!

It's quite necessary, because while Uncle Sam is settling scores with the Spaniards you're bound to have a little brush at home at the same time, and there's nothing like being ready for emergencies. Until you can sign a perpetual truce with sun, wind and storm, your house and other buildings will need to be fortified with paint, and ours are like a 20-inch chilled steel armor.

NO FAITH CURE

ABOUT STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS.

They Cure Stomach Troubles and Indigestion Anyway, Whether You Have Faith in Them or Not.

Mere faith will not digest your food for you, will not give you an appetite, will not increase your flesh and strengthen your nerves and heart, but Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do these things, because they are composed of the elements of digestion; they contain the juices, acids and peptones necessary to the digestion and assimilation of all wholesome food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest food if placed in a jar or bottle in water heated to 98 degrees, and they will do it much more effectively when taken into the stomach after meals, whether you have faith that they will or not.

They invigorate the stomach, make pure blood and strong nerves, in the only way that nature can do it, and that is, from plenty of wholesome food well digested. It is not what we eat, but what we digest that does us good.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by nearly all druggists at 50 cents for full sized package, or by mail from the F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

M'KINLEY AT SAVANNAH

A Notable Speech at the Chamber of Commerce Banquet.

A FLATTERING RECEPTION

Fifteen Thousand People Greet Mr McKinley and His Party and Cheer Expansion Sentiments. He Says it is Our Duty to Hold the Philippines.

Savannah, Ga., Dec. 19.—The reception given to President McKinley and the members of his cabinet by the citizens of Savannah Saturday more than equalled in hospitality and completeness of arrangements any previous experiences which have marked the president's trip in the South.

The party arrived from Montgomery at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, reviewed ten thousand troops stationed around Savannah, took a trip down the Savannah river and was entertained in the evening at a grand banquet tendered by the Chamber of Commerce and Association of Citizens.

The enthusiasm of the citizens and the fifteen thousand persons who came to the city from the surrounding country to greet the president was fully equal to the demonstrations which have distinguished the trip in other cities.

At the banquet in the evening, in the De Soto Hotel, where the presidential party is staying, President McKinley, amid frequent applause, made this speech:

"There is cause for congratulation that with the grave problem before us growing out of the war with Spain, we are free from any divisions at home.

"Our financial and revenue policies cannot be changed for at least four years, and whatever legislation may be had affecting them during that period will be to improve and strengthen, not destroy them.

"The public mind must, therefore, repose in reasonable security, while business will proceed without apprehension of serious and sudden changes so disturbing to the commercial world and so distracting to the business men, all of which is fortunate for the country, for every interest and every section of the country. Even those who desire other and different policies prefer permanence to constant change, or, what is almost as hurtful, the fear of change.

"There are, happily, now no domestic differences to check the progress and prosperity of the country which our peaceful relations with the whole world will encourage and strengthen.

"This is fortunate, too, in another sense. It leaves the country free to consider and discuss new questions which are immediately before us, unbiased by party or past political alliances. These new questions are to be thought out and wrought out, not in a spirit of partisanship, but in a spirit of patriotism; not for the temporary advantage of one party or the other, but for the lasting advantage of the country. Neither prejudice nor passion nor previous condition can embarrass the free action and calm judgment of the citizen.

"We have entered upon new paths. We are treading in an unexplored field which will test our wisdom and statesmanship. The chief consideration is one of duty; our actions must be controlled by it. No settlement is admissible which will not preserve our honor and promote the best interests of all concerned.

"If, following the clear precepts of duty, territory falls to us and the welfare of an alien people requires our guidance and protection, who will shrink from the responsibility, grave though it may be? Can we leave these people who, by the fortunes of war and our own acts, are helpless and without government, to chaos after we have destroyed the only government they have had? After destroying their government it is the duty of the American government to provide for them a better one.

"Shall we distrust ourselves? Shall we proclaim to the world our inability to give kindly government to oppressed peoples, whose future, by the victories of war, is confided to us? We may wish it were otherwise, but who will question our duty now?

"It is not a question of keeping the islands of the East, but of leaving them. Dewey and Merritt took them, and the country instantly and universally applauded. Could we have brought Dewey away without universal condemnation at any time from May 1, the day of his brilliant victory, which thrilled the world with its boldness and heroism? Was it right to order Dewey to go to Manila and capture or destroy the Spanish fleet and dispatch Merritt and his army to reinforce him?

"If it were duty to send them there, and duty required them to remain there, it was their clear duty to annihilate the fleet, take the city of Manila and destroy the Spanish sovereignty in the archipelago. Having done all that in the line of duty, is there any less duty to remain there and give to the inhabitants protection and also our guidance?

"Shall we refuse them guidance to a better government, which will secure to them peace and order and security in their life and property and in the pursuit of happiness? Are we unable to do this? Are we to sit down in our isolation and recognize no obligation to a struggling people whose present conditions we have contributed to make? I would rather have the confidence of the poet Bryant when he exclaimed:

"Thou, my country, thou shalt never fall.
Seas and stormy air
Are the wide barrier of thy borders, where,
Among the gallant sons that guard thee well,
Thou laughest at enemies. Who shall then declare
The date of thy deep founded strength, or tell
How happy in thy lap the sons of men shall dwell?

"My fellow citizens, whatever covenants duty has made for us in the year 1898 we must keep."

A NEW DAWSON.

Gold Ore Assaying $18,000 to the Ton Found.

Canon City, Col., Dec. 19.—The discovery of gold five miles southwest of this city has caused a new town to spring up in a night. Half of the able bodied men of this town have gone to the scene of the discovery and a thousand claims already have been staked out.

The new camp has been named Dawson City, after B. X. Dawson, who located a mineral vein from which he dug ore assaying $18,000 gold to the ton.

The main vein has been traced fifteen miles. Some believe that it is an extension of the famous Bassick vein of Silver City.

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 19.—There is great excitement here over repeated rich strikes in Republic Camp, on the Colville reservation. It is now demonstrated that the gold belt is at least seven miles long and three miles wide, and in that area rich ore chutes are being discovered daily.

The sensation this week is an extraordinarily rich strike in the Morning Glory. The claim was bought for a few hundred dollars last week by a syndicate of Spokane men. A company was incorporated and a block of treasury stock was sold at 2 1-2 cents. Men were set to work on the claim making an open cut and struck high grade ore at the grass roots.

The Republic correspondent of the Spokane Spokesman-Review telephoned that he sampled an eighteen-inch pay chute on the claim and the assay return was $665 in gold.

Large blocks of the stock are changing hands at twelve cents.

WILL BE SENT IN AT THIS SESSION.

The President's Determination With Regard to the Peace Treaty.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—The president will submit the peace treaty to the Senate at the present session. So much has been definitely determined.

Although desirous of placing it before the Senate at the earliest opportunity, the president will not be able to do so for a week after its receipt, for the reason that Congress will be in holiday recess.

Meanwhile the treaty will not be given to the public. Strong pressure has been brought to bear already to change this decision, but a strict observance of the established custom in such cases will be followed in order to avoid exciting useless animosity against the treaty on the part of sticklers for the observance of the courtesy due to the Senate.

Pingree's Income Tax Bill.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 19.—A draft of Governor Pingree's state income tax measure has been made by one of his trusted lieutenants, State Senator Ira T. Sayre.

The bill will be submitted to the governor next week for such changes as he may see fit to make before it is offered to the legislature.

As the bill stands at present it contains the following schedule of rates: Incomes $500 to $2,500, one-quarter of one per cent.; $2,500 to $5,000, one-half of one per cent.; $5,000 to $10,000, one per cent., and over $10,000, two per cent.

There is no doubt that Governor Pingree will change the minimum to one thousand dollars instead of five hundred dollars, as the last named sum would affect the poorer workingmen and laborers.

Movements of Warships.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—A telegram received at the navy department from Captain A. S. Barker of the battleship Oregon reported the arrival of that vessel and the battleship Iowa at Valparaiso Chili Saturday.

The vessels were last heard from at Montevideo, and the run from that place to Valparaiso by way of the Straits of Magellan, is considered a remarkably good record.

From Valparaiso the battleships will go to Callao, Peru, to await orders. They will be directed to steam from Callao to Honolulu and thence to Manila.

The flagship New York has arrived at Key West from Havana. She will return to Havana when she has coaled.

To Succor Havana's Insane.

Havana, Dec. 19.—Dr. Archinard of the American commission has reported that there were 315 insane patients in the Havana asylum. Of these 170 are sick and the remainder are starving and had no clothing.

In one year 720 patients had died of hunger. Dr. Archinard reported also that the condition of the Havana cemetery was vile beyond description. Twenty-two bodies were buried in a single trench.

The American commission ordered fifty thousand pounds of food to be supplied to the insane asylum and requested the representatives of the Red Cross Society to meet the commissioners to-day.

Deaths of Soldiers at Manila.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—Major General Otis has telegraphed to the war department from Manila that since his last sanitary report on December 10 there have been two deaths among the United States troops in the Philippines.

George O. Larson, corporal, Battery A, Utah Artillery, died of typhoid fever, and James Healy, private, Company I, Eighteenth United States Infantry, died of cerebral hemorrhage, the result of an accidental fall.

Major General Henry telegraphed from San Juan that no deaths occurred among the United States troops in Porto Rico Saturday.

Baltimore Roads Consolidate.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 19.—It is officially announced that an agreement has been reached by which all the street railways in and about Baltimore will be consolidated, and hereafter the various lines will be controlled by one management.

The sum involved is in the neighborhood of $28,000,000, and it was concluded through the agency of Alexander Brown & Co.

TERMS WITH CANADA

Treaty Covering Nearly All the Points Will Be Signed.

RECIPROCITY HANGS FIRE

Some Matters of Reciprocal Trade Relations Will Be Adjusted Now However. The Meeting Was Called to Settle Any Standing Differences.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—The meeting of the Canadian joint commission to-day will be the last before January 5, when the commissioners will reassemble in Washington to finish whatever treaty they are able to agree upon for presentation to their respective governments.

It may be definitely stated that a treaty covering practically all of the points under consideration, except that of reciprocity, will be signed.

It is almost equally sure that some matters of reciprocal trade relations will be adjusted, and that these will be fewer in number than the Canadian commissioners had hoped for when opening negotiations.

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 19.—The official information from Washington summed up, is that fair and reasonable progress has been made on all the subjects that have been taken up by the commission.

The conference was not called primarily for the purpose of negotiating reciprocity, but to discuss, and, if possible, settle, long standing issues that have caused irritation between Canada and the United States. Behring sea sealing regulations is one, the Alaskan boundary another. The alien laws, Atlantic fisheries and lake warship questions are among the other leading topics considered.

As regards the sealing regulations, the treaty of Paris is called for revision within five years, and the main cause of difficulty in regard to the Behring sea arose from the delay in revision.

In this, fair and reasonable progress also is reported.

In the Alaska boundary matter the Yukon gold discoveries made both sides desirous of arriving at a mutually satisfactory solution. Canada found a strip of thirty miles of territory, claimed to be American, intervening between the gold fields and the sea, and all the means of access from salt water in American occupation.

The Americans found interposed between the coast strip and their valuable possessions beyond a Canadian wedge, five hundred miles broad, across which was the easiest and best road.

In these circumstances a settlement was approached in a temper that resulted in fair and reasonable progress being reported under this head as well. Similar progress is made in the other outstanding disputes.

Reciprocity is a different affair. As soon as it became known there was a possibility of some changes in the tariffs, leading representatives of the industries likely to be affected at once brought all possible influence to bear on their respective commissioners to prevent changes calculated to injure their enterprises.

The facts that members of the commission are also members of the legislatures of the countries they represent and that Congress is sitting and members of both bodies cannot conveniently be in two places at once, suggested an adjournment during which the claims of the industries referred to could be weighed and the proposals and counter proposals considered at greater leisure.

Extra Pay Instead of Furloughs

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—Representative Hull, chairman of the House committee on military affairs, has introduced a bill granting extra pay to officers and enlisted men of the United States volunteers.

It provides that in lieu of granting leaves of absence and furloughs to officers and enlisted men belonging to companies and regiments of United States volunteers who have served beyond the limits of the United States prior to muster out of service, all officers and men hereafter ordered mustered out shall be paid two months' extra pay on muster out and discharge and officers and men who have served within the limits of the United States shall receive one month's extra pay. The discharge of these men is to take effect on the date of the muster out, and regiments and other independent organizations shall be mustered out at camps within the limits of the United States or at the rendesvous of the state, regiment or independent organization.

To Prosecute Canal Charges.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 19.—Attorney General Hancock has designated Benjamin J. Shove of Syracuse as a deputy attorney general to prosecute the criminal actions against Superintendent of Public Works Aldridge and State Engineer and Surveyor Adams.

Mr. Shove's power as a deputy attorney general will be co-relative with that of the district attorney of this county in that he may present evidence to a grand jury and ask for indictments.

It was said at the attorney general's office that it was not possible for Mr. Shove to prepare his cases for submission to a grand jury before January, and probably not before the month of February.

Mr. Shove will be assisted by Judge Countryman, who has been designated by the governor to act in the case.

Gen. Sheridan to Command in Chicago.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 19.—General M. V. Sheridan, brother of General Phil Sheridan, is to command the department of the great lakes in Chicago.

General Sheridan has been anxious to return to Chicago for some time. He has many friends here and is much rejoiced over the transfer, although it is understood that it is only temporary. General John W. Bacon has been in command of the department, and now he will devote his entire time to the army in Dakota.

CUBANS STILL IMPRISONED.

Efforts to Secure the Release of Those Confined for Political Reasons.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—Members of the Cuban commission, accompanied by Gonzales Quesada, charge d'affaires of the Cuban legation, called on Secretary of State Hay Saturday and requested the aid of the American government in procuring the liberation of a large number of Cuban prisoners who are confined for political reasons in prisons in Havana and Spain.

In the party was General Ruis Rivera, who has suffered imprisonment for fighting for Cuba and who is anxious that all of his compatriots should be released.

Through the dilatory action of the Spanish government a large number of political prisoners are still retained in custody, and the efforts of the Cubans to secure their release have thus far brought no results.

General Rivera is using his utmost efforts to have the state department secure the release of these prisoners, and is especially anxious to secure the liberation of Colonel Bacalao, who was arrested in Pinar del Rio at the same time as General Rivera and is now held a prisoner in Havana.

Colonel Carlos Garcia, son of the late Cuban general, is expected to-day from Santiago. He will arrange for the removal of the remains of his father, now in the receiving vault at the Arlington National Cemetery.

It is probable that the body of the dead general will be transported on the Dolphin, which has been tendered by the president for that purpose.

The members of the commission called on Chairman Dingley of the ways and means committee Saturday regarding the Cuban tariff promulgated. They expressed their satisfaction with the results of the efforts of the framers of the tariff, although there were some provisions which they thought might be altered.

The commission desired a reduction of the United States tariff on Cuban sugar and hoped to secure the admission of Cuban sugar into the United States free of duty, and failing that, to secure some modification of the tariff which would allow Cuba some advantage over her competitors in the production of sugar.

They do not believe, however, that they will be successful in either project, as Mr. Dingley took an adverse view.

COLLAPSE OF CHINA PREDICTED.

American Plans to Construct Railways in That Country.

Vancouver, B. C., Dec. 19.—The steamer Empress of India, which has arrived here from Hong Kong and Yokohama, brings the following advices:

An agreement has been concluded between the Japanese and Chinese governments for the lease of an anchorage for Japanese vessels at Foo Chow.

Marquis Ito is said to have recently expressed to Viscount Takashima and Marshal Nozu a very pessimistic view in regard to the future of the Chinese empire. "There is no man in China who can rescue her from the impending collapse," said he. "The country is so big as to defy all attempts at renovating it."

Indeed, the marquis said he would not be surprised if he should find a sad fate overtake China within a rather short space of time, say three years.

Harry Frazier, a railway engineer sent by the Chinese Development Company of New York to survey, plan out and report on railway routes in China, with the object of immediate construction, has returned home, with his assistants. Mr. Frazier mapped out roads from Peking to Canton, Shanghai to Woo Suong, and Canton to Kaloon, as far as securing charters from governors of districts is concerned. The governors had no objection and even suggested bonuses.

Labor Convention Defeats Socialism.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 19.—Socialism was defeated by a vote of 1,923 to 492 in the Federation of Labor convention Saturday afternoon at the end of nearly two days of debate. Among the delegates are about a dozen different kinds of Socialists. There are Socialists of the European and American schools, Christian Socialists, social Democrats and plain Socialists, who want everything on earth divided and a chance for everybody to make a new start.

Five Socialistic resolutions were introduced.

Oregon and Iowa at Valparaiso.

Valparaiso, Chili, Dec. 19.—The United States battleships Oregon and Iowa, which sailed from New York on October 12 for the Pacific, touched at Bahia, Rio Janeiro and Montevideo, sailing from the last named port on December 2, arrived here Saturday.

Knaak's Trial Set for Dec. 20.

Berlin, Dec. 19.—The trial of Frank Knaak, the American engineer, who was arrested a short time ago upon a charge of lese majeste, in speaking disrespectfully of the emperor in a public restaurant, is set for December 20.

BITS OF NEWS.

England has thus far experienced an unprecedently mild winter.

Berlin University has 6,151 students, of which number 147 are Americans.

Russian representatives are said to be trying to negotiate a large loan in this country.

Joaquin Miller, "the poet of the Sierras," will appear in New York as a Klondike lecturer next month.

The friends of the late A. Oakey Hall of New York city have just presented the widow with a purse of $2,835.

The Nixon shipyards at Elizabethport, N. J., have completed and launched twenty-four vessels during the present year.

The Chicago and Northwestern Railroad has decided to employ only men after January 1. This will throw many hundreds of women out of employment.

H. P. Halsey, the "Old Sleuth" of the famous dime novel detective stories, has just died in Brooklyn. He is said to have written over six hundred stories, earning nearly $500,000, and that George Munro, the publisher, paid him a salary of twenty thousand dollars a year for his work.

LAST OF PLATT'S CLASS

No More Sunday School at Fifth Avenue Hotel.

Col. Roosevelt Does Not Approve

Party Plans Should be Laid in Albany He Says, So the Old Corner Will be Deserted. The Governor Elect Seems to be Showing His Hand and There is "Harmony."

New York, Dec. 19.—There was no Platt Sunday school yesterday. And there will be no more sessions this winter, if Theodore Roosevelt, governor-elect, can have his way.

The story goes among politicians that Colonel Roosevelt took occasion to say recently, in the presence of several of the Platt leaders, that he did not believe the Republican party of this state countenanced the recognition of machine dictation indicated by the weekly rush of politicians to the Fifth Avenue Hotel on Sunday.

He declared plainly his preference for having politics discussed on week days, and that, after January 1 next, the idea should be inculcated that Albany, and not room 280, Fifth Avenue Hotel, was the place where legislators should discuss questions of party policy.

Chairman O'Dell of the state committee and even Senator Platt himself, it is said, acquiesced in this plan. They have made up their minds evidently that they will have to acquiesce in whatever Roosevelt decides is right.

So Chairman Odell was home in Newburg yesterday; Senator Platt returned to Washington in the morning—a most unusual thing for him to do on Sunday—and Colonel Roosevelt, after an early Sunday morning breakfast, at his sister's house, No. 689 Madison avenue, returned to Oyster Bay.

Cuban Educational Association.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 19.—The Cuban Educational Association of the United States of America has been incorporated with the secretary of state, to conduct operations in this country and in Cuba.

Its objects are to render assistance to worthy and studious young Cuban people who may be anxious to secure an education, so that they may lead purposeful lives, become useful citizens, and aid in maintaining a stable form of government in their own country.

The principal office of the association will be in New York city. The directors, who are empowered to create an advisory board of fifteen members, are:

General Joseph Wheeler of Huntsville, Ala., Nicholas Murray Butler, William H. Baldwin, Jr., A. E. Orr and Gilbert K. Harroun of New York city and Albert Shaw of Hastings-on-Hudson.

The President's Sunday.

Savannah, Dec. 19.—Notwithstanding Sunday was supposed to be a day of rest with the presidential party, it was, as a matter of fact, filled with interest and activity.

President McKinley attended services at the Wesley Monumental Methodist church. Mrs. McKinley did not accompany him. She is suffering from a slight cold and remained at the hotel. Her indisposition, however, does not amount to real illness, and yesterday afternoon she was able to take a carriage ride about the city.

After lunch, the president visited the State Agricultural and Mechanical College for colored youths, where he delivered an address.

The route to the college took the president through the camp of the Seventh Army Corps, and, going and coming he stopped for a brief inspection and to speak words of appreciation and encouragement to the men.

New Steamship Line to Cuba.

New Orleans, Dec. 19.—General Manager Harahan of the Illinois Central Railroad has arrived here to make arrangements for running a steamship line to Havana in connection with the railroad.

The Southern Pacific will run a weekly line to Havana as soon as American occupation is complete. The Illinois Central is not satisfied with this, believing that there is a large amount of business in Chicago and St. Louis awaiting the opening of the new line. It intends to establish a tri-weekly line from New Orleans if the Southern Pacific will not increase its sailings to three a week. Armour & Co. will establish a packing house and refrigerating plant here for Cuban business.

Increase of the Navy.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—The House committee on naval affairs has decided to favorably report a bill providing for the increase of the enlisted men of the navy to twenty thousand, men and 2,500 boys and apprentices.

The navy department reports that it is impossible with the present force of eleven thousand men to properly man the regular ships now in commission, not to say anything about the auxiliary vessels.

When the five new battleships and other vessels now building are placed in commission the force will be utterly inadequate.

The department is very anxious to have the increase granted without delay.

Fatal Trichinosis in Ohio.

Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 19.—A telegram to the Dispatch from Hillsboro says that two girls have died and the other members of a family of eight are suffering and are expected to die from trichinosis, contracted by eating pork from hogs which the family had killed.

Spain Seeking a Great Loan.

Paris, Dec. 19.—The rise in securities on the Bourse Saturday was due to the rumor that negotiations are in progress for a loan to Spain of one billion francs (about two hundred million dollars), based on the tobacco monopoly.

ARMY TRANSPORT SERVICE.

To be Organized as a Separate Branch of the Quartermaster's Department.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—Regulations for the organization and administration of the army transport service have been completed by the board of officers appointed for that purpose, and approved by the secretary of war.

They provide that the army transport service be organized as a special branch of the quartermaster's department of the army, for the purpose of transferring troops and supplies between the United States and such overseas garrisons and military commands as shall be authorized.

It is proposed that the organization and conduct of the new department be assimilated as nearly as practicable to the most improved methods of administration of a chartered steamship business.

The service is to be subject to the supervision of the quartermaster general and will be conducted by its own officers and employes and is to be independent of the administration of the other branches of army transportation.

There will be two home ports or headquarters for the service, one at New York for the Atlantic traffic and one at San Francisco for the Pacific traffic.

Each home port will have a full equipment of officers and be provided with terminal facilities, including the wharfage for ships and storage for freights.

Each home port will be under a general and assistant superintendent, a medical superintendent, a marine superintendent and an assistant marine superintendent.

Indian Appropriation.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—Saturday the House went into committee of the whole to consider the bill making appropriations for the Indian service for the year ending June 30, 1900.

Mr. Sherman, Republican of New York, chairman of the committee reporting the bill, gave some interesting statistics regarding the growth of Indian education in the country.

In 1877, he said, the government appropriated but twenty thousand dollars for this purpose, and the enrollment of Indian children in the schools was less than four thousand. Now the annual appropriations exceed two million dollars, the enrollment of pupils is more than twenty-five thousand and the average daily attendance twenty thousand.

There are now two hundred and ninety-five schools under the control of the Indian bureau. The bill made no appropriation for contract schools save that at Hampton, Va.

Mr. Sherman said that, in his opinion, the Indian educated at Carlisle, Pa., was the best educated Indian in the country, and the cost per capita less than at any other institution.

It is the intention to increase the attendance at Carlisle from eight hundred to one thousand, and the appropriation for the maintenance of the school is $150,000.

Without substantial change the bill was reported to the House and passed, and the House adjourned until to-day.

Gen. Merritt's Return.

New York, Dec. 19.—General Wesley Merritt and his bride were passengers on the Lucania, which arrived here from London Saturday.

Since leaving this city the general has been around the world. He has the honor of being the first military governor of Manila.

In the general's party were Mrs. Merritt's mother, Mrs. Norman Williams, her brother, Norman Williams, Jr., and the general's aide, Captain L. H. Strother.

As the steamer entered the slip the waiting crowd caught sight of General Merritt, who, with Mrs. Merritt, was standing on the bridge, and cheered.

General Merritt was rather guarded in his expressions, as he said he was going to Washington to make his report to the president, and consequently did not wish to talk freely until information he had was communicated to Mr. McKinley.

Leiter Paid the Bill.

London, Dec. 19.—It is announced that L. Z. Leiter of Chicago, the father-in-law of Lord Curzon of Kedleston, the new viceroy of India, paid for the Indian outfit of Lord and Lady Curzon, who started for India under the happiest auspices, and after a splendid send off from their friends.

Lady Curzon enters upon her duties as vicereine with a trousseau of unprecedented magnificence, while Mr. Leiter presented to Lord Curzon three official Durbar (conference) cloaks of the finest velvet and gold, in pale blue, ruby and white, each with the star of India in gold and diamonds.

Wanamaker to Have a Store in Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 19.—John Wanamaker has made a proposition to lease the new Rose building at the corner of Erie and Prospect streets. The building is not completed and will be the largest in the city. It is twelve stories high and has a frontage of 240 feet on Erie street and 120 feet on Prospect street.

Mr. Rose said yesterday that the negotiations had not been concluded, but would be, he expected, within a few days. It is said to be Mr. Wanamaker's intention to occupy the entire building as a department store.

No War Exhibits at Paris?

London, Dec. 19.—A Paris dispatch to the Central News says that owing to a recent decision of the government there will be no French army and navy exhibit at the Paris exposition in 1900.

Russia has intimated that she will not make any such exhibit, and it is feared that the other nations will follow her example, with the result that the army and navy department of the exhibition will be eliminated.

Dady Gets Big Contract.

Havana, Dec. 19.—The municipal council has approved the $12,000,000 sewerage and paving project of M. J. Dady, the American contractor.

La Lucha attacks the council for its action in the matter, alleging that improper influences were brought to bear to procure the approval of the commissioners.

Advantages of One City.

In discussing the project of a Greater Newark, to be formed from the Jersey metropolis and a number of smaller cities and towns in that vicinity, the Newark Sunday Call advances several reasons favoring the consummation of the movement. In a general way the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield would bear the same relative importance and effect to this community that the Greater Newark idea does to that section, and so The Call's observations may as well apply to Plainfield as to Newark. In substance they are as follows:

A large city has greater reputation and better standing than a small city or town.

The cost of administering government would be cheaper, and taxes would be lower.

Suitable and creditable public buildings could be provided.

Business could be more easily transacted, and at a cheaper rate.

The beneficial influences of a great community, in State and National affairs, would be felt by all parts of the aggregation.

Many important public works could be prosecuted, without undue burdens.

The influence of the different communities would work for the common good. There are good features of each existing government which could be applied for the benefit of all.

There is a public sentiment in this direction.

There is no partisan or political scheme involved.

After sixty-five years of existence as a Republican newspaper, the Newark Daily Advertiser will appear today with a complete change of political complexion. The vicissitudes through which The Advertiser has passed for the past few years has resulted in its finally falling into the hands of Senator James Smith. With a Democrat like Senator Smith at the helm it is obvious what the future political tendencies of the old journal will be. However, nominally it is to be independent. Matt C. Ely, who for many years was at the head of the Jersey page of The New York World, where he demonstrated his talent as a trenchant writer and a practical newspaper man, will become the editor of The Advertiser. Sweeping changes in its typographical appearance and the general character as reflected by its columns are promised.

Several papers are agitating the subject of having all tax assessments published annually in the newspapers of the various localities where they prevail. Such a plan would be a severe blow to the habitual tax dodger who hates to have his faults shown up as badly as he dislikes to bear his proportionate share of the public expenses. The annual publication of the assessments in the newspapers would undoubtedly accomplish wonders in reforming the inequalities of making values for purposes of levying taxes. Such a process, too, would be unusually severe for the real estate speculators who hold proprieties at a price several times greater than the tax books show.

The average Plainfield woman, and man, too, who goes to New York to do their shopping excuse their failure to help their home town by trading with local merchants on the plea of not saving so much money in their purchases as in enjoying the pleasures of the spectacular effects of the metropolitan stores. Perhaps shooting off a few pieces of fireworks, or maybe a punch and judy show, with a peroxide soubrette and a Dutch comedian thrown in, might help things for the local shop keepers. We repectfully submit this suggestion to the consideration of our always enterprising merchants.

Mayor Wilson, of the borough, believes that there are no more worthy set of servants of that municipalty than the firemen. The job of a volunteer fireman comes under the category of "all honor and no pay," but the Mayor changed the rule somewhat this morning by presenting a check of $50 to the Firemen's Uniform Fund, which will be a material aid to Warren Engine Company No. 1, in securing the wherewithal for the purchase of new uniforms. In the letter enclosing the check His Honor indulges in a few words of well deserved eulogy for the firemen.

Our esteemed friend, the editor of The News, strikes us as a very deep-thinking man, indeed. In answering the well-founded objections of the Newark News to the compulsory voting law scheme, Editor Runyon in telling why the voting should be made compulsory advances the wonderfully forceful argument summed up in seven letters—because. The editors of the Newark paper may now consider themselves wiped off the face of the earth.

The choler of the rival gas companies in Trenton having cooled off, the price of the commodity they deal in takes a big jump. Twenty-five cent gas was really too good to think of enjoying a great length of time. The rates for gas in Plainfield, however, could be dropped several points and then be high in comparison with some other towns.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler expresses himself in favor of an extra session of the fifty-sixth Congress. He thinks that the subject of the currency demands the calling of an extra session, and believes that one will have to be held. Fowler, if nothing else, is willing to earn his money as Congressman.

When Passaic Valley editors become so plutocratic that horse thieves find their barns veritable Klondikes and reporters on the News begin to buy the stock of projected silk mill enterprises in large-sized blocks we are impelled to the thought that the millenium can not be far distant.

Representative Howell has recommended Benjamin B. Ogden, a lawyer and an active Republican of Keyport, as Postmaster at that place. The office is in the Presidential class, and Senator Sewell indorses the recommendation. Another applicant for the place was James H. Magee.

Plainfield capitalists are talking about starting a silk mill. There is a lot of surplus energy lying around loose in that enterprising town.—New York Tribune.

During the past week Jersey has seen the formation of three trusts capitalized at almost a total of $100,000,000. We will soon be able to give Wall street pointers in finance.

Already borough politicians are casting their lines for the coming election and the contest will be one of the most important in the history of the borough.

He who would get there must be heard, seems to be the motto of Assemblyman Murray this year.

First aid to shoppers may be properly described as a visit through the local stores.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Assemblyman Murray's constitutional objections to Mr. Watkins being made speaker of the House seem to have melted into thin air. What's the constitution as between friends, anyhow?—Elizabeth Journal.

* * * * *

The statement sent out on the night of the election in Plainfield to the effect that the Rev. Dr. Richards, a candidate for school trustee in the town, had been defeated, proved to be incorrect, as he was elected to the board. In commenting on the supposed result, we suggested the impolicy of placing clergymen on public school boards, and the zealous care that is generally exhibited in this county to keep the public schools free from sectarianism. Dr. Richards is an excellent citizen and will no doubt act on the board without the least reference to his clerical character, but that does affect the principal involved. The public school system should be absolutely divorced from clerical influence. That is one of the great informs which our Government must carry out in our new colonial possessions with the hearty approval and support of the whole American people.—Newark Advertiser.

—As a result of the advertisement placed in Saturday's Press by V. L. Frazee, the popular groceryman, a notable increase in business was noticed on Saturday evening and today. Mr. Frazee says that he knows advertising pays.

that I have do not need advertising. They are going so fast that I'll not have enough of them, so you had better hurry if you want one. I have too many doll carriages, though, so I have reduced the prices on the ones of which there are the most. They are the best of values at the old prices and would not be changed except for the fact that most people buy go-carts. Notice the reductions:

From 50 to 39c. From 73 to 55c.
" $1 to 79c. " $1.65 to $1.20.
" $2 15 to $1.65. " $3.25 to $2.30.
From $5.25 to $4.00.

This time he has erected a substantial scaffold, and if the weather keeps mild and fair will soon have the spire down and back again in its place, and it will no longer remind the worshippers of Pisa's leaning tower.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, Dec. 19—Rev. J. S. Braker, by request, preached Sunday morning upon "Recognition of Friends in Heaven." Mr. Braker's sermon was strong and well-fitting for the day, for at the close of it his church was to hear the report of their committee appointed two weeks ago to confer with the pastor as to his reasons for tendering his resignation to the church. At the close of the sermon Mrs. Braker sang "Over the River Faces I See," and when she had finished there was scarcely a dry eye in the church. After the benediction had been pronounced by the pastor the business meeting was opened by Dr. F. W. Westcott, who acted as chairman. The committee had asked Mr. Braker to put his reasons in writing, and George Hall, as chairman of the committee, then offered the pastor's reasons. A motion was then made and carried that the resignation be accepted. A motion was then made and carried that a pulpit committee be appointed. Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, Dr. Frank W. Westcott, George E. Hall, A. D. Bukon and David Hand were appointed. The church will tender Mr. and Mrs. Braker a farewell reception on the evening of January 3d. Mr. Braker preaches his farewell sermon Sunday, January 1st.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Extravagant garnitures and lovely accessories of every description which tend to enhance the beauty of my lady's toilette are now displayed in all the large establishments and shops. Elaborate fichus, collets, stocks, ties, belts and girdles are set forth in tempting array, and stony hearted indeed, must be the woman who can pass these dainty trifles by without a qualm of envy, for in the end it is certainly these little details which makes the real beauty of a finished toilette.

Among the novelties are rich and unique buckles and buttons, in costly metals oftentimes studded with precious stones, while priceless lace and exquisitely jeweled embroidery is seen on many of the handsome gowns recently imported.

The variety and beauty of the neck fixings is especially noticeable, and as even the severe tailor made gown now boasts a fluffy neck trimming of some description, these charming additions to the toilette are much in demand. The shoulder capes and collarettes are especially attractive and are really indispensable to every feminine wardrobe in that they may be donned at a moment's notice and give an air of style and finish to the plainest frock.

Every variety of material from the filmiest chiffon and lace to the richest and most expensive fur is employed in the making of these adornments. Many of the models just cover the shoulders and are usually made with a tiny square or round yoke, with an attached flounce often of a contrasting color and material, a lovely model being carried out in Persian lamb and silver fox. A high Medici collar and stole ends reaching to the waist line, gave a chic appearance to this particular collet. Stole ends, by the way, are extensively employed on these little capes, especially those designed for evening, and are either of the material composing the cape, or of broad bands of velvet or satin ribbon.

A novelty in stock collars is made of tucked velvet or satin, shaped on either side to extend in points just beneath the ears, with a fetching bow in front of pleated chiffon of the same shade as the stock. They come in all the newest shades and brighten up an otherwise dingy frock in a wonderful manner, especially if a girdle to match is worn.

Large lace collars and scarfs falling over the shoulders and tied in front to form long fichu ends is a pretty fashion and a decidedly popular one. These scarfs are in many cases bordered all round with applications of fine lace, tied in a careless knot directly in the front, with the long ends wider at the bottom reaching almost to the foot of the skirt.

The boa which still retains a prominent place in the feminine fancy and will undoubtedly remain in favor while women continue to muffle up their necks, are shown in great variety. Fluffy ostrich feathers compose many of them, while others are made of chiffon or tulle, ruched so thickly as to be fully as wide as a feather boa.

Four in hands, made of heavy double faced satin ribbon, combined with rich lace and brought twice around the neck, is a popular fancy and is often an accompaniment of the tailor-made frock. Fur and velvet are also combined in these ties, one recently seen of rich violet velvet, with pointed ends and cross piece of narrow fur, making a pretty adornment.

Another fad is the fluffy tie of soft black chiffon, which has superseded the dainty white one which was so high in favor during the warm summer months. In gloves for dressy wear biscuit colored suede is the most up-to-date style, and for morning or business wear glace gloves in all the reddish and brown shades are in good taste.

While columns could be written on the subject of dress accessories a few words must be said of the lovely costumes themselves, especially of a handsome model exhibited by a fashionable courturiere and intended for a swell patron.

Royal blue mottled velvet was the material employed, with yoke and vest of antique satin. The skirt, made with a long overskirt, slashed at the bottom, was cut with a seam down the center and one on each side. The overskirt was very close fitting around the hips and back and fastened in the center of the back. This was mounted over a foundation skirt of Royal blue taffeta, to which was attached the flounce of velvet. Stitched velvet bands outlined the overskirt and adorned the corsage and close fitting sleeves. A band of Persian embroidery formed the garniture on the yoke.

Not Satisfactory to Everyone.

People who are in a position to prophesy say that the gowns which button, hook, or lace over the tournour in the perfectly plain way, shown on new gowns, are not going to be worn as much as was thought. To wear one, a woman requires a perfectly fashionable figure, and when the women who have not tried the plain backed gowns see how ugly their friends look in them, they will not sacrifice themselves even on the altar of fashion. Gowns with a few plaits, though almost invisible in the back, are most satisfactory. The Princess effect is to be seen in many gowns, but it is frequently the effect and not the genuine Princess cut, the absolute severity of which is trying. A gown having waist and skirts separate, and a simple cord finish at the waist line, has the plain effect, but the lines below the waist can be better managed.

Cutaway Coats.

Two-button cutaway coats, made with a silk-faced notched collar, like those on men's coats, are neat and inexpensive styles for every-day wear. The fronts slope very much towards the hips, the curve beginning immediately below the buttons, disclosing the dress-waist or silk shirt-waist beneath. The back is adjusted by closely fitted side forms. The coat-sleeves have no extra fulness at the top, and are only of sufficient size to slip on and off with ease. The pockets have curved slit openings, and the edges of the entire coat are finished with two rows of stitching.

Should Have Artistic Daring.

Much of the handsome black headgear this season is relieved by a touch or more of vivid color. Many women are afraid to venture upon these distinct shades, and choose those in paler or neutral tints—a degree of dowdiness being frequently the result of that timidity. A rich orange velvet, judiciously placed and in suitable quantity, looks remarkably well on a black hat or bonnet, while lighter shades on beige, fawn, tan, or pale ecru are thoroughly ineffectual as a relief to black. A rich, vivid red, bright and glowing, contrasts admirably, as we all know, with black, yet many women to whom it would be strikingly becoming fear to venture with it, and effect a compromise by choosing garnet—mulberry, mahogany, or some other sort of dull red—dowdyism, as aforesaid, being the result. A certain artistic daring coupled with discretion gives style to a hat, a dress, or other raiment. Lacking this courage and good taste, many sink all individuality of attire, and are content to look like everybody else in their fear of looking conspicuous, for getting that there is a wide difference, indeed, between a bizarre and a purely commonplace style.

Newest Trimmings.

Medallions, open-work blocks, mohair, and other silky wool braids in applique effects are very fashionably used as a garniture for stylish cloth costumes. This form of trimming is newer and more dressy than flat rows of braid, although this simple form of decoration is still in favor. The medallion scroll and arabesque style of ornamentation appeal more especially to women who are fond of color and elaborate effects, and it is at this season of the year that brilliant tones are most effectively and appropriately worn. These new appliques give marked effect to the gown, but they also add considerably to the weight of the dress, especially the deep border patterns in silk cord, alternating with Van Dyked designs in jet. The best choice are the novelties in feather-weight mohair weaves.

Saving of Strength.

In every kitchen there should be a very high chair or stool, and also a very low chair. Plain ironing and much other work can be done as well seated on a high stool as standing, and at a great saving of strength to the worker.

Economy of strength is an important matter, both for mistress and maid, and though the latter may be slow to avail herself of opportunities of sitting to do her work, there is no doubt that convenient seats would prove a great boon to the mistress, whenever she happened to be obliged to give any assistance in the kitchen.

A Chic Street Wrap.

A stylish walking costume is made of soft gray French broadcloth, and while having the effect of a gown, is really made in the form of a belted close-fitting redingote, and has turn-back fronts on the bodice with angular revers, faced with cross-tucked gray corded silk, and edged with figured silk braid. The vest, which shows from neck to belt, is also of the tucked silk. The front blouses slightly above the narrow cloth belt fastened with an old silver buckle, and the skirt is long enough to hide completely the dress-skirt beneath.

Hamburg.

Hamburg. In einer der letzten Sitzungen der Hamburgischen Bürgerschaft wurde der Antrag genehmigt, daß in sämmtlichen Straßen Gasglühlichtbeleuchtung eingeführt werden soll.—Im Hamburgischen Staatsleihhause sind bedeutende Unterschlagungen versetzter Werthsachen entdeckt. Ein Angestellter hat sich in Folge dessen erschossen.—An der Kreuzung der Johannes- und Schauenburger Straße riß kürzlich der oberirdische Leitungsdraht der elektrischen Straßenbahn und fiel gegen die Eisenkonstruktion des Schaufensters einer Kakaostube. In dem mit Damen vollbesetzten Laden erfolgten mehrere elektrische Entladungen. Es entstand eine große Verwirrung. Zwei Damen wurden verletzt. Tische und Stühle wurden umgeworfen und beschädigt.

Bremen. Konsul George Albrecht ist, 65 Jahre alt, nach einer Magenoperation gestorben. Als langjähriger Vorsitzender der Geographischen Gesellschaft war er ein freigebiger Förderer, besonders arktischer Expeditionen. Albrecht war Vorsitzender einer Reihe von Gesellschaften, so der Bremer Wollkämmerei, der Bremer Wollwäscherei, der Deutschen Versicherungsgesellschaft; auch gehörte er dem Aufsichtsrath des Norddeutschen Lloyd an.

Lübeck. Die hiesige Navigationsschule wird zur Zeit von sieben Schiffern und 21 Steuermannsschülern besucht. Die Räume der Schule lassen Vieles zu wünschen übrig, so daß die Frage eines umfassenden Durchbaues, der auch durch den Kanalbau nöthig wird, nicht länger hinausgeschoben werden kann. Die Navigationsschule steht auf dem Kaiserthurm, dem ältesten Rest Lübeckischer Befestigung.

Oldenburg.

Oldenburg. In Folge Ausbruchs der Maul- und Klauenseuche an vielen Stellen des Großherzogthums ist der Viehhandel am hiesigen Markt verboten.

Mecklenburg.

Rostock. Für die Errichtung einer Handelsfachschule in unserer Stadt ist nun auch der Handelsverein zu Schwerin mit Entschiedenheit eingetreten. Bisher besitzt nur Leipzig eine solche und zwar erst seit Kurzem.

Braunschweig.

Kissenbrück. Durch den Knecht Remeberg, der betrunken war und wie wahnsinnig auf die Pferde seines Wagens einhieb, wurde der 80 Jahre alte Landwirth Franz Lippert, welcher sich auf dem Heimwege nach Biewende befand, überfahren. Die Räder des Wagens gingen dem alten Manne über Kopf und Leib. Lippert war auf der Stelle todt; Remeberg wurde verhaftet.

Großherzogthum Hessen.

Darmstadt. Dieser Tage wurde auf dem Paradeplatz das von Professor Schaper ausgeführte Reiterstandbild des verewigten Großherzogs Ludwig des Vierten feierlich enthüllt. Das Denkmal ist vom hessischen Volk dem tapferen Führer der Söhne Hessens im großen Kriege gegen Frankreich errichtet.—Da es in letzter Zeit bei Jagden mehrmals vorgekommen ist, daß man Schulkinder als Treiber verwandte, wurden sämmtliche Schulvorstände der Landgemeinden auf eine Verfügung des Ministeriums hingewiesen, wonach Schulkinder als Treiber bei Jagden nicht verwendet werden dürfen.

Gießen. Im Winter, voraussichtlich im Februar, veranstaltet der hessische Landwirthschaftsrath hier sechstägige akademische Unterrichtskurse für praktische Landwirthe. Der diesjährige Kursus in Darmstadt war von über 500 Landwirthen aus Hessen, der Pfalz, Nassau und anderen Landestheilen besucht.

Mainz. In dem Prozesse wegen der Unterschlagungen beim städtischen Gaswerke verurtheilte die Strafkammer den Direktor Hessemer wegen Untreue zu zwei Monaten, den Kassirer Beilstein zu zwei Jahren und den Kassendiener Reimann zu 2½ Jahren Gefängniß und sprach den Buchhalter Feldmann frei.

Bayern.

München. Das Landgericht hat einen Belgier, der Stallbediensteter im Cirkus Wulff war, wegen Majestätsbeleidigung zu fünf Monaten Gefängniß verurtheilt. Der Mann hatte die inkriminirten Aeußerungen über den deutschen Kaiser in einem Gespräch über die Dreyfus-Affaire gethan und war von einem Mitbediensteten zur Anzeige gebracht worden.

Altötting. Dieser Tage wurde der Bürgermeister, Bankier J. B. Stuber, wegen Defraudation an Sparkassengeldern verhaftet. Seine Schuldsumme wird vom „Mühldorfer Anzeiger" auf 670,000 Mark angegeben. Die Gläubiger, etwa 250, rekrutirten sich aus der ganzen Umgegend. Viele arme Leute, Dienstboten u. s. w. sind betroffen.

CHRISTMAS NOTES.

Some Holiday Ornaments That Are Simple to Make.

To make a Christmas bell use two ox muzzles for a foundation, fastening the top of one a little way up into the center of the other, to give the proper length to the bell. Fill this solidly with moss and then trim with holly berries and a bit of mistletoe. A calla lily makes a pretty clapper. Suspend the bell by scarlet ribbons.

The foliage of a Christmas tree may be brushed here and there with mucilage and then sprinkled with common salt and a very pleasing result is obtained. A pretty drapery for the tree is made by cutting long strips, about four inches wide, of tissue paper, then cutting it closely, partly, but not entirely, across the widths, making fringes; if the strips be dampened and held over a hot stove the fringed ends will curl and look quite ornamental.

Yule packages are intensely exciting if each one is wrapped in successive papers, with successive addresses, so that no one knows if the present will stay with him or whether he must hand it on to another.

Christmas bags offer a pleasant diversion. They are made of tissue paper, eighteen by nine inches, and filled with bonbons. Suspend each by a thread in the doorway, blindfold each child, and let him try to knock one with a cane. If successful at the second or third effort, "to the winner belongs the prize."

A green ball suspened over the Christmas dinner table is made by fastening two keg hoops together, one within the other, turning each way like an open globe. Twine princess pine around each hoop, and put in sprigs of holly here and there. This, indeed, is similar to the old "kissing bunch," which is seen in many old-fashioned homes in England—two wooden hoops, one passing through the other, decked with evergreens, in the center of which is hung a "crown" of rosy apples and a sprig of mistletoe. Beneath it there is much kissing and romping, and the carol singers stand beneath it and sing their songs.

A Christmas Tragedy.

Just another drunken sot,
Merry Christmas mocking;
Just another sobbing tot,
Another empty stocking.

Just another curse, perhaps,
In drunken anger spoken;
Just another blasted life,
Another heart that's broken.

In the Elizabethan Age.

An exact picture of Christmas observances in an English country house is given in the following set of rules:

On Christmas day, service in the church ended, the gentlemen presently repair into the hall to breakfast with brawn, mustard and malmsey.

At dinner the butler appointed for the Christmas is to see the tables covered and furnished, and the ordinary butlers of the house are decently to set bread, napkins and trenchers in good form at every table—with spoons and knives. At the first course is served a fair and large boar's head upon a silver platter, with minstrelsy.

Two servants are to attend at supper, and to bear two fair torches of wax next before the musicians and trumpeters, and stand above the fire with the music till the first course be served in through the hall. Which performed they with the music, are to return into the butlery. The like course is to be observed in all things during the time of Christmas.

At night, before supper, are revels and dancing, and so also after supper, during the twelve days of Christmas. The master of the revels is, after dinner and supper, to sing a carol or song, and command other gentlemen then there present to sing with him and the company—and see it is very decently performed.

The Sovereign Remedy.

Mrs. Cobwigger—Oh, my! I feel more dead than alive. There is altogether too much asked of me. I was never used to housework, and it's killing me inch by inch. The first thing you know I'll be down with nervous prostration.

Cobwigger—Shall I call in the doctor, my dear?

Mrs. Cobwigger—What use would that be? He would only advise what I've been telling you I needed all along—complete rest.

Cobwigger—By the way did you sew on that button?

Mrs. Cobwigger—Oh, Henry, how can you be so brutal! Any one but you could see that I am completely used up.

Cobwigger—So you're too tired to take a couple of stitches?

Mrs. Cobwigger—Yes; I can hardly raise my head.

Cobwigger—If it's really as bad as that, my dear, something has got to be done for you at once. Take this twenty dollars and go out and do some Christmas shopping.

THE CONVICTS' TREADMILL.

Punishment Inflicted Upon the Prisoners in the Ragoon Jail.

In the center jail of Ragoon the British officials have introduced a method of making convicts work which is a very effective mode of punishment. It is a tread mill on a large scale. Big wooden cylinders about seven feet in diameter are provided with keen-edged plank steps all around. About the cylinders, at a convenient height, there is a heavy iron pole, stretching across the entire room, upon which the chains of the convicts working in the tread mill are fastened. When they are all in their places the bolt holding the cylinders in one position is removed and the convicts must tread, tread, without a stop for two hours and a half. If one of them stops treading he slips down as far as the chain permits, but the plank steps beat against his shin bones so vigorously that the skin is bruised and scraped.

This is exceedingly painful, and the convict hurriedly catches up the next step and tries to tread along with the others. This barbarous punishment is a necessity, however, for the natives are extremely fanatical and death has no terrors for them. Imprisonment would be for them a favorite method of living a life of seclusion and meditation, with no care for food or lodging, were it not for the compulsory work. The large shed containing the six tread mill cylinders is situated next to shops where the power is used in wood working machinery. About seventy convicts are at work there at one time.

A BRIDE IN A BASKET.

How a Nobleman in London Carried Off His Lady Love.

The story runs that Lord Compton fell in love with the only child of Sir John Spencer, one of the most opulent of London's merchant princes, proverbially known at the time as "Rich Spencer." Sir John by no means approved of the advances of the young courtier, and positively refused his consent to the marriage; the course of true love, however, never running smooth, Lord Compton devised a plan to outwit Sir John and carry off his lady love.

A bribe to the baker enabled him to disguise himself and deliver the loaves one morning; as soon as the basket was emptied the lady got in, and Lord Compton was boldly carrying his precious load down stairs, when he was met by Sir John, who, luckily not recognising him, gave him a sixpence as a reward for being so early, observing that that was the way to thrive.

On discovering the truth Sir John was so angry that he disinherited his daughter, and the quarrel was only made up through the intervention of Queen Elizabeth, who invited him to stand sponsor with her for a child, whom he promised to adopt—to find it was his own grandson.—Pall Mall Magazine.

Throats and Electric Lights.

The difference in the condition of the throats of public speakers and singers since the introduction of the electric light, is most marked. They have less irritation and less weariness during and after their performance. This is accounted for on the theory that gas and other flames dried out the atmosphere and consumed atmospherical elements necessary to the best condition of the organs. In addition to this the temperature is more even, and there is less danger from air currents. Where any great number of gas jets are used, the air at the ceiling of the room has the vitality totally burned out of it, and is heated to a very high temperature. An open door or window letting in fresh air creates violent agitation in the air, sometimes sets gusts of air whirling through a room, especially at the somewhat raised portion, where the performers are situated. A specialist in throat troubles thinks that what is known as singers' sore throat may become less frequent when electric lights are universally adopted.

His One Condition.

As an artist Jack Gamble is considered as independent as he is successful, says the San Francisco News Letter. He possesses an unlimited quantity of candor, upon the expression of which he places no restraint. He is much liked, notwithstanding, and was not long ago offered a commission to paint the portrait of a wealthy liquor dealer, whose features are more remarkable for their bloom than for their refinement. Jack critically scanned the broad features of his proposed subject.

"Upon one condition will I paint you!" he declared, dramatically.

"What!" gasped the amazed Croesus, speechless at the effrontery of this poverty stricken artist.

"Yes," pursued Gamble, with easy grace. "Upon condition that I shall be allowed to put in a little intelligence."

And the funny part of it was that Jack got the commission.

Breaking About Even.

"I understand that Mr. Rosenbaum's $2,500 mare ran away, broke her leg and had to be shot," said the new reporter to Mr. Rosenbaum's business partner, according to the Boston Globe.

"Yes," answered the partner dryly.

"And that his mother-in-law, who was in the carriage at the time, was thrown out and seriously injured."

"Yes. She died an hour afterward."

"What! Dead! Dear me! I suppose Mr. Rosenbaum is all broke up about it?"

"Well, no. Mr. Rosenbaum seems to be almost reconciled. Of course he wishes it was a cheaper horse, but, den, he finks dot, everyt'ing considered, he

A BRIGHT YOUNG MAN.

Anyone But a Fool Would Have Acted Differently.

"If I am not in error," Miss Daisy Peachblow said earnestly, compressing her lips in an ominous manner at each pause; "if I am not wandering by the wayside mentally, you stated a moment ago that Reginald Sapley was a bright fellow."

"Well—er—er—I think I did make some such good-natured remark," admitted Myrta Hopgood. "Why, isn't he a bright fellow?"

"Well," said Miss Daisy, "he is either a fool or a knave, and I'm quite sure he isn't a knave."

"Then he must be a fool. There's only the fool left. Aren't you rather severe, Daisy, dear?"

"Judge for yourself. He was here all Christmas eve, you know?"

"Yes, he remained until 12 o'clock, I believe you said."

"That's true—four long and weary hours until midnight, and, as you can see, I have this bit of mistletoe hanging from the chandelier in the middle of the room."

"Of course. Well?"

"Well, it was here last night, and during the long and weary four hours I naturally happened to drift under it a few times and he"——

"Tried to kiss you, did he? Ha! ha!"

"Tried to kiss me!" cried the indignant Daisy. "What, that bright fellow try to kiss me? Listen! Every single time I happened under the chandelier he jumped up and down, waved his arms in the air like a crazy man and shrieked: 'Look out, Mith Daithy! Look out! You're right thquare under the mithletoe, Mith Daithy!' Bright fellow! Fool—f-o-o-l!"

A Christmas Present For Papa.

Christmas in Bohemia.

The Bohemian villager is proverbially good hearted. He is also profoundly religious, which two qualities happily blended in him produce a third estimable virtue—generosity. On Christmas Day this virtue is taxed to the utmost. From sunrise till sunset come the koledniks, or collectors, and in prose and verse and with music or song say their koledas, the substance of all of which is, "I wish you a happy Christmas, and, please, give me something." First come the itinerant musicians, provided with every conceivable instrument. Then journeymen artisans, commonly known as vandrovniks, who are constantly on the lookout for work and masters and never finding any. Then the Slovak tinkers and pot menders, who are particularly welcome to the housewives at this time, when every pot and cooking utensil is pressed into service. These tinkers usually travel in twos and threes, and, being born singers, their ditties make the koleda exceptionally interesting. Theirs are typical religious songs, dwelling on the legend of Christ's birth.

Again, there is the local night watchman, who toots off the dark hours from ten P. M. to four A. M.: the bellringer, who is also a prayer and song leader in the village chapel, and the bellringer's next friend and colleague, the sexton. The village chimney-sweep is a prominent collector. When he comes to say his koleda he is scrupulously neat and clean, and every brass buckle and button on his leather uniform is polished. Furthermore, there is the parish school teacher or kantor, so called, because in the good old time he acted in the dual capacity of a teacher and choir singer and organist. Often there is a widow of the late kantor among the callers, and often the survivors of a kantor of two generations back. The mendicant monks of St. Francis and their mates, the capuchins, too, come in for their share of the good things of the bountiful day.

CHRISTMAS IN RUSSIA.

The candles burn on the Christmas tree—
They burn with a ruddy flame,
And Tommikoff Smithky looks with glee
Upon picture book and game.

He dances in ecstasies of delight,
And he claps his hands for joy,
And then climbs into the branches bright
Where jingles the rosy toy.

Then, with an expression of peace supreme,
And a twinkle of heart-felt fun,
The candles he plucks in a lotos dream
And gobbles them one by one.

—R. K. Munkittrick.

A Red-Letter Day.

Christmas is a red-letter day in the history of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Nor was it any haphazard connection. It was on Christmas, December 25, 1784, that a "Christmas conference" was held in the meeting house in Lovely lane, Baltimore, at which it was agreed unanimously that an independent church be formed, to be called "The Methodist Episcopal Church." The new denomination started with 83 preachers and 15,000 members.

She of the Cooking School.

He tried her hince to please the maid;
She begged him, "Have some more, Matt?"
But he declined, he was afraid,
It tasted like a door-mat.

The wigwam of the mighty chief
Was filled with anxious squaws,
All eager to o'ertake the thief
Who stole their Santa Claus.

NOT A JUDGE OF WINE.

The Appreciation a Guest Showed for a Rare Kind.

That Atlanta gentleman—it was Maj. Livingstone Mimms, I believe—who used to tell with such pathos of the time when a certain ex-President of the United States came to Atlanta was feasted on the fat of the land and swallowed down rare old sherry, worth its weight in gold, precisely as if it had been beer—that Atlanta man I say, would have sympathized with the tale of woe a woman who lives out on Columbia Heights has been telling me. She is not wealthy, this Columbia Heights woman, but her father, who lives half a day's journey away, in Virginia, has some fine old wines in his cellar, which were old before the war. Recently a very famous woman, to whom the nation and the soldiers owe much, was in Washington, and accepted an invitation to dine out on Columbia Heights. The hostess was so anxious that the dinner should be a memorable affair that she went in person to her father and begged two bottles of a certain precious wine he had, the most precious of all his cellar. She obtained the wine and carried it in her hands all the way home for fear of jarring it. She scarcely let it out of her sight till the day of the dinner, and waited with a thrill of expectant pride till the distinguished guest should praise the rare liquid. The distinguished guest drank one glass of it. She drank two. "Let me fill your glass," said her hostess, glancing at the empty wine glass.

"No, thanks," said the distinguished guest. "I don't care for any more but it's the best cider I ever tasted."—Washington Post.

When Mark Twain Felt Embarrassed.

When Mark Twain was first introduced to Gen. Grant the latter shook hands in a perfunctory manner and immediately relapsed into his customary attitude of reticence. There was an awkward pause; it grew longer and longer as the humorist tried to think of something bright to say. Finally, as if in sheer desperation, Twain looked up with an assumed air of great timidity and said: "Mr. President, I—I feel a little bit embarrased. Do you?" The President could not help smiling, and Mark took advantage of the chance the incident presented to give place to others.

Ten years later, when statesman and humorist met again, Gen. Grant, with a twinkle in his eye, said, before Twain had the chance to utter a word: "Mr. Clemens, I don't feel at all embarrased. Do you?"—Ladies' Home Journal.

CLEARING RAILWAY TRACK WEEDS.

A Car Equipped With Apparatus Which Fires Them With Blazing Kerosene.

The law in most States requires that railroad companies shall keep their right of way cleared of weeds and other growth which might prove harmful to agricultural interests by becoming propagating beds for noxious plants, and it is a common sight along the railroads of this part of the country to see gangs of men at work during the growing season cutting down the grass and weeds beside the railroad tracks, raking these up and destroying them.

On some of the Western railroads a method of recent device is in use which is much more economical for this purpose and thoroughly effective. Fire and machinery do the work which men are employed for elsewhere. A crude petroleum oil, which costs 1 3-8 cents a gallon, is the material used.

A box car is fitted up with a small mining engine, which drives it along by means of a sprocket chain running to one of the axles, which gives it all the speed that is needed. An upright boiler supplies the steam, and within the car, besides the boiler and engine, are tanks of oil. From the rear end of the car projects the burners, arranged in a series of eight, all under a metal shield to confine the heat. The shield is ten feet square, and on the Western roads is used only to destroy the growth of vegetation along the track and for a few feet on each side. A blast of air supplied by an air pump makes the flames from the burners long and intense.

The car moves along the track at the rate of about a mile an hour. The first time it goes over the weeds are killed, and the next time, after the weeds have had a few days to dry in, it sets fire to them and destroyes them completely with all their seeds. Insects or grubs, which the weeds harbor, are also destroyed by the flames. The cost of the oil for this work and the wages of the three men employed on the car is only about $1.08 a mile of single track.

Another petroleum oil is entering largely into the new field of usefulness on railroads as a means for permanently laying the annoying dust which the commotion of passing trains raises from every sort of railroad bed. The first experiment to use oil to hold down this dust was tried two years ago on the West Jersey Railroad in New Jersey. It proved so successful that a company was formed for extending the work, and during the past summer hundreds of miles of tracks on Long Island, in New Jersey and some of the Eastern States were so treated. The oil used is a cheap heavy product distilled for the purpose, and it is sprinkled over the tracks and the roadbed on each side by a sprinkling car made for the purpose. It takes about 2,000 gallons of oil to the mile of track for the first sprinkling, and after that a slighter sprinkling once a year or so is said to be all that is necessary. The oil does not evaporate, and not only holds the dust down, but is said to help the life of the ties by making them waterproof.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD.

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World.

Minnie Lester, the queen of soubrettes, appears tonight at Music Hall supported by a powerful company of dramatic and specialty artists in an entirely new play entitled "Ragged Jack," the bootblack. Miss Lester appears in the title role, and in numerous specialties, together with the "Hobo Quartette" in laughable songs, dances etc. The present company supporting Miss Lester is far above the average of repertoire, and have been playing to crowded houses. A different play will be given each night, all new to a Plainfield audience, all up-to date, and sure to please any audience. Tonight is what is called ladies' ticket night, every person presenting a lady's ticket at the box office, before 6 p. m. and purchasing a reserved seat, will receive one extra seat free. The admission is 10, 20 and 30 cents to see a first-class drama, a good orchestra, a long list of specialties and the Wargraph—what more could you expect? Go tonight and give the little favorite a grand reception. Tomorrow night there will be a great double bill, a new naval drama in three acts, written expressly for Miss Lester, entitled "Naval Volunteers," and the laughable comedy, "The Rough Diamond."

Reserved seat tickets can now be secured at Music Hall box office for the Christmas performance of George Thatcher's vaudeville show.

Mr. Proctor offers a galaxy of stars at the Pleasure Palace, East Fifty-eighth street, New York, such as is seldom gathered together in one bill. The unctious little humorist, Marshall P. Wilder, who has made one of the greatest successes ever achieved in vaudeville, makes his uptown debut, and has collected a number of his very best stories, quips and songs to celebrate the occasion. The dramatic coloring is supplied by Miss Grace Huntington, a handsome and clever actress, who presents the comedietta she so successfully appeared in at the Twenty-third Street Theatre, "Checkmate." Then there is the big military spectacle, "The Battle of San Juan," which had its fiftieth performance Monday, December 19th, and is going strongly on toward the century mark. It is bigger, better and more stirring than ever, and is just the thing for our younger patriots. A number of high-class, refined vaudeville acts complete a bill worthy of the season.

The New Speaking Clocks.

In Switzerland they have begun making phonographic clocks and watches, which, it appears, leave anything heretofore accomplished far in the shade. By merely pressing the button on the new timepiece it announces the hour distinctly. The alarms call to the sleeper: "It's 6 o'clock; get up." There are some which even add the words: "Now, don't go to sleep again." The form can be changed to suit the buyer and make the warning more or less emphatic. This application of the phonographic principle is due to a French watchmaker settled at Geneva. He introduces into clocks and watches little slabs of vulcanized rubber, on which the desired words are traced.

SPIRIT OF CHRISMAS IN LOCAL CHURCHES.

Special and Appropriate Services Carried Out.

SEASONABLE DECORATIONS.

MUSIC FORMED A LARGE PART OF THE PROGRAMME.

Sermons Preached by the Pastors Were Particularly in Sympathy With the Day Celebrating the Birth of Christ—Sunday-schools in Several Churches Enjoyed Services in the Afternoon.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

The services at St. Mary's church Christmas morning began at 6:30 with a high mass, and services were held after that time at 7:30, 8:30, 9:30 and 10:30. The interior of the church presented a handsome appearance, the main altar being artistically decorated for the occasion, while throughout the edifice roping of evergreen and holly wreaths in profusion were reminders of the season. At one side was the representation of our Saviour's birthplace at Bethlehem. The celebrant of the last mass was Rev. Father Westman, assistant rector of St. Mary's, church, while a sermon appropriate to the day was delivered by a visiting clergyman. The musical part of the services was up to its usual high standard, the regular choir being augmented for the occasion. Miss Smith presided at the organ.

TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

At the morning service the choir sang several beautiful selections very acceptably, giving evidence of much careful rehearsing under the guidance of their instructor, A. L. Titsworth, the organist. The pastor, Dr. Schenck, delivered an appropriate sermon which commanded the closest attention of the large congregation present. The pulpit platform was very tastefully beautified by palms, ferns, cut flowers, and also a large green wreath on the organ front, all the result of much labor on the part of Mrs. J. C. VanDyke, who had the decorating of the church in charge.

In the afternoon, in the lecture room, the primary department of the Sunday-school had a happy time and showed their proficiency by rendering the following programme:

Song by school, Ring Out Happy Bells.
Recitation—HappyChristmas, Harold Schenck
Recitation—Keeping Jesus' Birthday, Helen Wooley
Recitation—Little Soldier.....John Schofield
Song—We Come This Happy Christmas, Nettie Cairns
Why We Love Christmas, 6 girls—Bessie Randall, Laura Bodine, Mildred Caleen, Emma Yeager, Delia Dufford, Elsie Dunavan.
Recitation—The Joy of Christmas, Luella Day
Recitation—Sing, Christmas Bells, Cornelius Schenck, Jr
Rainbow Sisters, 13 girls—Pettie Cairns, Bessie Randall, Pansy Luckey, Frances Wendell, Anna Bodine, Myra Dunavan, Delia Dufford, Edna Kelly, Violet Hope, Nettie Robinson, Agnes Garretson, Ida May Tier, Rosa Hook.
Goodbye.....Elsie Tier

The little folks did so nicely that their superintendent, Mrs. J. M. Tier and her assistant, Mrs. Randall, were well repaid for the result of their labors. The "Merry Christmas" arch of evergreens and other decorations of the room were tastefully arranged by William H. Olmstead.

In the evening the exercises were held in the auditorium of the church in charge of the Sunday-school. Every inch of room was occupied and many persons went away from the church, unable to get a seat or even comfortable standing-room space. As at the morning service, the singing of the choir was a feature of the service and greatly enjoyed by all, as was also the singing of the scholars of the Sunday-school.

Miss Martie Anthony read "The First Christmas Present" beautifully, and Miss Cora Emilie Laire recited "The Sweetest Song" to the delight of all, Mr. Titsworth, the organist, accompanying her recitations with soft, sweet notes on the pipe organ. Edson C. Martin, a favorite tenor singer to Plainfield audiences, sang "Ring Out the Bells" in a manner that made everybody feel like applauding for more.

Dr. Schenck and Superintendent Anthony each made a few remarks on Christmas-tide, which was followed with more singing by the choir and school, the exercises being brought to a close by all joining in singing "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow." The excellent music by the organist of the church, A. L. Titsworth, was a very pleasant part of both the morning and evening exercises.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Sunday was a joyous one for all who attended the Christmas services at the First Baptist church, from the youngest to the oldest. The church was tastefully decorated with greens and holly, while an arrangement of bows of red silk ribbon added to the attractiveness. Over the organ there was a large star made of evergreens, which was studded with incandescent lights brilliantly lighted.

In the morning the service was mostly musical, with the exception of an appropriate and interesting discourse by the pastor, Dr. Yerkes. P. Ludwig Conde, violinist, assisted and Howard Case presided at the organ. The choir rendered several special selections. The musical programme was as follows: Prelude, organ and violin; carol, "Sweet Christmas Bells;" anthems, "Arise, Shine," "How Brightly Dawns," "The Christ-Child," "The Christmas Song." "See Amid the Winter's Snow;" offertory, "The Angel Heralds;" sopeano solo, Miss Harris, with violin obligato; organ postlude. During the rendition of the above programme there were solos by Miss Harris, Mrs. Ward, Wm. Holmes and George Smith.

The afternoon service was under the auspices of the Sunday-schools of the home church, the East Third Street chapel and the Mt. Olive Baptist church, and the scholars and teachers all assembled at 3 o'clock. The programme opened with a prelude, "Adagio," violin, organ and piano. The musical numbers are as follows: Singing by schools, "Holy, Holy, Holy;" choral salutation, choir; Christmas hymn, "The Anthem of Peace," choir; carol, "The Snow Lay on the Ground," schools; hymn, by primary department; hymn, "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem," schools.

Features of the afternoon service were the recitations. Miss Addie Parker Jackson recited "Long Years Ago," and another recitation, "Why We Love to Bring Christmas Gifts to Jesus," was given by Nellie Ballentine, Sadie Johnson, Helen Adams, Isabelle Taylor, Ethel Webster, Henrietta Winn and Ada Keller. Those who had charge of the Scripture reading were George H. Batchelor, M. C. Dobbins and L. Warren Randolph. Mr. Batchelor, as superintendent of the home school, made a few remarks in which he extended to all a Christmas greeting. Both services at this church were largely attended.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Christmas-tide was properly observed in the Seventh Day Baptist church with special services Saturday morning and afternoon. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion. A large star of holly hung in front of the organ, and the pillars in the auditorium were decorated with branches of the same. The platform was attired in palms and other potted plants.

In the morning there was a Christmas sermon by the pastor, Rev. Dr. A. E. Main, and special Christmas anthems by the regular choir under the direction of D. E. Titsworth. The Sabbath-school held its special exercises in the afternoon. The members of the primary department marched into the church and gave a short programme of songs and recitations. Then each child brought up a gift to go to some charitable institution. Each of the other classes also presented gifts for the same object. The programme also included carols by the school and an address by the superintendent, D. E. Titsworth.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Christmas services were held morning and afternoon in the Congregational church. The decorations were of red and green, and unusually artistic. The pulpit platform was transformed into a chancel by a railing of evergreens, holly and crimson immortalles; beautiful roses were on the reading desk and piano, and the whole end of the church was draped with evergreen roping, shields and wreaths, while a great star hung over the desk. At the morning service the pastor, Rev. Charles Lyman Goodrich, preached a strong and helpful sermon on "The Prince of Peace," and Horace J. Martin sang a Christmas offertory, "Cantique de Noel," by Adolph Adam very effectively. The singing by a quartette choir arranged for the service was given up on account of illness. The Sunday-school session was entirely devoted to the Christmas exercises. A Christmas service from a new book of responsive worship just introduced into the school was given, and the programme also included singing by the primary department, two violin solos by William McKillop, the reading of Eugene Field's story, "The First Christmas Tree," by Miss Catherine Wolcott Dwight, and the singing of two quartettes, "Once in Bethlehem of Judah," and "Sweetly Sang the Angels," by the Sunday-school choir, Miss M. G. Morse, Miss Katherine W. Dwight, Miss Julia M. Belknap, Morris C. VanArsdale and

DIDN'T FORGET THE POOR

SANTA CLAUS MADE MANY UNFORTUNRTE CHILDREN HAPPY.

Gifts for 177 Children Whose Parents Were Unable to Make Them Presents—Mayor Fisk's Most Generous Offer.

In connection with the celebration of Christmas-tide there was one incident that probably was productive of more good than any other. It was the celebration held at the home of Mrs. Wm. A. Woodruff, East Second street, Saturday afternoon, when 177 children, poor as far as this world's goods are concerned, were made happy.

This plan was adopted in 1895 by Mrs. Woodruff, and every year it has been a great success. This year Mrs. Woodruff was assisted greatly by Mayor Fisk, who gave freely of his means and instructed Mrs. Woodruff to see that every poor child received something. During the entire afternoon the children called and received gifts of oranges, candy, popcorn and a package containing toys, books and games. There was no partiality shown.

As an additional feature Mrs. Woodruff provided a large Christmas tree which was filled with pretty things. The children were allowed to admire the tree and enjoy themselves before receiving their presents. Every child that called was made happy and feelings of appreciation was depicted on every face. Mrs. Woodruff was assisted in her work by Mrs. Smith, of Westervelt avenue, and Miss Mabel Woodruff. During the afternoon many donors called and witnessed the distribution of gifts. There were many who contributed either money, toys, candy, etc., toward the celebration and thus helped to give the children a pleasant Christmas.

Mulford Estil and William Williams donated books, and there was a sufficient amount of money contributed to supply oranges, candy, popcorn and mittens to the children.

FOUND ALMOST DEAD.

Italian Laborer Lay Bleeding on the Tracks Where He Had Been Struck.

Early this morning the engineer of engine 393, drawing a loaded coal train, discovered the unconscious form of a man lying beside the tracks of the Central Railroad in Vandeveer's cut, south of Raritan. It proved to be a heavily built Italian laborer, bleeding from from wounds in the head. The man was still breathing, so he was picked up and carried on the engine to Somerville where Dr. Swinton, of that place, examined him and pronounced his injury a fracture of the skull. He ordered his removal to the hospital here. The man was brought down on the train arriving at 8:37.

Although it is evident that the man was struck by a train, it is not known, as yet, when or how the accident occurred, or who he is. When the man reached here he was taken to the hospital in the ambulanbe. He was still unconscious.

An examination of the man proved that he has a very bad fracture of the skull, and the chances are that he will not recover. He is about 30 years of age and fairly well-dressed. The only thing found in his clothes was 22 cents. There is not another thing to identify the man. An effort will be made as soon as possible to learn the man's name. He has been unconscious ever since he entered the hospital.

Heart Trouble Caused Her Death.

Mrs. Mary A. Chapon, widow of the late Augustus A. Chapon, aged seventy-nine years, two months and seven days, died at her home on East Front street, yesterday morning of heart disease. Mrs. Chapon had been a resident of this city for a great many years and she had a large circle of friends. Her husband died about fourteen years ago.

Gift of a Pulpit.

A handsome and substantial Christmas present was received by the members of the Washingtonville chapel in the shape of a pulpit, with all the necessary decorations. It was the gift of Robert Love and Issac Giles, two Christian workers, who frequently conduct the services at that place.

Log Fire Sociable.

A "log fire sociable" at the Y. M. C. A. to the members of the educational department and their friends was the attraction there last night. The social was held in the two young men's school rooms on the third floor, in one of which was a log fire briskly burning, which gave the social a name.

A Family Gathering.

There was a family gathering yesterday at the home of Mrs. T. Adams, of Duer street, and about thirty people were present during the day. A bountiful dinner was served at noon, and in the evening there was instrumental and vocal music, while several games were played to help pass the time away.

BACHELORS BOWLED A WINNING GAME.

First Game at Park Club Won by Six Points.

BENEDICTS ARE DEFEATED.

"DOC" THEIRS HAD A CHANCE TO WIN THE GAME BUT FAILED.

Benedicts Braced up in the Second Half and Tore Down the Bachelor Lead But Failed to do Anything on the Windup—Low Scores Were Made—Charlie Lyman Led Cheering Section.

"If" Doc Thiers had only made a spare on the wind-up and "if" Senator Reed had only made one more strike, together with sundry other "ifs," the Benedicts of the Park Club would have won. As it was the Bachelors were victorious in the first bowling match between the two teams by the very slim majority of six pins.

For several years, these annual contests at the alleys of the Park Club have been leading events in the holiday season at the club. Old and young turned out to see the fun and cheer the respective teams. Saturday night saw the first of the series of three games of the series.

The Benedicts entered the arena led by their veteran captain, Dr. C. Thiers. President B. Arrowsmith Hegeman, Jr., was his trusty lieutenant. Charles H. Lyman led the cheering section.

Peter B. Matthews was at the head of the Bachelor cohort, but he didn wear his famous "ninety-eight cent sweater. Percy Sandford was the most distinguished of the unmarried men with his red golf stocking. There was also the Yale combination of Dupee and McCutchen.

Through some mistake the Benedicts took the lead in the first frame. Then the mistake was rectified and the Bachelors went to the front where they remained. After rolling up a big lead, they went to pieces and just managed to win out by a paltry six pins. "Doc" Thiers had the chance to defeat them in the wind-up but he only scored eight instead of a strike or spare that would have won the game.

The individual scores were:

AT TURN VEREIN HALL.

Christmas Exercises a Joyous Occasion With the Germans.

Last Sunday afternoon Christmas was celebrated in a happy manner at the Gesang and Turn Verein Hall on Somerset street, when the members of the association, together with their wives, sweethearts and the children gathered to enjoy the tree and exercises provided. The programme consisted of several selections by the singing section and the children while recitations were given by the following children: Jacob Schlick, Leonard Schlick, Herman Klinsman, Henry Benner, Carrie Benner, Hulda Rummell, Frank Haurand, Of Heubern, Eddie Gaub and A. Wolf, Jr. During the afternoon the tree was lighted and the children had a parade. They marched around the tree and received candy and oranges, and each one received a useful present. After this part of the programme ice cream was served to all and a general social time was enjoyed. The committee in charge consisted of August Wolf, chairman; Henry Eimer, H. Klinsman, L. Fahn, Carl Felbar, Mrs. Klinsman, Mrs. Rummel, Mrs. Benner, Mrs. Felber and Mrs. Charles Myer.

A pleasant part of the entertainment was the presentations. President Henry Haurand, on behalf of the society, made a little speech and presented Prof. Eichorn, leader of the singing section, with a purse of gold coin. The members of the Ladies' Society also presented the Gesang and Turn Verein with a purse of $25.

Funeral of Mrs. Happell.

The funeral of Mrs. Adlaide Jones Happell took place yesterday afternoon from the home of her father, John T. Jones, 133 East Second street. Rev. G. Kennedy Newell officiated at the services. The interment will take place this afternoon at Hackettstown, N. J.

The caucus of the Common Council of '99 will be held this evening at the residence of Councilman E. T. Barrows, of West Eighth street.

DEATH OF A. C. BALDWIN

A REPRESENTATIVE CITIZEN PASSED AWAY SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Up to a Few Years Ago His Life Had Been One of Activity—He Was a Public Spirited Citizen of This City.

Saturday afternoon last occurred the death of A. C. Baldwin, of Park avenue, who for many years has been one of Plainfield's most prominent citizens. As he has been in ill health for several years, his death was not wholly unexpected.

Augustus Chester Baldwin was born in Spencertown, Columbia county, N. Y., March 13th, 1821. He was one of a large family. As a young man he entered the employ of Baldwin, Starr & Co., of New York city, a firm doing a large wholesale clothing business with the South. He was admitted as a partner, and on the retirement of C. P. Baldwin and C. J. Starr, he became the head of the firm. He remained in business until several years after the war when he retired. After spending some time abroad he returned and formed a partnership with Christian Schepflin, of Plainfield, which later bore the name of Schepflin, Baldwin, Tweedy & Company. He remained in business until ten years ago. Since his retirement he has been in failing health and a great invalid for the last four years. Always a public spirited man, he has ever had at heart the welfare of Plainfield, which has been his home for more than twenty years. Largely to his efforts Plainfield owes her Public Library and Music Hall. He was also a promoter of the Hillside Cemetery Association, and one of its first directors. Mr. Baldwin leaves a widow and one son. The son is fourteen years of age.

The funeral services will be held at his home, 805 Park avenue, this city, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

NEARLY ASPHIXIATED.

Gas Generated by Coal Stove Seriously Affected a Family.

Mr. and Mrs. George McGinnis and daughter, Miss Nellie, of Somerset street, had a narrow escape from death by suffocation last week Thursday evening. Mr. McGinnis retired rather early and his wife and daughter retired sometime later. Not one of them noticed the escaping gas in their sleeping rooms which came from a double-heater stove down stairs.

Early the next morning Mr. McGinnis was awakened by severe head trouble and he called his daughter. When the latter reached her father's room she fainted away. Mrs. McGinnis was awakened, and while she was attempting to walk across the room she was prostrated. Mr. McGinnis finally succeeed in rousing his wife and daughter and they were assisted to the first floor where they were properly treated. As a result of the experience Mrs. McGinnis and Miss McGinnis were detained at home the next day. They have now recovered entirely from their illness.

Well-Known Hunterdon County Man Dead
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Flemington, Dec. 27 — James S. Fisher, formerly postmaster here, died Saturday morning after a long illness with nervous prostration. The deceased was widely-known throughout Hunterdon county for his sterling character. He leaves a widow, two daughters and one son to mourn him. The funeral services were held this afternoon at 1:30 from his late residence.

Last Saturday afternoon occurred the death of Mrs. Margaret Wolf, of West Fourth street. She had for some time past been helped by charity and was helpless to a large extent. She was nearly 80 years of age. She lived alone, and Overseer of the Poor Hansen found Mrs. Wolf dead when he went to the house Saturday afternoon. She was in rather destitute circumstances.

AT THE HOSPITAL.

Appropriate Music Heard and Pretty Gifts Received by Patients.

Yesterday afternoon was a pleasant one for all who were at Muhlenberg Hospital when the usual Christmas celebration was held. There was an unusually large attendance of prominent people who are closely identified with the hospital work. There were members of the Woman's Auxiliary Board, the board of governors and others present. Owing to the illness of Samuel Huntington, who is president of the board of governors, he was unable to be present. E. B. Clark, of the board, made a very happy and helpful address. The music was a special feature and was in charge of Mrs. Freeman, organist of Grace P. E. church. Several of the choir members from that church were present and sang. After the programme the choir boys distributed gifts of all kinds to the patients in the hospital. The superintendent, Miss Moss, as well as every nurse, received presents. Among the seventeen patients now in the hospital there is one more interesting than the others. Her name is Effie Hansen. She is three years old and her home is at Lincoln. Recently she was obliged to have one of her feet amputated, but with her misfortune she is as happy as can be, and yesterday she received lots of presents. Everyone of the visitors had a kind word for her and she chatted merrily with all.

Says the Strike was Unauthorized.

Harry A. Repollo, who signs himself president of the Print Cutters' Association of America, writes to the Press to say that the strike of a few of the cutters employed in Edward Love's wall paper factory, was unauthorized and not in accordance with the rules of the union. He says that the Valentine boy, whom the men said was employed as an apprentice, was nothing but an errand boy and that he was employed with the knowledge and full consent of the union.

George Pizie Says Theodore Roantree Stabbed Him.

HAPPENED AT NEW MARKET.

ROANTREE HAS DISAPPEARED SINCE THE AFFRAY TOOK PLACE.

Roantree Was Intoxicated—Wanted to Fight—Pizie Thrashed Him Soundly—Afterwards Discovered He Was Stabbed—Michael Grantz Arrested for Beating His Boarding House Mistress Also

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, December 27.—George Pizie, of New Market, is now at home with three knife wounds in his shoulder and back. Theodore Roantree, of the same place, has disappeared. A warrant is out for the arrest of Roantree, charging him with assault with intent to kill.

Late Saturday evening Roantree came into Nelson's Hotel, New Market. Those who saw him said he was greatly intoxicated. First he tried to pick a quarrel with George Clawson. Clawson refused to have anything to do with him. Then he used insulting language to Pizie. Words were exchanged and the young men went outside to settle the dispute.

The men clinched and Pizie gave his opponent a sound thrashing. Pizie noticed a knife in Roantree's hand and called to Frank Nelson who took it away. Roantree was then allowed to depart. It was then after midnight.

Pizie found that the back of his coat was wet with blood, flowing from three knife wounds in his back and shoulder. The knife was a pocket knife, with a blade 2½ inches long. Pizie went home and Dr. Nelson was summoned. He said that one cut pierced the lung. Pizie is confined at home but will recover. A warrant was issued for Roantree by Justice Storms. Roantree has been arrested several times in Plainfield for fighting. Both young men are about twenty-three years of age.

Michael Grantz was arrested at his boarding place on North avenue, Saturday night at midnight, by Constable Luther Mundy, of New Market, on a warrant issued by Justice Storms. He was charged with assaulting his boardinghouse keeper, Mrs. Barbara Kean, and dragging her about the house by the hair, late Wednesday night. Marshal Wyhuskey was called in but could do nothing without a warrant. Grantz was committed to the county jail at New Brunswick.

Death of Mrs. Laire.

The aged mother of J. P. Laire, whose illness was noted in Friday's Daily Press, died at home Annandale, Hunterdon county, Sunday evening. Her funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Death Came to Relieve Her.

The death of Mrs. Phillips, wife of Henry S. Phillips, of 182 Grove street, occurred Sunday morning last after an illness lasting about two months. She was a great sufferer toward the last, but all that was possible was done to alleviate suffering. Sometime ago Mrs. Phillips submitted to an operation, from which she recovered nicely, but a little later complications set in and she failed rapidly. Mrs. Phillips was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jethro Vermeule, who for many years lived on Central avenue. She is survived by a husband.

L. A. Hummer to Build.

L. A. Hummer, the butcher, will at an early date erect a handsome building on the corner of Somerset street and Linden avenue, the first floor of which he will use for a meat market. The place now occupied by Mr. Hummer has been purchased by Sigmund Frucht, the bicycle dealer, and he will occupy the place April 1st.

He Devours it All.

Deacon E. E. Anthony presented several little gifts to the members of Trinity Reformed church consistory Christmas morning. Elder Force received a small black and white "billy goat," with the accompanying lines: "An ardent admirer of The Daily Press, who cannot stop until he has devoured every word in it.

Odd Fellows Elect.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., elected officers last night as follows: Noble grand, Charles Summers; vice-grand, Peter Doeringer; recording secretary, Joseph Sheppard; financial secretary, Elias Bird; treasurer, Jas. Clarkson. These officers will be installed the second Monday evening in January.

Dr. E. W. Hedges and Dr. Murray held a consultation Sunday afternoon regard the illness of Alonzo Ayres. They decided that Mr. Ayres is in a very critical condition.

LET US ARM YOU!

It's quite necessary, because while Uncle Sam is settling scores with the Spaniards you're bound to have a little brush at home at the same time, and there's nothing like being ready for emergencies. Until you can sign a perpetual truce with sun, wind and storm, your house and other buildings will need to be fortified with paint, and ours are like a 20-inch chilled steel armor.

STARVATION IN BEMINI ISLANDS.

Crops and Stores Destroyed by Recent Storms.

Havana, Cuba, Dec. 27.—News that famine threatens to destroy the entire population of the Bemini islands, the westernmost group of the English possessions in the Bahamas was brought here by the Spanish mail steamer Alicante, which arrived Sunday.

Captain Oliver of the Spanish steamer informed Acting British Consul Jerome immediately after his arrival of the grave danger that threatens these British subjects, and steps were at once taken to supplement the aid which the Spanish officer had already extended to the sufferers on the islands.

Severe storms have recently swept over this group of small islands, causing the loss of many lives, the obstruction of growing crops and the wreck of all the storehouses. This left the islands practically destitute of food.

Famine has greatly increased since the havoc wrought by the storm. A great many of the islanders have died of starvation and those still alive are so weakened by lack of proper food as to be almost unable to continue the struggle for life.

Havana Guarded by Troops.

Havana, Dec. 27.—The first provost guard duty performed by the American troops is that done in the streets to pick up soldiers absent from their posts, attending Christmas celebrations without leave and to prevent outbreaks. Two Spanish soldiers were killed when they resented the singing of "Viva Cuba Libre" by negroes.

General Lee is studying the route for the New Year's Day parade. The narrow streets make it necessary to arrange the march of the eleven thousand troops through the Prado and Central Park to Cerro, instead of past the palace.

Building a Big Magazine.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 27.—The government is abating none of its activity since the war in this vicinity in extending and strengthening the defences. Work has been started at the naval magazine on an enormous shell house, capable of holding sufficient loaded projectiles to stock the magazines of the whole North Atlantic squadron.

At Fort Monroe the new concrete emplacements for ten-inch disappearing rifle batteries are being pushed. Crushed rock and concrete for the breastworks are arriving by the schooner load.

Many Injured in a Wreck.

Vincennes, Ind., Dec. 27.—A bad wreck occurred at Emison, yesterday, on the Evansville and Terre Haute Railroad, in which two trainmen were seriously hurt and a score or more of passengers bruised and scratched.

The Nashville limited express going north crashed into a freight train, demolishing both engines and wrecking several cars. The badly injured are Lew Stinson, conductor, Evansville, internally; George Muth, express messenger, leg crushed.

Natural Oil in Missouri.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Mineral oil in large quantities has been discovered near Braymer, Mo., a station on the Cedar Rapids and Kansas City division of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road.

Louis Jackson, industrial commissioner of the company, says that the persons who made the find, quietly have taken oil leases covering twenty thousand acres of land, embracing a territory ten miles in length and six miles wide, and that they are endeavoring to interest eastern capital in developing their property.

Czar's Peace Idea Progresses.

The conference based upon the disarmament proposal of Emperor Nicholas has been fixed to meet in St. Petersburg about the beginning of May, prior to which the Russian government will officially submit to the powers a definite plan of disarmament, in order to enable them to formulate modifications of counter suggestions.

Aguinaldo's Cabinet Resigns.

Manila, Dec. 27.—The so-called congress of the revolutionary government of the Filipinos, which has been in session for some time at Malolos, has unexpectedly adjourned, owing to the difficulty of formulating a constitution.

The cabinet of President Aguinaldo, appointed at Bacoor on July 15 last and named in the Bacoor proclamation issued that day, has resigned.

Jailed by Illegal Law.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 27.—When Torrey E. Wardner, editor of the Boston Traveller, appears before Judge Holmes in the superior court to-day on a writ of habeas corpus, the constitutionality of the law under which Judge Sherman sent him to jail for thirty days for contempt of court will be vigorously attacked.

Leprosy in Ohio.

Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 27.—Dr. Chas O. Probst, secretary of the state board of health, has investigated two reported cases of leprosy at New Lexington, Perry county. He has found the cases to be of genuine, fully developed leprosy. The lepers are Hattie Garry, twenty-two years old, and her little sister Hannah, twelve years old.

IRELAND IS HIS CHOICE

McKinley Names the Archbishop Delegate to Peace Congress.

HONOR WILL BE ACCEPTED

The Approval of the Pope will be Required and will Doubtless be Given. President McKinley Owes Much to the Archbishop both at His Election and During the Late War.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—President McKinley has offered to Archbishop Ireland the honor of serving as the American representative to the czar's peace conference, and the archbishop has replied that he will gladly accept providing he can get the pope's consent.

The administration owes much to the archbishop. Not only did he make Republican speeches during McKinley's campaign, but when the war question came up he rendered the country great service by his attempts to secure peace. He was the unofficial intermediary between the pope and the president.

There is no doubt that the pope will consent to the appointment. It is of great distinction, and, the western preate states, very high in the estimation of the great head of the church. President McKinley had only one cause to pause in making the selection. He would like to have Archbishop Ireland represent the United States in the Philippines, where, as the papal representative, he would have a chance to do important work.

But it is doubtful if he could find time to go to Manila even for a short stay. He will be in Rome soon and will explain to the pope the friendly attitude of the United States to the Roman Catholics in both Cuba and Manila, and the desire to advance their spiritual as well as their temporal interests.

Miss Sutro Married.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 27.—Miss Clara Sutro, daughter of the late Adolph Sutro, the famous San Francisco mining man, mayor and millionaire, and William J. English of Chicago, were quietly married Sunday afternoon at the residence of the Right Rev. Biship Montgomery, who officiated. The brother of the bride was the only witness to the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. English will remain here for a few days and will then journey to New York.

They contemplate a trip to Spain and upon their return to this country they will take up their residence in Chicago, the home of the groom.

Mr. English is a widely known attorney, being a member of the firm of English & Heffernan of Chicago. He is also a member of the Chicago school board and is a former president of the Chicago Fair Association.

Heavy Bank Robbery.

Lima, O., Dec. 27.—When Janitor Elias Bowsher entered the American National Bank yesterday morning to put up a card announcing that the bank was closed, he discovered that the big vault door was open.

He called the president and cashier, and they found that all the paper and gold money, amounting to between twenty-five thousand and fifty thousand dollars, had been stolen. Several hundred dollars in silver coin were left.

The time lock to the inside door was found running. The cashier and the president say they did not set it going Saturday night.

The vault's outside door, the time lock of which they had set to open at 11 o'clock, was wide open.

Not Dead but Buried Alive.

Dodge City, Kan., Dec. 27.—John C. Clark, an inmate of the Soldiers' Home here, was supposed to have died on last Wednesday of typhoid fever. The doctor pronounced him dead, and the veteran, who is over seventy years of age, was buried. After the funeral a comrade named Hasen insisted that Clark had been buried alive.

So great a disturbance did Hasen create that on Friday afternoon the supposed dead man was taken from the grave and after a vigorous rubbing he recovered. He said that he was partly conscious of all that was happening during the burial, but could not make a move to prevent it.

Mrs. Druce to Issue Bonds.

London, Dec. 27.—A novel procedure is being undertaken to push the Druce case. Mrs. Druce is preparing a lot of one pound bonds, for which she agrees to pay five pounds if her son becomes the Duke of Portland.

Two thousand of these bonds, she claims, have already been spoken for by speculators.

Mrs. Druce has not yet succeeded in getting an order to open the coffin in which T. C. Druce, her husband, was supposed to have been buried.

THE MOON'S ECLIPSE.

It Will be Seen from One End of the Continent to the Other.

New York, Dec. 27.—The total eclipse of the moon to-day will be visible generally throughout North and South America, Europe, Asia and Africa. In order to follow the course of the eclipse the following data will be especially interesting:

At Portland, Me., the eclipse begins at 5 p. m. the total eclipse taking place at 6.10 p. m. In Boston the respective times of beginning and total eclipse will be 5.3 p. m., and 6.13 p. m. In New York, 4.51 p. m. and 5.01 p. m.; in Charleston, S. C., 4.27 p. m., and 5.37 p. m. In Chicago the time of the total eclipse will be 5.07, in St. Louis 4.56, and in Denver 4.42 p. m.

The last total eclipse of the moon visible to us occurred September 3, 1895—over three years ago; therefore, the spectacle promised for this evening will have something of the charm of rarity.

PROF. EDWARD S. HOLDEN.

It would be impossible to enumerate all the astronomers of recent times whose labors have been directed to the study of the lunar scenery. A few names may here be mentioned, adding the remark that there doubtless are many others whose valuable labors should not be overlooked. First comes Mr. Nasmyth, who is at once a famous mechanical engineer, a skilful artist, and a devoted student of the stars. He devoted his well earned leisure in the study of celestial objects, and he devoted especial attention to the moon.

PROF. ASAPH HALL, DISCOVERER OF THE MOONS OF MARS.

The work which he produced in conjunction with Mr. Carpenter is a standard authority on the lunar scenery, and is perhaps one or the most beautifully illustrated books that has ever been devoted to the subject of the heavens. Reference must also be made to Professor Holden and other distinguished astronomers at the Lick observatory, on the top of Mount Hamilton, in California. They have applied their resources to the photography of the moon with remarkable success, and some of their pictures of our satellite have formed the basis upon which important calculations are made. In addition to these, Dr. Asaph Hall of Washington is also to be mentioned.

Miss Helen Gould's Xmas Feast.

The heiress to some of Jay Gould's millions believes in making the little tots happy once a year.

"I love children," she has often been heard to say, "and it makes me joyful to see them in a happy mood, especially at Christmas time."

A big Christmas tree had been erected in the large dining room of Lyndhurst, and last night it was brilliant with candles and electric lights.

The tree was for the special benefit of the children of Miss Gould's one hundred employes. It was loaded down with presents of all kinds, books, dolls, toys and candies for the little tots and more serious gifts for their fathers and mothers.

Texas Has a Race Riot.

Dallas, Texas, Dec. 27.—The burning of a saloon at Market and Wood streets in the district known as "The Reservation," Sunday, was the cause of drawing together several thousand whites and blacks, many of them in a boisterous condition of Christmas intoxication.

Just as the fire had been put under control, a race conflict was started about a block away which lasted, in pitched battle fury, for from ten to fifteen minutes, during which time two persons were killed and five persons were seriously and a dozen or more slightly wounded.

The presence of a large force of police, brought out on account of the fire, is all that prevented the most deadly conflict between the white and black races ever known in Texas.

Dewey's Birthday.

New York, Dec. 27.—Rear Admiral George Dewey celebrated yesterday his birthday by becoming the ranking officer of the American navy, Rear Admiral Francis M. Bunce having reached the age limit, sixty-two, Sunday.

Admiral Dewey was born just sixty-one years ago in Montpelier, Vermont. His father was Dr. Julius Yemans Dewey. On his twelfth birthday young George received the "licking" from his school teacher which has now become a famous incident in the lives of both Dewey and the man whose pupil he was.

PLENTY OF IT.

Lots More Proof Like This, and It's All from People You Know.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating of it." If any city or town in the Union has sufficient proof that the representations made for a household necessity are true, that place is Plainfield. If the cures in Plainfield numbered some half dozen there might be grave doubts about their genuineness. That many people in a place the size of Plainfield might have based their claims on pure imagination, but when public endorsation reaches scores, and as many more endorsers are willing to testify to the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, the evidence and the proof is incontrovertible. Investigation, the most superficial, will prove that Doan's Kidney Pills are an actual necessity in Plainfield. Here is one of our endorsers:

Mr. Geo. S. McGinnis, of No. 212 Somerset St., foreman of R. H. McCullough's Sash and Door Mfg. Co, says: "I never was sick a day in my life until a pain struck me across my back and a lameness over the kidneys. I did not pay much attention to it at first, thinking it would soon pass away, but instead of this it grew worse. A bladder trouble set in. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended by those who used them for such troubles that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I used them according to instructions and felt somewhat relieved. Continuing the treatment, by the time I had finished the third box, the pain in my back and the lameness disappeared. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy and I gladly recommend them as such whenever I have a chance."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers; price 50 cents a box. Mailed on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the U. S.

MERRITT'S ROSY VIEW

Thinks Philippine Problem Will Solve Itself in Time.

NO PLEDGES TO AGUINALDO

Filipino Chieftain Has Never Been Confided In. Otis Makes Wise Governor. Islander will Eventually be Able to Conduct Their Own Affairs.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Major General Wesley Merritt, retiring military governor of the Philippines, accompanied by his bride, formerly Miss Laura Williams, and his chief aid, Major Strother, have arrived from New York.

General Merritt will remain at the residence of Norman Williams, Mrs. Merritt's father, until after the holidays, when they will return to New York city, where the general will again resume his position as commander of the department of the East, which he left to go to Manila.

"My official connection with the Philippines has ended," General Merritt said, "and all direct information that I have received from Manila since leaving for Paris has been in the way of personal correspondence, but General Otis is making a wise governor. He is making no promises to Aguinaldo, and neither did I. For that reason the possibility of trouble with him and his followers probably will solve itself.

"I firmly believe in the retention of the Philippines. We cannot do otherwise than keep them. If we dispose of them to any other nation it certainly will precipitate a war, and they are not yet capable of governing themselves. Until that time the best that we can do is to give them a good military government, give them what civilians are necessary to administer the civilian functions of government, and when they are ready to form a government of their own give them our blessing and let them do so.

"Do I believe that the time will ever come? I certainly believe that in time they will be capable of administering their own government. How soon, of course no one can predict. That must depend largel yon circumstances and the sort of government they are given at the start. I do not believe the citizens of the Philippines expect ever to receive anything like statehood. They do look forward to a colonial government, I believe.

"What is needed is a simple military administration, which can be easily furnished. The residents of Manila and of the other parts of the archipelago who are informed, are intensely anxious that the United States shall retain control.

When asked what he thought of the proposed increase in the standing army to one hundred thousand, the general declared that he had always believed that such an increase was necessary.

"We need a standing army of at least seventy-five thousand here in the United States," he declared. "Now that we have acquired the new territories we shall need a few more. But in my belief twenty-five thousand men are amply sufficient for all the possible emergencies in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines together. The rest are needed in the United States for garrison duty.

Aged Couple Seek Divorce.

Janesville, Wis., Dec. 27.—Instead of celebrating their golden wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Churchill are now plaintiff and defendant in a divorce action that is holding the attention of the circuit court of Rock county.

They were married in Peterborough, Canada, but have lived in Janesville forty-five years and have nine children, all married.

Mrs. Churchill alleges cruel and inhuman treatment. Mr. Churchill says it is his wife that is the cruel one, and that even in her old age she thought nothing of hurling anything that she could lift at his gray head.

Mrs. Churchill is 72 years of age and her husband is nearly 80.

Gov. Black to Vacate.

Albany, Dec. 27.—Governor and Mrs. Black are making preparations for the reception of Governor-elect Roosevelt and his family. They will be formally installed in the executive mansion on Wednesday night. The mansion has been renovated from roof to cellar.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the inauguration. Although Colonel Roosevelt becomes governor on Sunday next, legally he will not take the oath until Monday.

The ceremonies will take place in the assembly chamber. There will assemble the incoming and outgoing officials, their staffs and other officials.

Bishop McLaren Accepts

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Bishop William E. McLaren of the diocese of Chicago has decided to accept the mission to Porto Rico to investigate the field there for promotion of the Episcopal church interests there, as delegated to him by the Episcopal conference in Washington.

He will start for the new island possession some time before the winter is over. He will take no auxiliary force with him, as the trip will be purely one of investigation preparatory to further steps there for the advancement of the church.

Newspaper Office Burned Out.

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 27.—A fire which started from some unknown cause about six o'clock yesterday morning in the composing room of the Standard office, caused about $15,000 damage before the flames were extinguished. The entire building, which is occupied by the Standard Association, Price, Lee & Co., publishers of directories, and J. F. Noble, real estate and insurance, was flooded with water.

More Troops to Cuba

Charleston, S. C., Dec. 27.—The transport Minnewaska has arrived at this port from Havana. She will take from here the Sixth Ohio Infantry, expected here from Knoxville, Tenn., and General Bates.

She will sail to-day. Three thousand troops will embark from this port in the next three days.

PAY ALLIES $100 EACH.

Details of Plan to Pay Filipinos and Cubans For Services.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—It has been figured by the war department that in paying the Cuban army upon its approaching disbandment for services to the United States commanders in Cuba in the war with Spain, each Cuban soldier is to receive about $100.

This sum in American currency will represent a nice little pile in Cuban exchange and will give to the Cubans a snug capital with which to buy farming implements or to obtain for themselves the homes needed in peaceful pursuits.

Such Cubans as may be enlisted hereafter under the United States flag will receive the regular pay of $13 a month, prescribed during peace times for our own soldiers. The war rate of twenty per cent. extra will cease with the ratification of the Paris treaty of peace.

The Filipinos, who are to be paid in like manner and mustered out, will get nearly the same sum as the Cubans. The funds for this purpose have been provided in an appropriation of $3,000,000 contained in the urgent deficiency bill.

The expenditures by law, are to be made in the discretion of the president, and confidence in the McKinley administration is such that the appropriation was made by Congress without a question on the floor as to its purpose.

PEACE TREATY WILL BE RATIFIED.

The House May Object to Giving Spain $20,000,000.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—It is regarded as certain that the peace treaty will be ratified by the Senate soon after it is reported on by the foreign relations committee.

The treaty will be sent by the president to the Senate on January 4, and referred at once to the committee which will return a favorable report. It is thought, in a few days, and the Senate will ratify before March 4.

The opposition is losing strength.

Should the treaty not be ratified before March 4, an extra session of the new Senate will be immediately convened for the purpose of disposing of the treaty, and will be ratified by that body.

The most serious obstacles to the carrying out of the treaty's provisions will be found in the House, where the Democrats oppose the giving of twenty million dollars to Spain.

Many of them are also against the acquisition of the Philippines, but the opposition will probably rest on the objection of paying Spain money.

Day for Judge.

New York, Dec. 27.—Day for supreme court justice. This is the latest news from Washington.

There is no question that President McKinley is highly pleased with the success of the peace commission and that he is anxious to reward his old friend, Judge Day, for the part that he took in carrying the negotiations to such a successful issue.

To pay him a good salary for the pleasant trip to Paris and the exchange of amenities would please the president, but he has discovered that it would give rise to scandal, and he is anxious not to do anything of the sort.

A judgeship, however, is a graceful recognition of services performed. No one could take exception to it.

Unfortunately, the supreme court bench is full now. Judge Day will have to wait. Meantime he will probably be appointed to the bench of the United States circuit court.

New York Troops Are Home.

Utica, N. Y., Dec. 27.—The troop train bearing the second detachment of the First New York volunteer infantry arrived in this city at 10.50 last night. It was 11.30 before the baggage was sorted and Company E of this city started for its armory.

The sixty thousand inhabitants of Utica and many from the country were on the streets, and the soldiers marched with great difficulty, escorted by the Grand Army, local war committees, etc. Red fire and other displays made the streets as bright as daylight.

Every whistle and bell in the city was sounded. At the armory parents and immediate relatives were admitted. All the members are in good health. They will report at the armory again to-day.

Brothers Accused of Murder.

Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 27.—George Russell and Ed Sizemore were arrested on Saturday at their home seven miles from Onawa by Sheriff Burns of Monona county, charged with the murder, at Decatur, Neb., of Charles Beck on Christmas eve, 1891. Beck's body was found on the bank of the river.

The authorities allege that Beck was murdered and robbed by the three Sizemore brothers and two other men whose names have not been made public.

French Demands Unsettled.

Pekin, Dec. 27.—No settlement has yet been reached regarding the demand for the extension of the French concession at Shanghai. The protest against the granting of the concession made by Sir Claude MacDonald, the British minister, has brought Great Britain and France face to face in China.

The action of the Chinese authorities is sure to depend upon how Great Britain supports them.

Purse of $10,000 for the Pope.

Rome, Dec. 27.—High mass was celebrated in St. Peter's Christmas. The pope received a number of women from New York, who presented to him a parchment address bearing many signatures and a purse of $10,000.

His holiness made a brief speech, in which he expressed a cordial wish for the prosperity of the United States.

London's Christmas Mail.

London, Dec. 27.—Christmas day here was marked by bright and mild weather.

An unprecedented mail was received from Liverpool, compelling the reinforcement of the postoffice staffs.

The receipts included 2,200 sacks from the Dominion of Canada and the United States.

CANAL PLAN FEASIBLE

Unanimous Report of Nicaragua Commission.

VARIOUS ESTIMATES MADE

They Range All the Way from Ninety to One Hundred and Forty Millions. Possibility that All Members May Agree on Estimates.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—Admiral Walker, chairman of the Nicaragua canal commission, when questioned as to the time when the report of the commission would be sent to Congress said that the time could not be stated definitely, as the report had not been signed nor entirely completed.

He presumed, however, that it would be ready within the next few days.

In answer to further inquiries the admiral said that there was no difference of opinion among the members of the commission, except possibly on the question of cost, and that difference might be adjusted so that the report would be unanimous on all points.

Owing to the illness of Mr. Haines during the last ten days practically nothing had been done, but now that the commission was together again a conclusion on this and other points might be expected soon.

Some months ago Admiral Walker stated to a committee of Congress that in his judgment the canal would not cost more than $125,000,000. Another member of the commission fixed the maximum at $140,000,000, but stated it might cost considerably less, and it had been the opinion of the third member of the commission that the canal would not cost more than ninety million dollars.

All were agreed, however, that these figures were and could only be approximations. There are too many considerations and contingencies that might change the result considerably. An epidemic of cholera or fever might lay off half the working force; accidents to machinery or possibly earthquakes might damage the work in course of construction, and while none of these would be likely to happen, yet they were among the possibilities and in estimating the cost of the work a reasonable provision had been made for accidents of various kinds.

All members of the commission he said, are agreed that the construction of the canal on the route proposed is entirely feasible and should be prosecuted with all reasonable expedition.

Aldridge's Successor Still Unknown.

New York, Dec. 27.—Governor-elect Roosevelt will have to renew his search for a superintendent of public works. General Francis V. Greene, according to word received from Savannah, says that he will not consent to reconsider his former declination of the honor Colonel Roosevelt is so anxious to confer upon him.

General Greene is reported as saying that while he appreciates the honor conferred in the office, he cannot give up his much more lucrative place as consulting engineer of an asphyalt company.

Excise Commissioner H. H. Lyman is also said to be equally set against throwing up a sure thing for three years at $5,000 a year for the uneasy two years at $6,000 a year, that the head of the public works department would carry.

Just who can be prevailed upon to accept the place is a problem that is expected to occupy Colonel Roosevelt's attention when he comes to the city on Wednesday.

Meanwhile the governor-elect is said to have announced that he is opposed to the metropolitan police system, with a bi-partisan board, but might favor it with a single-headed commission. In case this variation were accepted, Colonel Avery D. Andrews, it is understood, would get the commissionership and Chief McCullagh brought back from Havana for superintendent of police.

Oregon and Iowa at Callao.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—The navy department was informed by cable of the arrival of the battleships Oregon and Iowa at Callao.

The Iowa will not accompany the other vessels to Manila, but will go first to San Francisco. Admiral Dewey has cabled to the navy department that he has dispatched the Baltimore to Iloilo, island of Panay, accompanying the military forces sent there as a garrison.

The Cincinnati has been ordered to remain at Havana until after the evacuation ceremonies, January 1, when she will be ordered to New York to go out of commission.

Wire Trust Wants Cleveland Rolling Mill.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 27.—The announcement made several days ago that overtures had been made to the Cleveland Rolling Mill Company for the purchase of its big plant by the wire trust, has been confirmed.

President Chisholm stated yesterday that an offer had been made to his company and that action would be taken upon it next month, when the proposition can be laid before the regular annual meeting. Mr. Chisholm would not make public the offer made to the company, but he did say that he thought it would be accepted.

Anxious to Return.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—Admiral Dewey cabled the navy department yesterday asking when the Buffalo may be expected at Manila. He is very anxious to let a number of men whose terms have expired come home. Some of these men have been held nearly a year over their time.

The department replied that he might expect the Buffalo in about six weeks. Admiral Dewey may probably allow some of the officers and men depart on the next steamer.

Sagasta's Condition Critical.

Madrid, Dec. 27.—Prime Minister Sagasta, it is announced, is in a more serious condition.

He has been ill for several weeks with bronchial pneumonia, and is attended by a half dozen of the chief medical men of Spain, including the court physician.

In the event of Senator Reed being made President of the State Senate, and there is but little doubt about it, Warren Bowley, of North Plainfield, will probably be made his private secretary. That will mean that Fred Brown's chances of being re-appointed a doorkeeper during the legislative session will drop to zero.

A Passaic man who conducted a gambling house in that city a year ago and was arrested, and subsequently took leg bail and was seen no more for a year, has just returned to face the courts on the charge. It is marvelous how homesickness will deprive some men of the terrors of the law.

President McKinley wants the citizens of the United States to furnish the down-trodden Cubans with 20,000 yoke of oxen in order that they may commence to till the soil and become independent. Persons having a spare ox or two will please notify the President.

New Market was the scene of an attempted murder Christmas day. Why is it, even on a day when good cheer pervades the world, that all of Middlesex county cannot be on good behaviour? Middlesex seems possessed to be incorrigible.

Plainfield merchants say that the season preceding Christmas was the busiest in the history of the city. That speaks well for both the sellers and purchasers, and forms the sort of a story that ought to run continuously.

The Republican members of the incoming Common Council will hold a caucus this evening at the home of Councilman Barrows, of the Third ward. It will be sort of a funereal affair for the Citizens.

Well, what did you think of The Daily Press calendar delivered by the carrier boys yesterday, accompanied by their best compliments of the season? Wasn't it pretty?

Now that you have had a Merry Christmas let us trust that it will be a Happy New Year to all.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD.

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World.

One of the largest audiences of the season attended the performance in Music Hall last night to enjoy the splendid holiday bill furnished by Thatcher's Fashionable Vaudevillees. It was a typical vaudeville show of a first-class brand. Of course, Plainfield's George and his friend and working partner, Ed Marble, got the biggest kind of a reception when they appeared in their inimitable sketch. George is the same old merry minstrel man as of yore, convulsing the audience frequently with his dry humor. Mr. Marble is just as talented as ever, too. The rest of the bi l was up do date in all respects. Little Gertie Cochran, the mental marvel, was quite all in her performance that has been claimed for her. Considerable local interest was manifested in her appearance owing to the fact that her manager is Frank Cook, a former Plainfielder. He appears on the stage with the little girl and asks questions at a rate that would feaze anyone but one endowed with her memory. Manager Edwards will probably arrange for the appearance of Mr. Thatcher's vaudeville aggregation for Washington's birthday.

Guy Brothers' Minstrel Company, enlarged and better than ever, make their annual appearance at Music Hall tomorrow night and will undoubtedly be welcomed by an overflowing audience. The Ottawa, Canada Free Press, has the following to say of their recent visit to that city: "The Guy Brothers' great minstrel combination occupied the boards at the Opera House last night and gave a rare performance of the kind. It eclipsed anything in that line given in Ottawa heretofore, not even excepting Haverley, Primrose & West or Cleveland. From beginning to end it was entertaining and just as represented on the fence bills. Guy Brothers are without an equal. There are six of them, and they are the most clever black cork artists in minstrelsy. They give a show that is full of fun. It includes singing, dancing, gymnastic specialties and instrumental selections of an enjoyable character. To the brothers belong more praise than space will allow. The show is clean throughout, and is an exception to all others." There will be a grand street parade at noon tomorrow, in which all the members participate.

Lovers of good comedy will be pleased to hear that that mirth provoking success, "Side Tracked," will be presented at Music Hall next Saturday matinee and night. "Side Tracked" is well known as a bright, breezy comedy, with sensational effects, and thickly interspersed with catchy music, songs, duets, trios and dances, and is being presented by one of the strongest musical companies now on the road. Don't miss it.

A CAT'S INSTINCT.

Other Vessels Came In But She Waited For the Right One.

When the Bayonne came to Philadelphia recently, it had a pet, an ordinary black and white pussy, whose birthplace was far beyond the Italian Alps. The cat was a present to Captain Von Hugo, and had accompanied him on several voyages.

While the big oil tanker was loading [illegible] go at Point Breeze, to the horror of the captain and the consternation of the steward, who was charged with its keeping, the animal disappeared the day after presenting to the ship four beautiful kittens. Well organized parties searched the tanker from stem to stern, and thoroughly explored the streets and wharves around the oil works, but all to no avail. Pussy was gone and with much regret Captain Von Hugo was obliged to make sail without his old companion.

Two days after the Bayonne left, the prodigal returned. Running down on the wharf, it cast anxious glances at the big bark Sternbeck, which now occupied the pier formerly held by the Bayonne. Visiting in succession every ship in the vicinity, the instinct of the cat forbade it boarding any of them, and, finally, giving up in despair, it cast its lot in the watch box of Watchman Manly, seemingly reconciled to the fact that it must await the appearance of the absent oil ship. When the oil ship was still far down the stream, on her return voyage, pussy took her position at the end of the wharf, showing by a thousand antics that the oncoming craft was the one she had anxiously waited for so many weeks. Unnecessary to say, perhaps, that the recognition was mutual, from Captain Von Hugo on the bridge to the big black dog barking on the poop deck, and there was no need to decry the absence of an enthusiastic welcome. To cap the climax, when the Bayonne was yet twelve feet from the pier the cat's impatience reached the limit. With one flying leap it cleared the intervening space, and to the surprise of the cheering crew, ran directly to the place where her kittens were formerly domiciled. The latter were still on board and in a few minutes the happy family was again united.—Philadelphia Times.

Moody and the Sinless Man.

Some time ago a man who claimed perfection went to the Evangelist Moody and commiserated him on his low level of Christian experience. Mr. Moody, in a kind manner, asked his caller if he never sinned nor did any wrong.

"No; I have not sinned for years, neither have I done anything that was wrong," was the prompt reply.

"Well, I'm glad to know it," said Mr. Moody "but before I am convinced I would like to ask your wife."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Mr. Messler has been failing for a long time, and about ten days ago was stricken with a paralytic stroke, from which he was unable to rally. CHRISTMAS SERVICES POSTPONED.

Sudden Illness of Organist Schilling Prevented Programme Being Carried Out.

Owing to the sudden illness of Frederick Schilling, the organist and choirmaster of the First Presbyterian church, the Christmas exercises of that church had to be postponed Sunday evening. Prof. Schilling was taken sick during the afternoon, and a Westfield physician stated that it would be endangering his life if he attempted to officiate at the services that evening. Consequently, Rev. C. E Herring, pastor of the church, decided to postpone the exercises rather than go on with them without the organist, as a large part of the programme was of a musical nature.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

London, Dec. 27.—The Venice correspondent of the Times says:

Don Carlos, who is in perfect health, desires me to deny absolutely the report that he contemplates abdicating. On the contrary, he says he is more resolved than ever to fulfill his role to the end. He authorizes me to assert that he has asked no audience of the pope, and has requested nothing else of his holiness.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Miss Jessie Schley, who made Spain beg for peace, has not yet expressed her opinion on Philippine annexation. Consequently it might be just as well to proceed cautiously in this matter.

The Czar wishes for peace when he is before folks, and as soon as they turn their backs he whispers to the Navy and Army and Ordinance departments to brush up and put on a front. But if the other folks would stop fighting, maybe he would, too.

A lecturer on wastes in American households estimates that 100,000 families could be fed with the food daily thrown away by hotels, restaurants and large private establishments in New York alone. The cause is said to be the abundance of food and the bad cookery in America. If the figures are true New York is a big field for missionaries in domestic science.

American girls, according to Dean Smith, of Barnard College, are growing taller with startling rapidity. Bryn Mawr has kept statistics for twenty years, and the figures indicate an increase in the height of students of 2 or 3 inches. The average height of the girl of '85 was 5 feet 3 inches, and of '88, 5 feet 4 inches. It is now 5 feet 6 inches. The students at Vassar are reported to be taller than in any previous year.

Do you know a man who twiddles his thumbs all the time he talks to you, or his fingers, or possibly the watch chain which he wears? Or if he does not do any of these things he does something equally as annoying. It may be that you yourself, when you sit thinking what you will say next to your typewriter girl, beat time with the tips of your fingernails, while she taps her foot. All these little idiosyncracies the neurologist classes as physical automatisms and regards as energy wasters. Mental automatisms are attracting a great deal of attention, and Dr. G. Stanley Hall, of Clark University, has sent out a syllabus asking you whether you find yourself avoiding or stepping on cracks, or counting figures in patterns, or the posts flying past the windows, grouping uniformly recurring shapes in wall paper, or bisecting lines and rows of figures.

The great Napoleon counted windows as he walked abroad, and if he happened to lose count his temper was completely upset for the rest of his walk. Everybody knows the story of poor old Dr. Johnson, who counted posts, and many sad insane men are doing the same to-day. There is a man who rides on the Olive street cars who plays a tattoo with his pencil from Grand avenue to Broadway, and you know just who the lady is who fans constantly while you are trying to get interested in the sermon, the cold blast striking you in the most tender part of the neck. One should avoid as much as possible this tendency of mind and body to dissipate needed energy.

A close approach to total abstinence from alcohol in any form now has its advocates in the medical profession. They view the question entirely from the practical, professional standpoint, and assert not only that intoxicants are of no medical value except in rare instances, but that in the vast majority of diseases they are positively deleterous, even when administred in minute quantities as the vehicles for other drugs. At a meeting of the New York State Medical Association few of the papers read excited more discussion than did one by Dr. J. M. Farrington, of Broome County, on "The Passing of Alcohol." He declared that belief in the remedial efficacy of alcohol, which was practically unanimous a few years ago, is now held by a minority of the profession, the majority agreeing that alcohol impairs instead of aiding digestion, that it invariably retards, perverts, or destroys cell growth, and that its effects are depressing instead of stimulating. In the discussion that followed the reading of the paper, its conclusions were criticised by some of the doctors present, but their objections seemed to be rather that the author went too far than that he was not moving in the right direction. One speaker advised the substitution of acetic acid for alcohol as an extracting agent. A second said that in the last four years he had not given the equivolent of a teaspoonful of alcohol to all his patients put together, and that he was better satisfied with this practice than with that of previous years, in which he had used alcohol more freely. A third gave as the result of his long experience the opinion that alcohol should be prescribed with the greatest care, and he confessed with sorrow to having sent two persons to drunkard's graves by giving intoxicating liquors instead of the stimulants like caffeine or carbonate of ammonium, which he would now prescribe. All this was certainly "temperance talk" of the very strongest and most impressive kind, likely to have, it seems to us much more effect than all the inaccurate eloquence of the men of one idea.

TWO KINDS OF PEOPLE.

No: the two kinds of people on earth I mean
Are the people who lift and the people who lean.

Wherever you go you will find the world's masses
Are always divided in just these two classes.

And, oddly enough, you will find, too, I ween,
There is only one lifter to twenty who lean.

In which class are you? Are you easing the load
Of overtaxed lifters who toil down the road?

Or are you a leaner, who lets others bear
Your portion of labor and worry and care?

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

A WHILE AGO.

Some apostle of things occult has said that the lines that are past resume their thread with fate in the living of the present. Vows made in centuries gone by, and since neglected, can be expiated by lips that whisper them to-day.

It is an ingenious sophistry, for in romance all lips have whispered the same words of love today, yesterday and to-morrow.

Now I am not a romantic fellow. I have plenty of money and have never been permitted to see or feel these stirring emotions that make tragedies in life. My past in the human drama has been a lazy, dozing, peaceful one. I have stood in the midst of dramatic scenes; I have looked into the faces of men, scarred and wounded in contact with the world, and passed on. I may have felt sorry for the seamy side of life, realizing that suffering was distinctly opposite to pleasure, but that is all. When I could help the pain with money I have done so; but then I had plenty—it was no effort to give it away.

I am doing something to-night I do not exactly remember to have done before consistently—I am thinking.

For the novelty of the thing, I am writing down on paper what I think, because it occurs to me I may forget all about it if I don't, and it will help me to remember what I have neglected to do all these years—to get married.

I don't believe in doing this sort of thing for money. Those story-writing "fellers" never mean a word of what they write, but I do; therefore my story shall be priceless.

I strolled into the "Black Cat" tonight for dinner. I was tired of the club, tired of Delmonico's, tired of dining out, so, instead of turning off Fifth avenue at Thirty-fifth street to my chambers, I walked on and on, till I could smell the garlic and lodging houses of Bleecker street, and, having crossed the once aristocratic Washington Square, I came to a little house with two lamps on the steps, and between them, swinging in the air above, the picture of a villainous looking cat, with a tail like a capital S. It was a French restaurant, where all the delicacies of the season, in seven courses, were advertised for the modest sum of fifty cents. I had survived many cheap table d'hotes abroad without permanent injury, and, besides, I was not really hungry. I was only bored.

The waiter looked at me searchingly, hung up my coat, then with marked deliberation counted out one spoon, one knife, one fork and one butter plate before me. Then he said:

"Will monsieur take the ordinary or the superior?"

It was because of the superior gifts of life that I was bored, so I said ordinary.

The room was full. I do not remember the faces of any of the people I saw. They were ordinary men and women, looking a little more tired and less interested in their dinners than the men and women whom I had seen at Delmonico's. I was disappointed. There was really nothing unusual or odd in the whole transaction excepting the dinner and its service, and I was about to move away, when, by chance, I looked a second time at a pair of dark eyes that I found gazing at me with quiet interest.

I looked at the hat above them.

It was a hood affair, with plenty of rich black velvet about it, and a light steel butterfly holding the huge bow together. There was a broad, pliable brim that cast a shadow over the face when she bowed her head.

I was particularly interested in the hat, because it was elegant yet simple, and up above, in the fashionable quarter where I came from, that was what the womer were most proud of.

When I looked under the hat, I found thick, black hair, parted in two rippling waves, slanting over a low, broad forehead, white and smooth. Then came the eyebrows, as though darkly penciled, with arching grace over the eyes. She was simply dressed in gray. To my mind the dress was cheap, and I did not look at it again, because I don't like cheap things.

Dining with her was an eccentric, sallow-looking man, who wore spectacles. I observed that his hair seemed a massive, uncombed quantity, doomed to go about the world upon a head shaped like an egg. He was young, apparently, but sickly, and this strange escort made me wonder still more about the lovely face.

Presently she returned my gaze with unaffected interest, and it flashed across my mind that we had met before, but casually. It had not been a mere transient acquaintance, but we had known each other intimately well. We seemed to know each other then, but some link from the past was missing, and we could only look at each other—there was no excuse to speak. Her face inspired the most reverent regard I had ever held for a woman, and I felt sorry for the cheap dress and shoddy escort. Even the hat was familiar to me, and the bright butterfly glistening like silver in the nest of rich black velvet seemed to assure me that we were old firends.

At length they finished dinner; he put a slight little cape about her shoulders; they passed out and were gone, and the place seemed suddenly empty to me. I did not follow them—that would have been rude—so, satisfied that my memory had clearly photographed her face, I paid my bill and passed out into the street.

As I crossed Washington Square the poor people about were more noticeable to me than usual. I found in their faces a pardon for poverty. Was it because I had seen that cheap, gray dress? Could a pair of dark eyes really change the scene of life to more tender aspect? It seemed so, for I did what I usually reserved for an office of duty, I walked into my father's house with an assurance in my mind that I should enjoy the visit.

"Well, Dick, this is kind of you to drop in on us in this way. Your mother will be glad to see you. You're such a wayward boy, since you've grown to manhood," he said, kindly, as he motioned me to a chair, and pushed the cigars and decanter toward me. It was very still in the room, the cigars were of the best, the liquor daintily served, and somehow or other I found the old gentleman more chummy than he had ever seemed to me before.

"Dick, marriage is a good thing for a young fellow like you with plenty of money. A wife gives you something to think about—something to do," said my father, seriously.

"Well, some day—some day!" I answered, vaguely.

"What happened between you and Dolly, Dick? We all thought you were fairly caught then."

"Nothing, only she was too good, too bright, too clever for an ordinary chap like myself. I felt as though she would never be happy with a tiresome fellow like me. You know she was a fine pianist. I couldn't appreciate that. I never cared for music. She could spend all day in a picture gallery. I couldn't unless it were full of photographs of pretty women and there you are. Dolly ought to marry a genius. It's the kind of man she could worship."

My father puffed vigorously at his cigar awhile, then his eyes became fixed on an oil painting that hung on the wall behind me. I turned and looked, too.

It was the portrait of a woman. Only the head and face were visible. A wide-brimmed hat covered with rich, black velvet, was brightened by a jewelled butterfly, pinned just at the bow knot.

Thick, dark hair, parted in wavy grace over a low, white forehead. The eyes were dark, with faint, arched brows.

The lips, the nose, the chin! It was the same face—identically the same face I had seen in the little cafe near Bleecker street—the girl in the cheap gray dress.

"That's your style of beauty—eh, Dick?" said my father, seeing I was absorbed in the picture.

"Yes," I answered, simply.

"Well, I admire your taste, but you don't see such faces to-day. The fashions have changed; the morals have changed since your grandmother sat for that portrait."

"Who painted it?"

"Her husband. She was the sort of woman you spoke of just now, like Dolly. She sang beautifully, she loved pictures, she wrote poetry—"

"Go on," I said, my eyes eagerly watching the vivid portrait of the past.

"Well, these things are all good in a way, but they are not practical. She married an artist. Just such a fellow as you would choose for Dolly—full of romance and poetry and fire. He painted that portrait of her and they fell in love, and were married secretly."

My fathers voice was less deliberate now.

"For five years they struggled. Her father would never forgive her recklessness, his adoration, and she died. After that they were sorry. They found her body in poor lodgings, with one dress on her back."

"Yes, yes, I know. It was a nasty, cheap, gray dress," I said, interrupting him, and, turning around, I saw my father's astonished face.

"How did you know that?"

"A chance. I guessed at it, that was all," I answered, apologetically.

But the facts were irrevocable.

I had met the exact counterpart of my patrician grandmother, in shoddy circumstances, in a cheap restaurant.

Was there some truth in the occult saying, that vows neglected in centuries past could be expiated by lips that should whisper pardon to-day? This is why I am thinking to-night, and this is why I have written down, as consistently as an amateur scribbler can, the record of my adventure.

What I really think is, that if I ever meet those dark eyes again, I will find a way to expiate the vows neglected in that past century.

I will relieve her of frowny escorts with uncombed hair, because they may be poor geniuses, and she shall never wear a cheap gray dress again.

Local-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Braunschweig.

Rohlum. Der auf dem Nachhausewege begriffene Uhrmacher Wiederhold wurde am Ueltzer Berge von einem Handelsmann eingeladen, auf dessen Wagen aufzusteigen. Obwohl Wiederhold in Folge eines steifen Beines das Gehen schwer wird, schlug er, wie er später meinte, in einer gewissen Voranhnung das Anerbieten anfänglich aus, bestieg aber auf nochmalige Aufforderung schließlich doch den Wagen. Kurz darauf scheuten die Pferde, die Zügel rissen entzwei, das Fahrzeug schlug um und die beiden Insassen wurden auf die Straße geschleudert. Wiederhold erlitt neben einigen leichteren Verletzungen einen dreifachen Bruch des rechten Armes. Der Führer des Wagens kam fast unbeschädigt davon.

Großherzogthum Hessen.

Darmstadt. Bei der Stadtverordnetenwahl, bei der 16 Stadtverordnete neu zu wählen waren, ist kein einziger Sozialdemokrat gewählt worden, trotzdem sich die bürgerlichen Parteien in vier Gruppen (Nationalliberale, Bezirksvereine, Freisinnige und Antisemiten) gespalten hatten und außerdem zwei Sozialdemokraten auf den Wahlzettel der Freisinnigen gesetzt waren.

Bad Nauheim. Der Neubau der israelitischen Kinderheilstätte an der Frankfurter Straße ist jetzt fertiggestellt und kann im April 1899 bezogen werden. Der Bau ist das Werk der Freifrau v. Rothschild in Frankfurt a. M. und verursachte einen Kostenaufwand von circa 200,000 Mark. In der verflossenen Saison wurden in der bisher in Miethlokalen untergebrachten Anstalt 118 Kinder verpflegt, 64 Knaben und 54 Mädchen. Die Pfleglinge hatten sämmtlich Freistellen, sie werden sogar auf Kosten der Anstalt von der Heimath abgeholt und ebenso wieder zurückgebracht.

Bayern.

München. Bei der jüngsten Durchfahrt des Kaisers war die vor der Einfahrtshalle des Bahnhofes über die Bahnhofsanlage führende öffentliche Brücke von der Polizei eine Zeit lang abgesperrt. Die aus den umliegenden großen Fabriken kommenden Arbeiter mußten eine viertel bis eine halbe Stunde warten. In Rosenheim war der neben dem Bahnhof über die Bahnhofsanlage führende eiserne Steg ebenfalls abgesperrt. — Neulich Abends brannte es im königlichen Schlosse zu Nymphenburg. Es brannte das Heulager, vermuthlich in Folge Selbstentzündung nieder. — Dem japanischen Hauptmann Oma wurde die Genehmigung zur Dienstleistung beim königlich bayerischen Infanterie-Leib-Regiment bis zum Schluß der Herbstwaffenübungen 1899 ertheilt.

Aschaffenburg. In Amorbach steckte ein Bäckergeselle die Scheune seines Herrn in Brand. Das Feuer griff rasch um sich und zerstörte eine Reihe von Nebengebäuden. Acht Besitzer sind geschädigt; vier Feuerwehren hatten über vier Stunden angestrengt zu arbeiten, um den Brand zu bewältigen. Der Thäter ist verhaftet.

Dachau. Ueberritten wurde der 68jährige Privatier Leonhard Huber von Erdweg. Dort fand ein Pferderennen statt und Huber ging bei dem Eintreffen der ersten Pferde unvorsichtig über die Rennbahn, wurde von einem Pferde mit solcher Wucht an einen Kilometerstein geschleudert, daß die Schädeldecke des alten Mannes zertrümmert wurde. Nach zwei Stunden verstarb der Verunglückte.

Gerolzhofen. Die gräflich v. Schönborn'sche Gutsherrschaft ließ auf Ströhlhof bei Rimbach eine Anzahl von Arbeiterwohnungen erbauen. Die Kinder der verheiratheten Dienstboten und Arbeiter müssen zur Zeit noch die Schule in Rimbach besuchen.

Regen. Ende November hatten wir hier ein regelrechtes Gewitter mit Blitz und Donner. Es fielen massenhafte Schlossen in der Größe von Taubeneiern.

Regensburg. Wie verlautet, soll der Prozeß gegen Bankier Ulrich, hier, wegen Wechselfälschung unter Anderem nicht vor dem Schwurgerichte, sondern vor dem Landgerichte Regensburg stattfinden. In diesem Falle wäre eine Anklage wegen betrügerischen Bankerotts nicht erhoben.

Weißenburg a. S. Dieser Tage stürzte der Mittelthorthurm, ein altes Wahrzeichen der Stadt, ein. Glücklicher Weise hatte man schon vorher einige Risse an dem Thurme bemerkt, die den Einsturz befürchten ließen und in Folge dessen den Verkehr gesperrt, so daß weiteres Unglück verhütet wurde.

AND THAT IS LIFE.

A crust of bread and a corner to sleep in,
A minute to smile and an hour to weep in,
A pint of joy to a peck of trouble,
And never a laugh but the moans come double;
And that is life!

A crust and a corner that love makes precious,
With a smile to warm and the tears to refresh us;
And the joys seem sweeter when care comes after,
And the moan is the finest of foils for laughter!
And that is life!

So grief must be bordered with gladness;
And the light of a smile
More than once in a while,
Helps a tear to unbosom Its sadness."

Paul Lawrence Dunbar.

A LOVER AND HIS LASS

Rockhampton was spellbound. Yes, actualy and literally spellbound Never, no, never, had they imagined such a thing likely to happen; and the ladies of that highly respectable little New England village shook their heads and sighed deeply.

And really, my dear readers, I was and am, just as much surprised as they were to hear the news. To think that Pamela Winthrop, the belle and greatest flirt in Covington county, was really and truly as the children say, going to be married. Well, well, well Hands and hearts of every description had been laid at her feet. Old and young men, rich and poor, ugly and handsome, had sought her; but she passed them all by with disdain, laughing and encourageing them one minute, and flouting and scorning them the next.

"I am perfectly willing to wait a little longer," she would say laughingly, to her mother, whose greatest wish was to see her darling safely and happily married.

And Mrs. Winthrop could only shake her head and smile. What was the use of talking to an incorrigible girl like that?

One bright summer day, Pamela strolled slowly through the woods to her favorite trysting tree. The principal reason she was so fond of it was because none of her numerous swains knew of its existence, and she threatened her mother with the penalty of dire displeasure should she disclose the secret.

As she approached her bower she saw to her disgust that the fortress had already been captured by some infidel, a veritable barbarian, who, with cigars and newspapers, seemed to be making himself perfectly at home.

"Well, I declare!" she said to herself. "I never saw such perfect indifference to the ordinary rules of civility. I suppose he thought that James put the seat there for the benefit of the suspicious characters in the neighborhood."

She forgot that the "suspicious character" could in all probability know nothing about her or her favorite retreats.

"Well, I shall advance," she said, with what she imagined to be a very imposing air, "and see if that young man has a sufficient amount of manners left to go home when he sees me."

As the trespasser heard the advancing of footsteps he looked up, but instead of being overcome with confusion and leaving her presence with a deep obeisance—nothing less than that would soothe her injured feelings—he calmly and deliberately took his feet off the seat and moved down so as to make room for her at the other end.

Pamela stood still and drew her breath.

"O tempora! O mores!" she murmured to herself.

Still the poor specimen of a benighted age never attempted to take his departure.

"Possibly," thought Pamela, "he thinks I am going to speak to him. Never! He is very good looking, though," she decided after taking a look at him through her long eyelashes. "His hair might be a little darker and he might be a little taller but then he might be a good deal shorter or even bald."

The last mentioned feature, in Pamela's eyes, amounted almost to a crime.

You will observe that she was gradually thawing toward the reprobate. Matters at this point were getting decidedly embarrassing. Each party continued to look at the other and really they might have become a second edition of Lot's wife if the man had not risen and with a very courtly bow, said—.

"Pardon me, am I intruding?"

"No more than I," thought Pamela. But she did not say that—oh, dear, no!—but simply smiled in a very bewitching way and answered,—

"Not at all, these woods are public property."

"Then perhaps this seat is your especial property?" he continued, and looked this time as if he really meant to go.

"After all," Pamela said to herself, "it is a great pity that a young nice looking man cannot admire the beauties of nature when so disposed, and this one looks like an artist or a poet."

O, Pamela, Pamela!

"Don't trouble yourself to move," she said very sweetly. "There is plenty of room for six on this seat, I can assure you."

Well to make a long story short, these two, naturally enough, began to discuss the weather, blessed weather! and then to scenery, delightful scenery! and when two long hours had passed, and Palmea discovered that the sun was sinking to rest, they knew each other's names, residences, families, and in fact, were quite as friendly as if they had known each other for two months instead of as many hours.

"Shall I see you again soon?" he asked, holding her hand a long, a very long time as they parted.

Palmea smiled and then looked serious.

"We have not been properly introduced," she said, "and you might—there is no knowing—be a brigand or a pirate, instead of a——"

"Most delightful young man," laughed he, finishing the sentence for her.

And she, would you believe it? never said no, but just smiled such a smile that Jack Hartington felt the day grow brighter and heard the birds sing more sweetly and tenderly than ever before. As he strode away through the lengthening meadows he whistled merrily, "Oh, there's nothing half so sweet in life as Love's young dream."

All the world and his wife thought that Miss Pamela Winthrop and Mr. J. Daffy's Hartington met for the first time at the garden party given by the rectors wife in aid of the Heathen and Cannibal Clothing Society, and that it was a case of love at first sight. They little knew that they had drained the cup of love to the dregs.

Within the next six days succeeding the garden party they had met twelve times—how they managed it heaven only knows—and within the following three weeks, thirty-six times.

All went smoothly as a marriage bell until Pamela, thinking to try her power over Jack, flirted disgracefully at a tennis party with one of her old admirers.

Jack's heart sank and his brow grew black as he watched the pair. Stop the flirtation, he would, but how? That was another question. After all she had never encouraged him half so much as she was encouraging that "long-legged begger" now.

"What is the matter, Hartington? You don't look happy," asked Pamela's cousin, as he came up to where he stood glowering.

"Umph!" said Jack.

"Is she at it again?" asked the tormentor.

No reply was vouchsafed to this remark.

"There is only one way to cure her and that is to go and do likewise," laughed the boy, and he strolled off to practice what he preached.

Half an hour afterwards, when Pamela turned around to see what her disconsolate love was doing and how he was enjoying himself, he was, to her disgust, deeply interested in a tall stately beauty who was sitting with him under the elm trees. This was turning the tables with a vengeance.

"Such heartlessness!" thought Pamela.

For the rest of the afternoon these two fit inmates for a lunatic asylum kept this game up, each appearing to be having a perfetcly delightful time but each feeling as miserable as it was possible for a mortal to feel.

By degrees, to Jack, the flirtation grew wearisome. Pamela didn't seem to be noticing it. So, slipping away from his companion at the first opportunity, he walked moodily down a side path, and there, face to face, he met his "fair but false one," who with the same feelings had also slipped away.

"I trust you are enjoying yourself, Miss Winthrop," said Jack, sarcastically.

"And you?" said she in the same tone.

"Well, I don't find the moments dragging," replied he.

Now, this was unbearable, and Pamela walked away, her small head high in the air.

"Pamela," said Jack in a low tone

"Sir?" replied she.

"I am going away to-night."

Pamela stopped short. "What was the matter," she asked herself, "with the sky? Surely there must be a thunder storm gathering, it seemed so cloudy and so hot, and the grass looked parched, and even the birds had stopped singing."

"Are you?" she said mechanically.

"Yes," he replied.

She showed so little feeling at what he thought would be a bombshell that his face grew longer than ever.

"I suppose we shall never meet again, then. Your summer vacation with all its pleasures, is over, and—"

Words failed her.

"Won't you say good-by?" he said.

"Good-by," she said, holding out her hand.

He shook it gently and turned to go the most miserable young man in Christendom, when a low word that sounded like "Jack," reached his ear, and then a sob.

"Pamela, my darling!" And with two strides he was at her side, this time forever.

Agreed With the Druggist.

A druggist was considerably perturbed the other day, and it must be admitted not altogether without cause. The first he knew about it was intimated by a regular customer, who, forsaking his funereal gloom for a moment, popped his head in and, nodding approvingly, said, with a chuckle, "I wish I could say the same."

The druggist was mystified, but smiled back benignly.

Then someone else called out to him "You've got rid of your care. Happy man!" And for some time a fusilade of "I agree with you, old man!" "Quite right, too!" "Ah, you know the value of them," and the like laconic observations went on until the bewildered druggist at last rushed madly out of his shop, and, seizing one of his persecutors, demanded to know what it all meant.

The captive said nothing, but smiling grimly, he pointed up to the shop front, where the legend ran, "Prescriptions dispensed with." Some practical joker had painted out the concluding word "care."

CURRENT COMMENT.

The London Figaro contains the following from a correspondent: "I regret to learn that the Emperor William fell from his horse at Wilhelmshohe, but was not killed."

China's military cadets will have to pass an examination in stone slinging and archer before they can graduate as officers. Poor old China! She expects to stop 13-inch shells with pebbles and arrows, and is going to keep out progress with measures just as forcible.

Colorado is in favor of the abolition of capital punishment, but thinks, with Alphonse Karr, that the murderers should stop first. Two years ago the state passed a law making life imprisonment instead of death the penalty for murder, and now there is a popular agitation for its repeal. It was found by experiment that as to stopping first, the Colorado murderer would not think of it; in fact, he would not stop at all, and went on worse than ever as soon as the law abolishing the death penalty was passed. An effort will now be made to have it restored, and though it promises to encounter sentimental and humanitarian opposition, the prospects are that it will succeed, and the moral average of homicides in that state be restored.

The Chickasaw Legislature has passed a law which is intended to stop white men from marrying Indian women, by taxing them $600 for a marriage license.

There are about ten thousand full blooded Indians in the Chickasaw tribe, while the others are about fifty thousand in number, and are half and quarter bloods, and among them are many squaw men. These squaw men are white men who have married Indian women and settled upon Indian lands. This practice is not to the liking of the full-blooded Indians, but they were powerless until recently. At the last tribal election the full-bloods, for the first time in twenty years got control of the council. Since then they have made life a burden for the halfbreeds and squaw men. Many laws have been passed detrimental to their interests, but the most effective action of all was taken last week, when the price of a marriage license was raised from $50 to $600. This is applicable only to white men who would marry Indian women. Considering, however, that the average Chickasaw girl has tribal property to the value of about $3,000, the price of a marriage license may not yet effect the shrewd white speculators who have been marrying the Chickasaw belles for revenue only.

According to Gen. Roy Stone, Porto Rico islands offers a splendid field for American electric railway engineers. The roads in the interior are in a chronic state of impassibility by any but the lightest vehicles. Oxen sink to their knees, and carts to their axles, and the transportation of the native products from the interior to the sea ports is so difficult and expensive that the commerce of the whole island is greviously hampered. There is splendid soil for coffee, but it costs $2 a hundred-weight to bring the berry from the plantations to the coast, on the heads of men or women, or on pack animals. In bringing out sugar from the distant plantations to the wharf the difficulty of transportation is still more detrimental to the interests of the estates. Gen. Stone thinks that wagon roads, as known in the states, will never be practicable to any great extent in Porto Rico, where the rains are heavy and destructive; but he believes that electric roads will do all that is needed, and that there will soon be a net-work of them over the island. The power for generating current is ready to the hand of the engineer. The rivers rise in the mountains in the interior and have an average fall of 2500 feet in their short race to the sea. From this abundance of water, constantly pouring over high falls, the power for the electric roads could be easily procured. The roads themselves could be graded so as to suffer the minimum of damage from the tropical rains. The Porto Rico laborer is described as resembling the Italian of the same class. His labor is cheap, about one-fourth that of an American laborer; he is cheerful, industrious and economical, and it takes little to clothe and feed him. It is a most hopeful and encouraging sign that almost every one on the island is already beginning to learn English. Electric roads for freight and passengers will open out the resources of the whole island, including sugar, coffee, tobacco, bananas, cocoanuts and a multitude of delicious fruits to the American market. Gen. Stone also prophesies that in a few years Porto Rico will be the winter resort of America. Its climate equals that of Florida or Cuba, and its scenery is magnificent. As soon as the electric roads open up communication with the interior, the tourist will be able to visit all the show places of the island, and Gen. Stone looks to the early erection of American hotels throughout the country, to be followed by roadhouses, and eventfully by the regulation boarding house.

THE HALLIDAY HUNT.

Mr. Percival Satterlee was anxiously considering a communication which he had just received as he sat over his breakfast at the club. It was an invitation—one which hundreds of young men in New York City would have given half they possessed to receive. Satterlee himself would not have parted with it for a good deal. Yet the receipt of it had embarrassed him not a little.

The paper was dainty and bore the magic distinction implied by an engraved crest. The invitation read as follows:

"Halliday Hall, Long Island.

"Dear Mr. Satterlee:

"We are down here for a few weeks of the fox-hunting season, and Mr. Halliday and I would be pleased to have you make one of our house party for ten days from next Wednesday. Mr. Halliday desires me to add that the Meadowmere hounds will meet at our house on Thursday, and that he has arranged to mount all his guests.

"Hoping that you will be able to come, I am, Very sincerely yours,

"Lavinia Halliday."

It was a poser for poor Satterlee. On the one hand was the undoubted opportunity to meet again and make ardent love to the rich and beautiful Miss Halliday, upon whom he had danced attendance during this, her first season in town; on the other—Satterlee had dreadful doubts and misgivings as to his horsemanship, and the invitation seemed to threaten fox hunting and hard riding between every line.

Satterlee groaned. "I was just beginning to make some headway," he muttered. "And now they must get up this precious scheme to compel me to make an ass of myself. One thing is very sure," he snapped, "if Diana ever marries me I'll soon put an end to this fox-hunting nonsense."

Finally he had almost decided to decline the invitation altogether, when Dick Middleton entered the room.

"Why, hello, Percy," cried Dick "you seem to have something on your mind. What's your trouble?"

"I've just had a line from Mrs. Halliday," said Satterlee, striving to conceal his triumph, for Middleton was one of his hated rivals for the favor of the fair Diana. "She wants me to join her house party at Halliday Hall next week."

"Better go, old man," returned Middleton promptly. Good house—good people—good sport—I'll be there," he added by way of final inducement.

Satterlee gasped. The fact that Middleton was invited too was a bitter blow, but it settled a question for him. Moved by a sudden inspiration he hastily finished his breakfast and going into the reading room penned the following to Mrs. Halliday:

"——— Club.

"My Dear Mrs. Halliday:

"It gives me great pleasure to accept your very kind invitation for next Wednesday. I regret to say, however, that my part in the sport to follow will not be a conspicuous one, as I had the misfortune to sprain my bridle wrist badly while hunting in Pennsylvania recently. Perhaps the accident may prove a blessing, as I trust it will enable me to enjoy more of your society during my stay.

"Very truly yours,

"Percival Satterlee."

"That last is a fine stroke," said Satterlee to himself, smiling at his own ingenuity, as he sealed and directed the missive.

Halliday Hall presented a spirited scene on the following Thursday. Extensive preparations had been made and were now being perfected for the aunt breakfast which its hospitable owner had tendered to the members of the Meadowmere Hunt and his neighbors.

Satterlee, his left arm supported in a sling, was almost the last member of the house party to appear in the breakfast room, where a large number of people were already assembled. He was in a somewhat dismal humor, which he cleverly turned to good account by telling every one it was because he couldn't ride. As a matter of fact, he shuddered to think of the opportunities Middleton might have out hunting to say sweet nothings to Diana. Great was his surprise and delight, therefore, when the fair sportswoman came down attired not in a riding habit, but a long driving coat, and informed him very graciously that she was not going to ride, that her favorite hunter was lame, and that she would be glad to drive Mr. Satterlee to the meet if he wished.

Satterlee was beside himself with delight. He could not help thinking the hunter's lameness was only an excuse, and that the fair Diana would rather jog quietly around the roads in a pony cart with him than follow the hounds without him. Indeed, so elated was he that he could scarcely eat any breakfast, and to save himself he could not but dart one or two triumphant glances at Middleton.

Presently there was a great bustle in the breakfast room, and eager sportsmen and sportswoman started out to look up their horses, which were being walked to and fro on the lawn. The hounds in charge of the huntsmen were already on the way to the covert, where a fox was reported to be in hiding. Soon the whole field was astir, and Miss Halliday sent for her horse.

Satterlee's heart sank within him, as he saw, instead of a lazy pony, a restless young thoroughbred between the shafts of a light game-cart, being led around to the door by a groom. Higgins, the coachman, had also accompanied the trap to the dooor, and Satterlee, who was at heart an arrant coward, where horses were concerned, noted with a tremor the evident anxiety in Higgins's face. There was none in Miss Halliday's, however, as she stepped lightly into the cart and gathered up the reins, motioning Satterlee to follow. Just as he did so the horse, a handsome bay, reared violently, in spite of the efforts of both of the men to keep him down. Miss Halliday treated him to a cut from her whip, which only had the effect of making him rear again; then, as he lowered his head, she called to the men to stand clear, and away they bowled down the drive at a pace that made Satterlee cling to the side of the cart and hold his breath in trepidation.

"You see," exclaimed Miss Halliday coolly, "he has only been in harness once before. Steady, my boy, steady, Rocket."

They soon caught up with the hounds and horsemen, and Miss Halliday managed to curb Rocket's ardent enthusiasm sufficient to keep him in the rear.

"Look at the darling," she exclaimed rapturously, "how he watches the hounds. I shouldn't be surprised if he wanted to follow them."

Such, indeed, proved to be the case. No sooner had the hounds been thrown into covert than Rocket began to display unmistakable signs of restlessness, standing on his hind legs at one moment, lashing out vigorously with them the next, and at other times dancing gayly with all four feet at once.

Satterlee, trembling in every limb, wished himself safe out of the adventure—back at Halliday Hall—at the club—anywhere but where he was. Presently a shout was heard. The fox had broken cover, and the apparently listless band of horsemen settled themselves in the saddle, and started across a low fence by the roadside. The fence, by no means a strong one, was not proof against the charge of such a body, and before the last one went over it three or four panels were lying flat on the ground.

Meanwhile, Rocket, with two men hanging on to the bridle, was making violent efforts to throw himself over backward, while Satterlee was vainly imploring Miss Halliday to get out and save her life. She paid not the slightest attention to him, but her eyes, lighting upon the recently created gap in the fence, she took a firmer hold of the reins and called "Let go" to the two onlookers who had rushed to her assistance.

Fortunately the field was a large one, but Satterlee's anxious eyes could see no way out of it. Hounds were running at least three fields away, but the main body of horsemen were just clearing a low stone wall at the farther side of the field. "Good," cried Miss Halliday: "there's a gate," as stout old Henderson, who never was known to jump, managed to pull it open with his hunting crop. Seeing Miss Halliday and her galloping horse, he had just time to pull it wide open as Rocket galloped madly through, bumping the right wheel box severely on the gate post. Satterlee resigned himself to silence and to fate. He gripped the side of the cart determinedly, a hard, set look on his pale face. The pace was getting faster and faster, and many of the horsemen were dropping behind. Now a light post and rail fence loomed up leading out into the road. One by one, the horsemen, led by the huntsman and by Fred Galloway, the M. F. H., popped lightly over it.

"It looks pretty rotten," said Miss Halliday cheerfully, and Satterlee closed his eyes. Smash, bang! Splinters flew in every direction and somehow or other they had gotten through it—heaven knows how—and were galloping along a soft country road.

By great good luck the hounds, who were now closing rapidly upon their fox, had taken the same line and Satterlee breathed a shade easier. "Hurrah!" cried Miss Halliday, looking around, "we are leading the field." True enough the hounds had made a turn which gave them an advantage over the horsemen.

They were now in the same field with the hounds and Reynard was only a few yards ahead of them. The horsemen, who had lost ground by the turning of the scent, were gaining on them rapidly.

"They will kill him in a minute. Go on, Rocket, go on," cried Miss Halliday, and suddenly they came upon another post and rail fence. "We'll try it," she said composedly. Satterlee closed his eyes. There was a shock, a tremendous jar, and he felt himself flying through space. Then came unconsciousness.

When he came to he found himself lying in the bottom of a light wagon, being driven back to Halliday Hall.

"Where—where is Miss Halliday?" he asked in a confused way. "Was she very much hurt?"

"Not a bit of it, old man," promptly returned Tom Withers, a fellow guest at Halliday Hall, who was sitting beside the driver. "Far from it. She was given the brush, and is being being driven home by Dick Middleton, not a bit the worse of her adventure.

At Halliday Hall that night an important announcement was made—the engagement of Miss Diana Halliday to Dick Middleton. And Percival Satterlee was the first to congratulate the lucky man, an act which he performed, it may be mentioned, without the slightest inward pang of jealousy or regret.—Alfred Stoddart, in the Criterion.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

The Christmas service at this church was held Sunday afternoon, at which time the Sunday-school scholars, teachers and friends assembled and joined heartily in the programme. The church was prettily decorated about the pulpit platform with greens and flowers and the effect was admired. The church choir was present and assisted in the rendition of the Christmas music. The following programme was presented under the direction of Miss Lunger, superintendent of the primary department: Recitations, "The Little One's Welcome," Mildred Long, Madeline Uhrhahn, Stella Kline, Kittie Peony, Jennie Nelson, Bessie Taft, Marion Major; "Joy of Christmas," Willie Morton; "Why We Love to Bring Christmas Gifts to Jesus," Carrie VanArsdale, Laura Woolston, Viola Higgins, Bessie Pope, Grace Woolston, Etta Bodenheimer, Mabel Wakefield; "How the Wise Men Found the Christ Child," Carrie VanArsdale, Margaret Rickett, Alice DeMott, Kittie Rutledge, Laura Dean, Florence Rickett; "Christmas Morning," Mildred Long; "Everybody Thinks," Helen Ross; "Eddie's Little New Year," Miss Grace Gaddis. Bert Simpson presided at the organ, and during the service a selection was given by Lindley Hillman, violin, and Walter Serrell, flute. The services were in charge of Superintendent John Valiant, and he received the offerings from the various classes. In all $18.38 was received for the missionary department. There is now about $45 in hand for the expenses of the school and by a rising vote it was agreed that $5 of the next quarter's collection should be appropriated to this fund to complete the $50 necessary for school purposes. Next Sunday the regular church Christmas music will be rendered.

MONROE AVENUE M. E. CHURCH.

The Monroe Avenue M. E. church looked very pretty Sunday in its holiday attire of greens. Christmas services were held there morning and afternoon. In the morning the pastor, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, preached an interesting sermon suited to the day.

The Sunday-school held its special service in the afternoon when the Christmas service, entitled "The Heralds of Peace," was given under the direction of the superintendent, Walter M. McGee. It included carols by the school, exercises by the primary department, a solo by J. P. Thompson, and an address by the pastor. Ed Beekman led the responsive readings.

HOLY CROSS CHURCH.

At the Holy Cross church a lengthy programme of Christmas music was rendered by the choir at both the morning and evening services. The decorations in the church were of greens and holly wreaths, which were displayed around the altar and choir loft.

SWEDISH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Sunday evening in the W. C. T. U. rooms the members of the Swedish Missionary Society observed Christmas in an appropriate manner. The pastor, Rev. O. G. Tinglof, was in charge, and there was an orchestra of guitars and violins that assisted very much in the rendition of the music. During the service they rendered several selections. A choir of mixed voices also sang several Christmas carols. There were three declamations as follows: "Peace on Earth," Emma Swedberg; "Come to Jesus," Hulda Back; "The Praying Children," Hulda Erikson, and there was also a recitation in concert by the scholars, and a vocal solo was given by Nelly Linner. During the evening the pastor delivered an address on the theme, "Reminescence of the Christmas Tree," and he also extended the pastoral blessings. After the rendition of the above programme gifts were presented to all from the Christmas tree, and everyone went away feeling very happy.

CHURCH OF THE REDEEMER.

The choir at the Church of the Redeemer, Sunday, rendered special Christmas music, and the church was trimmed up in a holiday fashion with evergreens.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

At the First Presbyterian church the special Christmas service began in the morning with a service in which the members of the Sunday school as well as the choir and congregation could join. The leaflet used was entitled "Bethlehem," the music being by George B. Nevis, and published by Ditson & Company. The carols were sung by the Sunday-school, the anthems by the choir and the selected hymns by the congregation. There was also an address by the pastor, Rev. C. E. Herring.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

Christmas Day was observed at the First M. E. church Sunday morning and afternoon with special services. The church was trimmed with holly and greens. In the morning Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the church, preached a special Christmas sermon. The choir, with several additions, sang four anthems at the service.

The Sunday school held its exercises in the afternoon which were quite elaborate. The superintendent, J. W. Jackson, was in charge. There were recitations by Miss Dorothy Douglass, Miss Edna Moore, Ralph and Eddie Bingaman, Allan Douglass and Miss Helen Douglass, a recitation by Miss Gertrude Anderson, with song by the primary department, carols by the school and by the primary department. Then followed a Christmas service entitled "Would I Were There."

In part first J. R. Joy and Miss Etta Raybert took the leading parts as "Narrator" and "Singer." A very pretty effect was given when the sudden appearance of a star was referred to. Then a star composed of electric lights, hanging at the head of the arch over the pulpit was suddenly illuminated. The electric star was designed and made by W. B. Rittenhouse, of this city. In part second Miss Etta Raybert and Miss Edna French were prominent. In the third part Miss Raybert and Rev. Dr. Snodgrass carried the burden of the service. There was no evening service.

GRACE P. E. CHURCH.

An elaborate musical programme was rendered at Grace Episcopal church Sunday morning. The full choir was present, and a full choral Christmas service was held. The Sunday-school met in the afternoon, and in the evening the service was particularly impressive.

The decorations were superb, and consisted of evergreen, holly wreaths and holly berries. Over the entrance hung a great green star, and high above the alter a star of electric lights glittered during both services.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH.

No particular exercises were held in the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday. At the morning and evening services the pastor, Rev. J. W. Richardson, preached appropriate Christmas sermons, and the choir rendered Christmas anthems. There was also a solo by Miss Adelaide Runyon. In the afternoon the Sunday-school rehearsed the carols and responsive readings that are to be used at the entertainment Thursday evening. The decorations were of greens.

ST. STEPHEN'S CHURCH.

Christmas day was observed in St. Stephen's church with special carols by the boy choir and the pretty decoration of the church Greens were tastefully arranged about the sanctuary and will remain there during the holiday season.

CHURCH OF THE HEAVENLY REST.

An interesting children's service was held in the Sunday schoolroom of of the Church of the Heavenly Rest Christmas morning. A stable had been constructed by the Superintendent, large enough to shelter a good sized pony, in the back of which was a manger filled with hay, the whole constructed as near a representation of the manger in which Christ was born. The window in the manger was open, and this being covered with a dark blue paper dotted here and there with stars, one being large and particularly brilliant, and a lamp lighted behind it gave a very artistic effect which made them look as though really blinking in the heavens. After the singing of the carols the children one by one deposited a gift in the manger, which were given to the Children's Home. Some forty presents were collected.

CRESCENT AVENUE PRESBYTERIAN.

Elaborate musical programmes marked the Christmas services in the Crescent Avenue church Sunday morning and evening. The church was appropriately bedecked with greens about the platform, while a large bunch of white lilies stood on either side. A red floral cross hung on the front of the pulpit.

In the morning the pastor, Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, preached a Christmas sermon on the text: "Little Child." The musical programme was as follows:

Organ prelude—"Christmas Offertory." Guilmant
Anthem—Before the Heavens Were Spread Abroad, From Everlasting Was the Word." Horatio W. Parker
Soprano solo—"O Holy Redeemer" ..... Faure
Anthem—"Brightest and Best of the Sons of the Morning" ..... E. W. Hanscom
Text, Matt. 18:2—"A Little Child."
Offertory—"Shout the Glad Tidings." W. W. Gilchrist
Organ Postlude—"Marche Solonelle." Charles Gounod

The Sunday-schools of the church and the three chapels, Warren, Hope and Bethel, held a union Christmas service in the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the church. There were carols by the school, a solo by G. Morgan Strickiett, prayer by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, address by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, prayer by Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, and benediction by Rev. F. D. Tildon. The primary department also sang two carols.

In the evening another special musical service was held. The pastor preached on the text, "Lying in a Manger." The musical programme was as follows:

Organ Prelude—"Pastoral Symphony." Handel
Anthem—"Say, Where is He Born, the King of Judea ..... Mendelssohn
Tenor Solo—"My Heart Ever Faithful, Sing Praise, Be Joyful" ..... J. S. Bach
Quartette—"O Little Town of Bethlehem." Nevin
Anthem—"There Were Shepherds." Dudley Buck
Text, Luke 2:12—"Lying in a Manger."
Offertory, "Sleep, Baby, Sleep"..Thos. Adams
Organ Postlude—"Hallelujah" ..... Handel

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH.

St. Joseph's church was appropriately decorated for the Yuletide season Sunday, and in commemoration of the holiday a special musical service was rendered by the choir under the direction of J. E. Baily. The soloists were J. E. Baily, bass; A. E. LaPorte, tenor; Miss Smith, soprano; Miss Leahy, alto. Mrs. LaPorte presided at the organ.

Ways in Mexico.

The arrangement of furniture in a Mexican house is much more formal than in the United States. It is a very common sight to see a splendidly furnished parlor with a row of straight backed chairs all alike with their backs against the wall and as close together as they can be placed.

Heavy single doors, such as are used in the United States, are practically unknown in Mexican houses either at entrances or between interior rooms. All doors open in the middle, and are fastened with bolts top and bottom. Exterior doors are always fitted with glass panels, for they also serve as windows. All such doors opening on the street or open court are fitted with solid shutters that are folded at the sides out of sight when not in use.

A good Mexican cook relieves the mistress of the house of worry and responsibility in a manner that is almost unknown in the United States. The cook is given so much a day, and with this amount she will purchase each morning all the provisions for the day, even the staples that are usually bought in large quantities in other countries. On a dollar a day a cook will provide a very good table for a family of three or four, and get enough beans and tortillas and chile to set the servants' table besides. They can really do better than their mistresses, because they can usually drive sharper bargains with the market men of their own class, and they have more patience to haggle over the last penny.—The Modern Mexican.

Wheeler's Coolness in Battle.

During the battle of New Hope Church, "Fighting Joe" Wheeler, who was, as usual out with the confederate firing lines, was saluted by an aide-de-camp: "Gen. Walker's compliments, sir. The General intends an advance over this ground and would like to know if there is any masked artillery on your front."

"I'll soon find out, Major Ross," said Gen. Wheeler; and, beckoning to his staff, he galloped forward to a slight eminence and planted a guidon. A moment later a puff of smoke in the distance, and the shrilling of a shell as it flew over them showed what was ahead.

"Major, you may tell Gen. Walker that there is a masked battery in front of this position," said Gen. Wheeler, giving his horse the rein.

"But isn't that a rather risky way of unmasking a battery," ventured Major Ross.

"The first shots always fly high," was the cool reply.—San Francisco Wave.

THE LONDON FAKIR.

HOW MR. HOOLEY'S DOLLARS INFLUENCED ARISTOCRACY.

Men Approaching Royalty Are Besmirched By the Promoter—The Queen Interested in Disclosures as Some of Them Attach Her Proteges.

Mr. Hooley, the bankrupt company promoter of London, will go down to posterity as the man who has wrecked more reputations among the higher classes of society than anybody else ever succeeded in doing since the days of the delightful gentleman, Mr. Titus Oates.

It is difficult to convey to you exactly the eminent distinction which is supposed to be conferred upon a man when he has the privilege of passing through the doors of that stronghold of upper-class Conservatives. The Carlton is the club par excellence of the majority of the peers, inasmuch as four-fifths of the members of the House of Lords are Conservatives. To be a member of the Carlton insures at least a nodding acquaintance with the grandest siegneurs of the British realm. Indeed, a duke once observed in giving evidence in a law court, that he regarded a certain witness as an equal, because he was a member of the Carlton Cub. That a man known to be very rich should contribute to the funds of the conservative party if he happened to be a member of the Carlton Club, was regarded as a natural sequence of his membership; but that it should be intimated to a man of Mr. Hooley's description that he could become a member of the Carlton Club, if he contributed 10,000 pounds to the Conservative party is almost as great a disturbance in the social atmosphere as the other remarkable disclosure made by Mr. Hooley in regard to the peers of the realm who became directors of his companies. "for large considerations." Mr. Hooley also states that he gave Sir William Marriott, Q. C., a present of 1,000 pounds for assuring his election to the club, and likewise left in his hands a check for 50,000 pounds to obtain if possible a baronetcy. By "baronetcy" you must not understand "barony." The latter is a peerage, the former a sort of "Sir John" or "Sir Thomas" being inherited by the eldest surviving male relations from generation to generation.

It took a good deal of very close cross-examination to obtain an admission from Sir William Marriott that he did hold the check for 50,000 pounds for a considerable period with a view to obtain a baronetcy with that money if possible for Mr. Hooley. Now Sir William Marriott has always been regarded as a great and influential personage in the Conservative party. The fact that he had custody of that 50,000 pound check for a certain time, suggests that he had reason to believe he could purchase the title for his friend, and clearly indicates that many more titles perhaps have been obtained in the same way.

Just, however, as the disclosures about peers and Boards of Directors have ruined chances of all future employment of this description for impecunious wearers of coronets, so will the disclosure that Mr. Hooley actually did pay 10,000 pounds for membership of the Carlton Club put a stoppage on the traffic in membership to exclusive clubs, social or otherwise. It has long been whispered that one or two men of high position have considerably increased their income by obtaining membership for wealthy parvenus of such clubs as White's, Boodle's or the Mariborough. Membership in this last club in fact was supposed to involve the possession of the I. O. U. signed by a very great personage indeed, but that I am told is entirely untrue. The committee of the Carlton Club, however, have announced their intention of seeing that the Hooley 10,000 pounds is returned to the estate of the bankrupt. And a similar fate will befall the altar service of gold presented by Mr. Hooley to St. Paul's Cathedral.

A special report of each examination has been taken for the Queen's private secretary, and every word has been read to her Majesty. The other day, for instance, there were insinuations in regard to Lord Churchill. It was not clearly explained why Mr. Hooley thought it well to give his lordship 35,000 pounds more for an estate than the price originally demanded. Lord Churchill is a peer on his own account and has a common ancestor with the Duke of Mariborough in the victor of Blenheim. He is quite a young man, and, like his cousin the Duke, has also the title of Prince of the Roman Empire. He is apparently a close friend of Sir William Marriott. The Queen is his godmother, and at court he has the appointment of "lord-in-waiting." His wife is the daughter of the Earl of Lonsdale, and the Queen also became a godmother to the boy who was born a year or two ago and has been christened Victor. You may be very sure that Lord Churchill will be closely questioned by her Majesty. Hooley's aspersions are more or less discredited, but there is much truth in the old proverb: "If you throw enough mud it is bound to cling."

Charlie's Authority.

I've called you three times, Charlie,' said a mother to her little son, "and I'm very much annoyed because of your failure to answer me." "Well mamma," replied Charlie, who was very fond of reading Bible stories, "you ain't any better than the Lord, are you?" "No, of course not," answered the mother, in surprise. "Why did you ask that?" "Because," replied the little fellow, "the Lord called Samuel three times, and He didn't get mad about it."—Chicago News.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1898. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

INCOMING COUNCIL TALKS IT ALL OVER.

Fred H. Andrews Will be President of the Council.

PERMANENT PAVEMENTS.

COUNCILMEN THERE IRRESPECTIVE OF POLITICAL AFFILIATIONS.

Mayor-Elect Rockfellow and Councilman Homan Kept Away by Illness—One New Committee—Frank Corieli to be Chairman of Fire Committee—Streets and Police Committees Same as Present.

The eleven men who are to govern Plainfield during the year 1899 assembled at the home of Councilman E. T. Barrows last evening to settle on their organization and consider plans for the year's work. All were present with the exception of Mayor-elect G. W. Rockfellow and Councilman J. P. Homan, who were kept at home by illness. It was not a political gathering.

First of all, it was settled that Fred H. Andrews should be the next President of the Council. In the list of standing committees there is to be one change, the committee on printing and stationery is to be dropped and the work done by a new committee of assessment and taxes.

As the term of office of all the members of the fire and buildings committee has expired, an entirely new committee will have to be appointed. B. Frank Corieli will doubtless be chairman, as he is an ex-chief of the fire department. The other members will be George P. Mellick and R. I. Tolles. The street committee will retain its former members, Messrs. Barrows, Buckle and VanHerwerden. Mr. Buckle will probably be chairman of the police committee, with Messrs. Barrows and Homan as the other members.

Besides arranging the organization there was considerable discussion on subjects of local importance. While the Council of '98 was unable to do anything toward permanent pavements for the streets in the business section, the Council had expressed itself in favor of them. The Council of '99 declared itself in favor of them as being more economical for the city, as well as being far better for the people who use them.

While the members of the incoming Council made no preference regarding the kind of pavement, they believed that the city could reduce expenses materially and more than cover the interest on the bonds necessary to cover the cost of the improvement. The streets proposed for the new pavement are Front street, between Central and Watchung avenues; Park avenue, between Front and Fourth streets, and Somerset street, between Front street and the city line. It was also proposed to see the Jersey Central Railroad Company to see what proportion that corporation would stand of the cost of putting a permanent pavement on North avenue. The Plainfield Street Railway Company will have to stand about one-third the cost of the entire work.

The question of a city hall was suggested but not discussed to any great length. The Arlington avenue extension of the Plainfield Street Railway will undoubtedly be allowed under the same terms as the present extension.

Six Months More.

After the holidays the Plainfield Business College will resume work and continue till July 1st. It is the aim of this school to adopt the best systems of bookkeeping and shorthand, and the best text-books on all other subjects. Gadlers bookkeeping has no superior; and Isaac G. Dement, author of the shorthand text-book used in this college, is the most rapid writer in the world. Now is a good time to begin a course of study.

Anchor Lodge Elect.

Last evening the following officers were elected at the regular communication of Anchor Lodge, No. 148, F. and A. M.: Worshipful master, Stephen Higham; senior warden, G. W. V. Moy; junior warden, S. B. Joseph; treasurer, J. E. Turrill; secretary, G. A. Rogers; senior deacon, J. C. VanDyke; junior deacon, George Macintyre.

Fourteen Remarkable Old Ladies.

An attractive feature of the January Ladies' Home Journal is the collection of photographs of "Some Remarkable Old Ladies" artistically grouped on a single page. Of the fourteen old ladies, all are above four-score, and five are centenarians. The photograph of each one reflects the beauty of a happy life of well-doing—a beauty that time cannot obliterate.

Patrolman Morris Higgins, who has been seriously ill with typhoid fever, is able to be out again.

CUPID IN MAYOR'S HOME

MR. ROCKFELLOW'S SON AND DAUGHTER TO WED TOMORROW.

The Mayor-elect Going South for His Health and the Weddings Have Been Arranged to Take Place Before Hand.

Miss Cornelia Rockfellow, daughter of Mayor-elect George W. Rockfellow, of Park avenue, will be married to Fred J. Stack, of this city, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Tomorrow evening George A. Rockfellow, son of Mayor-elect Rockfellow, will be wedded to Miss Caroline Potter, of Rahway, at the home of the latter. Both weddings will be private and consist of a simple ceremony.

They were to have been held at a later date, but Mr. Rockfellow is quite ill and it has been decided that he should go south at once. So the ceremonies will be held so that he can be present before his departure. On account of his ill health, they will be private, only the families of the couples being present.

COAL FOR ADMIRAL DEWEY.

Captain George D. Morrison Cables His Wife From Manila.

Mrs. Morrison, of Plainfield avenue, wife of Capt. George D. Morrison, received a cablegram last evening from her husband, stating that he arrived at Manila Monday and that the cargo of coal which he had in charge was on fire.

It will be remembered that Capt. Morrison was engaged last summer by a Philadelphia firm to take several thousand tons of coal to Admiral Dewey. He sailed from the Quaker City in August.

He was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Mary Morrison. Mrs. Morrison received no further particulars and she is inclined to believe that her husband and daughter are safe. Mr. Morrison has followed the sea for a number of years and his voyages have always been successful.

AN EVENING OF MUSIC.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Doane Entertained a Jolly Company.

Twelve or fifteen music-loving people gathered at the home of Mrs. T. O. Doane, of West Fifth street, last night, to enjoy themselves in a musical way. The first part of the evening was spent in singing and playing, after which refreshments were served.

Frank Cokefair and Fred Pope rendered several vocal solos, and Stuart Pope and Miss Edith Randolph entertained the audience with piano solos and duets. Selections on the violin were rendered by Arthur Mosher, Messrs. Korff, Sattels and Hyans.

Minerva Temple Elect.

Minerva Temple, No. 4, Rathbone Sisters, met last evening and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: P. C., Mrs. E. T. Bowman; M. E. C., Mrs. E. Hallard; M. E. S., Mrs. T. Chamberlin; M. E. J., Mrs. J. B. Higgins; M. of T., Mrs. A. Baker; M. of R. and C., Mrs. E. K. Cox; M. of F., Mrs. A. Loughlin; P. of T., Mrs. J. Bird; G. of O. T., Mrs. Guttman; trustee, eighteen months, Mrs. E. Judgment on Mechanics' Lien.

The mechanics' lien case of John E. Naylor against Ferdinand O. Smith came up yesterday before Judge Magie at Somerville for the fifth time, and the plaintiff secured judgment for $42.90, the amount sued for. The ruling of Judge Magie was that one cannot offset claims brought against a mechanics' lien. Lawyer Winfield S. Angleman represented the plaintiff, while Lawyer Swackhamer represented the defendant.

Much Work at Potter's.

The Potter Press Works were kept running Monday on account of the great amount of work on hand. All the men were perfectly agreed as to working inasmuch as they had enjoyed Sunday off. In a few days the works will be shut down for a short time so that an account of stock can be taken.

Champion Peanut Eater.

Frank Jones, one of Plainfield's popular young men, is a great lover of peanuts, and on Christmas day his friends made him a present of four bushels of peanuts which were sent to his house. The gift was greatly appreciated, and the local peanut dealers will have to suffer for awhile.

FIVE YEARS FOR MURDER

MODERATE SENTENCE ADMINISTERED TO WARREN STREETER.

Pleaded Guilty to Killing William Drobeny Near Bound Brook Last Fall—Was Advised to Leave Liquor Alone.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Dec. 28.—Warren K. Streeter and Joseph Spencer were brought to the Courthouse here yesterday from the Somerset County Jail to answer charges of murder. They had been confined in the Somerset jail because the murder was committed so close to the line that it was for a time doubtful in which county it had been committed. It was finally decided that the case belonged in the Middlesex courts. Indictments were found last week. Meanwhile former Representative Alvah Clark had been assigned to defend them in Somerset, and Justice Collins confirmed the appointment for Middlesex.

Streeter, Spencer and William Drobney lived in Somerville, but went to Bound Brook on a spree. On the way home they fought, and Streeter stabbed Drobney three times. The stabbing occurred in Middlesex county, but Drobney dragged himself into Somerset county and died just across the line.

Streeter entered a plea of guilty to manslaughter, and the State accepted it. Spencer was cleared of participation in the stabbing, and a nolle prosequi was entered for him. Mr. Clark asked for leniency owing to the youth of Streeter, who is only nineteen years old. His victim and Spencer were of about the same age. Drink was known to be the cause of the affray, and Justice Collins gave the prisoner a lecture on the evils of drink and sentenced him to five years in State prison.

DID TRAIN STRIKE HIM?

SCOTCH PLAINS MAN FOUND WITH BADLY SHATTERED ARM.

Frank Gotlack Found in Horrible Condition Early This Morning—Taken to the Hospital Where His Arm was Amputated

William Hurst, night-watchman at the Aluminum Plate and Press Company's works on the corner of North avenue and Berckman street, opened the entrance door to the factory this morning from the inside and discovered a man lying close to the door, unconscious. His coat was splashed with blood, and the right arm seemed to be broken. Hurst carried him in and when William Dagnall, the engineer, came he recognized the man as Frank Gotlack, of Scotch Plains, a stone mason, about thirty-three years old and having a wife and children.

When Eugene Borst, the foreman, arrived he telephoned to the hospital for an ambulance, and Gotlack was taken to the hospital, Dagnall accompanying him.

When he was examined the physicians found that the bone in the right arm was so badly shattered that the member had to be amputated close to the shoulder. Gotlack was also suffering from the extreme cold and the shock, and his recovery is looked upon as doubtful.

As Gotlack had not recovered consciousness at the time of going to press, nothing has been learned as to how he was hurt. Some think that he was walking on the railroad and was struck by an engine, and crawling along towards the city he got as far as the factory door, when his strength gave out and he sank down exhausted.

DID NOT FIND HEALTH IN COLORADO.

John M. Messerschmidt Succumbed to Lung Trouble at Denver.

Word was received in Plainfield this morning by Charles Messerschmidt, of Washington street, telling him of the death of his brother, John M. Messerschmidt, late of Fairview avenue. Mr. Messerschmidt went to Denver, Col., last December in the hopes that he would recover from lung trouble, but the disease was too far advanced to effect a cure.

Mr. Messerschmidt was about 43 years of age and was born in Plainfield. Sine 1876 up to a year ago he was employed by H. B. Claflin & Co., of New York, and was a valued employe. He leaves a wife and child. Mr. Messerschmidt's death occurred last evening and arrangements will be made to bring his body to Plainfield for burial. His family was with him when he died, and in fact were with him while away.

SANTA, JOLLY AS EVER, REMEMBERED THEM ALL

The Liberal Old Fellow Seen In Several Churches.

HIS GIFTS WERE PLENTY.

MANY SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS SPENT LAST NIGHT ENJOYABLY.

Kris Kringle's Time Has Been so Taken up the Last Few Days That He Was Unable to Get Around to Some Places Until Last Night, But When He Arrived He Made up For His Delay.

That merry old soul—and liberal one, too—Kris Kringle, put in an appearance at several of the local churches last night and made the hearts of the little people beat happy with his multitude of gifts. The following tells where Kris was last night:

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

The Christmas entertainment at the Congregational church was largely attended. The exercises began with the singing of a carol, "Good Tidings," by the school, after which the pastor, Rev. Charles Lyman Goodrich, offered prayer. Miss Aimee Emmons then gave a reading, a Christmas story, entitled "Pete," in which humor and pathos were mingled. A very pretty exercise by a number of children from the primary department followed. They sang a dainty little song about the life of Christ, and as they mentioned each place where an event of His life took place, they placed a candle in a dent in the sand. William McKillop gave a violin solo, "Mazurka de Salon," by Danbe, after which came a costume recitation, "The Twelve Months," by twelve girls, each taller than the last: Marguerite VanZandt, Ethel VanZandt, Jean Miller, Myra Emmons, Maud Emmons, Marion Dwight, Hattie Messersmith, Caroline Fuller, Lulu Fuller, Miss Eva Wilkins, Miss Nellie Winckler and Miss Bessie Pound. After another carol, "Beautiful Bells," an entertaining exhibition of magic was given by Charles S. Thomas, of Elizabeth, assisted by Master Harold Thomas and accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Thomas. After this gifts for the members of the primary department and candy and oranges for the school were distributed.

MONROE AVENUE.

The Christmas entertainment here consisted of recitations by Miss Agnes M. Taylor, of New York, and selections on the musical glasses by Charles Wood, also of New York, after which there was a distribution of candy, oranges etc. to the little ones. Prof. Wood used a number of common looking goblets, set in rows on a table, but from them was able to produce wonderful melodies. Miss Taylor, a finished reciter, chose selections both humorous and sad, and was enthusiastically received by her audience.

CRESCENT AVENUE PRESBYTERIAN.

There was a great gathering of Sunday-school scholars at this church last night. None of the mission schools were invited to meet with the home school, so all who were there belonged to the Crescent Avenue. They were entertained with readings by Mrs. Frank J. Smith, and violin solos by Miss Marguerite Burnett, after which ice cream and cake were served in the church parlors.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

"The Bird's Christmas Carol," a comical Christmas sketch, was given at Grace M. E. church last night. Those who took part are as follows: Mabel Stevens, John Carney, Bessie Farley, Charles Powell, Laura Woolston, Alice DeMott, Russell Conroy, Kittie Rutledge, Madeline Uhrhahn, Mabel Garry, Miss May Conroy, Dyckman Winckler, Miss Elizabeth Hoagland and Lottie Benner.

Andrew Wilson took the part of Santa Claus, and distributed gifts to the children. Among the presentations was a handsome library desk to Miss Lunger, of the primary department. The Sunday-school class taught by L. A. Hummer presented their teacher with a gold-headed cane, while Mrs. Powell received an arm chair from her class. Mr. Marsh, the janitor, received a present of a purse of money. These gifts were presented by Superintendent Valiant, after which the pastor, Rev. Mr. Gardner, presented to Mr. Valiant a set of books of American literature from the officers and teachers of the school.

During the evening several recitations were given by Helen Ross, a very small girl from the primary department.

MAKING OF A GOVERNOR

NO DEFINITE ARRANGEMENTS FOR INAUGURATION OF VOORHEES.

Two Receptions to be Held on the Day the Union County Man Takes Office, but No Elaborate Display.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, December 28.—The Statehouse corridors were deserted yesterday, only three members of the incoming Legislature putting in an appearance. These were Senator Miller, of Salem, and Senator-elect Smith, of Ocean, and Assemblyman Wright, of Burlington.

There was some little gossip at the Statehouse concerning the inauguration of Governor-elect Voorhees. No communication has yet been had with the Governor-elect regarding the inauguration, as he is still confined to his bed with the grip. There is little likelihood of any demonstration in the way of a street parade, as no steps whatever have been taken to arrange for such a display. The local Republicans have done nothing with reference to securing Taylor's Opera House for the ceremonies of swearing in the Governor, and it may be that the oaths will be administered at the State Capitol, although such a thing has rarely been done in recent years. Custodian Bonnell will arrange for the customary receptions at the Statehouse.

The receptions are held by the Governor in the big outer room of the executive suite and take place from 2 to 5 in the afternoon and from 8 to 10 in the evening of Inaugural Day. For these receptions the Statehouse will be appropriately decorated and the Seventh Regiment Band will furnish music. Several counties have expressed a desire to send large delegations to participate in a parade or any other public display, but the time is now almost too short to arrange for anything on an extensive scale.

OFFSET NOT ALLOWED.

JUDGE MAGIE DECIDES IN FAVOR OF PLAINTIFF ON A MECHANICS' LIEN.

It Was in the Case of Naylor Against Smith, and the Defendant Tried to Avert Judgment From Being Taken.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, December 28.—The Somerset County Court opened yesterday. The only case tried was the case of Naylor against Smith, on mechanics' lien. Under the ruling of the court judgment was rendered for the plaintiff for $45.

The court refused to allow the defendant to offset claims against the plaintiff which had been assigned to him. Mr. Swackhamer, who represented the defendant, argued that the difference between a claim on mechanics' lien and an ordinary claim on contract was that the property on which the work was done was held as security for the payment of the claim, and that in all other respects the proceedings were the same as on ordinary contract, and therefore that claims against the plaintiff which had been assigned to the defendant could be offset against the claim of the plaintiff. That otherwise a builder who was indebted to the owner of the property could ignore the debt which he owed to the owner and compel the owner to pay him every dollar for work done or materials furnished to the building, no matter if he was indebted to the owner in double the amount.

The Judge, however, after considering the matter, decided that he could not allow the off-set and admitted that it was a debatable question and said that he would give the defendant exception to his ruling. The case will probably be taken to the Supreme Court. W. S. Angleman represented the plaintiff.

HER AGE WAS A RIPE ONE.

Four Score and One Years Mrs. Randolph Saw in Her Life.

Mrs. Margaret A. Randolph, widow of Nehemiah J. Randolph, aged 81 years, died last evening at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Wm. Stine, 560 West Front street. She was born near New Dorp, S. I., and had been a resident of Plainfield for a great many years. She was a faithful attendant and member of the First Baptist church. She was a woman of stirling qualities and she was held in high esteem by all who knew her. The funeral services will be held next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of Mrs. Stine.

New Series of Stock.

The Plainfield Building and Loan Association have opened their books for a new series. Parties desiring shares should within the next few weeks notify L. E. Barkalew, president; B. Frank Corieli, secretary; W. R. Codington, treasurer, or any of the directors of the said association.

SENT TO STATE PRISON

WESTERFIELD AND CONNETT GO FOR EIGHTEEN MONTHS.

Casey Sentenced for a Year—Taylor and Springer Had Sentence Suspended—Judge Vail Presided—Burglary Charged
(Special to The Daily Press)

Elizabeth, December 28. — Plainfield's boy burglars came before Judge Vail in the Union county court this morning for sentence. All six had pleaded guilty to the charge of burglary and George Kline, colored, the youngest of the gang, has been committed to the Reform School.

Charles Westerfield and Abram Connett, colored, had been before the court for a similar offence. They therefore received the heaviest sentence. They were sentenced to State Prison for eighteen months. Thomas Casey was sent to the same place for a year. John Taylor and Alfred Springer were considered more as tools of their companions than anything else. Sentence was suspended on them. Kline was taken to the Reform School yesterday by Sheriff Kirk.

The Judge in suspending sentence, said that Taylor and Springer would have to furnish $200 bonds for good behavior, or else to go to prison, too

THE SILK MILL PROJECT.

Paterson Promoters are Meeting With a Favorable Reception Here.

T. R. Bullock and W. J. Young, of Paterson, the promoters of the silk mill enterprise, who are spending a few days in town in the effort to interest local capitalists, both large and small, in the project, were seen by a Press reporter this afternoon and stated that they were meeting with excellent results.

They have succeeded in securing promises from a number of prominent business men who realize that the establishment of a silk mill here will be of commercial advantage. The option on the plant that is idle in Paterson, and which can be secured for a moderate sum to be removed here, will expire in a few days and it will be necessary for a definite answer to be given in a day or two. Messrs. Bullock and Young, however, are confident that they will be able to secure the promise of sufficient capital to inaugurate the industry.

Christmas Dance at the Seminary.

The Christmas dance at the Seminary was held in Seminary Hall last evening, some hundred young people participating. The dancing was continued until 12:30 o'clock. Rogers furnished the music. The chaperones were Mrs. J. F. Harman, Mrs. C. L. Case and Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard. The committee in charge consisted of the Misses Ruth Peckham, Elner Strong, Emma Sterling, Ethel Titeworth, Clara Case, Mary Wadsworth, Agnes Strong and Elsie Harman.

Roantree Arrested and Discharged Once.

Theodore Roantree, of New Market, who, it is said, stabbed George Pizie, of the same place, with a penknife while engaged in a row early last Sunday morning, was arrested last Sunday afternoon at 108 Kinney street, Newark, which is known as a disorderly house.

He was arraigned Monday morning and was later discharged. Roantree is wanted at New Market on a charge of assault with attempt to kill. His whereabouts is now unknown.

Miss Isabel St. John, of Sumsbury, Conn., is visiting Miss Elizabeth Allis, of West Fifth street.

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Allis, of Montclair, spent Christmas with J. A. Allis, of West Fifth street.

Miss Sadie Randolph, of West Eighth street, is visiting out-of-town friends for a short time.

Mrs. Newell, of Brooklyn, who has been the guest of Miss Eda Beekman, of West Eighth street, has returned home.

Miss Amy Gertrude Burt, of West Seventh street, has gone to New York to spend a few days with relatives there.

Mrs. Furness and children, who have been visiting at the home of Charles Whital, of East Second street, have returned to their home in Ohio.

Miss J. Louise Jenkins, of West Seventh street, went to New York today to visit Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Jenkins, who are spending the winter there.

Harry Bush, of West Front street, who has been confined to the house with typhoid fever, expects to be able to go out of doors this week if the weather permits.

COURT TO DECIDE IF AWARDS ARE PROPER.

County Boulevard Matter Will Be Reviewed By Judge VanSyckel.

MAY BE APPEALS TO JURY.

SOME PROPERTY OWNERS NOT SATISFIED WITH THE AWARD.

Under the Squire Law There is No Clause Providing for an Appeal by Jury From Condemnation Decision of the Commissioners, But Fred Marsh Thinks the Court Would Call on a Jury.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Dec. 28th.—Judge VanSyckel, of the Supreme Court, will next Saturday review the report of the commissioners appointed to condemn lands along the county road for the purpose of widening that thoroughfare to 100 feet, and determine whether or not the awards for damages made by the commissioners should be confirmed.

Several property owners, it is said, have signified their intention of appearing before the court and making an effort to secure an increase in the awards, among them being representatives of the Bronson estate, Mrs F. L. Pope and the representatives of the Charlier estate. These claim that they have not been awarded a sufficient amount to cover the damages to their property.

It has been stated that the court would probably confirm the report, and then the appealing property owners can carry their claims before a jury. This is said not to be the case, by some persons, who claim that the court will make the final award and that such award is not subject to an appeal.

Ex-Senator F. C. Marsh, one of the commissioners, says that while in the act permitting the condemnation of property for county boulevards, under which the Westfield avenue commission acted, there is no clause permitting appeals to juries, he believed that the court would call on a jury to determine the amount of damages due property owners who were not satisfied with the awards made by the commission. The commission had not acted on the assumption that their awards were to be final, but on the contrary had acted with the idea that if the awards did not meet with the approval of the property owners the latter could appeal to a jury. It was his belief that under the law the court would decline to affirm awards made by the commission which were objected to by property owners, until the question of damages had been passed on by a jury.

In speaking of the smallness of several awards made by the commission, Senator Marsh explained that while all of the commissioners had not agreed on every figure that had been incorporated in the report, they had agreed that the majority should decide all differences, and that no minority report should be made.

In regard to those cases where nominal awards were made, the commissioners had concluded that the benefits that would accrue to the property through the widening of the avenue would be at least equal to the damages sustained by loss of land, and had therefore made only the nominal award.

Says He Destroyed His Wagon

Charles Smith, a fourteen-year-old boy, has been arrested and arraigned before Justice Mosher charged by Mark Micilleson, a Jewish peddler, with destroying his peddler's wagon Christmas day. Smith will be tried this afternoon. Both parties live on Cottage place. The peddler says that on Monday Smith deliberately walked into his yard, and commenced to cut and slash the cover of his wagon, until driven away.

Star Part For Kris Kringle.

The primary department of Trinity Reformed Sunday-school will hold its Christmas festival tomorrow afternoon. The intermediate and senior departments will give the cantata, "General Santa Claus or the Merry Christmas War" in the evening in the lecture room. There will be 57 young people to take part.

Another Minister to Visit Palestine.

The Home News of New Brunswick of Saturday last announces that Rev. Mancius H. Hutton, D. D., pastor of the Second Reformed church of that city, has decided to join the Honeyman Private Tours' party to Palestine, February 25th.

Mrs. Mary Whitford, of Westerley, R. I., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Ira West, of Mariners avenue.

LET US ARM YOU!

It's quite necessary, because while Uncle Sam is settling scores with the Spaniards you're bound to have a little brush at home at the same time, and there's nothing like being ready for emergencies. Until you can sign a perpetual truce with sun, wind and storm, your house and other buildings will need to be fortified with paint, and ours are like a 20-inch chilled steel armor.

Horner & Co.'s establishment is one of the sights of New York.—Newspaper Comment.

A new device, by which every cannon may be made a dynamite gun, has been brought forward, and the inventor shows some strong testimonials of its efficiency. Various plans for doing this have been published in the past, and all have failed in practice; but with the American genius for invention, the finding of a successful device is only a question of time, and it may have come now. If so, every vessel may become a Vesuvius, and the difficulty they find in reducing land batteries, as noted at Santiago, will disappear. Still, the danger in carrying large quantities of dynamite without destroying the vessel that contains them will remain to be solved.

Congressman Eddy, of Minnesota, was, some years ago, a "cruiser," or timber expert in the Wisconsin pineries, and he still has a fondness for the Joseph's coat of many brilliant colors which the lumbermen wear in the woods to guard against being mistaken for a deer, a bear, or anything else sportsmen are gunning for. Mr. Eddy's smoking jacket, or house coat, is the envy of all his neighbors and rivals the brilliant jackets worn by the members of the Chinese legation. It is not foreign, but peculiarly American, and a relic of his cruiser days, when it was worn as a signal to hunters, and said as plainly as any sign, "I am a woodman, not a deer. Don't shoot!"

SENATOR MORRILL DEAD

NEARLY 89 YEARS OF AGE

He Was a Great Favorite with His Constituents and Colleagues and Was Still Vigorous at the Last Session of Congress.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Justin S. Morrill, the senior senator from Vermont, died at 1.25 o'clock this morning in the 89th year of his age, after an illness of less than a week.

With him when the end came were his sister-in-law, Miss Louise Swan, his son James, Benjamin Durfee, for a long time associated with the senator in the finance committee work at the Capitol, and Colonel S. E. Chamberlain, an intimate friend. The senator never recovered from the unconscious state into which he lapsed early in the day, and his death was calm and peaceful.

The immediate cause of death was pneumonia, which developed from an attack of grip contracted about a week ago. The venerable senator was confined to his home but seven days.

Despite his advanced age, he attended his senatorial duties faithfully, and regularly went to the Capitol. About ten days ago the weather here was cold, raw and foggy, and his physician thinks that exposure to its rigors brought on the attack of grip.

[illegible] before Congress adjourned for the Christmas holidays the senator was unable to leave his residence. He grew no better as the days went on, his low vitality, due to advanced age, being unable to resist the disease. On Christmas night it developed into pneumonia, and from that time until the end he sank steadily.

The senator has been for some years the patriarch of the Senate, and has held a warm place in the affections of his colleagues.

He enjoyed the fullest confidence of his constituents, who, notwithstanding his years, re-elected him in 1896 for a fifth consecutive term, which will not expire until March 3, 1903. It has been his annual custom for several years to make a formal address on some topic of live interest to the Senate, and this has been listened to with attention by his colleagues, who have regarded the speeches as remarkable in view of the age of their author.

The last address was delivered a week or more before the Christmas holida adjournment, the subject being the need of a building for the use of the United States supreme court and other courts.

Its deliverance showed few signs of lessened vitality, and at its conclusion the honor was done the senator of an unanimous passage of the resolutions on which he spoke.

Senator Morrill was born in Strafford, Vt., April 14, 1810. In early life he was a merchant, and later an agriculturalist. He was elected to the House of Representatives in the Thirty-fourth Congress and for four succeeding terms. Then he was transferred to the Senate as a Union Republican, taking his seat March 3, 1867.

Since that time his service had been continuous, and he has the record of the longest unbroken term of service in the history of the Senate. He has taken an important part in the legislation of the last thirty years, especially on commercial and financial questions, his position on a question of the finance committee giving him a leading part in all measures relating to the tariff, banking and currency.

They Defy Unions.

Marlboro, Mass., Dec. 28.—The proprietors of the eight shoe factories in this city, involved in the strike of shoe workers have begun a united attempt to end the strike and to conduct their establishments without the interference of the unions.

The campaign of the manufacturers was opened yesterday after several weeks shut down, when the factory of J. A. Frye & Co., which employs, when running in full, about four hundred hands, was started.

All the cutters went to work and it was estimated that 100 hands were working.

Admiral Sampson Ill.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—Rear Admiral W. T. Sampson, who arrived in this city yesterday, is confined to his room at the Arlington with a severe cold.

Acting upon the advice of his physician, Surgeon Presley M. Rixley, of the navy, the admiral declined to see callers and spent the day quietly in his room.

His condition is in no sense alarming, and it is expected that he will have entirely recovered from his indisposition within a few days.

Coup D'etat in France.

London, Dec. 28.—Special dispatches from Paris say that in view of the daily preparations for a coup d'etat the revolutionary Socialists have organized a vigilance committee in each district, charged with the observation and detection of the anti-Republican movement. Counter preparations are also being made.

Officers of the higher ranks in the army are said to have been sounded on the subject of a coup d'etat, but the results were disheartening.

Badger Going to the Pacific

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 28.—The United States auxiliary cruiser Badger has arrived at the Norfolk navy yard from League island. She is to be equipped here for a cruise to the Pacific coast. It is very probable that she will be used as a station ship on the Pacific and ply between the Mare island navy yard and the Hawaiian islands.

THE WAR INVESTIGATION.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—There were but three members of the war inquiry commission at its offices yesterday, and after a short informal discussion the regular session was deferred until to-day.

The Swift Beef Company of Chicago has forwarded to the commission a communication taking exception to the reflections made by General Miles on the character of the beef furnished the expeditionary forces in the war. The communication is not made public, and will not be until it is brought officially before the commission.

The exception also taken to that feature of General Miles's testimony by Commissary General Eagan will be taken up by the commission when it has its next full session, and General Eagan may be recalled to testify. This question of the character of beef supply may possibly open up a rather prolonged inquiry.

Unless something unexpected should develop, however, the commission expects to close its regular sessions before the middle of January and possibly finish up its work entirely by February 1, so as to submit its report to Congress about that time. This is barring a possible broad investigation as to the beef issue.

General Humphreys, the depot quartermaster in charge at Tampa during the time covered by the complaints against that department there, has been summoned from Havana but will not reach here now until the first week of January.

Death of an Author.

New York, Dec. 28.—Mrs. Isabel Allerdice Mallon, author of "Bab's Babble," and known also as a writer under the nom de plume of "Ruth Ashmore," died at her residence, No. 475 Fourth avenue, at 2.45 o'clock yesterday morning from pneumonia.

Mrs. Mallon was a member of the old Sloan family of Hartford county, Md. Her ancestors lived for five generations in Baltimore, where, thirty-six years ago she was born. When 16 years old she married William T. Mallon, a well to do young man of Baltimore, and they soon went abroad. Her travels proved of inestimable value to her as a writer. Sixteen years ago her husband died, and Mrs. Mallon was obliged to support herself by newspaper work.

To Command Shamrock

London, Dec. 28.—Captain Archie Hogarth, former commander of the Isolde, has been selected to command the American cup challenger Shamrock.

He says that the design of the new boat is perfect, and that she has been specially designed to meet American racing conditions. The yacht Isolde, which he commanded, is a twenty-rater, built by the Herreshoffs, which belonged to the late Baron von Zedwitz of the Imperial German Yacht Club, and during the regatta of the Royal Albert Yacht Club off South Sea, near Portsmouth, on August 18, 1896, she came in collision with Meteor, Emperor William's yacht, sweeping those on board into the sea. Baron von Zedwitz lost his life.

Proprietor of N. Y. Ledger Dies.

New York, Dec. 28.—Andrew Allen Bonner, the eldest son of Robert Bonner, proprietor of the New York Ledger, died yesterday of pneumonia at his residence, 21 East Sixty-fourth street.

Mr. Bonner, who had been ill only ten days, was the senior member of the firm of Robert Bonner's Sons. In 1887 the New York Ledger was given by its founder, Robert Bonner, to his three sons, and they have ever since conducted the paper.

Mr. Bonner's stud farm was at Seabright, N. J., and was a model of its kind. He leaves a widow and three children. They will inherit a large fortune.

Iloilo Evacuated.

Madrid Dec. 28.—General Rios telegraphs from Iloilo that he has made a delivery of the city to the local governor and the foreign consuls, leaving the Spanish subjects under the protection of the German consul.

The troops and war material were embarked for Manila without the least disturbance.

Senor Puigcerver, minister of finance declares that the finance department has all of the funds necessary to meet every expense involved in the repatriation of the Spanish troops.

Anglo-French School Closed.

Paris, Dec. 28.—The Mediaeval University at Azay le Rideau, in the province of Touraine, which was designed to bring French and English youths together for mutual improvement and a better understanding of each other's ways, has been closed owing to the criticisms of the jingo local press and the fact that the priests raised a row about the "contaminating influence of English thought and manners."

To Stay at Callao.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Orders have been cabled by the navy department to Captain Barker of the Oregon, the senior and commanding officer of the fleet of battleships and supply vessels at Callao, to remain at that port until January 10.

It was impossible to order the vessels to Manila without being a breach of the spirit of the agreement between the United States and Spain providing for the suspension of hostilities.

Gift from Senator Frye.

Lewiston, Me., Dec. 28.—Mrs. W. H. White, daughter of Senator Frye, has received a telegram from Mr. Frye at Washington directing her to present one thousand dollars to the Central Maine General Hospital, Lewiston, as "a peace offering and Christmas gift," in memory of Emmie Frye, his daughter.

To Look After Agriculture.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Commissioner General Peck has appointed Mr. Charles Richards Dodge of New York director of agriculture of the American exhibit at the Paris exposition.

OLD GLORY IN HAVANA

Cuban and American Flags Flung to the Breeze.

GREAT REJOICING CAUSED

An Order of Captain-General Castellanos Permitting It. Gen. Ludlow Watching the Temper of the Populace.

Havana, Dec. 28.—The citizens of Havana read in their morning papers yesterday an order from Captain General Castellanos permitting the display of Cuban and American flags inside the lines of Spanish jurisdiction, and the Stars and Stripes and the Cuban flag are floating over many buildings in the heart of the city and in streets where the Spanish soldiers still keep guard. The only buildings excepted in the order are the government offices. Havana, therefore, is now bright with color and fire crackers are being exploded in the streets and on the plazas.

Fear of the Spaniards disappeared with the appearance of this order, for out came thousands of flags secretly made by the women of the households or clandestinely purchased from adventurous peddlers.

Robert A. Scott, ex-city treasurer of Jacksonville, Fla., succeeded in getting a small cargo of flags into Havana several weeks ago and flags originally costing about four cents have been selling for about $1 each.

The order of Captain General Castellanos was issued after a conference with General Ludlow, and it was followed by an order closing the cafes at 10 p. m.

General Ludlow rode around the city late in the evening watching the temper of the people in the streets.

Fourteen people were wounded yesterday by persons who fired different kinds of weapons in the streets.

Major General John R. Brooke, military governor of Cuba, arrived here from the United States yesterday morning.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—The navy department has been informed of the arrival of the Castine at Havana.

Hawaiian Authorities Disagree.

San Francisco, Dec. 28.—The steamer China, from the Orient and Honolulu, brings the following advices from the latter place, under date of December 19:

Chief Justice Judd has decided that Chinese who secured permits previous to annexation may land at this port. The question was brought before the supreme court on a writ of habeas corpus. The petitioners were recently refused a landing by Special Agent Brown of the treasury department.

Special Agent J. K. Brown expressed himself as follows:

"I am an administrative officer; my instructions are explicit and imperative. They are the instructions of a department of the executive branch of the government. Whether the resolutions will be modified when the decision is made known at Washington, I cannot tell. But I cannot assume that they will be, and until they are I shall follow those I have."

The Cabinet Meeting.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—The meeting of the cabinet lasted two hours yesterday morning, but little business of importance was transacted.

Parts of the peace treaty, which was handed to the president on Saturday, were read at the meeting and commented upon favorably. There was an informal discussion in regard to the proposed formal taking possession of Cuba on January 1.

The president reported that the forthcoming civil service order was not yet quite complete and that the selection of volunteer regiments for muster out was proceeding rapidly.

A Greek Brigand.

New York, Dec. 28.—Michael Ferrando, a Greek, who is charged with having decoyed the Greek sailor, Eicolas Zoutzouble of 332 Water street, Manhattan, to his room at 139 East Thirteenth street, last Thursday, and there beat him into insensibility and robbed him, was yesterday morning in the Yorkville police court identified as Soteros de Sarantos, a Greek brigand, for whom the Greek government has offered a reward of five thousand francs for his apprehension, dead or alive.

Sheriff Loses $750.

New Brunswick, N. J., Dec. 28.—It was said here yesterday, notwithstanding determined efforts to keep it quiet that a sneak thief had committed a robbery in the Middlesex county jail here.

The victim was the sheriff, G. J. Litterst. His apartments were entered and the thief stole $750.

The first known of the theft by the sheriff was when he found two hundred dollars on the stairs leading to his room.

Norfolk Names Postmaster.

Winsted, Conn., Dec. 28.—Norfolk's spirited fight for postmaster is ended. The Republican voters of that town elected L. J. Curtis, a merchant, postmaster by a majority of twenty-four. J. N. Cowles, who was second in the race, had a lead of 26 over A. P. Atwood.

Curtiss represented his town in the last legislature.

Civil War in Bolivia.

Lima, Peru, Dec. 28.—Advices from Bolivia say that the aspect of affairs there is serious. Young men belonging to the best families are joining either side, the banks have lost nearly all their clerks and civil war is inevitable.

The Grip at Scranton.

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 28.—It is estimated that half of the population of Scranton is suffering from the grip. The steam and electric railways are seriously hampered thereby, most of their employes being ill.

GOVERNOR-ELECT ROOSEVELT.

To be Entertained with His Family at Dinner by Gov. Black

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 28.—Arrangements have been completed for the advent in Albany of Governor-elect Roosevelt and his family and the inauguration ceremonies.

Colonel Roosevelt will arrive Friday afternoon. He will go with his family direct to the executive mansion, where he will be entertained at a family dinner by Governor and Mrs. Black.

There will be no guests outside of the two families, unless it be the private secretaries, Colonel William E. Griffith and Colonel William J. Youngs.

Secretary of State Palmer will administer the oath of office to Colonel Roosevelt Sunday noon at the executive mansion as a mere formality, the ceremony to be repeated at the inauguration ceremonies the next day.

Sunday afternoon at four o'clock the governor will attend all Saints' cathedral, where Troop A is to listen to its chaplain.

The inauguration ceremonies will take place in the assembly chamber Monday, being so timed that the oath of office will be administered at noon. Secretary of State Palmer will be the presiding officer, Bishop Doane will offer prayer and then Governor Black will make an address.

The oath of office will be administered and then Governor Roosevelt will make his inaugural address.

Following the inaugural ceremonies the governor will hold a general reception in the executive chamber.

HANNA'S SUBSIDY BILL.

Author Feels Confident that the Senate Will Pass the Measure.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 28.—Senator Hanna believes that his bill for the protection of the American merchant marine will be passed during the present session of Congress.

The majority of the senators, Mr. Hanna states, feel favorably toward the measure, and he has reason to believe that the House of Representatives will pass the bill.

The bill was introduced in the Senate last week by Mr. Hanna, and in brief provides that subsidies shall be paid to certain freight carrying vessels built in America.

"I think the merchant marine interests of the United States should be given protection as well as the steel interests, for instance," said Senator Hanna.

"Here we are exporting steel to all parts of the world, and especially to England, simply because we have given that industry protection. Several generations ago the American merchant marine would compare favorably with the commerce carrying vessels of the other countries of the world, but latterly we have been dropping behind until at present only six per cent. of the American freight is carried in American bottoms.

"The cause for this condition lies largely in the fact that England, Germany and France and other European countries have protected their maritime interests by granting the vessel companies subsidies. The only natural thing for us to do if we wish to build up our maritime interests is to do the same thing."

Stock Exchange Record Broke.

New York, Dec. 28.--Dealings in the first hour of business on the Stock Exchange yesterday morning were on an almost unprecedented scale of activity. An enormous mass of buying orders had accumulated in the hands of commission brokerage firms over the Christmas holidays.

When the chairman rapped for the trading to begin on the floor, the scores of waiting brokers at the trading posts, who were loaded with orders to be executed, looked to the uninitated observers in the visitors' gallery like so many shouting maniacs.

At the close of the day's business it was announced that the record of the year for the total number of shares sold on the exchange had been broken. The total sales of stock for the day amounted to about 950,840 shares.

German Ambassador Returns.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—The German ambassador, Dr. Von Holleben, has returned to Washington after an extended absence, during which he held several important conferences with the authorities at Berlin relative to American affairs.

The ambassador denied himself to all callers yesterday.

It is expected, however, that his return will soon bring about exchanges with the state department, and perhaps directly with the president, relative to a number of current questions in which both countries are interested.

Abnormal French Duel.

Paris, Dec. 28.—The duel with swords which was fought at Puteaux Monday between M. Lepic, one of the editors of Les Droits de l'Homme, and Max Regis, the anti-Semite mayor of Algiers, with the result that after six rounds both combatants were exhausted, but neither was wounded, was renewed at Neuilly at three o'clock yesterday afternoon.

M. Lepic was wounded in the abdomen and Regis received a slight puncture from his adversary's sword.

A Fatal Joke.

Riverhead, L. I., Dec. 28.—Karl Kindler, an aged blacksmith of this village, has just died from inhaling coal gas.

The old man lived alone in rooms adjoining his shop, and on Friday morning someone, for a joke, stuffed the chimney hole full of rags so that the draft was completely cut off.

The next morning Kindler was found in an unconscious state and he died later, though everything possible was done for him.

Burglar's Big Haul.

GALE ON BRITISH COAST

Southern England Swept by a Violent Storm.

CHANNEL TRAFFIC STOPS

Much Damage Done Along the Thames. The City of London Storm Swept and Great Destruction of Property and Life Reported.

London, Dec. 28.--A terrific gale has been raging along the south coast and seas of exceptional height are running before the wind in the channel. The French packets were unable to make a landing at Dover yesterday, and the passengers and mails from France were consequently landed at Folkestone.

The steamboat service between Dover and Calais has been suspended. The Ostend boats crossed the channel, but were unable to land at Dover. The crew of a wrecked schooner was rescued by the Campbelltown lifeboat yesterday morning.

A number of other wrecks are reported.

An exciting scene was witnessed yesterday at Broadstairs. A four-masted ship showing distress signals was seen drifting inshore. A rowboat with a pilot on board attempted to reach her, but was swamped.

The crew of the boat were rescued by a French fishing smack.

Then a lifeboat attempted to reach the four-master, but was unable to do so.

Finally tug boats succeeded in getting near enough to her to get a tow line aboard and she was towed out of danger.

A dispatch to Lloyds, from Littlehampton, Sussex, says that a steamship with two masts, a yellow funnel with a black top, is riding four miles southeast of the harbor, and has signalled for assistance.

A gale of great violence prevailed in London yesterday, doing much damage to property.

An extraordinary scene was presented along the lower Thames, where the gale was the most severe since 1873. Hundreds of men were employed in recovering bales, boxes, casks and articles of every description, which had been blown from the wharves and sent adrift.

Many rowboats, barges and other small craft broke from their moorings and were carried away. Some of these were recovered, but four barges were swept out to sea and lost.

The general damage done by the storm is very great. Twelve men are missing, and it is reported that they have been drowned.

Mother and Children Drown.

Alexandria Bay, N. Y., Dec. 28.—The three children of Charles Hagerman were playing on the ice off the north shore of Wells island in the St. Lawrence river when they all fell in and were drowned.

Mrs. Hagerman, who endeavored to rescue the children, was also drowned.

Three Children Perish in Morris Canal.

Pleasant memories of the late Hamilton Fish, Jr., were perpetuated among the members of Troop I, Roosevelt's Rough Riders, by Christmas gifts which were presented to them by Mrs. Hamilton Fish, the mother of young Fish, who was killed in the charge of the Rough Riders at Las Guasimas on June 24. The gifts were silver mounted knives, inscribed on one side "Las Guasimas, June 24, 1898," and on the other side "Souvenir of Hamilton Fish to his comrades in Troop I, R. R. R."

SENATOR QUAY CONFIDENT.

Caucus to Nominate United States Senator Will be Held on January 3.

Philadelphia, Dec. 28.—Senator Quay put in a busy day in this city yesterday. His apartments at the Hotel Stratford were beseiged by visitors and the senator, wth his son Richard, talked state politics with his callers.

They found time to consult with their lawyers in relation to the conspiracy charges against them and ex-State Treasurer Haywood.

Chairman Elkin of the Republican state committee also was in the city, and he assisted the Beaver politician in receiving visitors.

State Senator Durham, Magistrate Harrison, Select Councilman Edward W. Patton, Judge Harry White, Representative McClellan Hirsh, State Senators Vare, Scott and Brown and other local members of the legislature favorable to the senator's re-election, paid their respects to their chief.

All expressed themselves in the most confident manner that his return to the Senate was practically assured. In fact, so great is the confidence of Senator Quay's friends in his prospective success that they have made arrangements for having the Republican legislative caucus for the nomination of the candidate for senator held at Harrisburg on the evening of January 2, the day of the organization of the legislature.

Senator Quay will leave the city for Washington to-morrow afternoon. Before his departure he probably will meet and talk over the situation with State Senator Chris Magee of Pittsburg.

Senator Quay will be on the battleground at Harrisburg on Sunday evening.

AGUINALDO FLEES FOR LIFE.

The Situation Among the Philippine Insurgents Considered Serious.

Manila, Dec. 28.—It is rumored that Aguinaldo has fled to an inaccessible region back of Cavite, with a few followers, fearing assassination.

This report, however, is denied, but his sudden change of base is not explained.

It is reported that Aguinaldo refused to release the prisoners, although the cabinet decided to accede to the request of General Otis for their release.

The situation here, so far as the insurgents are concerned, is serious. The selection of a new cabinet has been entrusted to a Filipino named Madini, a rampant irreconcilable of unknown antecedents and a bitter opponent of Aguinaldo, especially on the question of the Spanish prisoners.

A steamer which has arrived here from Samar reports that the insurgents have been in possession of Calbayon since December 11.

Business there is said to be entirely suspended, and all the Spaniards of the vicinity have sought refuge in the house of a man named Scott, an American.

The insurgents threatened to attack the refugees, but refrained from doing can soldiers were on their way to the scene.

One Spaniard, however, was shot, and another was pluckily rescued by Scott, who rode fifteen miles and demanded the man's release in the face of an armed mob of insurgents, who have been looting the Visayan stores and houses, the leaders of the insurgents being unable to control them.

All the efforts made to induce the Visayans to join in the revolution have been fruitless.

A Two Weeks Sleep.

Perham, Me., Dec. 28.—Sadie Wright, the young school girl who fell asleep at her desk in the school room two weeks ago and has been sleeping ever since, awoke yesterday as suddenly as she dozed off into slumber.

When the girl was brought home from the school room physicians tried every means known to medical science to rouse her from her nap.

An electric battery was applied, but it only succeeded in rousing her to semi-wakefulness while the current was on. When it was shut off the girl would be fast asleep again.

She remained in this condition until yesterday, when she suddenly opened her eyes and called her mother. The girl told her mother that when she was in school one day she felt awfully tired and she could not keep her eyes open. She remembers no more about the affair.

Gen. Garcia's Daughter Dead.

Thomasville, Ga., Dec. 28.—Miss Mercedes Garcia, daughter of the late Calixto Garcia, the Cuban leader, died at the Piny Woods Hotel in this city last evening of consumption.

Mrs. Garcia and her two daughters arrived here the day General Garcia died in Washington, and, while at dinner, received intelligence of his death.

The contents of the telegram were never revealed to Miss Mercedes, who was at that time failing rapidly. All the members of the Garcia family at present in this country were at the bedside of Miss Mercedes when the end came.

The body will be embalmed and taken to Cuba on the United States steamer Dolphin, which the United States has designated to convey the remains of General Garcia back to his native country.

Greene Will Not Accept.

Oyster Bay, L. I., Dec. 28.—General Francis V. Greene will not accept the appointment of superintendent of public works.

Colonel Roosevelt received a dispatch from him at midnight in which the general briefly stated his determination not to accept the place.

Colonel Roosevelt was much disappointed when he received the dispatch, as he believed that after the conference yesterday there was good reason for thinking General Greene would accept Mr. Aldrirdge's place.

May Curb the Trusts.

New Jersey's pleasant relations with the monster and, in many instances, over-bearing combinations of capital and enterprise, in affording the promoters and interested ones thereof an asylum to come legally into existence without onerous conditions, is rapidly securing for the State the distinction of being the "Cradle of Trusts." It is a reputation that is not enviable on the part of any other commonwealth, and is in reality a disgrace to New Jersey. Not long ago we took occasion to suggest that if the next Legislature would make a name for itself it could profitably take up the matter of enacting laws that would become stumbling blocks to the present easy path that the trusts tread in New Jersey.

The figures of the last 12 months, which show that trusts with an aggregate capitalization of over half a billion dollars have been incorporated under New Jersey laws, are truly startling, and have led many thinkers to foresee that the day must soon come when a check shall be placed upon the monopolistic aggregations of capital which seek the incorporating laws of the State as a harbor of refuge.

From Trenton comes the news that in all probability the approaching Legislative session will be marked by an effort being made to secure the passage of a law that will be a sharp and effective slap in the face of the grasping monopolists who organize themselves into high sounding titled corporations. It is time that such action was taken, and the members of the Legislature who support measures along that line will deserve and receive the praise and appreciation of the people.

The idea advanced by those who have taken the initiative in the agitation of the subject is to secure a readjustment of the laws regulating the incorporation of these organized companies of wealth, especially with reference to the issue of stocks and bonds. Under the present lax system condoned by the State there is great peril from the reckless expansion of debt by corporations and trusts, better known under the term of "watering stock," as there is many cases where business collapse may follow continued increase of liabilities. That the good name of the State would be injured by such business wrecking, far beyond any pecuniary return that it now receives by fostering the monopolies, is recognized on all sides.

The Way They Do It In Middlesex.

It is generally recognized that barring tramps there are few men who like to get into jail; and once in they will do all they can to get out. In fact, that was illustrated not long ago when seven prisoners incarcerated in the Middlesex county bastile took leave through the windows without the knowledge of the jailer.

But the bad men of New Brunswick are nothing if not original. Doubtless possessing more or less civic pride in having their feats exploited far and near as peculiar to the old Dutch city, and illustrating its contradictory phases of life, a gang changed the ordinary rule yesterday morning and accomplished the clever trick of getting into the jail without the knowledge of anyone besides their own select set and then getting out with equal ubiquitousness and facility.

In the procedure, however, sad to relate, these original men relieved Sheriff Litterst of $700 in cash that he had tucked away in one of his coat pockets for a rainy day. The Sheriff may now be expected to devote considerable time to arranging plans for a second visitation of these clever gentlemen, though it is unlikely that it will be quite so auspicious for them as the first.

MR. THURLOW WEED BARNES.

Senator Calvin S. Brice's syndicate of capitalists, which has secured valuable concessions from the Chinese government, is in trouble. Thurlow Weed Barnes, who says that he has been frozen out of the syndicate, has brought suit against it for $1,000,000, claiming the authorship of the concessions under which it is working.

The Trolley Ordinance.

The Common Council will meet tomorrow evening to give a hearing on the application of the Plainfield Street Railway Company for a franchise to extend their lines to the eastern limits of the city. The subject of this franchise has been thoroughly discussed and its various points, good and bad, —as determined by the terms inculcated in the ordinance only waiting the final action of the Council and the signature to become a law—have been exploited sufficiently to acquaint every citizen with city's position in the matter.

As we have said before, the only question involved in this franchise is one of terms, as it is readily understood on all sides that Plainfield is anxious for trolley extensions in every direction. And the principal agitation as to terms is the length of time the franchise is to run. The Council has framed the ordinance to give the street railway company ninety-nine years' use of its streets. A great many citizens, however, are opposed to a franchise running for such a period.

It seems that the Council is determined to face this opposition by passing the ordinance as now constituted, and we suppose that it is best for the people to look at it philosophically and accept the bargain as one, perhaps not as good as might be made by a little more delay, but much better than any other municipality has received of the same class.

In meting out punishment to Moore, the worker of the badger game, Recorder Goff, of New York, has destroyed pretty near all the chances of the District Attorney's office to convict his wife, who is accused of being his accomplice in the dirty work. The Recorder sentenced the convicted man to nineteen years in State Prison. In the event of a conviction on the second trial of the woman it is reasonable to think that she, too, would receive in punishment the same severe proportion that her husband has encountered. It is a well-known tendency of juries to avoid arriving at a verdict of guilty if such action will make a female prisoner liable to a long term behind the bars, especially if she is pretty and vivacious as in the case of Mrs. Moore. So it seems from a general knowledge of how the twelve "true and good men" act under such circumstances that Mrs. Moore stands a much better show of going scot free than she has at any time since her arrest, because the disagreement of the jury on the second trial would probably result in the prosecution dropping the case.

New York Republicans, having lost a representative in the President's cabinet by the retirement of Cornelius Bliss, are given another great honor by the President's decision to name Joseph H. Choate as Ambassador to the Court of St. James. If Joseph, after his arrival in England, palms off a few of his famous after dinner bon mots on the Englishmen they will be so utterly astonished at the genuine humor of America, as demonstrated by its plenipotentiary representative, that Uncle Sam can twist the lion's tail whenever he wants to and the poor beast will think it's nothing but a joke.

Jersey may rock the cradle of the trusts, but the nurse certainly is well paid for the service.—New York Press.

And the rocking of that cradle is making people sick.

The Guy Brothers' minstrels, who appear at Music Hall tonight, deserve warm commendation. They are really veterans in the business in every particular and give a performance that is unexcelled by the most pretentious companies. Their merit crowded houses and will undoubtedly attract a large audience tonight. They travel on their merits and do not rely on cheap gags nor on the vulgarities that disfigure most performances of the kind. They give a good, clean, bright and interesting performance of the highest class of its kind.

That sensational comedy, "Side Tracked," with its scenic and mechanical effects, its bright up-to date singing and dancing specialties, catchy musical mirth-provoking situations will be the attraction at Music Hall Saturday, Dec. 31st. The powerful figure in the play is a tramp through whose persistent efforts a mysterious crime is finally cleared up, the good rewarded and the guilty brought to justice. The cast contains such people as E. H. O'Connor, Billy Bowers, R. E. Vance, L. C. LeRoy, Gertrude Barnes, Marguerite Mayfield, Josephine Robers and others.

The Bennett & Moulton Repertoire Company will be seen at Music Hall New Year's week. This organization is said to be superior to either the Waite or Payton companies.

"Continuous gaiety" will reign at Proctor vaudeville houses during this week, for the programmes have been made up with but one end in view—to amuse. The vaudeville world has been ransacked and the best acts engaged, some of them months ago, to insure excellent bills for the holiday season. The continuous houses appeal especially to holiday makers, for one is able to chose one's own time to see the show, instead of being bound down arbitrarily to a certain hour. At Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre the bill includes the favorite comedy stars, Rice and Cohen, Lafayette, Reno and Richards, Jane Whitbeck, the Angela Sisters, A. D. Robbins and a score more. At the Pleasure Palace, East Fifty-eighth street, Helene Mora, McIntyre and Heath, Hayes and Lytton, Canfield and Carleton, Montgomery and Stone, etc., will entertain. At both houses there are continuous concerts each Sunday, and the prices are the same all the year 'round, 25 and 50 cents.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Dunellen, Dec. 28—Miss Bessie Vail has accepted a position in Plainfield.

At the Christmas entertainment of the Methodist Sunday school, the pastor of the church, Rev. E. S Jamison, was presented with a hand some Bible and some other books by the Bible class. Superintendent Schenck received two pictures, framed, and a gentleman's dressing case. Miss Emma Apgar, organist, was given an umbrella, and Mrs. E. S. Jamison's class of boys presented her with a lamp.

Wm. Voorhees, aged 83, of Griggstown, had his children and grandchildren eat their twenty-fifth annual Christmas dinner with him Monday. There were 31 present, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. A. P. WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Wesfield, Dec. 28—The adjourned inquest for the purpose of enquiring into death of John Keenan, who died in the town rooms recently after having, it is reported, drank a quart of whiskey and several glasses of beer on a wager, was held in the town rooms yesterday afternoon. The first witness called was Dr. Greene, of the Elizabeth General Hospital, who performed the autopsy. He stated that he had sent the contents of the stomach to a chemist at Newark and that he had not as yet reported. No signs of internal or external injury was noticeable on the body. In the witness' opinion the death resulted from acute alcohol poisoning. Several witnesses were called and all told the story that while the bartender at the Park Hotel had been busy cleaning the back bar Keenan had stepped up to the bar and taking a bottle of whiskey had drained the contents and walked out of the door. Owing to the illness of Hugh McGilvery, the bartender who was on at the time Keenan is supposed to have taken the drink, the inquest was adjourned until Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

THE "OPEN DOOR"

As Applied to the Philippines It is Not Free Trade.

It is a fearful and wonderful error into which some American journals have fallen in this country, as well as some of the London editors, in their comments upon the "open door" policy, to be applied to the Philippines. They assume that this policy is, as the Westminster Gazette says, "the application of the free trade principle to an American possession—a tremendous departure, the significance of which is hardly yet realizable."

The "open door" does not mean free trade at all. The door is not to be open, save as it is open to all alike, upon the same conditions. The explanation of Secretary of State Hay confirms this statement. He interprets the term as meaning that the tariff to be put in force in the Philippines will bear equally upon the importations of all nations. No advantage will be given to the products of any country, not even to those of the United States. The "open door" means that the market of the Philippines will be exactly as accessible to France, England, Germany or the exporters of any other country, as it will be accessible to the producers of the United States. We deny ourselves any advantage, and will collect the same duties upon our own imports as we will collect upon the imports from others. The islands will be under American administration and the duties will be collected by American officers. If there be a surplus of revenue above the expenditures for government and public improvements, that surplus will of course be turned into the treasury of the United States.

The Philippines export far more than they import. The figures for 1896 were; Total exports, $20,175,000; total imports, $10,631,250; exports to the United States, $4,892,857; imports from the United States, $162,446. Those statistics show clearly enough why the United States would be acting against its own interests to establish free trade with the Philippines. It is to be assumed that under American administration the exchange of products between the United States and the Philippines will be less one-sided. Freed from the discriminating Spanish tariff, that market will be as open to the United States as to the rest of the world. But this Government will continue to protect its hemp, its sugar and its tobacco at home, as well as the labor engaged in these industries, which could not be brought into competition with the cheap native labor of the tropical archipelago.

CHURCH AND PEOPLE.

HOW TO REACH THE MASSES AND OVERCOME THE SALOON.

Chicago Methodist Ministers are Addressed By Miss Jane Addams, Who Advises Changed Methods for Changed Conditions in Church Work.

The Methodist ministers of Chicago listened to an address the other day by Miss Jane Addams, of Hull House, the well-known social settlement of that city. In their invitation to her they requested her to say plainly what in her opinion, are some of the defects in the working machinery of the churches, and she did so. There are two things, she declared, which contribute to the lack of success of the Protestant churches among the masses. The first is that they have not had the wisdom to adapt their methods to the special needs of the city. With some notable exceptions, they retain the system that has been successful in suburban and rural communities. In the country town the church is a sort of social center. Its stated services and social gatherings, therefore, appeal powerfully to many people who do not care greatly for religion in the abstract. But in the cities a different state of affairs exists. The church must compete with theatres, music halls, benefit societies fraternities and social organizations of every kind. And it simply cannot do so if it restricts itself to the usual Sunday services and the weekly prayr-meeting. To gain the masses of the people who are profoundly in different to its spiritual message it must make some provisions for their social cravings, not only by giving more tone and color to the regular services, but by giving to them such social recreation as they find in the theatres and dance hall.

It is a mistake, Miss Addams says, to denounce the theatres as wholly bad. She has found the cheap people's theatres of the Nineteenth Ward, where Hull House is situated, unmoral rather than immoral. They rely for their effects on such melodramatic incidents as the blowing up of a steamboat or a raid of painted Indians. It is all very lurid and impossible, but it is not nearly so deleterous as a fashionable play which has for its motive some unclean story of domestic life. "I would not," she declares, "make the church a theatre, but you have got to teach morals and ethics along more attractive lines. I believe if Christ came to the earth to work again and He found a church steeple or the written sermon or the music and singing needed changing He would not hesitate to change it, if by so doing he could reach men. The saloons are doubtless an evil, and I'm not a friend of them; yet they do supply a great deal of unimpeded, unstilted good-felowship. The young men and women who work in our churches so often make their friendship unnatural and give it a professional air. The people detect this readily and resent it."

The second reason, in her opinion why the Churches often fail to reach the people is that it does not sufficiently try to understand the point of view of the workingman, who feels himself to be the under dog in the battle of life. The pressing problem with millions of workingmen is not how they shall save their souls, so that they may play on harps in heaven, but how to make their present condition a little less smarting—how to get a little more physical and mental comfort out of life. It would be a revelation to many optimistic preachers if they could attend a few meetings of labor unions or some gatherings of Anarchists and Socialists, and hear just what these men have to say. It will not do to dismiss the grievances of such men as absurd. They are human beings, and from the point of view of the Church they have souls to be saved. It may be that they ought to go to the stated services of the church; and doubtless if they did, they would learn much that would help them. But they will not do that, and many of them look on the Church as the tool of "capitalism." Under these circumstances it behooves the Church to go to them and in a patient and sympathetic spirit show them how truly the religion of the Carpenter's Son desires to improve their condition.

It is interesting to know that the Methodist ministers received these somewhat radical suggestions in good part. A few criticised Miss Addams's position, and made a plea for the preaching of "the old-fashioned Gospel in the old-fashioned way." But the Rev. Dr. Cady appeared to carry the majority with him when he said:

I believe all Miss Addams said of us is true and more. I believe the church is not reaching the masses. Only last week I stood watching a crowd of men building a sewer near my church. I wanted to reach them but I couldn't. It seems as if a great wall was built between myself and the men in the ditch. We as a church are not reaching the people. There is more brotherhood in the saloon and the theatre and the mutual benefit society, and I mean to try to have a brotherhood spirit in my church.

Mrs. Fyffe's Rebellion.

While he was Secretary of the Navy William E. Chandler issued an order that officers should not permit their wives to reside at foreign stations to which their husbands were attached. The order was promptly rescinded upon the receipt by the secretary of the following from Commodore Fyffe, in command of the Asiatic squadron: "It becomes my painful duty to report that my wife, Eliza Fyffe, has, in disobedience to my orders, and in the face of regulations of the Department, taken up her residence on the station and persistently refuses to leave."

THE RESULT OF A PRACTICAL JOKE.

How It Proved Beneficial to the One Upon Whom It Was Played.

"I remember my first case as if it were yesterday," said a well known physician. "I have every reason to, as it was the beginning of my present practice.

"My father gave me a good education, bought me an expensive library and a fine set of surgical instruments and then told me to sink or swim, and not expect anything more from him.

"For a matter of six months it looked as if it would be sink.

"I made a bold attempt at appearing to be very busy, and would rush out of my office at times as if on a case of life or death.

"One day, when I had returned to my office from one of these vain pilgrimages, I found a message on the slate that I hopefully kept hanging on the door while I was away.

"It was a hurry call to attend one John Smith. No address had been given, and I was appalled when I seized a directory to find that there were any number of John Smiths living in the city.

"However, it was my first call, and I wasn't going to let the fact that there were several dozen John Smiths stand between me and my patient.

"I copied them all down on a slip of paper, and started to look them up in their order.

"I was nearly to the end of my list when a funny thing happened. I arrived at the home of one John Smith just at the moment that he happened to be taken suddenly and dangerously ill. I succeeded in bringing him around and my present practice grew out of that case.

"It wasn't until I was obliged to hire an assistant that I learned the truth about that hurry call. A young attorney, who had an office across the hall from me, and who, like myself, was waiting for a call, had placed the name upon the slate as a joke.

"But I forgave him, seeing how the matter had turned out."—Detroit Free Press.

WEDDING PRESENTS.

Some Queer Customs That Are Observed In Germany.

Giving wedding presents is an old custom, but the custom differs in different countries. Scotland's penny weddings were peculiar. They were called penny affairs, but the invited guests contributed shillings, and occasionally a half crown, and out of the sums thus collected the expenses of the wedding feast were paid. Germany has a "pay wedding," at which the bride receives her guests with a basin before her, in which each person entering deposits a jewel, a silver spoon or a piece of money. In some parts of Germany the rule is that the expenses of the marriage feast shall be met by each guest paying for what he eats and drinks—a sort of European plan wedding you might call it.

The prices paid for dishes and drinks are high, and the happy young couple make a handsome profit out of their wedding, often realizing a sum sufficient to start them pretty nicely in life. Often three hundred guests are present a such a wedding. Sometimes the flow of presents is in the other direction. In Poland, for instance, a girl is not regarded eligible for marriage until she has wrought with her own hands cloth and garments for the friends who will accompany her future lord to the altar. But in most countries the wedding present system is similar to that which is familiar here, and which has become a serious tax.

Troublesome Jerusalem.

People often ask how it is that the future of Palestine presents such difficulties. The reason is simply that Jerusalem—you cannot separate Jerusalem from Palestine—is the sacred city of so many creeds and warring faiths. Not only is it the holy place of all the Christian churches, and two of them quarrel bitterly over it—the Greeks and the Latins—but it is also one of the most sacred places in the Mohammedan world. Mecca and Medina are hardly more sacred than the Mosque of Omar. That is a fact which is often ignored by Europeans, who forget that to turn the Mohammedans out of the temple enclosure would disturb the whole Moslem world from the Straits Settlement to Albania. We must never forget that Mohammedan pilgrims from India visit Jerusalem just as Christian pilgrims visit from Europe. Lastly, Jerusalem is profoundly sacred to the Jews, and the Jews are beginning to be locally numerous and important.—Spectator.

Making Cob Pipes.

The corncob pipe originated in Missouri, and was first made in 1878 by Henry Tibbe, a native of Holland, who operated one of the first corncob pipe factories in the United States. The finest cobs for these pipes come from Missouri by the carload, and sell for 25 to 27 cents a bushel. The cob for a pipe differs from the ordinary cob inasmuch as it is larger and more heavily wooded. The cob is first taken in its rough state and sawed to the proper size and then bored and turned and the pores filled with plaster of paris. They are then made smooth with sandpaper and given a coat of shellac, after which the pipes are turned over to girls, who adjust the stem. The cane used for the stems comes from the South. Fancy cob pipes go through the same process, with a little more work.—Indianapolis Journal.

AN ANIMATED POSTAGE STAMP.

It Changed the Course of the Drunkard Who Saw It.

There died the other day in Kansas City a man who lost his passion for drink in a peculiar manner.

From his youth the man had been an unconscionable tippler. One night, several years ago, he stumbled into an obscure saloon at midnight, gave his order and lolled against the bar for support. A man standing near by took from one pocket an addressed envelope and from another a stamp, which he moistened with his tongue. Instead of adhering to the envelope, as the man intended, the stamp slipped from his fingers and fluttered to the floor. The unconscionable tippler saw it fall, and staggered forward to pick it up. Just as he was about to grasp it, the stamp started in a zigzag course toward the side wall, like a scared thing. Filled with wonder and astonishment, the drinker drew back and intently watched the bit of paper, which, upon reaching the wall, began to ascend. As it ascended, the tippler's face grew more intent, his body more rigid. He saw nothing but the mysterious moving thing. His mind was soggy from years of ceaseless drinking. He thought, as thousands of drunkards have thought, and will continue to think, that in some inexplicable way he was doomed; the animated stamp was a warning.

At the top of the wainscoting the stamp stopped, squatted itself as if for a moment's rest before ascending higher, and then, without warning, made a swift dart toward the tippler's haggard face. The trembling sot saw it stop, saw it hesitate and leap. He was unquestionably doomed if he continued longer to drink to excess; the stamp had been given life to warn him. With a pitiful yell of fear and determination he rushed from the saloon. From that eventful night until he died in prosperous circumstances recently, the man never swallowed a drop of liquor.

The moist stamp had fallen upon a roach's back and stuck there.—Kansas City Star.

The Life of a Mandarin.

A mandarin's leisure, which may be said to begin at 5 p. m., and continue until 9, is spent in one or other of the following ways: Either he reads poetry by himself, or he sends for his secretaries to drink wine, crack melon seeds and compose poetry with him; or he may shoot off a few arrows at a target in his garden; or (and this is commonest) he may invite the rich merchants to a "feed" in his yamens, or accept invitations from them. But this is rather dangerous work, for there is a sort of unwritten law against mandarins leaving their own yamens, except on official business bent; on the other hand, merchants of high standing steer clear of the local mandarin unless he happens to be a compatriot of theirs.

Chinese—always supposing they are not opium smokers, invalids or debauchees—retire to rest as early as they rise. In most Chinese towns everything is quiet after sunset, and by 7 or 8 o'clock every one is either in bed or is simply crooning away the time until sleep comes on.

When the correspondence of the day has been read, drafted, achieved, sealed or dispatched; when the secretaries have struck their balances and exhibited the profits of the day; when the business of the judgment seat is at an end, the mandarin gets out of his robes, hat, collar, boots, chaplet and feathers into an easy costume, in which he looks just like the ordinary frowsy, greasy tradesman, lights his pipe and retires to the harem.—Cornhill Magazine.

Days Growing Longer.

One of the most interesting subjects discussed by Prof. George Darwin during his recent visit to this country was that of the possible and probable increase in the length of the day.

By continual loss of heat, a shrinkage of the earth is probably in progress and although the process is exceedingly slow, it certainly tends to diminish the period of rotation. On the other hand, any addition of matter from the outside will tend to increase that period and make the day longer. Undoubtedly slight additions to the mass of the earth are constantly made by the arrest of meteoric bodies passing through the atmosphere. Their influence is opposed to and tends to neutralize that of any earth shrinkage that may be going on.

Prof. Darwin declares that the day may lengthen until it is at last fifty-five times as long as it is at present, and that would be also the period of the revolution of the moon about the earth.—Youth's Companion.

A Small Favor.

"Oh, George, dear, I have a little favor I'd like to ask before you go to town this morning," said Mrs. Jooks the other day.

"Well, what is it?"

"I wish that you would just help Lizzie to move the piano out of the sitting room and help her get those big book cases and that great heavy couch out of the room. I want the couch carried out into the yard, where it can be thoroughly beaten. And then if you'll just help get the carpet up and out on the line and help Susan beat and shake it, and help her take down those large pictures on the sitting room wall and carry them out so that the dust can be all brushed off the back, and—well, if he hasn't gone! That's just like a man! Ask him to do any little thing about the house and he flies off. I never saw anything like it!"

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Aus der Rheinpfalz.

Speyer. Wegen einer Mark hat der hier wohnhafte Tagner Hermann Griesche, 39 Jahre alt, einen Meineid geschworen. Vor dem Amtsgerichte in einer Civilklage als Zeuge vernommen, gab er bezüglich seiner Zeitversäumniß an und beschwor, er habe einen Tagelohn von 5 Mark, während er thatsächlich nur 4 Mark hatte. Griesche wurde verhaftet und in Untersuchungshaft abgeführt.

Kaiserslautern. Bei dem Umbau eines Hauses an der Matzenstraße stürzte der verheirathete Maurer Franzreb, der am Giebel etwas zu richten hatte und dabei das Gleichgewicht verlor, in den Hof hinab und war sofort todt.

Landau. Die Stadt erwarb eine bei Annweiler gelegene Wasserquelle für 6000 Mark. Der Stadtrath beschloß, dem Verein für Volksheilstätten in der Pfalz, der im Eschbachthale die erste Volksheilstätte erbauen wird, die der Stadt gehörige, im Gleisweilerer Walde gelegene Wasserquelle ohne jedwede Entschädigung zu überlassen.

Württemberg.

Stuttgart. Der Verein für Volksheilstätten in Württemberg hat sich nunmehr vollständig organisirt. Vorsitzender ist Staatsrath v. Moser. Die erste Heilstätte für Lungenleidende in unserem Lande soll einen Platz bei der Gemeinde Reichenberg im Oberamt Backnang erhalten. Der Platz bietet alle wünschenswerthen Vorzüge. —Auf Antrag des volksparteilichen Gemeinderaths Fischer wird hier demnächst das Institut der Schulärzte, mit welchem man zum Beispiel in Heilbronn gute Erfahrungen gemacht, in's Leben treten.

Heilbronn. Hier hat der Silberschleifer Habermaier, ein Arbeiter der Brückmann'schen Fabrik, in einem Anfall von Geistesgestörtheit seine Mitarbeiter Zeyer und Wagner durch Dolchstiche und Revolverschüsse tödtlich verwundet und dann Selbstmord begangen. Habermaier war magenleidend und hatte schließlich die fixe Idee gefaßt, daß Zeyer und Wagner ihm etwas in den Most geschüttet hätten, wodurch das Magenleiden verursacht worden sei.

Horb. Die hiesigen Gemeindekollegien haben die Anschaffung eines Elektromotors beschlossen, um jederzeit im Hochreservoir das nöthige Nutzwasser zur Verfügung zu haben. Es hat sich nämlich gezeigt, daß in trockenen Jahrgängen mit starkem Wasserverbrauch die Leistungsfähigkeit der Turbine dem Bedürfniß an Wasser nicht entspricht.

Tübingen. In letzter Zeit kaufte die hiesige Stadtgemeinde im Neckarthal für circa 70,000 Mark Aecker, welche später zu gewerblichen Zwecken verwendet werden sollen. Wenn die Summe auch momentan ziemlich hoch erscheint, so weiß sich doch die Einwohnerschaft eins mit dem Gemeinderath in dem Bewußtsein, daß zur Hebung der Industrie einmal ein Anfang gemacht ist.

Tuttlingen. Die Straßen unserer Stadt befinden sich jetzt im Vergleich zu früher in einem hochmodernen Zustande, kosten aber auch ein ordentlich Stück Geld, wie aus der Rechnung für Benützung der Dampfstraßenwalze ersichtlich, welche für dieses Jahr 2695 Mark beträgt.

Schnelldorf. In der nahe gelegenen Mühle passirte kürzlich ein gräßliches Unglück. Ein Knabe, elf Jahre alt, wollte, während die Mühle stille stand, durch ein Rad schlüpfen; dasselbe setzte sich plötzlich in Bewegung, er wurde von dem Rad erfaßt und jämmerlich zerdrückt, so daß der Tod sofort eintrat.

Baden.

Karlsruhe. Zu der Minderung der durch die Lokomotiven in der Umgebung des Hauptbahnhofs verursachten Rauchplage soll künftig für das Anheizen der Lokomotiven statt der Briketts Koks verwendet werden. Auch gedenkt die Bahnverwaltung, zunächst versuchsweise, in einzelnen Lokomotiven rauchfreie Feuerungs-Einrichtungen anzubringen.

Freiburg. Eine empfindliche, aber wohlverdiente Strafe sprach die hiesige Strafkammer gegen den Metzger Rieger von Löffingen aus, den sie wegen Vergehens wider das Nahrungsmittelgesetz zu fünf Monaten Gefängniß verurtheilte. Der Angeklagte hatte wiederholt übelriechende Fleischwaaren verkauft oder es wenigstens versucht und auch cynisch zugestanden: „Wenn's Fleisch stinkend wird, verwurst' ich's!"

Mannheim. In dem nahen Friedrichsfeld hat sich der langjährige und hochangesehene Werkmeister der dortigen Steinzeugwaarenfabrik, Robert Krüger, erschossen. Krüger war schon seit längerer Zeit leidend. Da sich in der letzten Zeit das Befinden des 60 Jahre alten Mannes von Tag zu Tag verschlimmerte, wurde er von Schwermuth erfaßt und diese hat ihn in den Tod getrieben.

Elsaß-Lothringen.

Straßburg. Die Strafkammer verurtheilte den Studenten Ottenad, der vor mehreren Monaten in einer Wirthschaft in Bischweiler einen Schuhmacher durch einen Revolverschuß erheblich verletzte, zu 2½ Monaten Gefängniß.—Hier fuhr ein Fleischerlehrling mit einer Fleischtrage auf dem Zweirade. Unglücklicher Weise stürzte er vom Rade und fiel mit der Hand in die Säge, wobei zwei Finger fast vollständig abgeschnitten wurden.

Mülhausen. Ein freisprechendes Urtheil fällte in einer Sensationsaffaire das hiesige Schwurgericht. Zwei Eheleute aus Mansbach waren beschuldigt, ihren Oheim vergiftet zu haben, um rascher in Besitz seines Vermögens zu kommen. Sie hatten den Oheim in Pflege und zum Danke dafür bedachte er sie in seinem Testament mit 6000 Mark. Als er Anstalten traf, sie zu verlassen, ereilte ihn das Verhängniß. In derselben Nacht noch wurde er mit 125 Centigramm Arsenik vergiftet. Der Verdacht lenkte sich auf die Eheleute, die in der fraglichen Nacht allein mit dem Oheim im Hause waren. Allein die Thäterschaft konnte ihnen nicht direkt nachgewiesen werden und das Verdikt der Geschworenen lautete daher auf nichtschuldig.

Oesterreich.

Wien. Der Kaiser verlieh aus Anlaß des Jubiläums den Kavallerie-Regimentern, die seit 1848 seinen Namen tragen, Auszeichnungen, die seit dem vorigen Jahrhundert in der österreichischen Armee nicht mehr üblich sind, nämlich silberne Trompeten mit Goldinkrustationen und goldbronzenen Tüchern mit dem Adler und der goldenen Jubiläumsmedaille.—Gegen den ehemaligen Bankgeschäftsinhaber und Börsenrath Wilhelm Schoßberg, der sich hier erschoß, liegt eine Anzeige vor wegen Hinterziehung von Börsensteuern in der Höhe von 500,000 Gulden.

Graz. Dem hiesigen Polizeidirektor wurde von den Studenten eine Katzenmusik gebracht, welcher so große Straßentumulte folgten, daß die Polizei dieselben nicht zu unterdrücken vermochte.—Die Wittwe des vor einem Jahre verstorbenen Bankiers Reuhold hatte 85,000 Gulden für Wohlthätigkeitszwecke gestiftet.

Kuttenberg. Im uralten hiesigen Silberbergwerk, das neuerdings wieder betrieben wird, sind einige Gruben durch Wassereinbruch ersäuft. Da eine Stunde vorher die Arbeiter die Felswand gesprengt hatten, welche alle erfoffenen Gruben abschloß, ist in Folge dessen auf dem Kuttenberger Friedhof ein Stück von acht Quadratmeter mit Gräbern und Grabkreuzen eingesunken. Das Wasser im Schachte ist rasch 240 Meter hoch gestiegen, die Einsenkung des Friedhofes erweitert und dadurch geborstene Särge mit verwesten Leichen sichtbar geworden.

Salzburg. Zu der Errichtung eines Kaiserin Elisabeth-Denkmals in Salzburg, wo die Kaiserin (auf der Durchreise nach Bad Nauheim) zum letzten Male auf österreichischem Boden geweilt hat, hat sich hier ein Komite gebildet.

Teschen. Der Bergmann Johann Szepanek, ein gefährlicher Anarchist, der einen anderen Bergmann ermordet hatte, weil ihn dieser der Behörde denunzirte, wurde vom hiesigen Schwurgerichte zum Tode verurtheilt.

Schweiz.

Bern. An der Jungfraubahn sind gegenwärtig 107 Arbeiter beschäftigt. Der Eiger-Tunnel macht in Folge neuer Bohrmaschinen einen täglichen Fortschritt von fünf Metern. Die Gesteinsverhältnisse sind fortdauernd günstig.—In keinem der vorausgegangenen Jahre noch hatte der Export von frischem Obst aus der Schweiz einen solchen Umfang aufzuweisen wie im Jahre 1898. Die Exportzeit fällt fast ausschließlich in den Herbst. Im Monat Oktober betrug die Obstausfuhr allein 539,996 Kilocentner im Gesammtwerthe von 4,982,866 Francs; nach Deutschland, welches das Hauptabsatzgebiet bildet, wurden hiervon 528,361 Kilocentner ausgeführt.

Zürich. In Zürich wird eine Nachbesteuerung des Vermögens des kürzlich verstorbenen Dichters Konrad Ferdinand Meyer stattfinden, da der Verstorbene sein Vermögen bei der Steuerbehörde nur auf circa 1,000,000 Francs angegeben hatte, sein Nachlaß aber bedeutend größer ist.—Nach heftiger Erörterung hat sich der Züricher Großstadtrath mit 52 gegen 50 Stimmen gegen eine Verlegung des Hauptbahnhofes ausgesprochen und dem Projekt eines Hochbahnhofs an der jetzigen Stelle zugestimmt.

Schaffhausen. Die alte historische Schiller-Glocke ist jetzt in's Schaffhausener Stadtmuseum gebracht worden. Der Kirchenchor, verstärkt auf 250 Sänger, führte bei dieser Gelegenheit in der Kirche von St. Johann Schillers Lied von der Glocke, Musik von Romberg, auf. Das neue Geläute wurde in einem Aufzuge der Bürgerschaft eingeholt, von den Schülern des Gymnasiums auf den Thurm gewunden und durch einen feierlichen Gottesdienst unter Betheiligung aller Behörden eingeweiht.

PORTO RICAN MUSIC.

The National Instrument is Simple, But Ingenious.

Like all other Spanish speaking people, the Porto Ricans are fond of music. Every cafe has its orchestra, for a cafe would hardly do business without one.

Nearly all of the airs are pitched in a minor key which even when inteded to be joyous contains a plaint to the Anglo-Saxon ear. To one who has traveled in Spanish lands the music of Porto Rico at first seems very familiar, but the ear is not long in discovering something novel in the accompaniment to the melody.

It sounds at first like the rythmical shuffle of feet upon a sand floor, and one might suppose some expert clog-dancer was nimbly stepping to the music made by the violins and guitars. The motion is almost too quick, too complicated for this, however, and it is the deftness of fingers and not of feet which produces it.

It comes from the only musical instrument native to the West Indies, the "guira," which word is pronounced "huir-r-a," with a soft roll and twist to the tongue only possible to he native. The "guira" is a gourd varying in size in different instruments. On the inverse curve of the gourd are cut slits like those in the top of a violin. On the other side of the gourd opposite the holes is a series of deep scratches. The player balances the gourd in his left hand, holding it lightly that none of the resonance may be lost.

With the right hand he rapidly rubs this roughened side of the gourd with a two-tined steel fork. In the hands of a novice this produces nothing but a harsh, disagreeable noise. In the hands of a native "guira" player a wonderful rhythmic sound comes from this dried vegetable shell, a sound which, in its place in the orchestra, becomes music, and most certainly gives splendid time and considerable volume to the performance.

The player's hand moves with lightning rapidity. The steel fork at times makes long sweeps the whole length of the gourd, and then again vibrates with incredible swiftness over but an inch or two of its surface. There seems to be a perfect method in its playing, though no musical record is before the player, and it seems to be a matter purely of his fancy and his ear as to how his part shall harmonize with the melody of the stringed instruments.

The guira is found in all the West Indies, but seems especially popular in Porto Rico. The players generally make their own instruments and apparently become attached to them, for as poor as these strolling players are, they will hardly part with their guiras, even when offered ten times their real value. They are distinctly a Porto Rican curio, and, strange as it may seem, Porto Rico is probably more destitute of tourists' "loot" than any foreign country known to the travelling American. The tourist who can secure a guira may congratulate himself, for it will be hard to get, and is the very thing which can be carried away from the island as a souvenir which is distinctly native and peculiar.—Kansas City Star.

He Saw the Point.

The following story is told of a Philadelphia millionaire who has been dead some years. A young man came to him one day and asked pecuniary aid to start him in business.

"Do you drink?" asked the millionaire.

"Once in a while."

"Stop it! Stop it for a year and then come and see me." The young man broke off the habit at once, and at the end of the year came to see the millionaire again.

"Do you smoke?" asked the successful man?"

"Now and then."

"Stop it! Stop it for a year and then come and see me again."

The young man went home and broke away from this habit. It took him some time, but finally he worried through the year, and presented himself again.

"Do you chew?" asked the philanthropist.

"Yes I do," was the desperate reply.

"Stop it! Stop it for a year; then come and see me again." The young man stopped chewing, but he never went back again. When asked by his anxious friends why he never called on the millionaire again, he replied that he knew exactly what the man was driving at. "He'd have told me that now that I have stopped drinking and smoking and chewing I must have saved enough to start myself in business. And I have."—Youth's Companion.

Mending Birds' Legs.

Young chickens and other birds frequently break the bones of their legs, and if properly attended to, these fractures can be easily cured with very little trouble. As soon as the injury is noticed the fracture must be carefully cleaned and washed with warm water, and then wrapped with a bit of cotton. Splints are then prepared for the fractured limb, preferably of split elderwood, the pith of which is taken out. These splints are fastened to the cotton with a drop of glue, and held tightly in place by being wound with linen thread. The bandage and dressing are left undisturbed for some three or four weeks; then the leg is soaked in tepid water until the bandage comes off easily. The fracture will have completely healed in that time. Canaries and other pet birds can be similarly treated in case of a fracture of a leg, only the elder splints are substituted by pieces of cardboard, and the bandage is left but two weeks on the little winged patients.

IT TOUCHED LINCOLN'S HEART.

Did as a Man What He Could Not Do as President.

A gentleman of Chicago, a veteran of the civil war, tells an anecdote in the life of Abraham Lincoln as related to him by Schuyler Colfax.

One day on his way to the executive mansion Colfax came upon an old man just outside the capitol grounds, looking so dejected and miserable that the genial Speaker stopped and spoke to him. The old man then begged for aid in getting an audience with the President, as so far his efforts had been unavailing—and added that it was a case of life and death.

Colfax, moved by the old man's distress, brought him, trembling with conflicting hope and fear, directly into the great and kindly presence. Without wasting a moment upon preliminaries, the petitioner plunged into the heart of his troubles—an old story now grown sadly familiar to the President's ear. Briefly, his son had been sentenced to death for having slept at his post. He had relieved a sick comrade the night before, and overworn nature had succumbed. Lincoln listened, all the kindness of his great heart reflected in his eyes; but he had already issued so many pardons for this offense that it was beginning to have a demoralizing influence upon a most important part of the service, and Congress had thought best to give the power of confirming the death sentence directly to the Generals in charge. In this particular case, too, Butler had written the President, strenuously urging him to turn a deaf ear to any one pleading for the offender's pardon, as the discipline of his army absolutely required an example.

With a troubled air, therefore, Lincoln said: "My good sir, I would give anything I possess for the power to help you. But the President himself is powerless here. I am under orders not to issue another pardon for this particular offense. Too much depends upon the vigilant sentinel. I sympathize deeply with your sorrow, but must refuse your request."

"So that is all the President of the United States can do for me," faltered the old father.

"All," replied Lincoln.

The old man stood motionless in the deep silence that followed the President's ultimatum. Then, taking a step forward, he said: "The President of the United States has done his duty. Now, I want to hear from Abe Lincoln. Put yourself in my place, your son in my son's place. Then what would you do?"

After a minute of intense thought Lincoln's face took on an expression of radiance as he exclaimed:

"Butler or no Butler, here goes!" And seizing his pen he rapidly wrote two duplicate orders, handing one to the petitioner, who read:

"Sentence in case of Private —— of —— regiment is not to be executed until further orders from the executive office."

"This," said the broken-hearted father, "only postpones the agony. If the boy must be shot the sooner the better."

"My friend," said old Abe, taking him by the hand, "if your son doesn't die until further orders for his decease are issued from this executive office he will live to a green old age."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Not Failed Yet.

A certain more than locally famous oculist—he lives on Thirteenth street—has among his chronic patients an elderly woman of wealth, who is superstitions about the 9th of September.

"Well" said she, with a sigh of relief, when her unlucky day this year had passed. "I certainly am glad when the 9th of September is over. I always know that if I live past that day I'm sure to live till another year. Oh, I'm certain of it! Why, it's a sign I've never known to fail, never."—Washington Post.

NEW YORK'S SPEEDWAY.

An Endless Procession of Variedly Interesting Turnouts.

The regulations keep out coaches and all heavy vehicles; there is only one heavy, lumbering vehicle seen on the New York Speedway, and that is the watering wagon. With their broad-rimmed wheels, and moving deliberately along, the watering wagons certainly do look odd among all the gay, light carriages. But while only lighter vehicles are admitted, these really include a very great variety. There are surreys, skeleton wagons, spider phaetons, and so on, besides the great number of runabouts and light wagons of one sort and another. And while there is some restriction as to the kind of vehicle, there is no restriction on the horses; the variety of horses seen is very great. The attention is fixed at once by the number of vehicles with pneumatic tires.

The spectators line up on the walks on either side of the Speedway close to the roadway. The people who are driving more slowly keep to the right and leave the middle of the road to those who are driving fast. There is an endless procession along the outer edges of the road, and the people here include a great number of leisurely drivers who have come out not to drive fast, but to go over the beautiful and picturesque Speedway, to get into the current of life here and to see the people that do drive fast; everybody likes to look at them. It is not unusual to see family parties in the carriages driving along, nor is it unusual to see a child carried in a light wagon. I saw one little girl sitting between her father and mother holding a doll. The family parties don't all stay in the slow-going processions, however; occasionally they go out and take a hack at it with the quick steppers, and they are not always the slowest among them, either. There was a two-seated or three-seated carriage that came pretty near being a carryall or a rockaway or something of that sort on the Speedway last Sunday drawn by a pair of good, big bay horses, a fine, big team that could hold its end up in the middle of the road in very good shape, indeed.—New York Sun.

THE VAGABOND COYOTE.

To the Animal Kingdom What the Pickpocket is to Man.

The coyote is the vagabond of the four-footed animal world. He is the prototype of the pickpocket. Both his looks and his actions show this. He is of an uncertain color. In the day time his hair seems to be of the color of the sands of the plains, at twilight it harmonizes with the gloom of the dying day. At night, if the moon is shining, it seems to be a light gray, and if the moon is obscured it is black—so black that all that is visible of him are two small fiery eyes, which come into view as he prowls around the cowboy's fire. He is ever ready to raid a night camp—that is, if he believes he can escape with a whole skin. If the opportunity is offered he will rush in and snatch a piece of broiling meat from off the coals, overturn the coffee pot, scatter the embers, scare the horses, and make off at the speed of an express train. He is always followed by a few rifle balls and a blue-coated stream of profanity, but generally manages to escape unhurt.

The coyote can run like "greased lightning." He can run circles around an ordinary horse and not half try. He just hangs his tongue out of the northeast corner of his mouth, shuts one eye and slides off sideways over the ground. He don't run. He slides. His gait is easier than that of a pacing horse. His back seems perfectly still, and his tail sticks out straight behind. You can play checkers on his back, but with his frittering little gait he eats up the long miles like fire, and seems tireless.

Columns upon columns have been written about the coyote's howl. As much more space might be easily filled with entertaining matter on this subject. One little coyote can make as much noise as three full fledged wolves.—Exchange.

Plenty on Board.

He had just returned from a trans-Atlantic voyage and he let all know it.

"Yes," he said pompously to the old gentleman with the silk hat and the grey whiskers, who sat opposite, "we had a most eventful trip; there was a marriage on board, two deaths, and—"

"Any births?" interrogated the old gentleman, with a twinkle in his eye.

"No—er—no births," answered the other, in a manner which implied they could have had one or two if they so desired.

"Dear me, that's very strange!" exclaimed the grey side whiskers.

"What is strange?"

"Why, no births. I have crossed forty-three times, and there have always been births on board."

The pompous note in the new fledged traveller's voice gave place to a tinge of reverence as the other mentioned the figures, but he asked:

"Well, what do you call a number of births? Two, three, four, or—"

"No, indeed. Why, the last time I crossed there were over five hundred, and—"

"What, babies?"

"Babies? No, berths, sleeping berths. Here's my street. Good bye."

"What was the row about?" said the policeman.

"It all came about," the father-in-law exclaimed, "by some of those cheeky boys throwing shoes at the bride."

"Well," said the policeman, "that's customary."

"Yes, but not horseshoes."

CURES GOITRE WITH SNAKES.

Rochester Man Winds Reptiles Around the Necks of His Patients.

All the rural visitors in Rochester, N. Y., go to see Rattle snake Pete's museum on their arrival. Pete's specialty is rattlesnakes. He gets postal cards from people every day in the week telling him where there are signs of rattlers. If there are any rattlers there, Pete gets them.

Pete, whose last name is Gruber, has made a discovery in studying the habits of snakes that is expected to be of value to the medical profession. Any physician will tell how hard it is to treat a goitre successfully. The percentage of cures is very small. Inez Gruder, Pete's little daughter, was troubled with one of these obstinate swellings on her neck, and the hunter of rattlers spent considerable money in trying to get it cured. Having found the value of snakes in other ways, he decided to try them on the goitre. He took a common grass snake, about three feet long, and allowed it to coil itself about the child's neck, and repeated the process every day for two or three weeks. To his surprise and joy the goitre disappeared. The snake died, but the child's life, which was threatened by the alarming growth of the swelling, was saved.

Mr. Gruber's method of using the snakes in case of goitre is practically the same in all cases. In accordance with the physically strength of the patient he selects a snake from three and one-half feet to six fet in ingth These snakes are in all cases non venomous, and principally produced in Florida. Baring the patient's neck, the creature is placed in two or three coils around the neck, principally over the swelling. The snake is muzzled with a rubber band, and is usually allowed to coil its head, and sometimes also its tail, around the upright post of a chair or other object, in order to afford it leverage. A few minutes after it has been placed in position the reptile begins a gentle, uniform expansion and contraction along its entire length. This is kept up from a half to three-quarters of an hour, when it is allowed to uncoil gradually and glide away from the patient's neck. The process is repeated at intervals of one week for about six weeks. The snake usually dies at the expiration of from six to eight weeks.

WHERE THE BEST TIN IS FOUND.

The Production of It in This Country Not a Success.

The tin used in the tin plate industry comes from several sources. The best of these is found in Australia and the Straits Settlements. The latter furnish the most desirable tin, known as Banca tin. This is regarded as the purest and is in consequence more sought after by the manufacturers of tin plate. The Cornwall mines were discovered about 55 B. C., and for twelve centuries were the one source of this mineral. In 1240 tin was found in Bohemia. Five hundred years later, in 1760 the Banca mines were opened. In the following century Australia became a producer of block tin on a large scale. From 1872 tin has been found in commercial quantities in New South Wales, Queensland and Tasmania.

The United States has not been so fortunate, although many attempts have been made from time to time to find tin. Tin was discovered in California as early as 1840, but there was no mining done until 1868. Only for a short time were the mines operated they were then closed down and remained so until 1888. In this year an American company bought the property with the intention of operating, but it was sold to an English syndicate before two years had passed. Something like $800,000 was spent, but no special results were secured. The total product of the mines was 269,000 pounds of tin, valued at $56,000. The Harney Peak mine is the story of another futile attempt to get tin in commercial quantities. The Harney Peak, as it is familiarly called, is situated near Custer City, S. D. A great deal of money has been spent in the development of this mine, but it is doubtful if more than ten tons of metal have been taken out of the ground. The English capitalists were also heavily interested in this attempt. In Alabama, North Carolina and Virginia, tin-bearing rock has been found. In no sense can the United States be regarded as a tin producing country.—Yale Review.

Meaning of a Fluffy Girl.

The little affectations of girlhood are not as effective with young men of the present day as they were with those of a former generation. Speaking of a girl to a matron of his acquaintance, a youthful Solon recently said:—

"Oh, she's one of those fluffy girls."

"My dear boy," said the matron, "what on earth is a fluffy girl?"

"Why, don't you know?" replied the young man. "A girl who has blue eyes, golden hair, brilliant coloring, and looks like a bit of Dresden china. A girl who is always 'curled up' in a big chair, and has a plaintive little tale of woe to confide to you—not to you, my dear madam, but to me—to some man. The girl who wears charming gowns, all frills and ribbons, and hopelessly intricate to masculine eyes; who is always delightfully clean with fresh-curled hair, who affects certain perfumes, has curious gestures and modes of expression; who wears tinkling ornaments at her wrists, and quantities of rings on her fingers, who abounds in parasols, fans and shawls, which we men carry trailing humbly about in her wake. This is the fluffy girl, and experience with her has taught me that she usually possesses a temper as fluffy as her gown."

A WOMAN AND A LAWYER.

Wherein the Latter Proved the Exception to the General Rule.

"Speaking of conscientious service on the part of a lawyer," said the citizen who came to Detroit when young, and is now past his three score years and ten, "I want to tell you what was done by one who always stood high in the esteem of the bar. He had gone through college and taken his legal course with a young man who afterward settled in an interior town of Pennsylvania, where he grew wealthy by looking after the legal interests of mining and manufacturing corporations. Part of the property left his wife at his death consisted of three thousand shares of railroad stock that had cost but little, and had been given in return for professional work. The widow did not know what to do with this part of the legacy, and so she sent it to the Detroit friend of her late husband, and asked him to dispose of it on the best terms he could get.

"When the shares touched 70, he wired her that he thought it time to sell, and asked an immediate reply. Woman-like, she wrote, instead of telegraphing, and in the meantime, the lawyer concluded to sell, receiving a $210,000 check in payment. But the letter, when it arrived, told him that the writer had been informed that the stock was likely to go to par, and that she preferred to wait. The lawyer succeeded in buying the stock back. Meantime, she received his letter telling what he had done on his own motion, and she at once replied that the sale was acceptable and would he please forward the proceeds. Here was a dilemma, but the lawyer had a conscience that was as good as his friendship. He sold at 67 1-2, made up the $7,500 difference out of his own pocket, absolutely refused to accept any commission from the wife of his old chum, and sent her the full $210,000, just as though the sale at 70 had stood. And yet the world has a way of laughing at the idea of honesty among lawyers."—Detroit Free Press.

MR. "DODO" BENSON, THE WRITER.

The Impression He Made on Some American Tourists.

Several years ago a group of Americans were crossing the Mediterranean from Egypt to Greece. On the ship they noticed a slight, fair complexioned young man, with pale eyes and a thin mustache, who slouched all day long in a steamer chair, apparently indifferent to his surroundings. "That is one of the most stupid looking men I've ever seen," one of the group remarked. "He doesn't seem to have the least interest in life. He looks as if he didn't have one idea in his head."

The captain of the ship happened to be passing and he overheard the remark. "Don't you know who that is?" he asked. "That's Benson, the fellow that wrote 'Dodo,' the book you have in your hand." The captain strode away, smiling to himself at the sensation he had created.

After this episode the Americans watched Mr. Benton with deep interest, but he seemed to be utterly unconscious of being observed. One evening he strolled into the cabin and sat at the piano. As soon as he touched the keys the look of vacancy disappeared from his face. He played a nocturn of Chopin's with exquisite feeling, and then, with real brilliancy, he dashed into a sonata of Beethoven's. When he had finished he walked quietly away and he did not play again during the voyage.—Munsey's Magazine.

THE RACE PROBLEM.

One Colored Brother Says Its Solution Rests With the Negroes.

The sentimentalists who are shocked by events in the South should read the address that Booker T. Washington delivered before the Manhattan-Brooklyn Conference of Congregational Churches. Professor Washington is a colored man, but he does not ask for consideration on that account. He is working for the elevation of the members of his race that they may be respected because they are worthy of respect. He has given thought enough to the question to lead him to form the conclusion that the white race occupies its prominent position to-day through the operation of the law of evolution. It is fit to survive. The colored race in this country will hold only that place for which it is fitted. This is hard, common sense. Professor Washington knows that the colored man who can do certain work better than the white man will be employed in preference to the white man. He knows that the color of the skin has nothing to do with the case, when the fitness of the colored man has been proved.

This Alabama negro touched bottom when he said that the negroes made a mistake at the beginning of their freedom by putting emphasis on the wrong things. Politics and the holding of office were deemed of supreme importance and were considered to the exclusion of almost everything else and they accepted responsibilities which their experience and their education had not fitted them to perform with success or credit. He advised his people to disregard these things until they were better qualified, and he maintained that the negro to-day should seek education and property. He gave this advice because he was convinced that in the North and in the South alike the race which owned the property, paid the taxes and possessed intelligence and stability of purpose was the race which controlled the government. He did not believe in any coddling or other weakening and demoralizing process, but he insisted on the necessity for the negroes to elevate themselves.

Now the bearing of this sort of talk is evident. When the negroes prove themselves fit to control the government of Southern cities there will be no more race riots, if this man's theories are sound. When the negroes own stock in banks, when they manage large industrial enterprises, when they have education and understand the rights of property, then they will come into the enjoyment of those rights which seem now to be denied to them. We know that there are ignorant and shiftless whites in the South, but the whites are so far above the blacks that there can be no comparison between them. The whites will not consent to be ruled by a lot of ignorant negroes. We may regret the use of violence, but that regret will not prevent the exercise of force on occasions when the people on the spot consider it necessary. The race problem in the South will not be solved till the negroes themselves have eliminated from it all questions of their fitness to hold office by proving their ability to compete in the industrial race with the whites.—Brooklyn Eagle

GOLF.

The Somerset County Club is the latest golf club to come into the field. It has just had a nine-hole course laid out at Finderne by Thomas Bendelow, the professional expert. Their club-house, which is what might be called a glass structure, is in the shape of a cross, and originally was one of the old Centennial buildings. The course is 3,120 yards long, which is really the longest nine-hole course in the county. The club will make application for membership in the United States Golf Association. The officers are: W. H. Taylor, president; A. A. Clark, vice-president; L. C. Mack, secretary, and L. D. Lansbury, treasurer.

SANTA JOLLY AS EVER.

chapel last evening. The programme included a cantata, "Santa Claus Land." Donald A. McGee was "Santa Claus," Miss Edna Kennedy, "Mary," Harold Fenno, "Jack Frost." The chorus of elves was composed of George Rittenhouse, Clarence Conover, Clarence Ulrich, Fred Lynn, Albert Codington, Eddie Springer and Arthur Bibgaman. The fairies were the Misses Gladys Peck, Marion Overton, Helen Joy, Dorothy Welch and Katheryn Smineck. There was also a recitation by Arthur Humble and a solo by Miss Etta Baybert. The presentation of gifts to the pupils followed. G. M. Rittenhouse, assistant superintendent of the Sunday-school, was presented with a Morris chair. Janitor Kennedy received a substantial check.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The entertainment at this church attracted a large number of the Sunday-school scholars and members of the church. J. Stewart Blackton, sketch artist, assisted by Miss Matta Holmes, of New Brunswick, who gave several recitations, and accompanied Mr. Blackton on the piano, entertained the audience. After the above programme Superintendent Cave distributed gifts. Three prizes were awarded to those who memorized the greatest number of Bible verses during the year. Marion Englehart received first prize, having committed to memory 507 verses. Bertha Englehart received second prize for memorizing 389 verses, while the third prize was given to Bertha Townley for committing 278 verses.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Sabbath-school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church held its Christmas festival last evening at the church. The programme included opening prayer by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis; address, Rev. A. E. Main; recitations by Helen and George Rogers, Charles Potter Titsworth and Bessie Dunham, and carols by the school. The music was in charge of the superintendent, D. E. Titsworth. A supper in the lecture room followed the distribution of the gifts. Sets of dishes and ships were given to the small children and pictures and pocketbooks to the larger ones. The table was arranged in the shape of a crescent while the decorations in holly were grouped as stars and crescents. The committee on entertainment was Mrs. George H. Babcock, chairman; Miss Mabel Maxson, Miss Ida Spicer, Arthur J. Spicer and Asa Randolph.

EAST THIRD STREET MISSION.

A pleasing entertainment was given at the East Third Street mission last evening. There was a piano solo by Clifford Braider, violin solos by R. W. Barnes and M. C. Dobbins, and short addresses by Superintendent L. Warren Randolph and Rev. Mr. Fitch, pastor of the Baptist church, at Caldwell, Essex county. A feature was the rendition of a musical cantata entitled "Santa Claus' Choice," which was given by the school. After the entertainment Superintendent Randolph received a handsome framed picture from the members of the Sunday-school. The presentation was made by U. B. Crane. Clifford Braider took the part of Santa Claus and distributed gifts to the scholars.

MEXICO'S FREEDOM.

The Story of Unfortunate Maximilian and Poor Carlotta Recalled.

Looking back now with the experience of over thirty years there was something inexpressibly silly as well as romantic as Napoleon's dream of an empire in Mexico. That expire was proclaimed in April, 1864, when the future of this Union seemed sad indeed. Yet Seward and Lincoln never once recognized the representative of Maximilian; while the accredited representatives of Juarez invariably received courteous recognition in Washington. Napeoleon, who was really a usurper in France, looked upon himself as the champion of the Latin race and was imbued with various fantastic designs for re-establishing it not only in America, but in Central Europe. Napoleon's purposes which were as distinctly religious as they were dynastic were foiled by Bismarck in Germany and by Seward in the country to the south of us. We are assuredly living in a history-making epoch, one in which thrones and sceptres and constitutions shall go down or be rebuilt upon the ruins of popular government.

The Archduke Maximilian, a younger son of the House of Hapsburg, married the only daughter and favorite child of Leopold I. of Belgium, July '27, 1857. His wife was the heiress of an immense fortune and the first cousin of Queen Victoria. The contemplated dynasty of Maximilian was therefore favorably regarded not only by the Hapsburg family and Napoleon but by Germany, England and Spain. The Pope gave his blessing to the new empire, and no power in Europe save Russia, even faintly protested. The imperial party left Trieste April 14, 1864, on a convoy of twelve steamers and accompanied by a retinue of French and Austrian officers and by some Mexicans whose sympathies for monarchy survived the fall of the Emperor Iturbide's Government. There was great rejoicing among the prospective courtiers on board of that imperial convoy. The young and dashing Maximilian and his beautiful bride were the cynosure of all eyes. Napoleon who had himself humbugged the French through a plebiscite had carried out a similar coup d'Etat of a preparatory character in Mexico. In order to give the new Empire a quasi popular approval by pretending "to permit the Mexicans to freely choose their form of Government" though the form of Government was carefully predicted in advance, and as in the case of Napoleon's plebiscite, voted for under the sheen of French bayonets, he had really deceived Maximilian as to the real wishes of the Mexican people.

Bazaine, who was then commanding the French troops, soon saw that the jig was up. He advised Maximilian to resign. But Maximilian, who was a braver man than Bazaine, refused to do so, and was backed in this attitude by the priests, who foresaw in the downfall of the empire the future spoliation of the Church, which actually took place as we all remember under the restoration of the rule of Juarez. Maximilian held on feeling confident that some combination of these European powers whose good faith was pledged to his venture, would preserve his empire. At this juncture the Empress Carlotta, seeing her husband's plight, proceeded to Europe to seek aid and to claim the private fortune which her father, who had just died, had left to her and her brothers, and which with true womanly devotion she was prepared to use promoting her husband's ambitions. She proceeded to Breste en route to Rome, but soon after arrival in Breste she learned that her brother, the present King of the Belgians was opposed to sinking this joint legacy in the Mexican experiment of his brother-in-law. On reading the latter in which this sad news was broached the Empress fainted but she still resolved to push on to Rome and make a final appeal to Pius IX. to sustain the Empire which himself and Napoleon had planned. She hoped that His Holiness would urge the Mexican clergy (who were by this time trying to characteristically learn the direction in which the cat was going to jump) the necessity for renewed efforts in the cause of her imperial husband. Pius IX. declined to do anything and poor Carlotta was there and then seized in the Pope's presence with a fit of paralysis from which she never recovered. The hesitation of Pius, however, did not avert the spoliation he feared. Soon afterwards the Mexicans aided by American influence recovered control of their country. They turned the weapons Maximilian had forged in the "Black Decree" against himself. He was captured at Queretaro, tried by courtmartial and sentenced to be shot. Standing before a platoon of Mexican troops Maximilian paid the penalty that should by right have befallen those who used or betrayed him. His last words were "Poor Carlotta!" And poor Carlotta during all these thirty-two years has never learned her brave husband's fate. Struck down by the shock of human perfidy and ingratitude and by the successive misfortunes of romantic fate, the Empress Maximilian has since suffered from the madness that seized her in the Vatican. She continues to seek to the day "her beloved Maximilian" amidst those happy scenes of their early wedded happiness within the castle he built at Miramar.

Thus ended Napoleon's mad dream of a Latin Empire in Mexico and the downfall of which vindicated the wisdom of the Doctrine of Monroe. The bulk of the private fortune of Carlotta was afterwards invested by her brother in the equipment of Stanley and in the discovery and development of the Congo, which thus secures to Belgium an Empire in the very heart of Africa.

WEST POINT'S OLDEST VETERAN.

General Greene's Brilliant Career as a Soldier.

The oldest notable man in the United States to-day is the war veteran and famous engineer, General George Sears Greene.

George Sears Greene was born May 6, 1801, in the little town of Apponaug, in the State of Rhode Island. His ancestor, John Greene, came from Salisbury, England, to this country in 1635, and settled in the town of Warwick, Rhode Island. When John Bull, in 1812 tried a second time to punish his rebellious son, Jonathan, young Greene then but eleven years old, wanted to shoulder his musket and help Jonathan to give the tyrannical parent another sound drubbing; but his mother thought him too young, and he was forced to be content with the promise that, when old enough, he should enter the United States military academy at West Point, and learn how to fight the enemies of his country. Accordingly, a few years later he became a student at this institution; and improved his time so well that when he graduated, in 1823, he stood second in his class.

After graduation he served as an instructor in mathematics and engineering at West Point, and in various garrisons in Virginia, Rhode Island, Maine and Massachusetts, until 1836, when he resigned from the army and devoted his time to the profession of civil engineering. At about this period began the marvelous era of railroad-building in the United States, when thousands of miles of roadways were made for the iron horse, running out of all the large cities into what was then the wilds of the west. It was an opportune time for a civil engineer; and Greene, who had already acquired a reputation equalled by few in his profession, found his services in constand demand. He assisted in the construction of railroads in the states of Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York and Maryland. He was busy at this work until 1856, when he was hired by the Croton aqueduct department of New York City. While in its employ he superintended the most of the important engineering work done in the city, designing and building the reservoir in Central Park, enlarging High Bridge and building a new aqueduct over it. During this time his fame as an engineer grew, until it became so great that private individuals and corporations often came to him for advice, when important work was to be undertaken by them.

In 1861 came the war of the rebellion. Engineer Greene was now sixty years old, but strong and hearty. The war stirred his martial blood; and when in 1862 it became evident that the rebellion was not to be put down easily, that his country had need of the help of the arms and brains of all of her loyal sons, he hesitated no longer, but offered his services. His ability was well known, and, despite his sixty years, he was given an important command. Now began a life of hardship and peril, sufficient to test severely the strength of a strong man full of the vitality of youth; but General Greene at sixty years of age was practically in the prime of his life, and his splendid physique carried him safely through them all.

Gettysburg proved his courage and generalship. Here, on the night of July 2, 1863, with his brigade reduced to less than 1,500 men, he held the entrenchments on Culp's Hill, on the right wing of the army of the Potomac, from 6 until 10 o'clock at night, against the repeated attacks of the Confederate forces. He occupied a crucial point, and the Southerners were determined to drihve him from it, if its accomplishment was within the ability of men and courage. Again and again did they charge the little band of heroes on Culp's Hill, only to be met with a courage more stubborn than their own and driven back. Had they been able to force General Greene from his position, and, though the gap thus made, hurried a strong division to the rear of the main body of the Union army on Cemetery Ridge, Gettysburg, probably, would have been a Confederate victory.

After Gettysburg General Greene, with the rest of the eleventh and twelfth corps of the army of the Potomac, went to Nashville to re-enforce the army at Chattanooga. On October 28, during a night attack by the enemy at the foot of Lookout Mountain, General Greene, while at the head of his brigade, fell, badly wounded by a ball through his upper jaw. The enemy was routed; but the brave old veteran was compelled to retire from fighting until January, 1865. As soon as his physicians would permit he resumed his military duties; and, although within a few months of sixty-four years of age, he joined a provisional division under Generals Schofield and Cox at Newbern, North Carolina. At the battle of Kingston, North Carolina, he had another narrow escape from death. His horse was killed, and he was thrown to the ground; but escaped without serious injury. This, briefly, tells the story of his more important services during the rebellion.

Rhode Island, his native state, was so proud of his gallant conduct and valued services during the war, that its legislature gave him a vote of thanks.

General Greene now has the added distinction of being the oldest living American army officer, the oldest living graduate of West Point and the oldest man living who has been prominent in American public life.

Easter Eve Custom in Italy.

Travellers in Italy are able during the last week of Lent to study the origin of the spring cleaning. During this time every nook and corner is turned out by busy housewives, who are "preparing for the Holy Water of Easter Eve"—when every house of high and low, rich and poor, must be looking its best, and a table spread with the viands for the Easter dinner, including specially lamb and eggs. For on that day the parish priest knocks at every door, and, followed by the whole family and servants, walks through all the rooms, blessing the house and sprinkling bed and board with holy water. At the end of the ceremony the Easter offering, pence or pounds, according to the means of the donor, is presented by the head of the family, with the words "Christ is Risen," to which the priest replies, "Alleluia, He is risen indeed."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Clever Smoke Device.

The Japanese have a curious way of clearing railroad tunnels of smoke and gases. Each end of the tunnel is provided with a canvas curtain, hung at the top so that when it is dropped it covers the entire mouth of the tunnel. When a train enters the tunnel the curtain at that end is dropped, and it is kept down until the train leaves the other end of the tunnel. The result is that all the smoke and gases are carried along with the train and forced into the open air at the further end of the tunnel. It is asserted that this plunger action is so perfect that smoke from an engine seldom reaches as far back as the middle of the train. Scientific men are puzzled to account for the success of the system.—Boston Budget.

Bare Feet and Two Steers.

The Bath, Me., Independent reviews the career of Governor William King, who when nineteen years old received as his share of his father's estate a pair of two-year-old steers and with these started out barefooted to seek his fortune, being too poor to own shoes and stockings; who first worked in a sawmill, then was a merchant, became president of a bank, a member of the Legislature, a major-general, and finally Maine's first Governor—and then draws this moral: "While, of course, the Governor owed his first successes to being steered right, his life victories were mainly due perhaps, to the fact that, being a barefooted boy, he was unhampered by the refinements of society, and had to get a hustle on at an age when boys of today are just learning how to play a fair game of billiards."

Important Meeting of the Council Tonight.

THE TROLLEY FRANCHISE.

IT WILL BE PASSED ON THIRD AND FINAL READING.

Question of Life Tenure for Policemen to be Decided—Reports of Years Work Will be Given and Various Suggestions Made for the Coming Year—Last Meeting of the Council of 1898.

This evening will see probably the most important meeting of the Common Council of the year. As the last meeting of the season, it is, of course, quite important, as the reports of officers and committees are to be received. But in addition to this, two of the most important ordinances of the year, will come up for third reading and will, in all probability, be passed.

It was first planned to have a public hearing of the proposed trolley ordinance, granting the Plainfield Street Railway the franchise for the Scotch Plains extension, this evening, and then hold a special meeting of the Council tomorrow night and transact the necessary business. That has been changed and the special meeting is called for tonight. It will be preceeded by the trolley franchise hearing.

There is little doubt but that the franchise will go through as it stands at present and so allow the present Council to complete the work it started. All the members of the Council have practically expressed themselves as favoring it.

The other ordinance is that making a position on the police force one of life tenure from which a man can only be removed by showing good cause. At present the members of the force are appointed every year by the Mayor, subject to the approval of the Council. The object of the proposed ordinance is to protect the men on the force from political influence.

The report of the Sewer Commissioners, that was given to the Council some time ago, will be brought before the meeting.

Lengthy and detailed reports have been prepared by all the committees and will be received. The reports of the street, police and fire committees will be particularly interesting to the people of Plainfield. In the street committee report, a number of interesting facts will be given regarding the movement to lay a permanent pavement on the streets in the business section. The cost of the work will be shown and the percentage of it that the street railway campany will have to shoulder. There may also be some interesting recommendations regarding the work that should be done next year. As it is practically a settled thing that there will be no change in the committees next year, the present members will have a chance to carry out their own ideas.

The fire committee will also make some suggestions regarding the provisions for the new engine house in the West End and the apparatus necessary there.

Letter-carriers on Sick List.

At present there are four letter-carriers who are on the sick list, Messrs. Hann, Bauersachs, Shea and Giese. Ernest Mallard, the clerk at the postoffice, is also on the sick list. Every available substitute is now employed and it keeps all hands busy looking after the rush.

Tonight

In St. Mary's Parochial School Hall at the corner of Sixth and Liberty streets, the children connected with the school will give an entertainment, consisting of a varied programme. The exercises will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Miss West Married.

Miss Elizabeth West, formerly of Central avenue, now of Alfred, was married last Wednesday evening to Frank Whitford, one of the proprietors of the Alfred Sun. Mrs. Whitford has a number of friends in this city.

JEALOUSY BAD FOR 'EM.

SUPERINTENDENT MAXSON TELLS TEACHERS HOW TO ACT.

The Plainfield Educator Advises the Teachers to Pull Together for Mutual Interests in Their Line of Work.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, December 29.—About 700 teachers assembled in the Auditorium yesterday afternoon at the opening of the annual meeting of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association. The audience included teachers from all parts of the State, and the gathering was the largest of its kind in the history of the association.

Dr. James M. Green made the address of welcome as president of the State School. President Henry M. Maxson, superintendents of schools of Plainfield, spoke on "Professional Ethics," first thanking Dr. Green for his cordial welcome. Mr. Maxson said he wished to make a plea for a stronger regard for professional ethics. He urged that the entrance to the profession be more closely guarded and its ideals raised.

In his remarks, Mr. Maxson deplored the low salaries that are paid to teachers, saying that in the neighboring State of Pennsylvania the meagre pittance allowed to them is frequently less than that set aside for a pauper. In this connection, he urged less jealousy on the part of teachers as to the salaries paid to their co-workers, saying that nothing tends to keep wages down so much as the system of uniform salaries. When one teacher shows remarkable aptitude at his or her work, he or she should receive more pay, and this, instead of making the others jealous, should stimulate them to increased endeavor. When this state of affairs exists teachers will be better remunerated.

Mr. Maxson was followed by George H. Martin, of Boston, who spoke in place of Sarah L. Arnold, of that city.

Last evening the report of the committee on educational progress was made by C. B. Gilbert, of Newark, chairman, and the "Constructive Element of Education" was discussed by Hamilton W. Mabie, associate editor of The Outlook, New York.

BETS ON CHANCES OF BEING MUSTERED OUT.

THIRD REGIMENT BOYS PUZZLED.

Some of the Sporty Ones Are Risking Money on What Their Fate Will be.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Athens, Ga., December 28.—Just now there is considerable betting taking place among the officers and the men in the Third Regiment, N. J. Volunteers, on the prospects of being mustered out. The mustering out element seems to be in the majority, and several large sums have been wagered at odds of two to one that the Third Regiment will be out of the service in two months.

If the Third is to be mustered out shortly, the men are asking why they are now to be burdened with a new army overcoat at a cost of $11.49 at this late day. They have already received from the State of New Jersey an overcoat which cost them $11.48, and as their clothing allowance for the first six months in the service was $56.75, nearly all of which was used up they are now recalcitrant about the small sum of $9.36, which is allowed for the second six months, being swallowed up in a lump. Nor will that be the worst feature. Should the men be mustered out within the next two months they will only receive a fraction of the $9.36, and it is a safe prediction to make that nine-tenths of the men will receive final statements showing that they are in debt to the government.

Last week the hospital received several cases of medicines, the line officers and the quartermaster's department has made a general issue of shoes and clothing. More shoes and clothing is to be issued during this week.

Firemen's Contest in Bayonne.

Among the half thousand members of Bayonne's Volunteer Fire Department there is a lively contest for the honors of the three department offices. The annual election will be held January 9th. Two complete tickets are in the field, and the partisans of both slates are working with all the ardor and energy of volunteer fire fighters for the success of their candidates.

After the wedding supper, the happy couple left for Philadelphia on the 8:21 p. m. train. After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Pierson will return to Rahway where they are to reside.

MRS. SHATTUCK GETS $3,218.

She Claims the Money Was a Loan, He That it Was an Investment.

Mrs. Susan W. Shattuck, of this city, whose husband is a regular army officer, was yesterday awarded $3,218.92 damages in her suit against William C. Van Antwerp, tried before Judge Dixon, at Hackensack.

According to the testimony, Van Antwerp obtained a loan of $2,000 from Mrs. Susan Cogswell, the plaintiff's mother, in 1887. The money was put into a newspaper and lost. Van Antwerp's defense was that Mrs. Cogswell's loan was an investment.

He was twenty-one years old, unmarried, and lived at 236 East Twenty-second street, Bayonne.

DIED SUDDENLY AT BREAKFAST TABLE.

John Brooks Passed Away This Morning.

WAS AN ACTIVE WORKER.

PROMINENT MAN IN THE PRINTING PRESS INDUSTRY.

Has Been Suffering From Heart Trouble for Some Time—It Finally Caused His Death—Was Government Inspector of Rifle Manufactories During the War—Served Twenty-five Years at Potter's.

After sixty years of active life, John Brooks, one of the leading workers in the printing press industry of the country, died suddenly in the breakfast room at his home, 517 Watchung avenue this morning. While it has been known that he was suffering with heart trouble, the end came suddenly and unexpectedly.

Mr. Brooks has always been a very active man and has attended constantly to his business with much success. While well beyond the prime of life, he appeared in good health and spirits and showed no signs of feebleness. Tuesday evening he was compelled to go to New York on business and returned home late in the evening. The confinement in the hot, stuffy car and then the sudden change to the cold night air, brought on an attack of the nature of those of which had had previously suffered. He recovered from it with apparently no evil results.

Yesterday, he went to business as usual. This morning he dressed and came down stairs to breakfast at 7:30 o'clock. He seated himself in a chair to await the arrival of the meal when he suddenly became faint. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cooley, the latter of whom is his daughter, reside at the house with Mr. Brooks and his wife. They hurried to his side and then Drs. Hedges and Hallock were summoned.

The attack was of a more serious nature than any of the preceding ones and he never recovered consciousness. Before the physicians could reach the house he fell back in the chair dead after a struggle of short duration.

Mr. Brooks celebrated his sixtieth birthday last September. He was born at Bristol, England, and early showed a taste for mechanical works. After receiving a good education he was apprenticed at the business. He was employed in the Government works there. When a young man he came to this country.

His first efforts were directed to the manufactory of rifles, cannon and other fire-arms. When the war broke out, he stood so well that he was made government inspector of rifle manufactories. He afterwards turned his intention to the printing press and made many improvements in the rotary press.

He lived at Norwich, Conn., and afterwards went to Wyoming, Pa., from where he moved to Plainfield twenty years ago. For the past twenty-five years, until a year ago, he was connected with the Potter Press Works and was for many years superintendent of the same. His latter years there were devoted to many various improvements to the Potter presses. He had an inventive turn of mind and took much interest in the improvements.

Last January he left the Potter Press works and took a position as general manager of the Aluminum Plate and Press Company. He was one of the directors of that company. He continued with that corporation until the time of his death. He prepared a special kind of rotary press for use in the aluminum system.

He leaves a widow and two daughters, Mrs. E J. Cooley, of Watchung avenue, and Mrs. L. R. Schofield, of Kensington avenue. He was a Free Mason and a member of Trinity Commandery, Knights Templar. He was an attendant at the Grace P.E.church.

No Evidence to Convict.

Charles Smith, the fourteen-year-old lad, who was arrested yesterday morning because Max Micillison, a Hebrew peddler, of Cottage place, said he had seen him hack and cut the cover of his peddler's wagon to pieces Christmas day, was discharged yesterday afternoon when arraigned before Justice Mosher, as there was no evidence to show that Smith had done the deed. The Justice told Max that the next time he made a complaint he must be sure he saw straight.

New Year's at the Y. M. C. A.

New Year's Day at the Y. M. C. A. will, as usual, be observed. The building will be open to the public for inspection from 2 until 4 o'clock. An entertainment will be provided in the afternoon and also in the evening.

DOESN'T KNOW HOW HE WAS HURT.

Frank Gotlack Unable to Explain His Serious Injuries.

Frank Gotlack, who was picked up near the Aluminum Press and Plate Works yesterday morning, is still in a critical condition at the hospital. Yesterday afternoon he became partly conscious, but owing to his condition he is not allowed to talk very much. He is still unable to tell how the accident happened, and how he happened to be laying in the place where he was found.

It has since been learned that he was employed by Peter Frazee, of Scotch Plains, and that he was on his way to this city to work. The supposition is that he attempted to jump off the mail train and in doing so fell and injured himself.

MAY BE HUNG UP A YEAR.

Little Hope of a Speedy Settlement of the Jockey Club Valuation.

(Special to The Daily Press)

Elizabeth, Dec. 29 — The appeal which the city of Elizabeth has taken to the Supreme Court from the recent decision of the State Board of Taxation in the matter of the valuation of the property of the New Jersey Jockey Club in Elizabeth may not be decided for some time. The Supreme Court will not hear arguments in the case before next June, and a decision, it is said, will not be reached before November, 1899.

The State Board of Taxation reduced the Jockey Club's valuation from $50,000 to $15,000, which the Elizabeth city authorities think was too much of a concession to the Jockey Club.

ADJUSTING BACK TAXES.

Another Meeting of the Martin Act Commissioners Yesterday Afternoon.

The Martin Act Commissioners held another session yesterday afternoon in the Council Chambers. All the Commissioners were present. There were some twelve people who appeared before them in reference to the re-adjustment of the taxes under the new ruling of the courts. Most of those who appeared were merely after information and made no argument before the Commissioners. The Commissioners then adjourned until next Wednesday afternoon.

NOT HIMSELF YET.

Man Injured on the Railroad Still Unconscious at the Hospital.

The man who was picked up along the Central Railroad tracks, above Somerville, a few days ago, still lies at the hospital in an unconscious state. As yet no information concerning the stranger has been learned. His name cannot be ascertained or his residence. Not a single person has called at the hospital to inquire about him, and the authorities are in a quandary as to who the man is. The man has about one chance of recovery.

Dance for the Younger Set.

A dance was given to Miss Emma Schoonmaker and Miss Gertrude Andrews by Mrs. S. L. Schoonmaker, of Central avenue, at her home last evening. It was largely attended by the young people of Plainfield society. There were also a number of out-of-town guests present. The guests numbered a hundred in all. The house was prettily decorated with holly, southern smylax and palms. An elaborate supper was served late in the evening.

BUSINESS MAN IS DEAD.

ALONZO T. AYRES' LIFE WENT OUT WITH THE OLD YEAR.

Taken Sick Early Last November With the Grip, Which Developed Into Hasty Consumption—Born in Plainfield.

The death of Alonzo Ayres, of Grant avenue, a member of the firm of Marsh, Ayres & Co., the Park avenue wall paper dealers and painters, occurred yesterday afternoon after an illness covering a period of several years which resulted in consumption. Mr. Ayres was born in this city, where he lived all his life. In his early days he attended the public schools in this city. By hard work and a great amount of energy he succeeded in establishing a good business, associating himself with Messrs. Marsh. In politics he was a staunch Republican and was a member of the Republican City Executive Committee for several years.

A few years ago he traveled west in the hopes that he would recover from his ill-health. His health did seem to improve, but when he returned home he perceptibly grew worse. He was a sufferer from a growth on the back of his neck, and this gave him a great deal of trouble.

Mr. Ayres was the son of William B. Ayres, of this city, and he leaves a widow and four children to mourn his loss. His last illness detained him at home about three weeks. Last Sunday a consultation of physicians was held and it was then learned that he could not recover. Mr. Ayres was a member of the Knights of Pythias.

The funeral services will be held from Hope chapel next Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited.

WENT TO GET CASH; BUT GOT BLACK EYE.

ASSAILANT WAS HALED TO COURT.

Now Must Answer to Grand Jury for Hitting the Installment House Proprietor.

Meyer Leichtentritt, of Central avenue, who sells clothing on the installment plan, appeared in Justice Mosher's court this morning as complainant in an assault and battery case in which Henry Vandeveer, colored, of 508 West Third street, was the defendant.

Leichtentritt went to the above address Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock to see Mrs. Maggie Taylor about a bill she owed him, and which his regular collector had been unable to collect. He says that while talking to the woman, Vandeveer came up and ordered him from the house, at the same time administering a blow on Leichtentritt's left eye. The blow sent Leichtentritt through the door and out into the street, and after an unsuccessful search for an officer he went home.

Francis J. Blatz represented Leichtentritt, and proved to the satisfaction of the Justice that Leichtentritt had been assaulted, so Vanderveer was held in $100 bonds to await the action of the Grand Jury. Robert M. Clark was Vanderveer's attorney, and tried to prove that Leichtentritt first struck Vanderveer. Mrs. Taylor did say that, but Justice Mosher refused to allow the defendant to be put on the witness stand, and held him for the Grand Jury.

Leichtentritt's left eye was badly blackened, and he had other marks on his body as the result of the skirmish. Vanderveer is a more powerful looking man than the other, and must be strong according to Leichtentritt's description of the easy method he employes to eject unwelcome visitors.

PUBLIC HEARING ON TROLLEY.

Council Will Listen to Any Arguments For or Against Proposed Franchise.

All persons interested are reminded that tonight at 8 o'clock the City Council will give the last public hearing on the proposed extension of the trolley in the East End of the city. If there is anybody in the city who has anything to say on the subject tonight will be the time for them to be present at the Council rooms and have their say. This will probably be the last chance given for a public hearing.

Judgment Secured.

Pope & Runyon, the attorneys, secured a judgment yesterday in the Court of Common Pleas for $50 damages for Elijah Stevens, of Somerville, against Augustus Baldwin, of this city. Some time ago Baldwin purchased a road wagon and a set of harness from Stevens, which he has neglected to pay for. Baldwin was sued in Justice Moffett's court, and an appeal was taken from there to the Court of Common Pleas.

The Genial Old Sprite Pays More Visits to Sunday-schools.

GENEROUS MAN HE SEEMS.

HIS COMING AND GOING MADE PLEASURE FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

Several Churches Held Their Yuletide Exercises for the Younger Generation Last Night, But Some of the Older Ones Were There, too, to Enjoy the Compliments of the Season Shown in Good Way.

These are busy nights for Santa Claus, and if he was a union man it might be expected that he would get double pay for his work, seeing that he puts in so much time, but in view of the fact that the old sprite enjoys his visits here and there quite as much as ordinary human beings he doesn't mind the hustling one bit—in fact, rather takes pleasure in it himself. The following are some of the places he visited last night:

ST. STEVENS EPISOPAL.

One hundred and fifty little ones went away from St. Steven's Episcopal church, Netherwood, yesterday afternoon carrying their presents and boxes of candy, and with happy hearts. The Christmas entertainment was held at 5 o'clock, and consisted of the singing of hymns and carols, and an address by the rector. Then the lights were turned out, the Christmas tree was lighted, and the distribution of gifts begun. There were dolls and toys for the little tots, boxes of candy and oranges for the older scholars, and fun and pleasure for everyone. The entertainment lasted until 6 o'clock, and was the best attended of any St. Stevens has held.

GRACE P. E. CHURCH.

The full choir were present at Grace church last night, and the prescribed service of the Episcopal church for the mid-week Christmas festival, was held, with the addition of a few Christmas carols. Then an adjourdment to the chapel was taken, where there was a Christmas tree, lighted with candles, and trimmed prettily. The little ones were given dolls and toys, and all were remembered with candy and oranges.

HOLY CROSS CHURCH.

Jolly old Santa Claus made glad the hearts of the little ones at the entertainment of the Sunday-school of the Holy Cross last night. He brought with him presents galore for the children in the shape of dolls, games and toys of every description, and every child received a handsome present. There was a beautiful Christmas tree heavily ladened with brilliant ornaments, and the room was tastefully decorated with Christmas greens. Previous to the appearance of the famous old saint there was a short service conducted by the rector, Rev. T. Logan Murphy, assisted by Superintendent William A. Westphal, which consisted of singing of carols and reading of the Scriptures. The music was greatly enhanced by the assistance of J. Owen Smith, who played the cornet very acceptably. After the singing George H. Fountain gave a large number of excellent views of the life of the Christ-child thrown upon a large screen by a stereopticon. He gave an interesting and instructive talk upon the subjects while they appeared in view from time to time. Then followed recitations by the Misses Ada Westphal, Ethel and Bessie Reynolds, Dorothy James, Willie LaRue, and Willie Westphal, and a Christmas song by Miss Ethel Reynolds, which was very sweetly sung, and evoked considerable applause. Then came Santa Clause and the distribution of the presents, accompanied by a box of candy and an orange for each. Superintendent Westphal and each of the teachers were remembered as were also each of the choir boys. Altogether the affair was a most enjoyable one for all present. Santa Claus was ably impersonated by Horsley Barker, who was so completely disguised that his best friends would not have recognized him. The room was crowded during the evening with the scholars and their friends, many of whom were obliged to stand during the entertainment.

HOPE CHAPEL.

The Christmas entertainment at Hope chapel last evening was one of the most successful yet held. Councilman F. H. Andrews had charge of the exercises. The regular programme consisted of a recitation by Miss Marie Newman, and one also by Arthur Lawe. Judge-elect Wm. N. Runyon presided at the piano and he pleased his audience by singing several of the latest songs. A cantata of a musical

HE SAW NO HORRORS

Sergeant Hill's Testimony Before the War Board.

SOLDIERS WELL CARED FOR

Plenty of Food and Medicines Says This Witness, Soldiers at Camp Wikoff Made Sick by too Many Delicacies. Gen. Miles' Statement Contradicted.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—First Sergeant William Hill of Company L, District of Columbia volunteers, was the only witness before the war investigating commission yesterday.

He served as commissary sergeant with his regiment at Camp Alger, Camp Thomas, Tampa and Cuba.

Throughout the continuance of hostilities he saw no horrors, suffered no hardships and was confident that the soldiers were treated well.

He said that the men had plenty to eat with the exception of a couple of days after they reached Siboney, when they threw away their rations on account of their bulk.

He believed that they had plenty of medicine, and thought that a good deal of the sickness prevalent was caused by the refusal of the men to take the quinine given them. Many of them had a "superstition" against using the drug.

Hill denied that the canned beef was bad, and said that the refrigerated variety condemned by General Miles was all right.

He said it had not been treated with chemicals, and believed it made some of the soldiers sick because they ate too much of it.

The soldiers at Camp Wikoff were made sick by too many delicacies, he asserted.

He had seen one man there eating peaches and salmon out of cans at the same time.

Draper on Citizenship.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 29.—"Put the schools on a business and pedagogical standard; train the children into life, not out of it, and then the public schools will make much for good citizenship."

In this sentence may be summed up the address delivered last night before the Minnesota Educational Association by Dr. Andrew S. Draper, president of the University of Illinois, on "The Public Schools and Citizenship."

"The country is not afraid of the man on horseback," he said, "or of his more popular and more powerful brother, the man on the bridge of a battleship. The American people need not worry themselves about the stability of the government. It has a great problem before it just now, the greatest it has ever had, but it does not endanger its stability."

Couldn't Measure the Moon.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 29.—Professor Frederick Chase, who is in charge of the Yale astronomical observatory, states that the observations taken of the lunar eclipse Tuesday night, would amount to nothing.

The fact that clouds obscured the moon's surface nearly all the time of the eclipse prevented the measurement of the lunar disc by the heliometer, and also made it impossible to discern the faint stars in occultation.

Just before the eclipse terminated the clouds lifted slightly, and Dr. Chase thought that some of the observations taken hurriedly might be of value.

The interval was too short, however, and yesterday it was proved that nothing of importance was learned from the eclipse.

Duel With Pocketknives.

Oroville, Cal., Dec. 29.—Thomas J. Grubbs, aged 40, and Harry Roberts, aged 70, have fought a duel with pocket knives at Mooretown, twenty-two miles above this town.

Grubbs hacked his aged victim to death and was wounded terribly about the face and neck.

Grubbs has been arrested on a charge of murder.

ROOSEVELT APPOINTS A DEMOCRAT.

Major Avery D. Andrews is the Governor's Choice for Adjutant General.

Oyster Bay, L. I., Dec. 29.—Governor-elect Roosevelt has decided to appoint Major Avery D. Andrews to be adjutant general of the state.

This appointment is not a temporary one, as has been intimated it might be, but permanent. The appointment is made upon the recommendation of General Roe and leading military men. Senator Platt acquiesced in it although Major Andrews is a Democrat.

The appointment gives Colonel Roosevelt great personal satisfaction, as he is strongly attached to Major Andrews, of whom he spoke yesterday ing the department of the east.

Avery D. Andrews was educated at Wallston University, and, entering West Point, graduated in the class of 1886. He served as second lieutenant of the Fifth Artillery, and was promoted to be first lieutenant. In 1893 he began the practice of law, and, having left the regular army, was appointed major of engineers by General Fitzgerald, commanding the First Brigade of the New York state National Guard. Before this he was aide-de-camp to General Schofield, commanding the department of the east.

In February, 1895, Mayor Strong appointed Mr. Andrews police commissioner. In a short while it developed that Mr. Andrews, while a Democrat, had cast his lot with Theodore Roosevelt, Republican, while Colonel Fred Grant, appointed as a Republican, acted with Commissioner Andrew D. Parker, a James O'Brien Democrat.

The memorable deadlock that followed is local history. Commissioners Roosevelt and Andrews compelled the enforcement of law, prevented political appointments, guarded the civil service lists and made matters uncomfortable for the two political machines. At the outbreak of the Spanish war, Colonel Andrews joined Squadron A, but got no farther than Chickamauga in the service of the government. He was elected major of Squadron A.

MANY ARRESTS IN HAVANA.

Fifty United States soldiers have been arrested for being in the city without leave and were sent to the camps for punishment.

The steamer Wanderer, Captain Lowden, from Ship island, December 23, has arrived.

The Spanish transport Munchen has sailed for Cadiz with 2,400 Spanish troops on board.

A deputation of Cuban residents called on General Brooke to press upon General Ludlow's attention questions relating to the police and fire departments, schools, sanitation and street paving.

Among the applicants for positions on the police force here Colonel Moulton of the Second Illinois regiment and Captain McCullagh, formerly superintendent of police in New York city, who have charge of the organization of the police department, have discovered many thieves and other criminals. One applicant offered, indirectly, five hundred centenes for an appointment.

The New West Indian Line.

New York, Dec. 29.—The new steamer Admiral Farragut, which was launched from the Cramp shipyards November 1, arrived yesterday morning from Philadelphia after a successful trial trip, on which she developed a speed of 15.5 knots per hour, half a knot better than the contract called for.

On the trip the Farragut was in charge of two officials from the shipyard. There was also on board Commander Kelly of the United States trial board, whose interest was due to a mail contract given by the government.

The Farragut is one of four new steamers, the others being Admiral Dewey, Admiral Schley and Admiral Sampson, built for the American Mail Steamship Company to ply between Boston and Jamaica, via Santiago.

Captured Spanish Gunboats.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 29.—The former Spanish gunboats Sandoval and Alvarado, commanded respectively by Lieutenants Anderson and Victor Blue, sailed yesterday for Portsmouth, N. H., via Annapolis, Md.

They are to deliver some Spanish relics to the Naval Academy, and to give the cadets a chance to see the captured vessels.

From Annapolis the Sandoval and Alvarado will proceed to Portsmouth to be thoroughly overhauled, after which they will enter the service of the United States.

CHANDLER'S CHARGE

The Senator Alleges Money Now Controls Local Politics.

AN APPEAL TO HIS STATE.

The Great Railroad He Says, Already Has Furnished and Distributed Its Money to Control Representatives and Senators. A Grave Charge.

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 29.—The Union prints the conclusion of Senator William E. Chandlers statement on the growth of the use of money in politics in New Hampshire. As to the last campaign the senator says:

"Unfortunately the temptations under the conditions existing boldly to seize and selfishly use the great power of the Republican party was too great to be resisted by certain forces and persons.

"It is at just such times of overwhelming ascendancy of a party that designing men take the opportunity to possess themselves of the party organization. The few men who are seizing power will wield it with unrelentless mercilessness.

"Will Senator Gallinger fail to issue more circulars and money drafts like those which have made his conduct of the canvass of 1898 the most notable in the present history of the state? Ex Pede Herculeum. The game is made up. Look to see it played. Experientia docet stultas.

"In the coming legislature the Manchester and Milford railroad bill is to be defeated; so are all bills for electric railroads; so is the bill to disentangle the supreme court from railroad contests; any bill effectually prohibiting free passes; the bill for electing railroad commissioners by the people and making them the people's agents instead of the agents of the great railroad, and, moreover, the bill preventing fraud and bribery in party caucuses.

"To accomplish these objects the great railroad has already furnished its money and the chairman has distributed the funds to control the representatives and senators.

"There is no possibility of doubt that herein is correctly depicted a new system of political control in New Hampshire under which, through money influences, all popular legislation at the coming session is to be defeated, and hereafter all Republican political caucuses and conventions, and the election of all delegates and nominees for office, and of all federal office holders are to be directed by the chairman of the state committee, according to his own will and pleasure, except so far as he may be influenced by the corporations or individuals who have furnished to him the large sums of money necessary to fasten upon the people a scheme of political rule.

"Whether the Republican party will indorse, approve, submit to and perpetuate such a system, is about the most important question upon which its members have ever been called upon to act."

Duels in Hungary.

Budapest, Dec. 29.—The first of the six duels arranged between M. Horanszky, a member of the lower house of the Hungarian Diet, and his seconds, and the seconds of Baron Banffy, the Hungarian premier, growing out of the dispute, still unsettled, between the two principals, took place yesterday, between Baron Fejervary, minister of national defence, and Count Karolya.

Pistols were the weapons, but the encounter was bloodless. Baron Fejervary missed his opponent, and the pistol of Count Karolya missed fire.

Baron Banffy's second, M. Gajari, and M. Horanszky's second, M. Szemoro, fought a duel later with swords. In the first encounter the latter was cut on the head.

After his wound had been bound the duel was resumed, and M. Szemoro again was severely wounded in the head. The seconds stopped the fighting and a reconciliation followed.

Many Arrests in Havana.

Havana, Dec. 29.—The patrols of American troops made thirty arrests for misdemeanors Tuesday night and turned them over to the civil authorities.

Two of the men arrested for the Vegas Bomba Cafe affair are Spanish marines. They were surrendered to the Spanish authorities.

Fifty United States soldiers have been arrested for being in the city without leave. They were sent to the camps for punishment.

Historians in Session.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 29.—The fourteenth annual meeting of the American Historical Association has opened here.

The association was organized at Saratoga, N. Y., in 1884, and has grown to include in its membership many of the ablest historical students of the country.

The sessions are so arranged at the present convention that the discussions of the American Economic Association may be attended by Historical Association delegates, some of the sessions being joint meetings.

Last evening President G. P. Fisher delivered his annual address.

The Porto Rican Commission.

New York, Dec. 29.—The members of the Porto Rican commission are still in this city and will probably be here for some days yet.

The secretary, M. Catala, said yesterday that the commission would go to Washington next Tuesday to present their petition to the president. The aim of the commission is to secure a territorial form of government for the island, in place of the military government now in progress.

They wish to have the president issue a proclamation for an election, at which municipal officers and members of a legislature may be elected.

PLENTY OF IT.

Lots More Proof Like This, and It's all from People You Know.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating of it." If any city or town in the Union has sufficient proof that the representations made for a household necessity are true, that place is Plainfield. If the cures in Plainfield numbered some half dozen there might be grave doubts about their genuineness. That many people in a place the size of Plainfield might have based their claims on pure imagination, but when public endorsation reaches scores, and as many more endorsers are willing to testify to the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, the evidence and the proof is incontrovertible. Investigation, the most superficial, will prove that Doan's Kidney Pills are an actual necessity in Plainfield. Here is one of our endorsers:

Mr. Geo. S. McGinnis, of No. 212 Somerset St., foreman of R. H. McCullough's Sash and Door Mfg. Co., says: "I never was sick a day in my life until a pain struck me across my back and a lameness over the kidneys. I did not pay much attention to it at first, thinking it would soon pass away, but instead of this it grew worse. A bladder trouble set in. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended by those who used them for such troubles that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I used them according to instructions and felt somewhat relieved. Continuing the treatment, by the time I had finished the third box, the pain in my back and the lameness disappeared. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy and I gladly recommend them as such whenever I have a chance."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers; price 50 cents a box. Mailed on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

TWO JUDGES DEAD.

Justice Hamilton Ward of N. Y. and Judge H. J. Reeder of Pa. Pass Away.

Wellesville, Dec. 29.--Judge Hamilton Ward of the supreme court, died yesterday. He is survived by his wife and one son, Hamilton Ward, Jr., a captain in the 202d regiment in Cuba.

Hamilton Ward was born in Salisbury, Herkimer county, February 3, 1828. He received an academic education, studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1851. In 1856 he was elected district attorney of Allegany county for a term of three years, and was re-elected three years later. During his term he was designated by the governor as a member of the committee in his locality for the raising and organization of troops for the federal service. He served in the Thirty-ninth and Fortieth and Forty-first Congresses.

In the Fortieth Congress he was a member of the committee on the assassination of President Lincoln. He was also on the committee to prepare articles on the impeachment of President Johnson. In the convention of 1871 he was the leader of Horace Greeley's supporters, making an able and eloquent speech in behalf of the old organization in the city of New York. Eight years later he was elected attorney general.

He was elected justice of the eighth judicial district in 1891. Justice Ward's term would have expired December 31, 1899, on account of the age limit.

Judge H. J Reeder.

Easton, Pa., Dec. 29.--Superior Court Judge Howard J. Reeder has just died at his home in this city.

Judge Reeder's death was due to dropsy and congestion of the lungs. He was 55 years of age.

Judge Reeder was a son of Andrew H. Reeder, noted as the governor of Kansas during the anti-slavery struggle before the civil war.

While a student at Princeton he was appointed a lieutenant in the First Regular Infantry, and served under General Pope at New Madrid and at Island No. 10, where he was wounded and obliged to leave the service. He recovered and became captain of Company G of the One Hundred and Fifty-third Pennsylvania Volunteers, and was engaged at Chancellorsville and Gettysburg.

After the war Mr. Reeder was graduated from Harvard Law School, and was law partner of his brother at Easton, when he was appointed judge in 1881.

Three years later he was chosen judge of Northampton common pleas, being the only Republican elected in the county. He was commissioned, under appointment by the governor, judge of the superior court June 23, 1895, and elected in the autumn following, being commissioned for the full term December 19, 1895, and his term would not have expired until 1906.

Big Payments of Interest.

New York, Dec. 29.—The payments of interest and dividends at the beginning of the new year will be very heavy.

It was estimated in Wall street yesterday that the disbursements in this city would amount to one hundred and thirty million dollars; at Boston to twenty million dollars, and at Philadelphia to twelve million dollars, a total of one hundred and sixty-two million dollars for the three cities.

The interest on a large portion of the national debt matures on January 1, and the government will pay the quarterly interest on the four per cent bonds.

Weyler Confers With Queen Regent.

Madrid, Dec. 29.—The greatest interest and curiosity was taken in the long audience which General Weyler had with the queen regent.

The newspapers here, while sympathizing with Premier Sagasta, say that the country cannot be sacrificed on account of his illness, and an immediate arrangement of the ministerial crisis is demanded.

The newspapers also say that Don Carlos is now trying to place a loan in Spain, through numerous agents, adding that he opened negotiations on Tuesday in Madrid with this object in view.

Brickmakers to Organize.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 29.—A meeting of the manufacturers of impervious-face brick is being held here to form a national association for mutual protection.

Representatives from twenty-one plants are in attendance.

The delegates deny that it is the intention to form a trust, the object being to maintain prices and arrange better terms with buyers.

Half a Million in Flames.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 29.—The Semet Solvay Biproduct plant at Ensley City, a suburb of Birmingham, was destroyed by fire Tuesday evening.

One man is missing and is thought to have been burned to death.

The plant was the property of people in Syracuse, N. Y., and was valued at five hundred thousand dollars. It had been in full operation only a few months.

FILIPINOS TAKE ILOILO

Their Flag Raised in That City Monday.

AMERICANS ARE TOO LATE

The City Evacuated by the Spanish General Last Saturday. Trouble in Securing the Release of Spanish Prisoners.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—A dispatch came from General Otis yesterday that at once confirmed the fears of the officials of the war department as to what had taken place at Iloilo, capital of the island of Panay, and second city of the Philippines.

It appears that the American forces had arrived too late on the scene and that the insurgents had hoisted their flag over the city, which they have been besieging for months.

The news was contained in the following message from General Otis:

Manila, Dec. 27.

Adjutant General, Washington:

Sent Colonel Potter on fast vessel to Iloili on 24th to communicate with the Spanish general, Rios; latter evacuated evening of 24th and Potter thirty-nine hours late; insurgents took possession of city on 26th, and Potter found Aguinaldo's flag flying. Cannot now report probable results; will not hear from there for four days, as no cable communications. Spanish forces have evacuated all stations in southern islands, except Zamboanga, Mindanao, by orders, as they say, from Madrid.

OTIS.

The evacuation by the Spaniards of all the Philippine posts, as reported by General Otis, although doubtless inspired by a desire to secure their safety by concentration, undoubtedly has done much to complicate the problem already presented to the war department, of extending the military jurisdiction of the United States over the islands.

It will now be necessary to expedite the execution of the original plans, and it may be fully expected that within a week important events will have taken place in the Philippines.

It is presumed that General Otis will demand the surrender of Iloilo into his hands, and this demand may at once raise the issue between the insurgents and our own government as to the possession of the islands.

Up to the time the dispatch was sent there had been a good deal of anxiety in official circles over events at Iloilo. Two official dispatches had been received by the state and war departments, but it was impossible to gather from them an accurate knowledge as to the conditions there.

United States Consul Pratt, at Singapore, cabled the state department: "Iloilo taken 24th. Spanish fled to Borneo."

The province of Iloilo is set down in the official directories as having a population of 472,000, and it is the second seaport of importance in the Philippine group. It is located on a river navigable for vessels of fifteen feet draught, so that very few of our gunboats would be available to assist the troops in case it should be necessary to take forcible possession of the city.

The Spaniards have chosen a strong place for the concentration of their troops in the town of amboanga, which as the reports here indicate, is strongly fortified, and possessed of considerable natural strength from a defensive point of view. It is not doubted that they will be able to maintain themselves for an indefinite period of time against the insurgents, presuming that they are not cut off from obtaining supplies from the sea. The town itself has a population of 21,000 inhabitants.

Professor D. C. Worcester was a visitor at the state department yesterday in connection with the Philippine affair. He is thoroughly acquainted with the conditions in the islands from personal observation and experience. After talking over this subject with him for some time, Secretary Hay arranged for an interview between the president and the professor at the White House, which was had about noon.

The officials at the war department still decline to make public General Otis's telegram of yesterday, but there is no doubt that he is meeting with great difficulty in his effort to secure the release of the Spanish prisoners held by the Filipinos.

It begins to appear clearly that a considerable element among the Filipino leaders, probably a majority, are disposed to use these unfortunate prisoners as a basis for negotiations with the United States government, making their release conditional upon certain more or less important concessions demanded by them.

It is not yet a foregone conclusion that terms cannot be arranged by private conferences in Manila to secure the release of these men, but the United States government being now pledged by treaty to free them, must resort to other means, if peaceful representations fail.

General Otis has been instructed on this point, and the war department has confidence in his experience and sound judgment, and, believing that from his presence on the scene he is better capable of dealing with the situation than officials here, has confined itself to a statement of what is expected to be done toward securing the release of the prisoners, leaving it to General Otis to devise ways and means and carry out the plans.

Until some progress has been made and the department is aware of the exact number of these prisoners, it will not be possible to proceed very far with the plans for the repatriation of the Spaniards.

Land-Slip in Switzerland.

London, Dec. 29.—Part of Red Rock mountain, according to a dispatch from Airolo, a village of Switzerland, canton of Ticino, at the southern end of the St. Gothard tunnel, has fallen into Airolo, destroying a hotel and several houses. Three persons were injured.

CHILDREN PAY TRIBUTE.

They Wil Dedicate a Monument to the Great New Orleans Philanthropist.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 29.—On this, the birthday anniversary of the late J. T. McDonough, the man to whom New Orleans owes its present admirable school system, a monument will be dedicated by the school children of the Crescent City to his memory.

It is the work of Attilio Picirilli of New York and if fourteen feet high, standing on a six foot mound. It consists of a round, smooth, Greek column, on a similar pedestal, rising from octagonal steps.

The column and pedestal are of smooth, polished Istrian stone, light drab in color, and affords a pretty contrast with the bronze work and decorations.

The capital is carved in leaves and floral designs, surmounted by a bronze bust of McDonough of heroic size. In front of the column a little school girl stands, with her books in one hand, and with the other raised she supports a little boy who has climbed on to the pedestal and is reaching up to place a cluster of flowers at the base of the bust.

The children have already deposited a wreath of flowers around the base of the column.

The monument with the figures represents the old philanthropist as best he can be produced at this late day, and the love and gratitude of the children, who will symbolize here in stone and bronze the yearly act of devotion which is performed in the public schools of New Orleans on Founder's day.

NOT FOR CUBAN ARMY.

The $3,000,000 Fund Will Not be Used for Pay of Soldiers.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—It is denied on the highest authority that the three million dollars passed in the urgency deficiency bill to be used as an emergency fund was placed there to pay Cuban soldiers.

The story has been published that this fund was passed by Congress solely to pay Cuban and Philippine insurgents, and that the Cubans will be paid at once.

It is true that advances have been made to the war department on the part of the Cuban junta to use this money for the Cuban soldiers, and negotiations took place but they did not reach a definite conclusion.

The Cubans are trying to keep up the negotiations, but opposition has developed, not only in the war department, but from the president, and there is little probability of the fund being used for that purpose.

In fact, the secretary of war has suggested that this money should be used to purchase vessels needed as transports for the Philippines.

The fund was put in the deficiency bill for the same use as the $5,000,000 defence appropriation was made, to be at the disposal of the president for any emergency which may arise. The president does not consider the payment of the Cuban soldiers such an emergency, and opposes any such action on the same ground as he did the recognition of the Cuban republic, because recognizing the Cuban army would be a step toward recognizing the Cubans as an independent nation.

A Large Steel Order.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—The Illinois Steel Company has been offered an order by the Australian government for thirty-two thousand tons of steel piping, valued at two million dollars, for the Colgardie Pipe Line.

The entire order is for sixty-four thousand tons, and the Carnegie plant takes half of it.

The Illinois Steel people are considering the offer, it being a question of capacity. Their mills have had an unprecedented run of twenty-two months without stopping, and they are now sold three to five months ahead.

Plucked Chickens Alive.

Philadelphia, Dec. 29.—Rabbi Doglia Ararosky and his assistant were sent to jail yesterday by Magistrate Harrison on the charge of plucking live chickens in the market place.

Rabbi Ararosky and his assistant were arrested at the instance of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The rabbi said that the chickens plucked were killed according to the Jewish religion. The defendants were fined ten dollars each and refused to pay.

Death Ends Suit for Millions.

London, Dec. 29.—The death is announced of Mrs. Saunders of Porth Cawl, Glamorganshire, who was the claimant of the estate of an American millionaire, named Leake, valued at 4,000,000 pounds.

Her claim was based upon the ground that she was next of kin.

Negotiations in the matter of the validity of her claim are still pending.

Chicago Excursion to Cuba.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—A party of Chicagoans is en route to Havana to be present there on New Year's day, when the Spanish flag will be lowered.

The party left on two trains and will take a steamer to-day at Port Tampa.

Burglars' Victim Dead.

Utica, N. Y., Dec. 29.—John Mooney, who was shot by burglars on a farm near Cassville, Friday morning, died at the Faxton Hospital in this city yesterday.

The Erie Commuters' Plight.

A spasm of virtue seems to have struck the officials of the Erie Railway. From time almost immemorial it has been considered an inalienable privilege of commuters to while away the time going to and from the metropolis each day by indulging in various games played with cards, with whist in the lead as to popularity and draw-poker as to seductiveness. But it seems that the Erie officials have suddenly become possessed of a high moral tone which they evidently intend to inculcate into the customs of their unfortunate patrons—for anyone who is compelled to ride on the Erie comes in that category.

Hence it is that we read of the order that after Jan. 1st no card playing is to be indulged in on their trains, and trainmen are especially instructed to see that the new order of things is lived up to to a dot. Now, of course, we all know that the commuter is one of the most enduring human beings extant and officious and cheese-paring railroad officials are prone to use him as a football for their own selfish interests, but we imagine that the Erie people have undertaken a bigger job than they anticipate in the determination to root out card playing on their suburban trains.

Certain urban gentlemen of the humorous press have delighted and do delight yet, in fact, to dwell funnily on life in the suburbs, holding up the commuters' little trials and tribulations in a way humiliating to the subjects of their wit. Such things are accepted in the spirit of taking the bitter with the sweet, but to deprive the commuter of the fascinating joy of a game of whist or draw-poker—just for fun, of course—as he is speeding along either to or from business, is too much, too much. It will never do. The Erie must come down to the sanctimonious level of their patient commuters.

Senator Morrill's Good Example.

The death of Senator Morrill and the universal praise of his career in the National Legislature, which has extended over a period lasting almost a half century, is evidence that it is not necessary for a public man to possess oratorical talent to become an influential personage or a conspicuous light in Washington. The late Senator Morrill was not a successful speaker in the same respect that other of his colleagues are and have been, and who have secured passing fame by such attainments, but was a studious man who arranged his expression of sentiments carefully and then read them word for word from the manuscript. There were no dramatic poses or pounding of the air when Senator Morrill spoke, but his points were made to strike home without the artifice of honeyed words and epigrammatic sentences.

It was the quiet, serious work, however, which gave Senator Morrill his position in the National life. He eschewed politics to an extent that made him a marvel in Washington, and probably therein he was able to accomplish many things, that had they been hedged around by political considerations and intrigues, the results would have been contrary to what they were.

His career in this respect affords a healthy example to the crafty politician, who is always trimming his actions when in office to bring about a course of events that will result in his succeeding himself or else going higher. Without considering his future as to be determined by his constituents in the State of Vermont, Senator Morrill's actions were always prompted by a stern sense of what his conscience dictated was best. It was this rugged view of life—so typical of the State that he represented—that brought about his election time and time again until he earned the title of the "Dean of the Senate."

THE KAISER'S PILGRIMAGE MENU.

His own cook, an Arab, in his own tents, prepared the food for Emperor William during his recent tour through the Holy Land. A fac simile of the bill of fare for October 30, at Jerusalem, is here shown. For luncheon there were vegetable soup, chicken with rice, Wiener Schnitzel, baked potatoes, caramel cream, butter and cheese, fruit and coffee. For dinner: Lentil soup, goose liver patties, loin of beef garnished, duck with olives, green beans, roebuck with salad, charlotte russe, butter and cheese, fruit and coffee.

A trio of Somerville young men went out one evening a few months ago for "a good time." The evening's carousal ended in the murder of one and the arrest of the others. The finale came Tuesday when the young man guilty of the crime was sentenced to prison for five years. Of course, considering the enormity of his offense—the taking of a human life—he got off remarkably easy and can thank his lucky stars in being arraigned in Middlesex county, where lenient justice is dealt out with a lavish hand, instead of Somerset county, where only a little over a year ago two men—one of them still in his teens—expiated the same crime on the gallows. But the moral of this sad course of events is for young men to steer clear of bad company and saloons.

Trenton indulges in genuine knock-down-and out prize fights. We hope that none of the unsophisticated Legislators at the approaching session will be led astray by the capital city's capricious sporting tendencies. Of course, if some of the honorable gentlemen should happen to be present at any of the manly art affairs it will be presumed that they were there only to get ideas for reformatory legislation, or, perhaps, to silently see how far the scrappers can transgress the law without falling into its meshes. It would be heretic to think that an Assemblyman or a Senator would attend out of pure love of seeing clean uppercuts and other scientific descriptions for the fistic art.

A Boston editor is spending thirty days in jail for contempt of court in criticising a judge. So it seems that even in effete Boston, where the millineum is almost always in sight, that editors have their little troubles. Such being the case in Boston, what can we mortals of the newspapers who live elsewhere expect.

Thirty million dollars is the tidy sum that represents the capital stock in a rubber trust which will soon seek the State of New Jersey for a home—that is, a legal home. It is not likely that any of the real business of the trust will ever be transacted in the State, however. And there comes the rub.

The man who hasn't fixed up his new set of resolutions to be inaugurated New Year's Day will have to put his thinking cap on in a hurry. Only two days more are left of this year.

Every large city and town in New Jersey is agitating the matter of cheaper gas. A little reduction in the price of that commodity in Plainfield would be welcomed.

The woman who won't admit that she is cold as long as she can look stylish must have a hard time to keep her tongue still these days.

Here is a good motto to adopt for the New Year: "Hope for the best, prepare for the worst and take what comes."

President of the Common Council Andrews. Well, now that don't sound bad.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The municipalities interested in the passage of a dollar gas bill through the Legislature should have a thorough understanding and work in harmony. The gas companies invariably employ the smartest agents and lobbyists in Trenton, and it will require shrewdness and unceasing vigilance to get ahead of them.—New York Tribune.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Everybody that ventured out into the open air yesterday realized that it was cold. There were comparatively few, however, who realized that it was cold enough to freeze music right in the horns of the musicians. The parade of the Guy Brothers Minstrels was held through the city streets yesterday afternoon. When the parade was passing through North avenue, several of the musicians signalled to the leader to halt, as they were in trouble. The procession halted and several of the players on brass instruments dropped into The Daily Press office to warm up their instruments. As the tunes that were frozen in the horns began to melt and flow forth, the office was filled with sweet melodies and the admiring members of the staff, who stood around listening, were treated to an impromptu concert. As soon as the instruments were in good order, the musicians returned to their places and the parade was resumed.

* * * * *

From her early childhood hours she has always had a particular fondness for pigs, and now one of the belles in the elite of Plainfield society, she still cherishes it. In a moment of confidence she told a young man of her yearning to possess one of her own. Last Sunday morning her wish was granted. After a search through the outlying farm yards of this section the young man found a delightful specimen, all white, young, but exceedingly lively. Sunday morning the young man arrived with his Christmas gift. The pig grunted and squealed with edifying zeal as the young man bore him in his arms up the path to the house. From that time down to the present that household has had an eventful life. Master Piggy has made his headquarters in the cellar. Monday, after much persuasion, he consented to have his photograph taken.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, Dec. 29.—The Christmas entertainment at the Baptist church last evening was well attended and the programme rendered was one of the best ever given by the school. The exercises opened with the singing of a carol by the school, after which the pastor, Rev. J. S. Braker, read the scripture and offered prayer. Then followed recitations and songs by the primary children, after which Whyams and Barnes, musical specialists of Newark, were introduced and entertained the audience with a number of selections upon different musical novelties. This was followed, much to the delight of the little ones, by a hurried visit from Santa Claus, who had presents for all. Mr. Hall was remembered by the school with two handsomely bound books.

Funeral services of the late Cornelius Messler were held from All Saints' church yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Interment was made at Morristown in the family plot.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

WHAT DO THE CHILDREN DRINK?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvet skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run down invalid. Only 50 cents at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

HERO AND MARTYR.

OBSERVING THE QUADRIGENTENNIAL OF SAVONAROLA.

All Creeds Now Laud the Great Priest Who Died for Freedom's Cause. He Was Not Afraid to Stand Up Alone Against Vice and Corruption.

It is now four hundred years since mankind saw the example of a great churchman standing up unaided and alone to voice the will of his masters and to rebuke as he did, vice and selfishness and lust of power. That man was Savonarola. Savonarola was not canonized. His name does not grace the calendar of the saints, but he was the nearest churchman to the type of Christ that appeared since the Crucifixion, and immeasurably the greatest since his own day.

Savonarola lived in Florence when Florence was the first city of the world and when it was ruled by a man to whom time serving writers have given the name of Lorenzo the Magnificent, but whose proper designation ought to have been the corrupt Podesta of the Italian Renaissance.

The Medici were extensive merchants in Florence and held power by packing the primaries. They held Florence in their grasp by first selecting its rulers inside the walls of the palace and then condescending to call the people together to announce the names of those upon whom the choice had fallen. The last lusty praetor of this line, but one, was this Lorenzo and he had exhausted the spice of life at the age of 44 years. His motto was to encourage "cheerful sins." Politically he also was so corrupt as to call for the censure of Savonarola; but he was the Papal treasurer as well as dictator of the Republic. He had sufficient "pull" to remove the monk to a parish on the top of a neighboring mountain where Savonarola could appreciate the plight of Tantalus by looking down upon the Florentine city while too far away to make his voice heard at the lecherous court in the streets.

There were no "extras" or telegraphs in those days and banishment from the great city was equivalent to complete isolation. However, from his isolation Savonarola preached alternately against both Church and State, or to be more accurate, against the rival despots who then represented both institutions in Italy. A time came when Lorenzo fell out with the Vatican. Lorenzo who felt tired of ruling a Republic whose people gave him so much his way, resolved upon forming a dynasty by grasping the neighboring states of Naples and Milan. He and his family had robbed the Florentines but the Medici had compounded for other crimes by richly endowed libraries and had freely given of money thus wrung from want for the erection of churches.

In carrying out his dynastic schemes it struck Lorenzo the Magnificent that it would give him more prestige if he now recalled Savonarola from his seclusion in the Mountains, particularly as the bent of Savonarola's preaching had been minatory of the Vatican which was secretly desirous of balking Lorenzo's plan of unifying Florence, Naples and Milan in one dynasty as it was later that of Garribaldi and of Victor Emmanuel.

Savonarola was now accordingly brought back to Florence and installed in the Church of St. Mark. He again denounced all the vices and hypocrisy of the joint despots of Italy with renewed zeal and was promptly summoned to Rome. He refused to go. Savonarola was summoned again and again declined. As Lorenzo had richly endowed this Church of St. Mark he ordered the successive pastors to call at the palace to pay their respects on every anniversary of his birth. Savonarola positively declined to recognize any such arrangement. He refused to pay any heed whatever to the summons of Lorenzo. He was an independent man who meant to keep his life and sacred character in strong contrast to the sluggish and salacious tendencies of his times. This example will illustrate the man's character. One day the Princess of a burgher family, and whose husband was the lord of Bologna made a pompous and noisy entrance into Savonarola's church while he was officiating. The commotion of the admiring Florentines was redolent of the servitude of the period. Though the family of the Lord of Bologna was so influential that it was said "God Almighty would hesitate to damn one of them," Savonarola stopped for a moment in his sermon saying "here comes an evil spirit to disturb this word of God!" The haughty lady entered church with less of a retinue and with decidedly less aplomb the succeeding Sabbath and the chastening though rude and pointed speech did her a world of good.

Such was the man whom Lorenzo the Magnificent now called to Florence to play off against the Vatican and whom neither Prince nor Pope neither the Vatican nor the Court could swerve from the path of truth and duty as he believed both to be limned out by Christ. In truth Savonarola indicated the dignity of religion against the mercenary vandals who would destroy it. He made the world, the flesh and the devil so shaky in the polity of Florence four hundred years ago as they hadn't been since the coming of Christ himself. Savonarola strong, eloquent and righteous with true religion was one side. The world, the flesh and the devil backed other. An issue so pointedly made by both Church and State were on the could not last long. One or other would have to give way.

Lorenzo as personifying the State was the first to surrender. The debauched dictator was about to die. he sent a messenger for Savonarola's presence and priestly blessing. Lorenzo was a man with excellent common sense notwithstanding his bad and sinful life and knowing that the intercession of a wretched padre would have only inflamed and insulted an already angry God he sought for the benediction of an honest, upright, and righteous exponent of the life and examples of Christ. Savonarola's answer was worthy of him. He offered to help Lorenzo to the Throne of Grace upon these three conditions. First, Lorenzo was to make a declaration of faith in God and his Church. This condition shows that Savonarola differed largely from the subsequent career of those reformers of whom Luther is probably the best type. Savonarola unlike Luther never ceased to be a Catholic in spirit, sympathy and affiliations. The second condition was that Lorenzo was to restore to the people all the illegal tribute he had wrung from them in order to enrich his family and to endow churches and to build libraries. Thirdly he was to restore also the political liberties of the Republic of Florence. Lorenzo gladly offered to comply with the first of these conditions, but he declined the last two. Savonarola now left the death chamber and the tyrant went to Heaven without an exequatur.

Then soon after the death of Lorenzo the Magnificent a holy boycott was proclaimed from Rome against Savonarola. A secret society was organized in Florence for the purposes of his persecution. The pulpit from which he uttered the truths of his Creator was filled with the refuse and the filth of the streets. Nails were hammered upwards so that their points protruded through the pulpits upon which he used to strike his hands in driving home to the hearts of men the great truths which inspired him. He was eventually burned in the public square of Florence, May 23, 1498.

Contrast the lives and characters of the two men—of Lorenzo and the almost forgotten friar—recall the accurate application of Lowell's line

"Truth forever on the scaffold; wrong

and wonderingly asked also whether such can be as true of Heaven as it unquestionably was of the Medieval despot. If so we may well deny ourselves such a place and prefer the company of those pious Italians who in spite of every anathema still annually strew with flowers the place where Savonarola was crucified. If religion is ever to recover the ground it seems to have lost such will only be done by the clergy keeping the model of this brave and immortal man steadily before their minds. The spectacle of a modern Savonarola telling a Rockefeller or a Carnegie of his delinquencies in the very temple which he had reared and to his face would do more to revive popular interest in the churches than all the revivals and sermons and Sunday schools of a whole century. Bishop Potter attempted this role in a mild way in St. Paul's Church in New York in 1888 in the cases of the politicians and in the presence of President Harrison but his example feeble though it was hasn't found among the pastors of America one single imitator.

MISS ETHEL R. BENJAMIN.

The first and only woman allowed to practice in a supreme court in British dominions is Miss Ethel R. Benjamin, who last year graduated from Otaga University at the head of her class in every branch of the law. The New Zealand courts immediately admitted her to the bar, although in Great Britain and British possessions there is a prejudice or conservatism that has prevented any other woman from being thus honored.

English as It Is Spoken.

It is little wonder that foreigners are in despair in learning to speak the English language. One of the greatest difficulties is the way in which the same syllable sounds have often very different meanings.

"You'll get run in," said the pedestrian to the cyclist without a light.

"You'll get run into," savagely responded the cyclist, as he knocked the pedestrian down and ran up his spine.

"You'll get run in, too," said the policeman, as he stepped from behind a tree and grabbed the wheel.

And just then another scorcher came along without a light, so the policeman ran in two.

Maid—Mem, the baby has gone off and nobody has seen him for an hour; and, mem, he left the gate wide open after him.

Mistress—Gracious! Left the gate open? Then Fido has probably run away, and just as like as not I will never see the dear thing again.—Boston Transcript.

BOLD PIRATES AND PRIVATEERS.

Construing the International Laws That Rule the Commerce of the High Seas.

Privateering is correctly defined as the indulgence of that piratical spirit which enters into the hearts of men in time of war, whereby under the mask of patriotism they inflict losses on an enemy's commerce with the primary object of enriching themselves. There are other definitions in the lexicons of international law, but this interprets the spirit of the practice. In the present usage a license is issued to a person having some opportunities for the purpose of privateering. He ships a number of able-bodied fighting men, and under the authority granted in what are termed letters of marque and reprisal, these seamen ferret out ships either carrying the enemy's colors or those of a neutral nation, and suspected of having contraband-of-war or other valuable cargoes, they run the vessel so captured into port and confiscate a portion of the proceeds as the reward of capture.

If private individuals attempt to seize a vessel without having letters of marque and reprisal in their possession from the proper authorities they come within the designation of pirates and are entitled to be shot down. Reduced to its last analysis a privateer is therefore one who, if letters of marque and reprisal were not issued would be entitled to be treated as a pirate. In other words privateering is plundering under protection of some responsible government.

Previous to the Crimean war in 1855 this was the universal law of nations but at the Treaty of Paris where the questions involved in that war were finally settled, privateering was regarded as a cruel and indefensible practice and was abolished. The understanding to do so was signed April 16, 1856 on the part of Austria, France, Great Britain, Russia, Prussia, Sardinia and Turkey, and is therefore binding on all the great powers except the United States, Spain and Mexico. These nations have never recognized the Declaration of Paris against privateering. The injury that may be done to a nation by a professedly neutral power may easily be inferred from that done to the commerce of the United States by the Alabama and other cruisers fitted out in England and flying the English flag. These cruisers Charles Sumner estimated had wrought to American shipping a damage of $3,000,000,000, thus practically driving our merchant marine from the seas.

There have been two theories hitherto governing privateering. One was that it made no difference whether goods were carried under hostile or even neutral flag and the other that it was the nationality of the vessel carrying the goods always determined their liability to capture. In the former case the nationality of the goods and not the vessel in which they were carried was the determining point. Thus in one case the enemies' goods were safe nowhere; in the other they were not liable to seizure when carried in ships flying a neutral flag.

A cruiser of one nation has the right to know the nationality of another that it meets at sea. But a failure to declare nationality though grave cause for suspicion would give no right of capture. The inquiring vessel is first expected to show its colors. If the suspected cruiser does not respond a blank cartridge may be fired across its bows. Should there be still no declaration of nationality this may be followed by a cannon shot, but nothing more is permitted. And if the pursuing vessel takes the risk of search her crew and captain must be prepared to take the consequences. In international law mere flight or silence is therefore no justification for search or attack.

A vessel sailing between two neutral ports and found on the usual line of navigation is not subject to inquiry. It, however, required by a cruiser, which shows its colors she refuses to heave to and then resists the right of search such action justifies her confiscation if found with contraband of war. Coal is usually contraband of war and any articles likely to give aid or comfort to an enemy if found in excessive quantities. As to what constitutes a privateer there is some difference of opinion. An armed merchantmen is not a privateer. Jefferson said that "though a merchant vessel had arms to defend herself in time of war and in the course of her regular commerce this no more makes her a privateer than a husbandman following his plow in time of war with a knife or a pistol in his pocket is thereby made a soldier."

LETTER FROM MEXICO

BISHOP FECTUS WRITES TO THE REV. JOSEPH F. SHEEHAN.

He Explains the Meaning of the Pious Custom Called "Lottery For Souls in Purgatory"—How the Special Works Are Performed.

At the request of the Rev. Joseph F. Sheehan, rector of the Church of the Magdalen, Pocantico Hills, N. Y., the following letter received by him from Fectus, bishop of Angelopolis, in relation to an article on "Lotteries In Favor of the Souls In Purgatory," published some time since, is printed:

ANGELOPOLIS, Puebla di los Angelis, Mexico, Sept. 26.

To the Rev. Joseph F. Sheehan, Rector of St. Mary Magdalen, Pocantico Hills, N. Y.:

REVEREND SIR—A few days ago I received your letter informing me of the attacks on my clergy on account of our "lotteries in favor of the souls in purgatory." First of all I must thank you for your kindness in sending me the information, because it gives me an opportunity of saying a few words to remove any scandal that the Catholics of New York may have suffered from these reports, and also of repelling the calumnious charges of superstition made against my clergy and faithful people. Whatever truth or falsehood there may be in the reports of the pious custom called "lottery for souls in purgatory" (in Spanish, "raffle on behalf of the souls in purgatory"), in a few words I will explain to you what they are.

Shortly before the month of November in certain churches in which special works are performed in aid of the souls in purgatory, the rectors of these churches make out a series of numbers—say, from 1 to 1,000. Opposite these numbers the faithful may write the names of the deceased persons for whom they wish the works to be performed, giving at the same time an alms of 10 cents or so to cover expenses. Certain special spiritual works are promised beforehand for the four or five souls whose numbers shall be drawn in the lottery. For example, for the first the 30 Gregorian masses, one mass on each day for 30 successive days; for the second a solemn mass of requiem; for the third, fourth, fifth, etc., a certain number of private masses, and besides this some masses are offered for all the souls in common.

On the day appointed the drawing takes place, and then the works specified are performed, according to the established manner of the church, for the souls of those whose names answer to the numbers designated on the lot. The money collected is given as stipends for masses and for the other expenses. Thus the faithful are easily enabled to be the means of helping the souls in purgatory by the common works offered for all, and if their lot should be the one drawn they aid these souls by the special works also, which otherwise they could not obtain without some difficulty.

Nowhere have my priests given assurance that souls, even those aided by the special works, have certainly left purgatory and gone to heaven. From what I have just explained to you, you will see, reverend sir, that there is nothing superstitious in this pious custom, and I will take care, and, with God's help, I shall use the greatest possible vigilance, that no taint of superstition or sordid greed shall ever find an entrance here. After having read this perhaps you will say: "If this is so, how did all these complaints get in the newspapers? How did all these scandals arise?"

If you ask me, I will tell you. There are in Angelopolis, Mexico, two Protestant establishments from the United States. Their members not only scatter the tares of their detestable dissensions among our Catholic people, but they also try by every possible means to vilify us before other nations as if we were sunk in the darkness of ignorance and superstition, that they themselves may appear as heralds of the truth and as the teachers of the people and thus keep up the streams of money pouring in to them from societies for the propagation of heresy. They are the originators of all falsehoods and calumnies against us.

Their manner of acting in trying to rob our Catholic people of their faith has this effect also: It has made the American nation detestable to Mexicans, as that is the nation from which these false prophets come. That these men and their methods are liable to be occasions of dissensions and trouble in the future is easy to see.

I think that I have now complied with your wishes, and I will ask it of you as a favor to explain this matter to those who have been scandalized by the reports concerning us and at the same time warn them not to be too ready to believe similar stories reflecting on the Mexican clergy. By doing so you will do a service to our common mother, the holy church. With my best wishes and kindest regards, I am your servant in Christ,

FECTUS,
Bishop of Angelopolis.

The Holy Father's Latest Feat.

Pope Leo's latest feat is writing a libretto for an oratorio which has been set to music by M. Theodore Dubois, director of the Paris Conservatoire, and will be performed in the cathedral of Rheims in December by an orchestra of 120 pieces and a chorus of 200 voices. The subject of the oratorio is "The Baptism of Clovis." The pope is also said to be writing a Latin song on the "Worship of the Redeemer," to celebrate the end of the century and to have selected the priest composer, Perosi, to compose the music.—Boston Herald.

The association for the support of ecclesiastical students which has been founded at Treves, France, has recently given 1,000 marks for that object.

Some unknown Catholic gentleman has given a donation of $100,000 toward the building fund of the new cathedral in London.

At the late papal consistory his holiness Pope Leo XIII created Sir Thomas H. Grattan Esmonde, Bart., M. P., a chamberlain of the Vatican household.

Dr. Conaty, rector of the Catholic university, is making quite a reputation for himself as a money getter. His work recently for four weeks netted $35,000 for the institution over which he presides.

HIERARCHY OF THE CHURCH.

The Vatican authorities publish each year an annual, in which full and detailed information is given as to the status and progress of the hierarchy, probably the most perfect government machinery on the globe. This year book, "La Gerarchia Cattolica," has recently again made its appearance and reports a present membership of 1,298 in the organization, whose growth is indicated by the fact that the present pope has established no fewer than 218 new seats of various dignitaries. At the head of the hierarchy is Leo XIII since March 3, 1878, the two hundred and sixty-third occupant of the holy see, according to the computation of the church. His full title is given in the Gerarchia as "Vicar of Jesus Christ, Successor of the Prince of the Apostles, Head of the Universal Church, Patriarch of the Occident, Primate of Italy, Archbishop and Metropolitan of the Roman Church Province, Bishop of Rome, Sovereign of the Secular Possessions of the Holy Roman Church." The Sacred College of Cardinals has now an actual membership of 59, although the full quota is 70. The Italians have fully a majority of three-fifths. The hierarchial officers are divided into two classes, those of the Latin or Roman rite and those of the oriental rite, the latter including those archbishops, bishops and other officials who are in charge of the old churches of the east that have with certain reserved rights in the course of time submitted to the pope. Of the Latin rite there are 74 archbishops and 720 bishoprics. Numerically and in influence Italy leads all the other Catholic countries, there being 50 Italian archbishops and 215 bishops.

CATHOLICISM IN CHILE.

Relationship of Church and State in the South American Republic.

One of the most curious divisions of the president's cabinet is the branch or department of "worship and colonization." Catholicism is the state religion, and the Catholic church receives a certain amount every year from the government treasury. Nearly all of the Chileans are Catholics, and all church affairs of note are attended by the government officials. On the Chilean anniversary of its "day of independence" the president and all of his officials, including the officers of the army and navy, attend church. The other day a celebrated bishop who had been dead for I don't know how long was honored by a new monument in the cathedral of Santiago, and this was made the occasion of a great celebration. I went in company with the American minister and found that nearly all of the foreign diplomats were present. The president, the general of the army and the admiral of the navy were there in their official dress, and during the ceremonies all kneeled again and again in unison with the priest and other church dignitaries. I am told, however, that within recent years other religions have been more tolerated by Chile than almost any other South American country. There are two large American schools here in Santiago, one supported by the Methodist and the other by the Presbyterian churches of the United States, and there are other missionary colleges and churches in different parts of the country. These are tolerated, however, on the grounds of modern progress rather than from any desire of the Chileans to change their religion. They are, I believe, satisfied with Catholicism.—Pittsburg Catholic.

A NOBLE WORK IN MEXICO.

Father Hunt's School For Street Boys In the City of Mexico.

The Mexican correspondent of the Boston Sunday Herald thus refers to one of the noblest works of charity in the City of Mexico and the devoted priest who conducts it: "A busy Catholic clergyman here is the Rev. Father Hunt, a most active man, rosy of cheek, bright of eye, with Spanish at his tongue's end, his English a little limping from long disuse and with a wonderful command of the old Mexican, or Nahuatl, language, in which he sometimes preaches to the Indians. It is a soft and melodious tongue, like Italian in beauty, and the good padre is called among the Indians the 'White Indian,' so well does he talk their language.

"This excellent man, whose fame as a Nahuatl scholar has reached the savants of Europe, has here a school for street boys, where he teaches, feeds and generally looks after newsboys, shop apprentices and young peddlers, magniloquently called comerciantes or 'merchants.' It is one of the noblest charities here, and this erudite priest, instead of devoting himself to his favorite studies, gives two-thirds of his time to his Master's business."

Youngest Living Bishop.

Prince Maximilian of Saxony, who has recently been appointed to the see of Kulm, is the youngest living bishop. He was born on Nov. 17, 1870, and is accordingly not yet 28. During his missionary work in Whitechapel, London, he acquired a great reputation as an eloquent preacher, and this he has sustained by his recent sermons at the Royal chapel in Dresden. His present appointment is directly due to a sermon he preached last Lent, when the whole court was profoundly affected. His friends predict that he will one day fill the papal chair.—New York Post.

The Pope's Prize Not Won.

Pope Leo XIII has always done his best to encourage art. Some time ago he offered the sum of $2,000 to the artist who could paint the best picture of the Holy Family. Forty-six paintings were accordingly submitted to a special commission recently to be judged, but as none was considered of sufficient merit to gain the prize another competition is to be held.

THE POPE'S GOLDEN ROSE.

Its Cost to the Recipient is About Six Thousand Dollars.

Perhaps they do not do things better in the effete old world, but they sometimes do them more picturesquely. When an American woman gives generously to her country, the government can do little more than present her with an illuminated receipt for the money. Also, she may possibly be notified in very superior penmanship of a municipal vote of thanks. Without doubt these are gratifying tokens, but from an ornamental point of view they have their limitations. Not so the order of St. Elizabeth, which the Emperor of Austria gives to women of unusual merit, nor the golden rose which the pope occasionally bestows upon some great Catholic lady. Of course the rose is not wearable, and that may seem to be a drawback in feminine eyes. But it makes a most desirable heirloom, even now when some of its glory is departed.

The rose of to-day is a small plant of gold, with leaves, buds and flowers, into which the pope pours rose balsam when he blesses the gift. When the Vatican treasury was richer than it is now, a great ruby was used to represent a bud, and there were diamond dew drops on the leaves. The vase, too, in which the plant stood, was of gold. The diamond drops have evaporated now, the ruby bud has turned yellow, the once golden vase is only silver gilt, and the gift costs the receiver more than it does the giver, but still it is a coveted honor. The cost of receiving it is said to be $6,000, which goes to cover the expenses of those who convey it from the pope to the recipient. This manner of presentation is another bit of old world picturesqueness. In this country the illuminated receipt and engrossed resolutions go by mail or express, with no details more spectacular than the official blue of the envelopes.

The golden rose is an annual possibility, but, like many humbler "annuals" of the rose species, it does not always bloom on time. A sufficiently meritorious personage is not always to be found and the gift is not bestowed. There is a tradition that the gift brings unhappiness with it.—Harper's Bazar.

Her Deductions.

"I believe that you used to know Mrs. Brown, did you not?" asked the new woman.

"Brown? Brown?" returned the old-fashioned woman thoughtfully, "I don't seem to place her. What Mrs. Brown was it?"

"Mrs. Mary Mehitabel Brown," answered the new woman. "Oh you must have met her."

"Mrs. Mary Mehitable Brown," repeated the old-fashioned woman. "No, I don't recall her. But I'm sorry for her just the same."

"Sorry for her?" exclaimed the new woman. "Why are you sorry for her?"

"A widow always has my sympathy," replied the old-fashioned woman.

"A widow!" cried the new woman. "Why, she isn't a widow!"

"Then more than ever I am sorry for her," replied the old-fashioned woman. "I don't think there is anything more pitiful than a woman who is ashamed of her husband."

"But she isn't ashamed of her husband."

"Then why does she insist upon being known as Mrs. Mary Mehitable Brown?"—Chicago Post.

Brain Power of Rats.

Confronted with the difficulties which modern builders and householders put in the way of rats in drains, floors and skirtings, the black rat would probably be baffled, while the sagacious gray rat still remains more or less master of the situation. The case of the rat is typical of the value of brain power. Routine, which is the usual condition of animal existence, does not exist for them. They have to face "reconstructions" of their common surroundings at any given moment, and their resources and adaptability have seldom been found wanting. Ship rats have survived the era of steam and steel, and only recently thrived so successfully in a big iron clad as to render it almost uninhabitable. House rats have learned how to cope with gas fittings, lead pipes, brick drains, and cement floors. "Sewer rats" have made themselves a name coeval with modern urban sanitation, and others are now learning to live in "cold stores" and eat chilled meat and game in an atmosphere where breath turns into snow.

Wrong Poem for an Experiment.

There was once a mathematical tutor in one of our great universities who was in the habit of boasting that he neither knew or cared to know anything about poets or poetry, and considered it all "a lot of unpractical rot." A certain brother tutor, anxious to convert him, gave him the famous "Charge of the Light Brigade" to read.

The mathematician took it up and began to read aloud thus: "Half a league, half a league, half a league—" Then he banged the book down, exclaiming, impatiently, "Well, if the fellow meant a league and a half, why on earth didn't he say so?"—Keystone.

The Lightning Got Dizzy.

A Western lightning rod agent recently put all rivals to shame by the following clincher on the merits of his goods: "You see, sir, our rods are twisted from end to end. Well, the lightning makes a dive for the top, and goes whirling around down the rod, and before it gets to the bottom it's so dizzy it couldn't hurt a fly."—Roswell (N. M.) Record.

WHERE ENGLISH GUNS ARE MADE.

Lord Armstrong's Works at Elswick Compared With Those of Essen.

The extensive shipment of arms to this country from England brings into notice the Armstrong Gun Works. They cover about 80 acres at Tyneside and unlike the Krupp Gun Works at Essen they have been built up within the lifetime of the present Baron Armstrong who has given his name to the famous guns. As a private arsenal for the production of artillery, warlike stores and iron-clads, this establishment has no superior in the world save that at Essen. In one respect the Armstrong gun works claims to be superior to Krupps, and to be the only factory in existence where a man-of-war can be built and completely equipped for action. These immense works, the spires and furnaces of which can be seen for miles before one approaches the city of Newcastle-on-Tyne, extend for a mile and a half along the river front and give employment to about one-third of the population of that "North Countrie" town. Yet this vast center of military activity has been a product of these comparatively peaceful times that have settled upon all other countries save England since the Crimean War.

While commerce has been the chief occupation of most of the other large nations—with the exception of the Franco-German War of 1870, which did not last fully six weeks—the growth of this arms factory reflects to a degree that is highly interesting the incessant military activity of Great Britain in all parts of the world, and is a sad revelation of the fact that while preaching peace and arbitration to other nations Great Britain still goes on annexing and so enlarges the market for her various manufactures.

The great arms factory at Elswick which is thus in a sense a memento of British colonization, England owes not to her aristocracy, but to the skill and genius of a representative of her great middle or commercial classes.

The history of the Armstrong family is quite typical of the methods prevailing in the British Army before Mr. Gladstone abolished the purchase system. It is not without interest in connection with the now famous Armstrong gun which it will surprise a great many people who read this article to learn that it is partly an American invention.

William Armstrong who was born in 1810 was a Newcastle attorney and while engaged in fishing on the site of Elswick he saw where a waterfall might be usefully employed for propelling machinery. He erected a hydraulic machine which as Newcastle was a port of some importance, came to be employed in moving cranes, turning capstans and closing dock gates. There was no phenomenal success achieved in this work but when the cannon used at the siege of Sebastopol had failed, he proposed to employ the motive power he had discovered and his hydraulic machinery to the subject of gun making. He now quit the practice of law and became a practical engineer. Prior to the date of the Crimean War the popular knowledge of military and naval matters was very limited and when Mr. Armstrong proposed to replace the unwieldly cast-iron and bronze cannons used in the Crimean with more superior modern guns, the British Parliament voted readily the sums of money necessary for carrying out experiments in gunnery and perfecting those processes that Armstrong professed to have discovered. The lawyer-inventor was fortunate to get associated with him some men whose influence reached into the government; and throughout these experiments Mr. Armstrong was profusely furnished with government funds and at once extended government patronage. The British government in fact made Armstrong and Armstrong made the guns from designs said to be owned by a man named Blakely in England and Treadwell in this country. "It is," says the University Magazine printed in 1864, "the misfortune of the Armstrong gun that as an invention all its notable features should be contested by many claimants." About this time Mr. Armstrong had taken into partnership a really scientific man named Whitworth and at the London Exhibition of 1861 they both exhibited what was termed the Armstrong gun which was perceptibly deficient in those features for which Krupp was already famous but which was a marked improvement upon anything that had at that time been seen in England. Both Captain Blakely and Mr. Treadwell vigorously claimed these plans had been appropriated; but as Mr. Armstrong was already appointed engineer to the War Department, the War office stood by him in the face of a considerable outburst of indignation. To silence clamor he was knighted on the grounds of having invented the Armstrong gun. On the occasion of the Queen's Jubilee in 1887, he was further created Baron Armstrong, nopody being ever envious enough to deny to Lord Armstrong his honors or his exceptional good fortune, save those who still remain dubious as to how his Lordship mystified the real inventors, one of whom was an American.

In short, therefore, what is called the Armstrong gun is partly an American invention, and it is a sort of poetic justice in this Armstrong gun coming back to us after so many years to fight the battles of its native country. We may be accused of borrowing British laws and literature, but after this no one will charge us with borrowing the artillery of our cousins; and the pity is that we have had to purchase with good money what was partly our own already, or at least the product of healthy American brains.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD.

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World.

"Side Tracked," with its scenic and mechanical effects, its funny tramp, German and Irish comedians, and its saucy hoyden, and charming lovers, will be the attraction at Music Hall Saturday, matinee and night. There is a vim and "go" about the play that captures the gallery as well as the elite of every audience. The special scenery is effective, and several strong specialties assist materially in the action of the play. E. H. O'Connor as Charles Mercer, alias Horatio Irving Booth, is very successful in his performance of the tramp, and Billy Bowers as Fritz Grabhold, a section gang boss, assists materially in the funmaking by his finished German character work. Gertrude Barnes, a captivating little soubrette, assumes the role of Bessie Reynolds and introduces a number of very catchy songs and dances. Cecile Lorraine, Josephine Roberts, Marguerite Mayfield, L. O. Yeoman and others are in the competent cast.

The famous Bennett-Moulton Company, now in its twentieth year of prosperous existence, will appear at Music Hall for an entire week beginning Monday evening next. This season they have a new plan of making their performances continuous with no waits, introducing new and novel specialties between the acts. In order to present the performances as perfectly as possible, they carry a carload of their own scenery, all the furniture and appointments used in the productions, their own orchestra, and one of the best acting companies ever organised to play at popular prices. The play selected for the opening night next Monday will be "Darkest Russia." Seats are now on sale for all performances.

character was given by the members of the Sunday-school. Other numbers on the programme consisted of a recitation by Miss Lossey and a violin solo by Mr. Lossey, accompanied by Mrs. Patton. After the rendition of the programme Santa Claus made his appearance in the form of B. W. Hand, who distributed gifts from the Christmas tree. One feature was the presentation of a handsome chair to Mrs. Hall by the members of her class of young men. The presentation was made by Alex. Muir and George Firstbrook.

CHURCH OF THE REDEEMER.

The members of the Church of the Redeemer and Sunday-school assembled last evening in their church and enjoyed themselves greatly in celebrating Christmas. There was a good attendance and the exercises were interesting. A beautiful Christmas tree brilliantly illuminated was the joy of the children, and they greatly enjoyed the presents they received. During the evening the regular Christmas service of the Episcopal church was rendered. Rev. W. M. Downey, rector, was in charge. Superintendent A. E. Faber, Jr., looked after the Sunday-school and he was assisted by the teachers of the school. The presents received by all were appreciated, and several special presents were received by officers and teachers, as well as the rector.

The second match between the Bachelors and Benedicts of the Park Club will be rolled on the club alleys Saturday evening. The first game went to the Bachelors by six pins. The Benedicts are preparing a powerful team for Saturday night and declare that they will swamp their opponents under the tidal wave that they will roll up. "Doc" Thiers has gone in training for the event and has sworn a solemn oath to roll at least seven strikes and three spares in the next game. Mysterious rumors have been circulated by the victorious Bachelors that the genial doctor can't roll big scores against them but the doctor is bound to show the falsity of them Saturday evening.

G. A. ROCKFELLOW'S FUTURE WIFE.

Ceremony Will Be Held Tonight at Home of Bride's Uncle and Aunt in Rahway.

Miss Caroline Potter, of Rahway, will be wedded to George A. Rockfellow, son of Mayor-elect George W. Rockfellow, of Park avenue, this evening despite a chain of circumstances that nearly prevented the ceremony. Miss Potter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Appolos Potter, of Rahway.

Miss Potter and Mr. Rockfellow were to be married later in the season, until it was suddenly decided to hold the wedding at once before the departure of the father of the groom to the south on account of his health. Then preparations were rushed forward.

Last Sunday night the Potter residence on Broad street was broken into and a considerable sum of money taken. The burglars were not caught. Tuesday night Mr. Potter was in New Brunswick, and while his wife and daughter were just preparing to take the train for New York, when the cry of fire was heard.

Mrs. and Miss Potter hurried back to find their house in flames and the son gazing at it in horror and astonishment. The cause of the fire could not be learned. The house was burned to the ground and nothing was saved. The wedding trosseau as well as everything except what they wore at the time was destroyed.

The wedding this evening will take place at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Voorhees, of Commerce street. Only the immediate families will be present.

DEATH OF A. W. PETERS.

Sudden End of the President of the Borough of Manhattan.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, December 29.—Augustus W. Peters, president of the Borough of Manhattan, died suddenly from heart disease this morning at his home, 353 East Eighty-sixth street.

He was born in St. Johns, N. B., 1843, and came to this city in 1867, where he practiced law.

Too Honest Photograph.

Lucretia Mott, the eminent Quaker minister and anti-slavery apostle, was a woman of rare personal charm, and while not beautiful in the strict sense of that far-reaching term, was possessed of a face that was little short of it.

Her brother, Thomas Coffin, however, was not in the least entitled to any claims of that sort, a fact which caused him as much amusement as it did any of his friends. He was once asked by a friend for his picture, but extended little hope that the inquirer would ever get what he asked for.

"Well Thomas," said the other, "if thee will not get one taken for me will thee let me have a copy of an old one?"

"I am afraid I cannot do that either," replied Thomas. "The fact is that I once did have a picture taken of myself and it was so good that I destroyed it."—Harper's Round Table.

A NEW POLE SEEKER

LATEST ASPIRANT FOR FAME AS AN EXPLORER.

Captain J. E. Bernier of Quebec Has a Plan Which He is Confident Will Succeed—The Canadian Government to Assist Him—Will Travel on the Ice.

The failure of Andree to realize his expectations of reaching the north pole by balloon and the uncertainty as to the fate of that explorer, will not prevent still another attempt being made within the next few months to wrest from the Norwegian Nansen the laurels which are now his as the man who has penetrated the farthest north. Captain J. E. Bernier of Quebec, who has cherished aspirations for years of leading a polar expedition northward, has at length succeeded in enlisting the sympathy of the Canadian government in his project, and it is announced that a grant of $20,000 toward the expense of the expedition will be contributed.

A further contribution by the Quebec legislature is likely to follow, and La Patrie, the newspaper property of the Dominion minister of public works, has opened a subscription column for contributions to the fund.

Captain Bernier is 45 years of age, of rugged physique, and well calculated to withstand the rigors of a northern climate, with the hardships of long and tedious marches over the vast fields of snow and ice. He is also a well educated man and speaks of the prospects of his approaching expedition in an exceedingly interesting manner.

"In the first place," says Captain Bernier, "I shall charter a seal or whale fishing boat to convey me to the neighborhood of latitude 80 degrees north, near the river Lena, either by way of the Behring straits or by Norway, where I shall procure furs, dogs and reindeers. In the event of my ultimately deciding upon the eastern route, I shall touch at Vardo, in Lapland, and at Archangel, in Russia. After leaving the latter point I shall sever my connection with the civilized world and proceed north over the sea of ice.

"I shall establish myself upon the ice, with headquarters off from the mouth of the river Lena, in latitude between 78 and 79 degrees north, with provisions sufficient for two years and a half, and shall then send the vessel back with news of my progress.

"The route which we shall have to follow will then be the frozen surface of the Polar sea. We know by experience that the sea of ice may be traversed at a satisfactory rate of progress, provided that one is well equipped and the season favorable. So long as the temperature is low, the surface of the ice is closly bound together. There are a few fissures and intervening stretches of water here and there even in the coldest weather, but these are at a minimum during the cold season.

"It is generally quite easy to cross these fissures, either in canoes or on natural ice bridges, but I shall also take with me adjustable wire bridges which can be set up when needed. Our force of men and dogs will be sufficient for the requirements of setting up the bridges and transporting our supplies as we proceed. All the members of the expedition will be chosen with regard to their physical ability to endure the rigors of the climate and the hardships which we shall have, in one way and another, to undergo.

"With the experience of others to guide us, we now know the necessity of having a launch to cross the stretches of open water in the Polar sea. This launch must be of sufficient strength to resist any pressure to which it may be subjected by the ice, and also not too cumbersome to prevent its easy portability. Had Dr. Nansen had one of these launches he would have made considerable more headway than without it he was able to make. His kayaks required continual repairing, and were in other respects unsatisfactory.

"As I have already stated, we shall take with us a large number of dogs and reindeer. The dogs will be for the purpose of drawing the sledges, and the deer will be killed from time to time as needed to supply fresh meat for the members of the expedition and also for the dogs. Roughly speaking, our expedition will be composed of eight or nine strong men, seventy-five Siberian dogs, one hundred reindeer, a house boat, sledges of various kinds and shapes, a launch made of rubber which can be inflated with air, linen kayaks, wire for constructing bridges, and, of course, a sufficient supply of provisions for the men, the dogs and the reindeer."

Speaking Boston Indian.

Evidently she was from Boston, for Bostonese, you know, know all about the Indian question. She was witnessing the Indian sham battle at the exposition grounds and was deeply interested in Lo and his manner of fighting. After the battle she approached one of the noble Sioux and made an effort to engage him in conversation.

"Heap much fight," said the dear creature in that choice language that all good Indians are supposed to understand.

Lo gazed at the dainty maiden from Beantown and answered never a word.

"Heap great show," said the fair maiden. "Injun heap fight. Big powwow, hugh!"

Lo smiled a stoical smile, drew his blanket closer about his stalwart form and replied:

"Yes; this is indeed a great exposition, and we flatter ourselves that our portion of the entertainment is by no means the least attraction here. May I ask who it is that I have the honor of addressing?"

The dear girl from Boston was thunderstruck. She blushed a rosy red—even Boston girls can blush when they thaw out—and hastily fled.

She had been addressing one of the Carlisle Indian school graduates.—Omaha World-Herald.

'98 COUNCIL IS NO MORE.

Last Session of the Solons For this Year Was Held Last Night.

THE TROLLEY EXTENSION ORDINANCE IS PASSED

POLICE TENURE OF OFFICE ORDINANCE ALSO ENACTED WITH THREE DISSENTING VOTES.

Reports From All the Various City Departments Received and Read—Much Information About Municipal Affairs, as Well as Many Suggestions—Kindly Words for Retiring Members.

Plainfield's Common Council for 1898 is no more. The last business to be considered by that body was transacted last evening and all work for this year was completed.

The first business taken up last evening was the public hearing on the trolley extension in the east end of the city. The ordinance has been adopted on its second reading, and before its final adoption a last chance was given for remarks for or against it. F. E. Kinsman was the only one present in opposition to the extension and he again remonstrated against the adoption of the ordinance. He said that it grieved him greatly to be obliged to appear before the Council again and protest against the proposed action. He still argued that the matter is an important one. He said that during the past twenty-four hours he had been talking with prominent capitalists, who had informed him that they would come to Plainfield and construct a trolley road according to the present conditions on a twenty year basis, and give the city a fair proportion of gross receipts. Mr. Kinsman said that he regretted that he was unable to secure, in so short a time, the necessary bond for the faithful performance of such work. He urged the Council to defer action on the ordinance for the present, and said he felt sure the Council would make a mistake if they adopted it in its present condition.

At this time President Thomas Nevins, of the Plainfield Street Railway Company, communicated with the Council stating that the company would agree to extend their lines anywhere desired in Plainfield under the conditions of the present ordinance when the proper number of consents were secured.

Mr. Barrows then called up the trolley ordinance on its third reading and it was adopted unanimously, every member voting for it.

The bond of Constable P. V. Weaver was presented, attested correct by the Corporation Counsel, and was recorded. J. G. Bicknell, of South avenue, petitioned the Council to return to him $4.60 interest on tax money, which he claimed is due him. The matter was referred to the next Council. The report of the committee on streets and sewers was presented. It is as follows:

The promises made by last year's committee have been carried out and while we are sensible of the wants and needs of certain streets seemingly neglected, we are obliged to ask that patience be exercised until the coming year.

NEW WORK.

During the year Stelle avenue from Plainfield avenue to Madison avenue, Madison avenue from Stelle avenue to Ninth street and Woodland avenue from South avenue to LaGrande avenue were macadamized from curb to curb at an expense of $2,925.81, of which property owners paid $1,391.56; Plainfield Street Railroad paid $183.23; city paid $851.02.

RE-MACADAMIZING.

During the year the following streets were re-macadamized:

West Front street, from Grant avenue to Clinton avenue; West Third street, from Plainfield avenue to Muhlenberg place, (the only part ever macadamized); Muhlenberg place; South Second street, from Muhlenberg place to Manson place, (as far as the macadam extends); East Second street, from Park avenue to Watchung avenue; Watchung avenue, from Green brook to North avenue, and other portions to Belvidere avenue; Westervelt avenue; Sandford avenue; East Fourth street; East Fifth street, from Park avenue to Richmond street; Belvidere avenue; Crescent avenue; LaGrande avenue, from Watchung avenue to Richmond street; Woodland avenue, from Watchung avenue to Highland avenue; South avenue, from Belvidere avenue to Woodland avenue; Madison avenue, from Seventh street to Third street; West Fourth street, from Park avenue to New street.

The total cost was $11,215.49; of which property-owners paid to extend macadam to curb $739.38; city paid $8,804.11; Plainfield Street Railway paid $1,672.

DIRT STREETS.

Most of the dirt streets and roads have been turnpiked, rolled, and the gutters have been opened: this is the most discouraging feature of street work, for the reason that as soon as continuous rains come, these streets rut up and dry into an uneven road.

CROSSWALKS.

During the year sixty-three crosswalks were laid, divided among the wards as follows: First ward, 7; Second ward, 29; Third ward, 15; Fourth ward, 12. The cost, including repairs to old crosswalks, was $1,197.13.

SIDEWALKS.

During the year 22,724 feet of sidewalks were laid, divided among the wards as follows: First ward, 2,851 feet; Second ward, 4,409 feet; Third ward, 9,189 feet; Fourth ward, 6,275.

CURBS.

During the year, 6,906 feet of curb were laid, divided among the wards as follows:

First ward, 1,011 feet; Second ward, 977; Third ward, 2,309; Fourth ward, 2,609.

PERMANENT PAVEMENT.

The question of a permanent pavement for the business portion of the city, which has been recommended by the Mayor for the past two years, was taken up early in the fall; but the necessity of having the storm sewer laid in Park avenue, and all conduits, and connections made, necessarily delays the work until the coming year. It is proposed and we recommend that West Front street, from Central avenue to Watchung avenue; Park avenue from Fourth street to Front street, and Somerset street to the brook, be laid with asphalt and vitrified brick.

While the bulk of permanent pavements now being laid in this country consists of asphalt, it is well to remember its slippery nature in wet and cold weather; in view of this it would probably be well to use asphalt on the more level portions, and vitrified brick on the steeper grades. The estimated cost of an asphalt pavement for the streets named is:—Front street, $19,500; Somerset street, $2,300; Park avenue, $9,900; total, $31,700; of which the Plainfield Street Railroad Company would pay $9,300.

SEWERS.

At the beginning of the year, the regular force employed last season on the disposal beds, (two men) was continued. A force of at least four men, with a horse and cart, could be kept profitably at work all the time.

The cost of repairing sewers has been $709.34 and it is estimated that a further sum not exceeding $700 will be necessary to complete the examination and repair of the sewer in Richmond Street. The new beds constructed by contract, with additional drains, etc., cost $1,977.81, which it is proposed to cover by an issue of sewer bonds early in the coming year.

SEWER EXTENSIONS.

Stelle avenue, from near Central avenue to Plainfield avenue; Plainfield avenue, from Stelle avenue to West Eighth street; Somerset street; Watchung avenue, from Front street to the mill race; Orange place; Hillside avenue, from Putnam avenue to a point near Watchung avenue; Berkely avenue, from Ravine road to a point near Belvidere avenue.

The total cost was $2,009.01, which the commissioners assessed as follows, subject to slight changes made by the Council; On property, $1,593.56; on city at large, $415.45.

The annual report of the late City Judge DeMeza was presented by William Demeza. It was received and filed.

Chief Engineer T. O. Doane submitted his annual report for the fire department. He states that there are ninety officers and men which comprise the manual force of the department. During the year four members have become exempt and one was ex-

SON AND DAUGHTER WEDDED LAST NIGHT.

Two Weddings In Family of Mayor-elect Rockfellow.

CEREMONIES WERE PRIVATE

MISS CORNELIA M. ROCKFELLOW MARRIED FRED W. STACK.

Took Place at Bride's Home Yesterday Afternoon at 4 o'Clock—Miss Caroline Potter Married to George A. Rockfellow, at Rahway, in the Evening—Both Couples to Live Here.

Very quietly Miss Cornelia M. Rockfellow, only daughter of Mayor elect George W. Rockfellow, was wedded to Fred W. Stack, of this city, at her home on Park avenue yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The young people have been engaged for some time, but had not intended to wed so soon. Mr. Rockfellow has been ill with the grip and overwork, so that his physician ordered him to go south at once. So the preparations for the marriage were hurried that it might take place before the departure of the bride's father. It was a very quiet affair, witnessed only by the immediate relatives of the couple.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles Lyman Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, which the bride attends. It took place in the parlor which was prettily decorated with palms and flowers, the prevailing colors being green and white.

The bride was gowned in green brocaded silk, trimmed with chiffon and white ribbon. The bride was given away by her father. John Bissel, of New York, acted as best man.

After the ceremony the bridal party sat down to the wedding supper which was elaborately served. Then the newly wedded couple left for New York, from where they returned today. Mr. Stack is bookkeeper in Mr. Rockfellow's store. They will reside at the bride's home for the present. Owing to the departure of Mr. Rockfellow for the south the last of the week the wedding journey has been postponed until later. The young couple received a number of handsome and valuable gifts.

After seeing his daughter wedded, Mr. Rockfellow went to Rahway where his eldest son, George A. Rockfellow, was married to Miss Caroline Potter, of that place, last evening at 7 o'clock.

Miss Potter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Apollos Potter, of Broad street, Rahway. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Voorhees, of Commerce street, owing to the fact that her home was entirely destroyed by fire last Tuesday.

The ceremony was a very simple one, being performed by Rev. Dr. Lowry, of Rahway. It was followed by the wedding supper. Only the near relatives of the young couple were present.

The bride was gowned in white organdie over white silk. The bridemaid was Miss Irene White, of Rahway. John Bissell, of New York, stood up with the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Rockfellow will reside in Plainfield, where Mr. Rockfellow will take charge of his father's store in the absence of the latter. The wedding trip was postponed on that account.

Mr. and Mrs. Stack and Mr. and Mrs. Rockfellow went to New York, where they registered at the Waldorf-Astoria, and spent the night there. They will return to Plainfield today.

JUNIORS ELECT.

Franklin Council Select Their Officers for a New Year.

The following officers were elected at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr., O. U. A. M. last evening: Councilor, Ephraim Compton; vice-councilor, F. Hartpence; assistant recording secretary, Samuel Terry, Jr; warden, J. V. Beekman; conductor, Clarence Leland; inside sentinel, H. DeHart; outside sentinel, G. S. Martin; trustee, eighteen months, J. V. Beekman; representative to State Council, and Funeral Benefit Association, Ephraim Compton.

After the election the members enjoyed their annual Christmas tree. There was a large attendance and everyone received a handsome and useful present. David Bodine impersonated Santa Claus, and he was one of the best. He made fun for all.

New Cashier at White's.

Miss Mabel Wilson, of this city, has accepted the position of cashier at White's dry goods store, recently held by Miss Ella Milligan.

To Return to Police Duty.

Corporal Florence McCarty will return to the police force next week.

ROANTREE MAKES LIGHT OF STABS HE INFLICTED.

HAS BEEN ARRESTED IN NEWARK

Says That Pizie's Wounds Are of "No Account," But He Will Be Transferred to Middlesex.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, December 30—Theodore Roantree, 22 years old, who is wanted at New Market on a charge of having attempted to kill George Pizie early Christmas morning, was arrested in this city Wednesday evening by Policemen Bauer and Hennessy of the Third Precinct.

Roantree and Pizie met at Nelson's Hall, New Market, the night of Christmas Eve. It is said that Roantree was under the influence of liquor and in a quarrelsome mood. He quarrelled with Pizie and while the fight was in progress it is alleged that Roantree drew a knife, with a blade three and one-half inches long, and plunged it into the other man's body. One of the blows pierced Pizie's left lung.

Roantree came to this city and went to the home of his sister, Kate Thomas, at 108 East Kinney street. On Sunday the house was raided by order of Police Captain Ubnaus, and Roantree was arrested as one of the inmates. He was discharged on Monday in the Third Precinct. He went back to New Market with his brother-in-law, Charles Thomas.

Last night they returned to this city, and when they got off the train Roantree was arrested. He had a grip containing clothing.

Yesterday morning Judge Schalk, at the request of Chief Hopper, committed Roantree to jail to await transfer to Middlesex County. A reward of $25 had been offered for his capture by a lodge to which Pizie belonges. This will probably go to the two policemen. Roantree said he only "scratched" Pizie, and that the latter's wounds were of "no account."

New Market, N. J., December 30.—This morning Constable Luther Mundy went to Newark after Theodore Roantree, and he was arraigned before Justice Storms, who held him without bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

PUNCTURED HIS EYE AND SIGHT RUINED.

QUEER AND PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Sudden Jar of Wagon Caused Stick to Fly up and Strike One of Eddie Grob's Optics.

A small sharp-pointed stick attached to a chain on a wagon was the cause of Eddie Grob, aged 10 years, of 227 Manson place, losing his left eye this morning. The lad was riding in a wagon with a friend in the neighborhood of Clinton avenue. As the wagon struck a bump in the road the stick flew up and penetrated the boy's eye to such an extent that there was scarcely anything left of it. The globe of the eye was punctured and either today or tomorrow what is left of the injured member will be taken out and a glass eye will be placed in the socket.

The lad is the son of Mrs. Agnes Grob, a widow woman. The family is in moderate circumstances. The lad suffered excruciating pain from the injury. He was taken as quickly as possible to the hospital and proper treatment was given by those in charge.

INTERESTING LEGAL POINT.

Mechanic, Who Lost His Account Book, Sued Executor of Kenyon Estate.

An interesting little case, interesting because of the technical law points raised by the lawyers, was tried yesterday afternoon before Justice Mosher, and judgment was awarded to the plaintiff, Louis C. Beekman, a mechanic, who sued Frederick Yates, as executor of the estate of the late James Kenyon, for $30.70 for work done Kenyon while the latter was alive. Beekman had lost his account books, but had a copy of the account, which the defendant's lawyers objected to having put in evidence. After a lively discussion the justice over-ruled the defendant, and admitted the papers. Councilman Walter L. Hetfield appeared for the plaintiff, while Senator Reed, Nelson and William N. Runyon, were counsels for the defense.

CRAZED, SHE SOUGHT DEAD SISTER'S GRAVE.

Miss McKee Screamed and Groaned in the Cemetery.

ACTIONS WERE OBSTINATE.

WANTED TO KNOW DOCTOR'S POLITICS BEFORE TAKING MEDICINE.

Said If He Was a Democrat She Wouldn't Take the Medicine He Had Prepared, and When He Asserted That He Was a Republican She Would Not Take the Medicine Anyway.

William Pangborn and his family were resting quietly at their home on Chatham street last evening, when they were startled by hearing cries of murder, accompanied by hideous groans. Mr. Pangborn hastily put on his hat and coat and left his home to investigate the cause of the disturbance. In the First Presbyterian cemetery, which adjoins his property, there was a woman lying prostrate over a grave. It was she who was screaming and groaning.

At the same time Alex. Frazee, an employe of the freighthouse, was walking past the cemetery and he, too, was started by hearing the strange noise. Mr. Frazee also investigated and together with Mr. Pangborn succeeded in getting the woman into the latter's home.

Chief Marshal Wilson was then sent for. He recognized the women as Miss McKee, who has been residing at the home of Lawrence Walker, of Grandview avenue. She is about 30 years of age, and is subject to such fits.

It appears that she was kneeling on the grave of her sister, the late Mrs. W. B. Philpitt, and was mourning over her loss.

The woman was obstinate and at first refused to do anything except according to her strange notions. Chief Wilson sent for Dr. Carman, the borough physician, and when he arrived he prepared a glass of medicine for the woman, and tried to get her to take it.

"Are you a Democrat or a Republican?" exclaimed Miss McKee. "If you are a Democrat I will not take the medicine."

The doctor replied that he was a Republican, whereupon the woman said "I won't take the medicine anyway."

The doctor was persistent, and finally persuaded her to take the dose. In the meantime Chief Wilson secured a hack and took the woman to Mr. Walker's home. Here they refused to let her in on account of her condition. Just then Mr. Philpitt appeared and at his request he took charge of Miss McKee and took her to his home. It seems that Mr. Philpittt is the only person that can subdue Miss McKee, and Chief Wilson was perfectly willing that he should take her.

LINES FOUND GUILTY.

Charged With Assaulting a Poor Hebrew Tailor Named Shrager.

This morning, John Lines, twenty-one years old, came up before City Judge Stillman charged with assaulting Isaac Shrager November 19th. Lines told a rather improbable story about being attacked by the tailor without provocation and said that he was merely defending him. Judge Stillman reviewed the case very impartially and spoke very forcibly. Only the good character of the defendent in the past saved him from a very severe sentence. He was given his choice between $15 fine or twenty days in jail. His father refuses to pay the fine.

Rev. Mr. Peterson Resigns.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, Dec. 30.—At the close of the sabbath morning service at the Seventh-day Baptist church, the pastor, Rev. Frank E. Peterson, tendered his resignation as pastor of the church to take effect April 1st. Mr. Peterson resigns to accept a call to the Second Alfred church at Alfred Station, N. Y. A meeting of the church will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to consider the resignation.

Surprise for Pastor.

Pastor James E. Groves, of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, was treated to a Christmas surprise supper last night by the members of his congregation. He was out all the evening and upon his return about 10 o'clock found the dining room ablaze with lights, the table set for supper, and his house filled with company.

TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

The Christmas entertainment at Trinity Reformed church was held last evening in the lecture room and attended by an enthusiastic audience. The entertainment consisted of a musical cantata entitled "General Santa Claus, or the Merry Christmas War." It dwelt on the unsuccessful attempts of "Prof. Pessimist" to do away with all the Christmas tide spirit and fun and told of his final rout by "General Santa Claus" and his brownies and fairies.

The principal characters were taken by the following: "Santa Claus," Horace J. Martin; "Uncle Sam," Raymond Pool; 'Columbia," Miss Cora Laire; "Prof. Pessimist," Edgar Sheppard; "Prof. Love Money," Charles M. Dolliver; "Drummer Boy," Horace J. Martin, Jr; "Paterfamilias," Arthur Smith; "Miss A. Single Woman," Miss Cora Laire; "Poverty," Miss Grace Berg; "Envy," Miss Sadie Holmes; "Hatred," Miss Minnie Williams; "Malice," Miss Etta Krymer; "Hope," Mrs. Frank Woodruff; "Love," Miss Sadie Holmes; "Faries," the Misses Gussie Kreitling, Ethel Bohen, Hazel Martin; Mazie Grey, Hattie Martin, Annie Holder, Anna Randall and Anna Garretson; "Brownies," the Masters Claassen, Brokaw, Yaeger, Sheppard, VanMiddlesworth, Calene, Nitchwitz and Cooley.

At the close of the cantata, boxes of candy were distributed among the members of the Sunday-school.

The committee in charge consisted of Miss Lilly Remson, chairman, Miss Emma Gillem, Horace J. Martin, Miss Lillian A. Force, Mrs. E. E. Anthony and Arthur L. Titsworth. For the music, Floyd Jones acted as violinist and Miss Lillian A. Force as pianist.

Before the cantata, Superintendent E. E. Anthony, in the name of the officers and teachers of the Sunday-school, presented an envelope containing money to W. Olmstead, who had done so much to make the cantata the success it was and for his valuable services rendered in decorating the room, etc. Mr. Olmstead was present and received the gift, but he was too weak from a recent illness to reply, and Rev. Dr. Schenck thanked the donors for him.

The primary department held its entertainment in the afternoon, which included recitations by Luella Day, Helen Woolley, Davie Roger, Ellsworth Bennett, Willie Luckey, Elmer Bohan, Harold Adams, Arthur Williams, Walter Dennis, Elsie Tier, Pansy Luckey, Willie Luckey, Ida May Tier and Bessie Randall. W. Olmstead impersonated Santa Claus. Mrs. J. M. Tier was in charge of the exercises.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

A musical cantata entitled "Santa's Surprise or A Merry Christmas," was the principal part of the Christmas entertainment of the Sunday-school of the First Baptist church held in the Sunday-school rooms last evening. It was a rather up-to-date tale of Santa Claus in which the audience was entertained with songs, music and drills while waiting for him. Santa Claus had meantime been upset in the snow near Chimney Rock. He finally arrived and distributed gifts among the children. William Holmes played the part of the old saint.

These who took the leading parts were Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Case, L. H. Bigelow, Jr., Jerry Manning, Willie Flanders and Miss Violet VanWinkle. The others to take part were Maud Crane, Bessie Wilson, Ethel King, Bessie Flanders, Hazel Grant, Minnie Serrell, Daisy Bogert, Clarence Smalley, Beulah VanWinkle, Elizabeth McGee, Julia Crane, Hazel Morrison, Helen Smalley, Ethel VanWinkle, Ethel Webster, Ada Kellar, Helen Armstrong, Marguerite Serrell, Marguerite Lee, Allene Carver, Mamie Wiess, Helen Smalley, Josephine Serrell and Belle Mantz.

The committee in charge consisted of J. Herbert Case, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, Miss Margaret Harold, Miss Grace Yerkes, Miss Sue D. Woodland, Frank Jones and L. H. Bigelow, Jr.

Yesterday afternoon the primary department of the First Baptist church Sunday-school enjoyed their Christmas entertainment. There was a large attendance and all had a good time. The programme consisted of singing by the scholars, a tea drinking drill by Helen Armstong, Marguerite Serrell, Josephine Serrell, Edna Keller, Ethel VanWinkle, Beulah VanWinkle, Margaret Lee, Ethel Webster, Helen Smalley, Belle Mantz, Jessie Clawson, Arleen Carver; recitations, Edith GaNun, Nellie Ballentine, George Rogers, Jr., Harold Robins and Beulah VanWinkle. Harry Allen sang "Old St. Nick," and "Santa Claus." He was also Santa Claus and distributed the gifts to the children from the tree. There was another song by George Francisco. The whole affair was under the direction of Mrs. Powlison, superintendent of the department, and everyone taking part reflected credit on themselves and and their instructors.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST.

The Christmas entertainment at the Park Avenue Baptist church last night consisted of the singing of carols by the school, responsive readings, and a cantata by the primary department. At the close of the exercises boxes of candy and bananas were distributed to the members of the school, and the little ones also received gifts. Rev. J. W. Richardson received a handsome silver chafing dish, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Johnson. The cantata was entitled "Snow Stars." The first number was a song, "The North Wind," by the primary department; "The North Wind Doth Blow," by David Smalley; "Snow Star Song," the Misses F. Smalley, M. Odam, F. Moffett, L. Cuming, J. Nankin, M. Soper and A. DeLaney. The carol, "Joyful Bells," was sung by the primary department; then came "The Song of the Stars," by six little girls, F. Smalley, M. Odam, L. Cuming, A. DeLaney, M. Soper and E. Ingham. Two more carols by the class and a tableaux, "The Star of Bethlehem," by a number of little girls, completed the primary class exercises. The verses of one of the carols were sung by a quartette composed of Miss Ada Runyon, Miss Adelia Runyon, William A. Stimpson and Thomas Cuming, while the school, under the direction of Theodore I. Runyon, the musical director, joined in on the chorus. Another carol was sung as a duet by Miss Ada Runyon, the school again joining in the chorus. The Sunday-school room was trimmed with greens, and in one corner stood a large Christmas tree. The Christmas entertainment committee consisted of Mrs. W. S. Lowry, Miss Ada Runyon, Miss Myra Runyon and Thomas A. Cuming.

ST. MARY'S.

St. Mary's church, as usual, held an elaborate Christmas entertainment last night in St. Mary's School Hall. This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the programme will be repeated in part, and the children will be given their gifts of candy, etc.

The programme last night was in two parts, part two being selections from Edison's phonograph, manipulated by Father Westman. Part one consisted of an overture by the orchestra; a solo, "O, Holy Night," by Miss A. Daley, in which the school joined in the chorus; a recitation, "The Knight's Toast, "John Traynor; vocal duet, "Helping Mamma," F. Traynor and Miss H. Lynch; and a farce, "A Sea of Troubles," in which the characters were taken by F. Traynor, J. Carty, H. Shannon, P. Galbraith, J. Berry, T. Mack, A. McKeon and F. Wilbe. The parts were well taken, and the little interruption to the programme, caused by the introduction of the farce, was welcome.

Then there was a vocal duet by J. Kyle and Miss K. Harding; a recitation by Miss Sara Barelle; an instrumental selection by Misses M.

LET US ARM YOU!

It's quite necessary, because while Uncle Sam is settling scores with the Spaniards you're bound to have a little brush at home at the same time, and there's nothing like being ready for emergencies. Until you can sign a perpetual truce with sun, wind and storm, your house and other buildings will need to be fortified with paint, and ours are like a 20-inch chilled steel armor.

The Military Administration in Havana Takes Extra Care.

RATIONS GIVEN THE POOR

No Processions or Bands of Cuban Soldiers to be Allowed in the City the First Week of January. Taking Possession of Mariel.

Havana, Dec. 30.—No processions or open air assemblages of bands of Cuban soldiers will be allowed in Havana during the first week of January. The plans of the patriotic committees for a dinner to the soldiers in the Prado, a civic parade, and five days of public demonstration will not be permitted. No Cuban soldiers, except as individuals, can enter Havana.

Should General Gomez and an armed following, large or small, attempt to reach this city, they will be turned back.

The American military administration is determined not to allow conditions favorable to violence. It is pointed out that crowds are easily led, and that if no crowds are permitted to assemble, there will be no mobs to lead.

General John R. Brooke, the governor general of Cuba, is determined that no outrages upon the retiring or remaining Spaniards will be allowed to take place, and no Spanish stores will be sacked if the Americans can prevent it.

About sixteen hundred Spanish troops left Havana from the vicinity of the palace, the arsenal, Morrro Castle, and Cabanas Fortress for Guanajay yesterday.

Two companies of the Pennsylvanians, under Major Meyer, went to Mariel yesterday.

Colonel Seyburn of the Two Hundred and Second New York regiment raised the American flag over the municipal building at Mariel in the presence of a number of notable persons and the populace of the town.

He made a speech in English, which was interpreted into Spanish, during the course of which he said:

"In this solemn act you must not see any meaning except paternal love and protection, never domination. We do not wish to see differences between parties. All Cubans ought to unite with us, so as to recreate Cuba. In the name of my government and nation, I assure you that inth is way you will obtain a free and happy country."

The colonel caused five hundred rations to be distributed to the poor, and the event was also celebrated by a ball at night.

Gen. Shafter's Post.

San Francisco, Dec. 30.—Official notice has been received from Major General Merriam that General Shafter is to be again assigned to the command of the department of California.

It is expected that General Shafter will take charge about the 10th of next month.

General Merriam has not yet been assigned. He may go north again to the department of the Columbia. The impression prevails, however, that he will go to Denver to command the department of Colorado, and that the department of California and Columbia will be combined under General Shafter.

Plans of Challenger Lipton.

Glasgow, Dec. 30.—In an interview yesterday Sir Thomas Lipton said that although the new cup challenger Shamrock would be built at Cheswick, she would be fitted out at Belfast, from which place she would sail for America.

Her trial races will be sailed in the Clyde and in Belfast Lough.

The Valkyrie III will probably be refitted to compete with her in the trials. The Shamrock will have two skippers, one of whom will probably be Captain Archie Hogarth, the commander of the Isolde.

Benefit Concern Failure.

Allentown, Pa., Dec. 30.—The Keystone Mutual Benefit Association, incorporated in 1878, has made an assignment.

The action was due to recent losses of members and large accumulation of the death loss.

The association had eleven hundred policy holders, only six hundred of whom accepted its proposition of December 9 to consolidate with the Life Assurance Company of America of Indianapolis. No statement of assets and liabilities is available.

Senator Morrill's Funeral.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—The president has sent the following notice to all members of the cabinet and the public printer:

"The president directs that the several executive departments, and the government printing office, be closed at eleven o'clock on the 31st instant on account of the funeral of the late Senator Morrill of Vermont, which will be held in the Senate chamber on Saturday next at twelve o'clock."

King Humbert's Decree.

Rome, Dec. 30.—King Humbert has signed a decree amnestying or reducing the punishments of the rioters who took part in the dusturbances here last spring.

Bout seven hundred persons sentenced by courts martial and about two thousand condemned by civil courts have been liberated.

Recidivists, or habitual criminals, have been excluded from the benefits of the decree.

Shortage in Accounts.

Lyons, N. Y., Dec. 30.—The accounts of George W. Koester, who was from 1894 until his death a few days ago, supervisor of Lyons, show an apparent deficiency of about $7,500.

So great was the confidence in Mr. Koester that his colleagues on the town board did not examine his accounts, and he was not required to give bonds to the town the last term.

AWAITING NEWS FROM OTIS.

Confidence that He Has Enough Force to Deal With the Situation.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—The officials of the war department have resigned themselves to the lack of news from Iloilo, in view of the statement of General Otis that it requires about four days to communicate with that point from Manila, owing to the absence of cable connections.

No further orders have been dispatched to General Otis, as the department takes the position that he must be allowed to exercise his discretion in dealing with the situation because of his presence on the scene.

They are confident that he has enough soldiers at his command to carry out any project likely to be framed, even if it involved forcible subjugation of the insurgents, though it is hardly expected that matters will reach such a pass.

The force under General Otis's command now numbers about twenty thousand men, and he could count also on great assistance from the fleet under Rear Admiral Dewey.

This is a force probably in excess of any the Spanish had been able to maintain in the islands for many years, and as the insurgents were never able to prevail against that force, it is hoped that they will see the folly of undertaking to oppose the United States soldiers and sailors.

It is regretted that the movement upon Iloilo was delayed until the 24th, ample authority having been conferred upon the officers in charge to have moved at any earlier moment had they deemed it well to do so.

SOME TELEPHONE PLANS.

Combination of All the Companies Opposed to the Bell Telephone.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 30.—It is learned that prominent Boston interests are engaged in forming a combination of all the telephone companies throughout the United States which are opposed to the Bell Telephone Company.

Already a majority of such telephone companies have signified their intention to sell out to the new company.

The People's Telephone Company of New York, of which Mr. Darwin R. James is president, has been approached by the promoters of the new concern, but has not yet decided to come in.

The feeling here is that the new combination will be conducted in harmony with the Bell Telephone Company, and will practically do away with all competition in the telephone business, just as has been the result of the formation of the Federal Steel Company, working in harmony with the Carnegie Works, and in various other large industries, notably that of the distillers.

A Grain Elevator Burned.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 30.—Elevator X on the Hastings and Dakota division of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, at Eleventh avenue, South, was burned yesterday.

The main elevator, with its annex, and two hundred thousand bushels of wheat were consumed and the loss will be at least two hundred thousand dollars.

The division or road is also blocked up and will be for a day.

The property was owned by the Geo. C. Bagley Elevator Company, and the insurance is ample to cover the loss, which will be $75,000 on the building and $135,000 on the wheat.

This is the second elevator destroyed within two days. The cause of the fire is a mystery.

Roosevelt's Plurality 17,786.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 30.—The state board of canvassers find that Theodore Roosevelt received for governor 661,707 votes; Augustus Van Wyck, 643,921; Benjamin Hanford, 23,860; John Kline, 18,383; Theodore Bacon, 2,103; blank and defective, 9,216.

Serious Fire at Cornell.

Ithaca, N. Y., Dec. 30.—The Kappa Alpha Lodge, at the entrance to Cornell campus, was almost totally destroyed by fire at five o'clock yesterday morning. The walls of the handsome building are all that remain.

The building cost $30,000 and contained $10,000 worth of furniture and personal effects of students.

The origin is put down as spontaneous combustion.

The only occupant was the janitor, the students being at home for the holiday vacation.

There is twenty thousand dollars' insurance on the building and two thousand dollars on the contents.

Horse Flesh Confiscated.

New York, Dec. 30.—Inspectors of the board of health confiscated fifteen hundred pounds of horse flesh at the depot of the American Express Company, Forty-eighth street and Madison avenue, Manhattan borough yesterday.

It was sent to the offal dock. The meat came from Roff & Gifford, Sidney Center, Delaware county, N. Y. The name of the consignee has been withheld by the officials of the board of health.

Heavy Express Robbery.

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 30.—It is reported that the local office of the Wells Fargo Company suffered a heavy loss by robbery Wednesday afternoon. It is said that sixty thousand dollars in currency and six hundred dollars in gold is missing.

The driver of the delivery wagon is missing. His horse and wagon were found last evening on the outskirts of the city in the brush.

Death of A. W. Peters.

New York, Dec. 30.—Augustus W. Peters, president of the Borough of Manhattan, died suddenly from heart disease yesterday morning at No. 253 East Eighty-sixth street, where Mr. Peters, who was a bachelor, had made his home for the last twelve years.

FILIPINOS ARE DEFIANT

They Will Not Release Spanish Prisoners.

INDEPENDENCE DEMANDED

All the New Ministers Pledged to Stand by Aguinaldo in His Demands. The Spanish Surrender of Iloilo Was Prearranged.

London, Dec. 30.—From a Filipino source it is learned that the new Filipino cabinet is much stronger, from the insurgent point of view than the last, inasmuch as all the new ministers are pledged to insist upon the independence of the islands and to refuse to liberate the Spanish prisoners.

It is added that the Filipinos will never release these prisoners "while thousands of Filipinos are dying in the Spanish convict settlements of Fernando Po, the Ladrones and the Caroline islands."

The new president of the cabinet and minister for foreign affairs, Mabini, is described as a notary, living in Manila, of Indian descent and as having no Spanish blood in his veins.

He is an old man, partly paralyzed, said to be a great patriot and alleged to have always been a counselor of Aguinaldo.

Antonio Luna, the new minister of war, of the Filipinos, was employed by the last cabinet in the war department. He is editor of the Manila insurgent paper Independencia, was educated in Europe, and only lately returned to the Philippine islands from Paris.

Rosario is probably Dr. Thomas Rosario, who was educated in Spain, and it is supposed that his post, state deeds means keeper of the archives.

How Filipinos Landed.

Manila, Philippine Islands, Dec. 30.—Details regardin gthe occupation of Iloilo by the insurgents have been received here.

The American expedition, commanded by Brigadier General Miller, arrived there Wednesday and found that the Spaniards had evacuated the place on Saturday, on the steamer Churnca, and were transferred to the island of Mindanao, in accordance with an agreement arrived at with the insurgents. The latter entered Iloilo and occupied the trenches on Monday at noon.

They immediately established a municipal government and placed guards over foreign property.

The insurgents were fairly quiet and orderly, although there was some looting at night. Five of the natives were shot and it had an exemplary effect upon the rest.

The new Filipino cabinet is composed as follows:

President of the Cabinet and Minister of Foreign Affairs—Mabani.
Minister of War—Luna.
Minister of the Interior—Aranota.
Minister of Agriculture and Commerce—Buencamino.
Minister of Public Works—Canon.
State Deeds—Rosario.

An Important Capture.

Richmond, Dec. 30.—The police last night arrested here at the Jefferson Hotel a man who is believed to be one of the best known criminals in the West.

He is wanted in many of the cities of that section for forgery and other crimes.

It is said that seventeen thousand dollars have been spent in efforts to secure him.

The man gives the name of Vivian L. Smith, which is believed to be only one of his numerous aliases. He is wanted now in Montana for forgery, and a detective from St. Louis has been here for several days shadowing him.

Smith is a fine looking man about forty years old and has a good address. He has been apprehended three times in as many years, it is said, but always managed to escape.

Senator Stanford's Estate.

San Francisco, Dec. 30.—Superior Court Judge Coffey has granted Mrs. Jane L. Stanford an order for the final distribution of the estate of her late husband, Senator Leland Stanford.

Legacies amounting to $5,115,000 have been paid in full, with the exception of $230,000 which is in dispute and which has been deposited with the trust company subject to an order of the supreme court.

Nearly all of this amount is claimed by the city of San Francisco and the state of California for collateral inheritance tax.

The tax was paid under protest, and on appeal to the supreme court that tribunal declared the tax illegal, but a rehearing has been granted.

Going to Porto Rico to Wed.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 30.—Miss Ida G. Brattrud of Madison, a member of the junior class of the University of Wisconsin, will leave for San Juan, Porto Rico, in a few days to wed Hobart S. Bird, owner of the San Juan News, the first American newspaper published in the island.

The parents of the prospective bridegroom will accompany Miss Brattrud. They will sail from New York on the Philadelphia on January 8.

In New York they will be joined by Mrs. S. E. DeBracken, whose husband is editor of the San Juan News.

Another General Gale.

London, Dec. 30.—Another violent gale swept over the English channel and the east coast of Great Britain yesterday and the transchannel service was interrupted.

Several small wrecks have been reported and damage has been done at different seaports.

Executive Mansion,
Washington, Dec. 28.

It is hereby ordered that on and after January 1, 1899, and until otherwise provided, all customs, taxes, public and postal dues in the island of Cuba shall be paid in the United States money, or in foreign gold coin, such as the Spanish Alphonsinos (centen) and French Louis, which will be accepted in payment of such customs, taxes, public and postal dues at the following rates: Alphonsinos (25 peseta piece), $4.82; Louis (20 franc piece) $3.86.

WILLIAM McKINLEY.

LOVING CUP FOR SAMPSON'S WIFE.

Presentation of Souvenir Has Been Delayed by Commanders Sickness.

New York, Dec. 30.—It is not known just when the handsome loving cup which is to be presented to Mrs. William T. Sampson, wife of the admiral, will be given to her.

It was reported that the presentation was to have been made at the admiral's home in Glen Ridge, N. J., on Monday last, but the event did not take place, and the sickness of Admiral Sampson will undoubtedly delay the presentation of the cup for some days yet.

The loving cup is a gift from the officers serving under Admiral Sampson in Cuba, and is an elaborate one. The handles are dolphins and mermaids, and laurel wreaths form a part of the ornamentation.

There is a picture of the cruiser New York on one side of the cup and the other side has a miniature representation of the battle of Santiago.

At the base of the cup are shown the bows of the men of war of the Spanish squadron.

Mrs. Sampson will entertain the members of the committee which is to give her the loving cup, and each member will be given a souvenir of the battle of Santiago.

BATTLE IN EAST AFRICA.

The British Lost One Killed and Thirteen Wounded.

Calcutta, Dec. 30.—Advices received from British East Africa say that on October 10 a force of rebels attacked a detachment of thirty men belonging to the Twenty-seventh Baluchis, which was marching to Masindi, commanded by Lieutenant Hannyton.

A native officer and twelve men were killed and nine men wounded, including Lieutenant Hannyton, who was shot through the right arm and had his left hand shattered by a bullet.

The rear guard repulsed the enemy and the wounded were convoyed fourteen miles to Kisalizi, on the western shore of Lake Kioga, which place was held by a company of Baluchis.

The rebels lost one hundred men Later the rebels attacked Kisalizi and lost 25 men.

The casualties on the British side were two men wounded.

Troops, the advices added, were dispatched to pursue the rebels.

The Baluchis engaged belonged originally to Colonel Martyr's expedition, which left Uganda in October, going in the direction of the Nile to join General Kitchener's forces.

Sewer Pipe Trust.

Akron, O., Dec. 30.—A secret meeting of sewer pipe manufacturers has been held here in the interest of the proposed new trust, with thirty million dollars capital.

The purpose was to arrange for the purchase of the Akron works.

Indications now favor a successful termination of the conference. Akron manufacturers have blocked the deal heretofore.

Police Say He Has Eight Wives

Kansas City, Dec. 30.—Harrry C. Howell, whom the police assert has eight wives in as many states, has been given twenty-four hours to leave the city.

Mayor Jones has granted him a pardon from the workhouse, where he was sentenced for carrying concealed weapons, on condition that he leave the city.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL

Report of the Commission Is Made Public.

PLANS FOR THE HUGE WORK

Plans and Scope of the Investigation, Cost Estimated at Less Than $125,000,000. Feasibility of the Construction of a Waterway Across the Isthmus Affirmed.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—The full text of the preliminary report of the Nicaragua canal commission has been made public.

It says that the commission believes a canal across Nicaragua is entirely feasible.

The estimates for two of the best known characteristic routes have been nearly completed. These routes are known as the Maritime Canal Company's route and the Lull route.

Their estimated cost is approximately $124,000,000 and $123,000,000 respectively.

All the assumed dimensions are greater than before proposed. These increased dimensions are necessary by the demands of modern commerce, size and draft of modern ships, etc. This has necessarily increased the estimates for the work.

A canal of smaller dimensions, just sufficient for present needs, is being estimated for. Such a canal would cost less than the estimate for a canal suited to modern needs.

"It is the opinion of this commission that, of the two routes herewith estimated for, the one called the Lull route is the more desirable, because it is easier of construction, presents no problems not well within good engineering precedents, and will be a safer and more reliable canal when completed. It also believes that the dimensions and form of construction preferred by the commission are better than the cheaper form with smaller dimensions, which would undoubtedly call for expensive improvements within a short time after its completion.

It also believes the dimensions and construction preferred by the commission are better than the cheaper form. Both routes admit of variants, which may reduce the cost.

The work for an exhaustive discussion of and report upon the entire canal problem is being pushed.

The commission visited Nicaragua, personally examined the entire canal region from ocean to ocean, and employed some seventy engineers with their laborers and helpers, for ten months, making careful surveys of the canal region.

Some observers are still working in Nicaragua.

It is signed by Admiral Walker and Lewis M. Haupt.

Colonel Haines adds that he thinks the estimates too low by 20 per cent., but concurs otherwise.

A KENTUCKEY CENTENNIAL.

Its University Will Celebrate the Event With Imposing Services.

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 30.—Old Transylvania University, established a hundred years ago, will celebrate its centennial anniversary January 1 in a most fitting manner.

Morrison Chapel has been decorated for the great occasion and the event will be made memorable by the presence of all the state officers and many of Transylvania's famous graduates. The university numbers among its prominent alumni the late Jefferson Davis, and among those now living, Champ Clark of Missouri, Benton McMillin of Tennessee, James Lane Allen, Dr. H. B. Smith of Terland University, Dr. Virgil Gibney of New York and others as well known.

The address of the day will be delivered by Bishop Thomas U. Dudley of Kentucky and other speeches will be made by R. Linn Cave, the present executive of the university, and by several of the agents.

The story of the great university is an interesting one. By an act of the general assembly of Kentucky, approved December 22, 1798, Transylvania Seminary and Kentucky Academy were united January 1, 1790, under the name of Transylvania University.

After an existence of sixty-six years Transylvania University was consolidated with Kentucky University by an act of the legislature, approved February 28, 1865.

JOHANNESBURG NEWS ALARMING.

The Boers Are Discontented and Serious Trouble is Feared.

London, Dec. 30.—A disquieting situation is developing at Johannesburg. According to the latest advices from there the place is seething with discontent, as on the eve of the Jamison raid, in consequence of recent and proposed government measures which the Uitlanders regard as being a fresh series of impositions.

In addition, racial animosity is intensifying at the vexatious treatment of the British Indian and Cape "boys," which is rousing much bitterness.

There was a serious development last week, when a Boer policeman murdered an Englishman named Edgar, entering the latter's house and shooting him.

The policeman was arrested on the charge of murder, but on the following day the charge was reduced to one of manslaughter and the policeman was allowed his liberty on bail.

The British agent demanded a restitution of the charge of murder and a mass meeting which attracted five thousand Uitlanders was held at Johannesburg on Sunday to protest against the murder of Edgar and to present the British consul a strongly worded petition to the queen, reciting the wrongs of the Uitlanders and appealing for protection and such other steps as may be found necessary to "terminate the existing intolerable state of affairs."

There were no speeches, owing to the laws prohibiting political gatherings, but the demonstration was very impressive.

The petition was presented to the consul on the balcony of the consulate, the whole multitude signifying their assent by raising their hands.

References to the Boer policeman elicited shouts from the crowd "Lynch him!"

The meeting, however, was peaceful, with the exception of a slight affray with the police authorities at its conclusion.

BOOM IN THE STEEL TRADE.

Unprecedented Foreign and Domestic Demand.

New York, Dec. 30.—Advices from all the iron and steel centers report an extraordinary condition of activity in the trade. Prices have been hard to follow.

Big orders have been arriving with a rush for steel rails and all sorts of steel products. These orders represent not only domestic demand, but a demand from various foreign countries.

Russia has just placed a big order for steel rails, and Australia a two million dollar contract for water pipes.

Philadelphia dispatches yesterday morning quoted pig iron at from ten to fifteen cents a ton higher than a week ago; steel billets at from twenty-five to fifty cents higher; steel scrap at fifty cents higher, and bars and plates at $1 a ton higher.

The urgent demand is the extraordinary feature of the trade, the mills and furnaces now being at work upon more orders than at any time on record.

Another heavy order for steel rails is about to be placed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. This order represents contracts distributed among several of the largest steel companies for an aggregate of one hundred and five thousand tons of steel rails. The rails are to be delivered some time next year.

The companies which got slices of the order, with the amount they contract to deliver, are the following:

Cambria Steel Company, thirty thousand tons; Pennsylvania Steel Company, thirty thousand tons; Carnegie Company, thirty thousand tons; Federal Steel Company, ten thousand tons, and the Lackawanna Steel Company five thousand tons.

Another large order for rails is expected to be placed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company after the first of the year.

Death from Hydrophobia.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 30.—Mrs. Lindsay M. Emery of Melrose, who was bitten by a mad dog on November 13, died yesterday of hydrophobia, the case being so diagnosed by Professor Fitz of the Harvard Medical School and other physicians.

Mrs. Emery was bitten by a mastiff. Her condition, though serious, showed improvement until a few days ago, when symptoms of hysteria appeared. In rescuing Mrs. Emery at the time of the attack, three men were also bitten and fears are entertained that they may be similarly affected.

Chicago's Freight Record.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 30.—The year of 1898 has broken all records in the amount of dead freight shipped from Chicago to the east.

The total for the year, the last week of the month of December being estimated, is 5,679,935 tons.

The total for the entire twelve months of 1897 was 3,395,300 tons.

Minister Romero's Condition.

Mr. Kinsman and the Trolley.

Now that the Common Council has finally passed the ordinance granting a franchise to the Plainfield Street Railway Company to extend its tracks to the eastern limits of the city, we desire to say a word of commendation for Frank E. Kinsman and his attitude throughout the agitation of the trolley matter. In his argument for a short term franchise we believe that Mr. Kinsman took a stand that represented the sentiment of the majority of the people of Plainfield, but the slight support that he received at the hands of those who agreed with him made his efforts unavailing.

It requires considerable courage and a large amount of perseverance to do what Mr. Kinsman has done in this trolley agitation.

At every move he was up against strong odds. The members of the Council, judging by their studied action from the beginning to the end, were determined to grant a franchise on the terms that were secretly fixed up between themselves and the promoters of the street railway. Of course, as the law requires, they held public hearings, but it was well understood on all sides that the Councilmen were resolute in their intentions to grant the franchise on the terms agreed upon before the people had had a chance to have their say as to the stipulations. In fact, many of the Councilmen openly stated their intention of voting for the ordinance irrespective of what the people thought after the latter had become acquainted with its provisions. And had it not been for the hasty and dramatic action of one Riker when the previous ordinance was under consideration, there is every reason to believe that the Council would have passed that regardless of the demonstration that was made against it by the taxpayers of the city the night of the big hearing.

In the face of this feeling among the Councilmen, and without effective support from those who agreed with him in his contentions, Mr. Kinsman laid himself open to being put in a humiliating position every time he appeared before the Council. Some of the members were inclined to be supercilious and patronizing towards him, and endeavored as frequently as possible to give him a hint without a kick that he had better hold his tongue for all the good that it would do. It certainly is not pleasant to attend a public hearing, conceived in the eyes of the law as eminently fair, and then realize that it is practically a farce in so-far as accomplishing what it is intended for—the guidance of public officials along the lines the majority desire. Mr. Kinsman has displayed exceptional and admirable civic interest in his conduct, and if there had been more of those who were less faint-hearted in their opposition to what they thought was wrong we have no doubt but that Plainfield would secure a better franchise than it is to possess.

In conlusion, however, it is gratifying to know that some of the best points of this new ordinance are those that were suggested since the agitation against the previous ordinance was started—demonstrating the fallicious claims of the railway promoters at the start that they had agreed to in the old ordinance all that they could or would do.

The Rahway Reformatory.

The stand taken by the State Charities Aid Association in urging that the next Legislature appropriate sufficient money to complete the State Reformatory started at Rahway a few years ago, is a sound one. The number of criminals that the State has to deal with has reached the point where it is positively necessary to make provision for their proper restraint, the present capacity of the State prison being tested beyond where a proper view of penelogy indicates that it should be. Such being the case, if the Reformatory is not completed and put to use in relieving the State prison it will require a large sum to enlarge the latter institution.

And right here comes the consideration of the difference between a State prison and a Reformatory, and what each aims to accomplish. In a State prison the only idea is to restrain the criminals committed there without intention or hope of sending them out better citizens. The spirit of administration is only punitive. On the other hand the rules that govern a Reformatory are designed not only to punish and restrain, but as well to reform its inmates so that when their sentences expire, or, better still, when they earn a parole by their conduct, they may go out into the world and have higher ideals of life to urge them on in the path that society and law says shall not be deviated from.

Very recently in Plainfield we have seen the arrest and conviction of a gang of youthful burglars, three of whom, because of their ages, were sent to State prison. In the light of that experience and understanding that makes men these offenders are but mere children. Their punishment will certainly not be such as will have an enlightening effect upon them. They are togged out in the hated stripes, condemned to the lock step and the remorseless routine of prison life wherein most of their associates are their elders by years and capable and inclined only to bring them down to the same moral level that they live in. True, these boys are bad, but in their youth and sophistry there is plenty of chances of punishment being tempered with methods that will result in reformation that a term in State prison will not bring about. But the lack of such an institution as the Rahway Reformatory is calculated to be prevents the opportunity of bringing these boys to a better realization of what good citizenship is.

Under these conditions it is the duty of the Legislature to appropriate enough money to complete the Rahway Reformatory, because by so doing it will provide a way for the transferring of younger criminals now confined in the State prison and thus relieve that institution of its overcrowding—a remedy for which is recognized as imperative. The money has got to be expended somehow and it obvious that it can be diverted to the Reformatory advantageously.

The death of John Brooks takes away one of Plainfield's best citizens. For twenty-five years he has resided here, his interest and energy being used for the benefit of the city. John Brooks was a man among men. In the quarter of a century that he has been in Plainfield his work has been a supervising one among mechanics who were at his beck and call at any time, but how genial his nature, how democratic his manner and how condescending his attitude to those so situated is best attested to by the sorrow and regret that is evidenced among the workingmen of Plainfield at the news of his death.

The Newark Advertiser suggests that some Republican paper advocate the passage of a law doing away with the salaries of the members of the State Board of Arbitration. How would the New Jersey editor of the New York Tribune do? If we are not very much mistaken we believe that Editor Martin knows a thing or two about the salaries of the Board, whose duty last year seemed only to be to draw their pay and look wise.

Since the Standard Oil Company came under the sheltering incorporating wing of New Jersey, in 1882, nearly all the big trusts have followed its example and flocked here. There are now no less than fourtreen trusts incorporated in the State, which have a capitalization of $25,000,000 or over.

An Elizabeth politician has gone insane. This everlasting anxiety about getting in and out of office is very trying. The Elizabethan's plight should be a gentle hint to certain Plainfielders not to look on the office with too much fondess.

"No News From Iloilo" is the head on a Washington item. You can depend on it, though, when news does come from that point that Aguinaldo will be in it with both feet.

Will the balance be on the right side of the ledger tomorrow night?

SHE MAY BE AUSTRIA'S EMPRESS.

There is an unconfirmed rumor that the recently bereaved Austrian emperor, Francis Joseph, is to marry the Princess Isabella of Orleans, daughter of the Comte de Paris and sister of the Duc de Orleans. The proposed alliance looks to the re-establishment of the Hapsburgs. The emperor is 68 years of age.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Assemblyman Murray, of Union county, is credited with the intention to offer a "fool bill" at the meeting of the next Legislature, which provides that the man who fails to exercise the privilege of franchise at a general election will not be allowed to vote at the next succeeding election. The State Constitution would have to be amended before such a law could be passed.—Hackensack Democrat.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Now that the North Avenue station has undergone a thorough overhauling and has been dressed in a new coat of paint inside and out, it has been suggested that a stronger effort be made by the police to keep the waiting and smoking rooms free from loafers. At almost every hour of the day or night one can find the seats in the gentlemen's waiting room occupied with gangs of young men and boys who slip inside to get warm and loaf away the afternoon and early evening. The railroad detectives and special officers do not attempt to interfere with the order about those station which are located in cities where there is a police force, but leave it to the police. The smoking room during the past month has often been so full of loafers that no gentleman cared to go inside, and the waiting room has been almost as bad.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Dunellen, Dec. 30—An enjoyable evening was spent at the Presbyterian church last night at the sociable given by the Ladies' Aid Society. The oddest part of the affair was the price of admission, which was regulated by the person's height. After the programme was finished refreshments were served.

The Bound Brook people were much surprised yesterday to see the Plainfield trolley cars running into the town, and some of them thought that the cars had begun to run through from Plainfield. But that was not the case. Tuesday night on the 5:15 o'clock trip the regular Bound Brook car broke down, and as it could not be repaired no cars were run all day Wednesday. Yesterday noon, though, they got a car from Plainfield to take the place of the Bound Brook car. The company say they have five new cars ready to put on the Bound Brook-Dunellen line as soon as connections are made with the New Brunswick branch.

The Christmas entertainment at Holy Innocents' church was held Wednesday evening. The programme consisted of songs by the Sunday-school, an address by the rector, and the distribution of gifts to the little ones.

WESTFIELD.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Dec. 30—At a meeting of the Township Committee held last evening it was decided to make a contract with the Westfield Fire Department whereby the department would protect the township to the best of their ability against loss by fire until April 1, 1899, in consideration of which the department should receive the unexpended balance of the appropriation amounting to $230.27.

Mrs. Caroline Beaman, widow of the late Howard Beaman, died at her home at Mountainside early yesterday morning from heart failure. Mrs. Beamon was seventy three years of age and had lived at Mountainside for the past eleven years.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

THERE IS A CLASS OF PEOPLE who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over ¼ as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15c and 25c per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvet skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run down invalid. Only 50 cents at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text—In Him was life; and the life was the light of men—John i: 4. Jan. 1, '99.

"The nature of Christ is perfectly similar and equal to that of the Eternal Father. This subject yields in importance to none. The views we take of it will influence those we take of all other doctrines, and must terminate in results which affect God's glory. Divine names are given to Christ. Divine attributes are ascribed to Him. Divine works are wrought by Him. Divine relations are sustained by Him. Divine worship is demanded by and paid to him." "Until we acknowledge the eternity and divinity of Christ, as well as of God the Father, we honor neither the Father or the Son. There is the difference between natural things and supernatural. Natural things are first understood, and then believed; but supernatural mysteries must be first believed, and then will be better understood." "Jesus Christ is the word as he is the essential revealer of the Father's person (Heb. 1:3), just as a word is an image or picture of a thought. The only begotten Son hath declared the Father (Chron. 1:18) through creation, through prophets, through the incarnation. He was called the Word, not as man, for as man He was not in the beginning with God, neither was he Creator. He was the Word before He was man, for it was as the word He became flesh. V. 14. He was the word as He was the Son of God—the only begotten Son of the Father, yet he is called here the Word rather than the Son of God, because the Jews were familiar with this name as applied to the Messiah, and the apostle John would not at first alienate their hearts by the title 'Son of God,' which was so offensive to the unbelieving Jews." Chron. 10:30, 33.

"John the Baptist. His personality. The purpose of his testimony. He was the offspring of pious parents, and his birth was due to miraculous divine interference. He was a Nazarite in the ascetic aspect of his life. He was the last prophet of the Old Testament dispensation—the link between the prophets of the old apostles of the new dispensations. He was the forerunner of the Messiah, who was to come in the power of Elias, to preach the coming of the kingdom of heaven. He was, in truth, 'a man sent from God.' His forerunnership ended with the baptism of Jesus, who then appeared visibly on the scene of his ministry. But his testimony only ceased with his life. It was by the Baptism that the author of this gospel was introduced to Christ. V. 35. The Baptism came for witness. The witness-bearing was necessary, as the Word was to appear 'in the likeness of sinful flesh.' Man in his blindness could not well discern him without some testimony. Witness-bearing is a fundamental idea in Christianity. It implies faith, and a body of facts to be believed. It marks a distinct place for human instrumentality, even in connection with the conversion of souls. Its design is to lead to belief. His message had but one object of faith—the Lamb of God, the Bridegroom, the Almighty Savior."

"Christs' coming and rejection. He made the world and preserved it. Yet there was no proper recognition of him. This ignorance of Christ was the sin of the world, and it it its sin now, a sin for which there is no excuse. In addition to creation and providence we have revelation. He came to his own—He came as the long-expected Messiah, answering all the characters given him as such in the Old Testament. He came as Immanuel. His testimony to this effect was confirmed by exercising the authority of God, (1) by forgiving sins, (2) by healing the sick, (3) by raising the dead, (4) by calming the storms, etc. But so far was his own from receiving him that they accounted him a 'sinner,' a 'deceiver,' 'mad,' and possessed of the 'devil.' He came as a prophet like unto Moses, but they rejected Him because his doctrine contradicted their prejudices, censured their vices, and laid a restriant on their dominant lusts. He came as High Priest and Meditator between God and man, typified by Aaron; but they, depending on Abraham's seed, or circumcision, the priesthood, and explanations of their law, received him not. He came as Redeemer and Savior, but they received Him not. He came as King, but as His kingdom was not of this world, they rejected Him.

"Reception of Christ—the introduction into sonship. The honor is higher, nearer, more blessed, more glorious than creaturehood, making us partakers of the divine nature. Christ himself is the giver. This right or power of sonship he purchased for us. Note the personal change through which this is reached. Born not of natural descent; nor by natural generation; not by human adoption; but of God."

Christ not only took on him the nature of men, he came and dwelt among men. Shepherds, soldiers and sojourners dwell in tents. Jesus did not dwell in a mansion, but lowly like a shepherd; not in a palace, but in a place of warfare, like a soldier, for he was to bruise the heel of the serpent (Gen. 3:15); not in a home, but in a tent, as the patriarchs, who confessed they were strangers and pilgrims. Heb. 11:13, 14.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 1—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—The angel presence for the new year.—Ex. xxiii, 20-25.

Behold I send an angel before thee, to keep thee in the way and to bring thee into the place which I have prepared. Beware of him and obey his voice.—Ex. xxiii, 20, 21.

The Israelites had left Egypt and were on their way to the land of Canaan. They needed a guide in the wilderness, and God provided them with one, described here as an "angel." This angel was undoubtedly the "Angel of the Covenant," or the Lord Jesus Christ Himself, who guided Israel in the pillar of cloud by day and in the pillar of fire by night.

The Christians' journey through life is typified by Israel's journey through the wilderness. We are traveling each year and each day over ways which we have not trodden before. This is particularly enforced upon us at the beginning of each new year, because at that time we think more about it. We need a guide, and God has provided us with one also, the same guide, the Lord Jesus, the "Angel of the Covenant," only manifested and revealed unto us in more and better ways.

Concerning Christ as the angel presence, we may learn that:

1. Christ is a divine guide. It was God's angel, God's messenger, who directed Israel. "My name," said the Lord, "is in him." Christ is divine. This makes His guidance infallible and worthy of our most earnest and complete acceptance.

2. Christ is an ever present guide. By day in the pillar of cloud, by night in the pillar of fire, Christ guided Israel. Orientals were accustomed to marching at night, because of the extreme heat of the day. Fire and smoke were probably used by generals in ancient times as signals, and for this reason God probably chose this form of manifesting His presence. Day and night He went before Israel. Christ today is ever present. "Lo, I am with thee alway," He said to His disciples. We need an ever present guide. Many intrust themselves to God at night, but not for the day. We need Him more through the day than when asleep at night. Then it is that we meet the trials, temptations and duties of life, and it is at these times that we need God in Christ most.

3. Christ is an adaptive guide. The pillar adapted itself to the needs of the people. In the daytime it was a cloud, at nighttime a fire. At one time it moved in front as a guiding beacon, at another it settled over the camp as a canopy, and again it went behind, between Israel and its enemies. Jesus Christ as a divine guide is adapted to the needs and wants of all classes and to the same person under all the varied circumstances of life.

4. Christ as a guide must be followed, or life will be a failure. If we disobey Christ, life will end in miserable failure. "Beware of Him and obey Him." If we obey Christ, His guidance will bring us safely to the home which He has prepared for us.

Bible Readings.—Ex. xii, 41, 42; xiii, 20-22; xiv, 19-28; Ps. xxv, 8-10; xxxi. 1-5; xxxii, 7-11; xlviii, 14; lxxiii, 24-28; cxix, 105; Neh. ix, 19; Isa. xl, 25-31; lviii, 11, 12; Math. xxviii, 19, 20; Luke i, 76-79; John xiv, 1-7.

An Upright Judge.

An amusing incident occurred in one of our courts recently. A man complained of for cruelty to animals brought in a considerable number of his wealthy friends to assure the court that he ought not to be punished. After listening carefully to all these gentlemen, the court said to the man complained of: "It is very evident, sir, that you knew better than to commit this offense. If you had been a poor man without friends I would have fined you $10; but, under the circumstances, as your friends have stated them, I shall fine you $20."—Our Dumb Animals.

An Age of Narrowness.

I wonder how it would be if Jesus of Nazareth were to appear in the flesh in this age of breadths. I wonder if He would be regarded as an anachronism. Would He be regarded as inopportune if He were to begin talking about strait gates and narrow ways? Would He be regarded as sounding a discordant and jarring note? I verily believe that if our Master were in the world today and at this meeting one of the words He would revive would be this word "narrow"—Rev. J. H. Jowett.

When He Is Absent.

I think when we have read enough of the history of God's dealings with His people to understand that this is the way of Him—that if He ever is absent from His people, it is not in their time of direct need, and if ever He does reveal Himself to them, as He does not unto the world, it is when they are bereaved of all outward consolation and for His sake are made to bear tribulation.—Spurgeon.

Christian Sacrifice.

Sacrifice is a necessary condition of eternal felicity. In the old Norse legend Alfadir did not obtain a drink from the spring of Mimir, which was reputed to be the fountain of wisdom, until he left his eye in pledge. If a man would be a Christian, there are always some things that must go. We are saved from, not with, our sins. The old nature cannot be imported into paradise.—New York Observer.

Divine Truth.

Divine truth, like divine love, is of God—infinite, eternal, unchangeable, indestructible, as it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be, world without end.—Rev. Dr. Charles Cuthbert Hall.

Christ's Atonement.

The extent of Christ's atonement may reach out in saving influence to the untold millions that never heard of Him as a Saviour if they accept the offer of mercy extended.—Rev. Paul C. Curnick.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 1. "The Angel Presence For the New Year"—Text. Ex. xxiii. 20-25.

"Behold, I send an angel before thee."

1. Divine guidance was promised the children of Israel in their escape from Egyptian slavery to the promised land of liberty, Canaan. This is symbolical of the escape from sin to salvation. The lesson is peculiarly appropriate for the first week of this new year. Divine guidance and help are needed by each one who would make the year 1899 a successful stage in the pilgrim journey of life. We note several particulars in this lesson which are of special importance. The first is the provision made for a competent guide in this journey which we are making for the first and only time. We are not aimless wanderers, but seekers of the place which God says He has prepared. What it is and where it is none but God knows. He has sent His messenger to keep us in the way and bring us there. Jesus declared that He would go and prepare a place for us. The Holy Spirit, since Pentecost, is the angel of Jehovah's presence to lead us as Israel was led in the wilderness by pillar of cloud and fire.

2. We must obey and not provoke our Divine Guide.

The impressions of the Holy Spirit come to all hearts. The pressing need of the present time is the cultivation of spiritual sensitiveness and quick obedience. Tender consciences and ready hands and feet are prime essentials in Christian life. To grieve the Holy Spirit by inattention to His voice is dangerous to all soul life. To disobey His commands is the price of safety and success. The Israelites were commanded to overthrow the abominable idolatries of the Canaanites and exterminate all their vile practices. All prosperity and health depended on the completeness of this work. The failure to do this service thoroughly was the chief cause of all the disasters to the nation under the various kings of Israel and Judah. The principle is an eternal one fixed in human and divine nature, and all government is controlled by it. Righteousness exalts and gives power. Sin debases and weakens. The strong one is strong because pure and good. All idols must be destroyed. God is a jealous God and will share love, devotion and obedience with no other. We must serve Him wholly or not at all.

Moses, the Mighty.

One of the most noted pieces of statuary in all the world is Michael Angelo's colossal figure of Moses. It is reckoned the grandest work of that greatest of artists. It is in Rome, where multitudes of visitors admire it. A peculiarity which attracts notice at once is the horns on the head. These are symbols of power and are given to Moses because of a curious mistranslation of the passage of Scripture in Exodus where it says that Moses' face shone while he talked with God. The Hebrew word "karen," to shine, is connected by a simple metaphor with "keren," a horn, and so in the Latin Vulgate we have the statement that Moses' face was horned.

MOSES, BY MICHAEL ANGELO.

Of all men Moses was most truly the angel guided one. Our text was spoken by God to him. He talked familiarly with the Lord and had communication with Him as no mortal before or since. He was mighty with God and received the divine law for men. Of all figures in history none is nobler, none so worthy of the title "great" as this law giver of Israel. He was powerful because obedient to the voice of God. He was of all men most meek in his dealings with men. He was mighty because meek.

Temper is a good thing to have. But it must be under control. It is an indication of strength and delicacy of perception. It is necessary to the best work. It is the spring which moves the wheels of life. But it must be coiled and held in place, else it wrecks what it was adapted to run. It is not to be broken. Then it is useless. A spiritless boy or girl or a broken spirited one is about as valueless a thing as can be found. The safest horse is the thoroughbred, the one with fire in the blood and steel in sinews and muscles. But such a one must be well trained to be of most value. Speed, endurance, intelligence, gentleness—all that is of value—lies in that word mettle. So we need mettlesome young people—boys and girls of high spirit thoroughly trained. That means gentle men and gentle women. Temper is essential to gentility, which is only another name for Christian life and culture, which is worldwide apart from anger and malice.

AN ORDINANCE

locating the tracks of the extension of the Plainfield Street Railway Company in Richmond street and East Second street and over a private right of way to the line of the City of Plainfield in Terrill road, and authorizing and empowering the construction and operation and maintenance of the same and granting permission for said company to use electricity as the propeling power of its cars and prescribing the terms and conditions upon which the said location of the tracks and permission are granted.

Whereas, The Plainfield Street Railway Company, a street railway corporation organized under the provisions of the laws of the State of New Jersey and operating a street railway in the city of Plainfield, did present their petition or application to the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, praying the said Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield for their consent to the construction, operation and maintenance of an extension of its street railway in the city of Plainfield, from a point in the present line of tracks in East Fifth street opposite to Richmond street, thence westerly through Richmond street to East Second street; thence northerly through East Second street to the present terminus of East Second street between Netherwood avenue and Leland avenue, thence along a right of way through private property to the line of the City of Plainfield in Terrill road, and,

Whereas, Public notice has been duly given of such application and of the intention of the Council of the City of Plainfield to consider the same by publication and also by posting a copy of the said notice in five or more of the most public places in the said city of Plainfield, at least fourteen days prior to the date fixed for the meeting of the said Council of the City of Plainfield to consider said application, and

Whereas, Upon the day fixed by said notice for said hearing and upon the days to which the said hearing was regularly adjourned, public hearing was given to all persons desiring to be heard, in favor of or opposed to or in anywise interested in the said application for the location of the said tracks of the said street railway company and the said matter having been duly considered by the Council of the City of Plainfield, and the said Council having determined to grant permission for the construction, maintenance and operation of such street railway upon the streets, highways or public places designated in such petition, and the said company having filed with the clerk of the city of Plainfield, the consent in writing of the owners, or their duly authorized legal representatives, of at least one-half in amount of the lineal feet of property on said Richmond street from East Fifth street to East Second street and on East Second street, from Richmond street to the present terminus of East Second street between Netherwood avenue and Leland avenue and thence along a right of way through private property to the line of the City of Plainfield in Terrill road.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the tracks of the extension of the Plainfield Street Railway Company's railway be and are hereby located in the following streets, roads and alleys of the city of Plainfield: from a point in the present line of tracks of the Plainfield Street Railway Company in East Fifth street, opposite to Richmond street; thence westerly through Richmond street to East Second street; thence northerly through East Second street to the present terminus of said East Second street between Netherwood avenue and Leland avenue; thence along a right of way through private property northeasterly on a curve having a radius of four hundred and seventy-one feet and eight-tenths of a foot, two hundred and one feet and seventy-four hundredths of a foot; thence north twenty one degrees and five minutes east two hundred and eighty-three feet and twenty-three hundredths of a foot; thence easterly on a curve with a radius of one thousand and eleven feet and five-tenths of a foot, four hundred and five feet and fifteen hundredths of a foot; thence north forty-four degrees two minutes east, two thousand three hundred and four feet and twenty hundredths of a foot to the line of the city of Plainfield in Terrill road, and in those portions of said streets, roads and alleys marked out and shown on maps filed in the office of the city clerk of said city, entitled "Map showing location of tracks, turnouts and poles for proposed extension of Plainfield Street Railway, No. 3" and signed by Thomas A. Nevins, President, dated August 1, 1898, to which reference is made and the same hereby made a part of this ordinance, and the said company is hereby given the right to construct, maintain and operate its extension to its street railway in said portions of said streets, roads and alleys, under and subject to certain restrictions and regulations hereinafter specified or referred to, the same being such restrictions and regulations as the Common Council hereby deem requisite for the public interests as well as subject to such further reasonable regulations as may be hereinafter enacted by said Council. All rights and privileges under this ordinance conferred upon said Company shall cease and expire on the first day of January, A. D., 1998, and thereupon, on demand, said Company will forthwith remove all of its said tracks from the streets, lanes and alleys of said city. A detailed plan of construction shall be filed with the city clerk by said company and be approved by said Common Council before any work is done under the permission herein granted.

This ordinance is furthermore passed upon the express condition that if at any time hereafter the said city or its Common Council shall locate the tracks of any other street railway company or grant consent to the location of the tracks of any other street railway company over that portion of Richmond street lying between the southerly line of Netherwood avenue and the northerly line of East Third street, such other street railway company shall have the right to use the tracks and poles of said Plainfield Street Railway Company that may be laid or erected on said portion of Richmond street in common with said Plainfield Street Railway Company upon terms to be agreed upon between such other company and said Plainfield Street Railway Company, or in case said two companies shall fail for the space of thirty days next after demand made upon them by such other company to agree upon the terms, then upon terms to be established and determined by the Common Council of said city of Plainfield.

Section 2. That said company shall construct, maintain and operate a single track railway for said extension, to be laid upon the middle line of Richmond street and East Second street to the present terminus of East Second street; thence along a right of way, through private property, to the line of the city of Plainfield in Terrill road; it shall construct, operate and maintain a double track street railway and shall construct the tracks, switches, turnouts and poles in the manner and at the point and places indicated for the same on said map; the poles shall be constructed and set and the wires strung thereon in the same manner as the poles are constructed and set in the ground and wires strung on poles on the line of street railway now operated in the city of Plainfield by the said Plainfield Street Railway Company.

Section 3. That said company shall keep in repair to the satisfaction of the committee on streets the paving or other surface material of the portion of streets, roads and bridges occupied by its tracks and in addition shall so keep in repair eighteen inches on each side of the portion of said streets, roads and bridges occupied by its tracks. In case of double track or switches or turnouts, the expression "occupied by its tracks," shall be construed to mean all space in the street between the outermost rails. In case the city shall at any time determine to pave or repave any street or section of street the said company shall forthwith repave any portion of said street or section of street which may be occupied by the company's track and for eighteen inches beyond, with same material and in same manner, and shall do so at the company's expense under the supervision of the street commissioner. If said company shall at any time fail to comply with any of the requirements of this section, the work or repairs hereinabove specified may be done or made by or under the direction of the said committee on streets, and to their satisfaction, and the expense thereof shall on demand be paid by said company to said city; provided that the said committee on streets or a majority of them shall give at least ten days' notice in writing of the intention to do such work or make such repairs, said notice to be served upon any officer or employe of said company who may be found at their office or depot.

Section 4. The said company and its officers, servants, agents or employes shall not nor shall any or either of them be allowed to shovel, throw or place any snow, ice or slush along the side of said track or tracks in any street or street s in such manner as to obstruct other public travel therein; but, when moving said snow, ice or slush from said track or tracks the said company or its officers, servants, agents or employes shall cause the same to be immediately leveled between the said track or tracks and the gutter line on each side thereof unless the fall of snow shall have been too heavy to make it practicable to level the same aforesaid; in which latter case the said company shall promptly remove all such excess of snow. Upon violation of any of the provisions of this section, there shall be incurred a penalty of Ten Dollars for every city block in which any such violation shall take place, but said penalty shall not aggregate more than One Hundred Dollars in any one day or on any one conviction; said penalty to be paid to the city by the said company or by any of its said officers, agents or employes so offending for each and every offence.

Section 5. That the rights and privileges intended to be given by this ordinance to said company are subject to all limitations, provisions, terms and conditions set forth and contained in sections 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 13, 14, 16, 17 and 18 of the ordinance of the city entitled "An ordinance locating the tracks of the Plainfield Street Railway Company and regulating the construction and operation of the same and granting permission to said company to use electric motors as the propelling power of its cars" approved April twenty-seventh, 1891, to the same extent and with the same effect as if said sections were re-enacted in full as part of this ordinance.

Section 6. That the gauge of the tracks to be laid hereunder shall be four feet eight and one-half inches. That all the cars of the said company shall be similar to those now in use by it or such as shall be approved by the Common Council of said city. They shall be lighted by electricity and properly heated in winter. Said company shall use upon its cars the Climax or other noiseless gearing and equip said cars with proper bells or gongs and said cars shall be run at a speed of not more than ten miles an hour. No salt shall be used by said company on any part of its tracks. For violation of any of the conditions of this section there shall be incurred a penalty of ten dollars for each offence and ten dollars additional for every day that such violation shall continue, not exceeding one hundred dollars on any one conviction.

Section 7. The cars to be operated or run upon the extension of the railway of the Plainfield Street Railway Company hereby authorized to be constructed shall be equipped with fenders of the pattern approved by the mayor of the city, and so attached to the cars as best to protect persons and vehicles using the streets and persons riding on the cars from injury.

Section 8. The said company shall build or construct the extension hereby authorized with turnouts and switches in the manner aforesaid and put the same into complete operation for the transportation of passengers on or before July 1st, A.D. 1899, and upon failure so to do or upon failure or neglect to operate the same as aforesaid all the rights, powers and privileges and every one of them of the said company, their successors and assigns, under and by virtue of this supplemental ordinance shall thereupon cease and determine and this ordinance shall be null and void so far as the grant of any such rights, power and privilege to said company is concerned and in either of such cases the Common Council expressly reserve the right to cause the said railroad or any part or parts thereof, so constructed, to be removed from said street or streets or any of them and to sell and dispose of the material thereof by public auction, and, after paying all the expenses of such removal and sale and of repairing the said street or streets and of restoring the same, as nearly as possible to its or their original condition, to pay the balance of the proceeds of such sale to the said company or its successors or assigns, provided, that no notice of such sale shall be required to be given, other than an advertisement signed by the city clerk, and published in any one or more newspapers printed and published in said city.

The time during which the said company shall be delayed in the prosecution of its work or in the operation of its road or in any section thereof by injunction or other legal proceedings in the courts of New Jersey, or the Federal Courts shall not be included within the period within which the said extension is to be constructed and put into complete operation.

Section 9. All tracks of the Street Railway Company now laid or hereafter to be laid, are to be copiously watered throughout their entire length and for the space of two feet on each side thereof, twice in each day, from the 15th day of May to the 1st day of October in each year, once before 11 A. M., and once after 2 P. M., and in case of the failure of the Street Railway Company so to do, to the satisfaction of the Street Commissioner or the Common Council, said Company shall pay to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield the sum of $20.00 per day for each and every day such failure shall continue or exist; such payment to be considered as liquidated damages for such default.

Section 10. The said Company shall for the fifty years beginning January 1st, 1899, in compensation for the rights granted under this ordinance, pay the Collector or other receiving officer of the City of Plainfield, for the use of the said City, a sum equal to five per cent of the gross earnings of the Company on the tracks hereby authorized to be laid, and for the succeeding twenty-five years shall pay to the Collector or other receiving officer of said City, for the use of said City, a sum not to exceed seven and one-half per cent, and not less than five per cent. of the gross earnings of the Company upon the tracks; and during the next twenty-fours years a sum not greater than ten or less than five per cent. of the gross earnings upon said tracks.

The percentages to be paid are specified for either or both of said last periods of twenty-five and twenty-four years respectively, if not mutually agreed upon between the said City and the said Company within sixty days respectively after the beginning of said respective periods shall be fixed within the limits of the percentages as above specified by three arbitrators, one to be appointed by the City, one by the said Company and the third by the Circuit Court of the County of Union on five days notice, and if for either or both of said periods last referred to said Company shall fail to agree with the City upon the per centage or percentages, and also fail to appoint its arbitrator, and notify the City in writing of said appointment within five days after notice to appoint such arbitrator, then the percentage or percentages to be paid by said Company annually for such period or periods respectively, shall be the maximum percentage for such period or periods above specified.

The gross earnings shall be construed to be all the earnings of the Company upon said tracks hereby authorized to be laid, including the full proportion of the earnings on traffic within the City of Plainfield and other traffic to be computed according to the proportion between the length of the journey and the number of miles traveled upon the tracks hereby authorized to be laid, provided that the annual gross earnings of the said company upon said tracks hereby authorized to be laid, shall, for the purpose of entitling the City to said percentage, and fixing the minimum sum on which said percentage shall be paid, be deemed and taken to be not less than such sum as would be produced by adding to all fares of five cents each or less than five cents each, paid during the year upon said portion of said tracks, two and one-half cents each for all other passengers carried upon said tracks or any portion thereof, above the age of ten years, and one and one-half cents each for all other passengers between the age of four and ten years carried over any portion of the tracks hereby authorized to be laid during the year. And to enable such calculation to be readily made the said company, its successors or assigns, will at all times cause separate returns to be made and properly tabulated in its books showing the number of passengers carried and the fares paid upon the line of tracks hereby authorized to be laid or any portion thereof, and the number of passenger carried on any part of said tracks who paid more than five cent fares per passenger, or who paid fares beyond the line of tracks hereby authorized, and also showing the number of passengers carried upon any portion of any of the tracks of said company located within the territory of the city of Plainfield or the Borough of North Plainfield, and the fares paid by them, whether such fares were paid within or without such territory, and a further table showing the proportion of earnings referred to in the first part of this paragraph; and annually between the first day of January and the fifteenth day of January in each year the said Company, its successors and assigns, will file with the City Clerk of said City a complete and detailed statement, signed by its President or Vice-President and its Treasurer, showing in fact what were the gross earnings for the year ending the first day of said month upon said tracks, and a table similarly signed showing in detail the total minimum account of gross earnings as they would be calculated according to the terms of this section, and similar statement showing gross earnings on all the tracks of said Company within the City of Plainfield or the Borough of North Plainfield, either and both.

That to enable the City to ascertain from time to time the amount of gross earnings of such Company, or to ascertain any facts required to be entered as aforesaid, the books of the Company from time to time when required, be opened in Plainfield to inspection by the Finance Committee of the Common Council or such other person or persons as the Common Council for that purpose shall designate.

The payment provided for in this section shall, as to the line of tracks hereby authorized, be in lieu of all license fees for cars whether provided for in prior ordinances or not, but the moneys to be paid by said Company to the City, as to all tracks heretofore authorized, shall be determined according to prior ordinances, except that in determining the amounts payable to the City under such prior ordinances, there shall be added to gross receipts on the other tracks the gross receipts on the line of tracks hereby authorized, and when the total in any one year shall equal or exceed Eighty Thousand Dollars for the entire system within the City of Plainfield and the Borough of North Plainfield, including gross earnings on tracks hereby authorized, then for that year and annually thereafter, there shall be paid as aforesaid to the Collector of said City, for the use of the City, five per cent of the gross earnings on tracks heretofore authorized, and on gross earnings on tracks hereby authorized, the percentages hereinabove specified for the same—the intent hereof being that as to the tracks authorized by this ordinance, compensation on the percentage basis above particularly set forth shall be chargeable from the beginning; and as to the tracks authorized by prior ordinances, compensation to the City shall be paid as at present until the total gross receipts of said Company on all its tracks within the territory of said City and Borough, including tracks authorized by this ordinance, shall equal or exceed Eighty Thousand Dollars, and after that, percentages shall be chargeable on all gross receipts as hereinabove particularly specified.

Section 11. That the tracks and cars of said company shall be used for the carrying of passengers only; that no freight car or cars shall be run over any of its tracks, that no freight shall be carried by said company or over its tracks and that no luggage other than hand luggage shall be carried; passengers shall be carried or allowed upon the cars of said company, or any other cars passing over said tracks. Nothing herein contained, however, shall prevent the company from carrying the U. S. Mail. That cars shall not be run in trains of more than two cars over any of the tracks of said company and that all cars shall stop upon being signalled by any foot passenger at any street corner past which said tracks are or shall be laid and passengers shall be freely allowed to board said cars or alight therefrom at any street corner and said company shall cause the cars to come to a full stop and sound the gong or bell immediately before turning any curve or crossing such street or streets as may be designated by the Common Council on road now constructed or to be constructed. Any violation of any of the provisions of this section by said company or any of its employes shall be subject to a penalty of Twenty dollars fine for each and every offence.

Section 12. That all the duties or obligations imposed upon said Plainfield Street Railway Company by this ordinance or the contract hereinafter referred to shall be binding and obligatory upon said company, its successors and assigns, and in case the said company shall lease its tracks or any section of the same, or sell, or assign its franchises, or attempt so to do, said company shall cause to be inserted in any such lease, deed, bill of sale, assignment or other transfer a stipulation and agreement and condition that the same is made subject to the provisions of this ordinance, and the contract herein referred to, and that the lessee, vendee, assignee or other person to whom such lease, conveyance, assignment or transfer may be made or attempted to be made in accepting the same agrees to be bound thereby and to conform thereto and will in turn insert a clause similar to that required by this section in case of any lease, conveyance, assignment or transfer thereof to be made, so that no persons, or corporations, shall acquire any rights in the premises except subject to the same terms and conditions herein and in said contract provided.

Sec. 13. That the said Company upon the final adoption of this ordinance and before exercising any of the rights and privileges granted hereby shall as a condition precedent execute on its part (after properly filling blanks for dates) and file with the City Clerk of the City of Plainfield a contract between said Company and Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, in the words and figures contained in the draft thereof filed with the City Clerk December 13, 1898, and endorsed "Contract between Plainfield Street Railway Company and Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, referred to in Street Railway ordinance introduced December 12, 1898," and said contract shall in reupon be duly executed on behalf of the City by the Mayor and City Clerk and impressed with the corporate seal of said City.

Sec. 14. That said company shall upon the same time hereinabove specified for filing said contract file a bond to the city in the sum of twenty thousand dollars to be approved as to form by the Common Council and Corporation Counsel of said city, conditioned for the full and faithful keeping, observance and performance of the terms and conditions in this ordinance contained, the terms and conditions contained in the contract referred to in the last preceding section on the part of this company to be kept, observed and performed. And in case he condition or terms upon which said company is granted permission to locate its tracks and maintain and operate its road or any of the terms or conditions of the said contract are violated, the city reserves the right to revoke the permission herein granted, to remove the tracks of the said company and all the constructions made in the streets of the city by said company, its successors or assigns.

Section 15. The said Company shall within thirty days next after the passage of this ordinance file with the City Clerk of said City a copy of said ordinance and of the contract hereinbefore referred to, including all the agreements, terms, provisions, restrictions and regulations, and every one thereof in said ordinance or contract contained, which said acceptance shall be under the corporate seal of said company and shall be signed by the President of said company; and in default of the filing of such acceptance within the time limited aforesaid, it shall be understood and held that said Company declines to accept the same, and thereupon all rights, powers and privileges to them granted thereby shall forever cease and be at an end in the same manner and with the same effect as if this ordinance had never been passed.

NEW YEAR MESSENGERS.

What will the bells o' the New Year ring us?
What will the days o' the New Year bring us?
Sorrows and sighs,
And weeping eyes;
Gardens of bloom and brighter skies;
A rose o'er the grave where a dead rose lies—
What will the New Year bring us?

What will the bells o' the New Year ring us?
What will the voice of the New Year sing us?
Songs to cheer
The hearts that bear—
Garlands over the thorns we wear;
And Love, to kiss away each tear—
These will the New Year bring us.

"TO YOUR HEALTH."

How the Term Wassail Bowl First Came to Be Used.

The word wassail comes from "wass hail," "to your health" It occurs in the oldest of carols that have been handed down to us, and Spenser, Jonson and Shakespeare refer frequently to it. Lady Macbeth, in planning the murder of "ungarded Duncan," refers to it and Hamlet, awaiting on the platform the advent of the ghost, and hearing the flourish of trumpets and ordnance shot off, explains it to Hortatio:

"The king doth wake to-night, and takes his rouse,
Keeps wassel, and the swaggering up-spring reels;
And, as he drains his draughts of Rhenish down,
The kettle-drum and trumpet thus bray out
The trumpet of his pledge."

Innocent Horatio asks him if it be a custom, and Hamlet replies that it is, but one "more honored in the breach than in the observance."

In a collection of ordinances for the regulation of the royal household in the reign of Henry VII., on Twelfth-Night the steward was enjoined, when entering with the spiced and smoking bowl to cry "Wassail" three times, to which the royal chaplain had to respond with an appropriate song—whether he was in voice or not.

The beverage that was in such demand was called "lamb's wool," and was carefully concocted of ale or wine, sugar, nutmeg, toast, and roasted crabs or apples.

While the wealthier classes were pouring down their copious libations at the shrine of Bacchus, the poor people went from house to house with wassail-bowls adorned with ribbons, and singing carols calculated to beguile even the hard heart of a Midas into giving. If, however, the combined efforts of song and wine failed to elicit a sufficient pecuniary recognition the carol speedily terminated in most malignant and malodorous anathemas.

The custom of wassailing at New-Year's was kept up in monasteries as well as private houses.

The mighty bowl, called "Poculum Caritatis," was placed at the upper end of the refectory table at the front of the abbey, and from it the Superior drank to all, and all drank in succession to each other.

A custom much like this is still kept up in the corporation feasts of London. A double handled flagon, full of sweetened and spiced wine, is handed to the master, who drinks, standing, to the general health as announced by the toast-master; then passes it to his neighbor on the left, who drinks, standing, and so on until all have drunk. This is the popular ceremony of the "loving-cup."

The custom of drinking wassail in Scotland prevailed even into the early part of the nineteenth century. As the clock struck the knell of the departing year, it was accompanied by a cordial shaking of hands, and a decorous dance around the table.

The elders of the family would then sally forth, bearing the hot bowl and a generous supply of bunns and shortcake or bread and cheese, to interchange cordial greetings with their neighbors. So general was the custom that in Edinburgh the principal streets were more densely thronged between the hours of 12 and 1 a. m. than at mid-day.

In Devonshire, England, and other cider countries the custom long prevailed of farmers marching in the evening to their orchards, accompanied by all the farm servants bearing large pitchers or milk pails filled with "cyder," and roasted apples hissing therein. They encircled one of the best bearing fruit trees, and drank the toast three times. The dregs were then thrown upon the tree, with the idea that a fruitful year would be the result.

NEW YEAR RESOLVES.

Helpful Hints Especially Applicable to the Young.

If I were a boy, full of warm, healthful glow, eagerly longing to do good—and perhaps some great things, too—I would resolve to cultivate kind and polite manners, and use them at home.

I should try to deal very gently with the little sisters, though I didn't care two straws about their dollies or kittens, and couldn't help being annoyed with their mischievous pranks.

And then I should try to help mother, when she looks tired and worn.

Do I mean that I should forget to be a real, live boy, spend all the time in work, wear a long face and forget to laugh?

No, indeed: and I should not forget, when a man, that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

I should talk with parents and teachers about the lives of successful men, and endeavor early in youth to find what I could do best, and learn to use my eyes, ears, brains and limbs to some advantage to others as well as myself.

I should feel that, if I could not be the President, I could be an honest woodcutter, doing the work so deftly and well that my labor would be in demand.

Another resolve will prove a difficult task; but I certainly couldn't sleep late in the morning, though the blankets be ever so soft and warm and the air stinging cold.

Such a victory the sleepy boy gains over himself who "springs" from his warm couch, gets a little wood and water for the kitchen, and meets with a bright face the family at breakfast.

In the list of self-denyings and helpful habits I place "learning to care for the pennies," and taking care of personal property, clothing, toys, books and the like.

Boys should know the money value of comforts and luxuries, and to early help themselves to be just, but not miserly.

Our American young people are accused of lacking veneration and respect for the aged. A boy seeking to turn over a new leaf upon New Year's Day cannot afford to forget this point.

Courtesy and good manners are often the means of smoothing the whole life-path of the boy and man. By good manners I do not mean foppishness, but a manly, respectful bearing and deferences paid to the wishes of others. The aged should claim attention first. It is only a savage who "shelves" the old folks when their usefulness is over.

Assumed courtesy is easily detected. There is only one way to wear it as a well-fitting garment, and that is to treat well every man, woman and child, and I must add the dumb animals. These latter learn quickly what good treatment means. By so doing the kindly feeling becomes second nature, and the outside courtesy easy and not strained.

To curb the hot, quick temper,

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World.

The attraction at Music Hall tomorrow, matinee and night, will be the sensational comedy drama, "Side Tracked," which deals with the funny side of life on the railroad. "Side Tracked" is a comedy drama bordering on the farce, it is up-to-date, and as presented by the A. Q Seamnon Company is a most enjoyable entertainment. The play is written to amuse, and it never fails to please the most exacting audiences. The leading character is a tramp, and to him is accorded a regular ovation. Portrayed by the perfect mimicry of the actor, he appears in a role that appeals to the hearts of every audience, and makes each spectator not only laugh, as each familiar aspect of tramp nature is displayed, but arouses genuine enthusiasm as the heart of oak is seen beating under the hagged jacket of the way-farer. The play is interspersed with bright comedy, sparkling music, pretty girls and charming lovers. Its special scenery and mechanical effects are also worthy of special mention. It is bright, breezy and always on the move, there is a vim and "go" about it that captures the gallery as well as the elite of every audience. Don't fail to see this latest laughing success.

MT. ZION A. M. E.

An elaborately trimmed Christmas tree was the attraction at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church last night at the Christmas entertainment. From it boxes of candy were taken and distributed among the children; then they were treated to ice cream and cake.

The entertainment consisted of songs and recitations by the little ones and addresses by the pastor, Rev. Jas. E. Groves, Rev. J. W. Mitchell and Grant Cannon, superintendent of the Sunday-school.

pelled. There are 277 fire hydrants and during the year thirteen new ones were added. There is a pressure of 74 pounds to each hydrant, except a few at Netherwood heights where the pressure is forty pounds. There are also sixteen fire wells and two brooks that can be used in case of neccessity. The department has 5 500 feet of hose, 3,?00 feet of which is good, 1,500 poor and 800 feet unfit for use. There are eleven horses used by the department, of which number eight are owned. The team used for the steamer is hired and the horse used for the chief's wagon is owned by the driver.

Three new fire alarm boxes were added during the year. There have been 61 alarms, 39 box calls, 15 telephone, 5 still and 2 breaks, an increase of 18 over last year. The small hand extinguishers have been discharged 20 times, and the tanks on the chemical engine 9 times. The chemical engine has attended 43 fires and has extinguished 5 fires alone, and 3 with the use of hydrants.

The loss on buildings by fires has been $38,983.50; insurance on same, $115,175; loss on contents, $17.561.76, insurance on contents, $66,675; total insurance involved, $181,850, total insurance collected, $56,545.25; total value property involved, real estate, $169,900, personal, $83,070.70.

The report states further that all firemen except two are now exempt, and the two will go out January 4th, next. It is recommended that the department be re-organized, and that a call system be adopted, appointing eight men to each company at a paid fixed sum per year. In this way the men could be compelled to do fire duty and would answer the needs of the department with one-quarter of the men as is the case now with the volunteer system. It is also recommended that five more full paid men be appointed, three for headquarters and two for the West Second street house, and that the old hook and ladder truck be placed there, also a combination chemical and hose wagon be purchased; that the gray team now used for the chemical engine be used for the combination wagon and that a heavier team be purchased for No. 1 chemical. It also recommended that four men be appointed for the new house and eight call men, and that the city purchase at a fair price Alert hose wagon, which the company now want to sell, as the company is now going out of existence.

Chief of Police George W. Grant presented his report for the Police Board for the year. It shows the number of arrests to be 423, 367 males and 56 females, 82 of which were colored, 123 were fined, 51 committed, 39 dismissed, 181 sentence suspended, 11 untried, 8 held for the Grand Jury, 10 held in bonds. The amount of fines collected is $831.37. In comparison with last year's report there is quite a difference. Last year there were 640 arrests and $1,212 00 was received from fines. The itemized bill of expenses shows that during the year it cost the city $14,533.07 to maintain its police department. The above report covers in the main the report of the City Judge, and in fact all the important items are embodied in the report of Capt. Grant.

The Board of Engineers reported that the resignations of Wallace V. Miller, Garrett Drier and J. Bremmer, of Engine Co., No. 2, had been received, and the same were accepted. The Board also reported that Frank Randolph, of Engine Co., No. 2, had been expelled for neglect of duty. The above action was confirmed by the Council.

Building Inspector Doane reported that 150 building permits were granted during the present year.

Overseer of the Poor Hansen made a report in which he stated that 23 persons had been beneficiaries during the month. The report also showed that out of the $4,000 appropriated to the poor department, the sum of $3,153 was spent.

Resolutions were offered by Mr. Andrews providing for the borrowing of the necessary amount of money to pay the interest on sewer bonds Nos. 5, 6, 7, 8; that $1,520 10 be borrowed for sewer work; that a sufficient sum be borrowed to meet notes maturing this month; that $208.34 be transferred to the poor building account.

Mr. Barrows offered a resolution which provided for the correction and revision of the sewer commissioners in a few particulars which removes about $112 from taxpayers and puts that amount on the city at large. In that change D. C. Ivins was allowed the amount he asked the Council to deduct from his assessment. After allowing these few claims the report of the commissioners was confirmed.

The report of the committee on printing and stationery showed that out of the $2,200 appropiated to that committee $1,843.10 was expended.

The police ordinance was called up on its third reading and was adopted. Messrs. Baker, Barrows, Andrews, Homan, Newman, Buckle and Runyon voted in the affirmative, while Messrs. Hetfield, Moffett and Leifke voted in the negative.

On a resolution offered by Mr. Barrows, the Corporation Counsel was requested to give his opinion as to when the term of City Clerk MacMurray expires. This action was taken as there seems to be some doubt about it.

At this time a recess of a half hour was declared so that the Clerk could write up the minutes of the meeting to allow their adoption at the present and last meeting of the present Council.

Mr. Barrows offered a motion that all unfinished business be placed in the hands of Clerk MacMurray, be to distribute it to the proper committees of the incoming Council.

Just before the adjournment a number of the Councilmen took occasion to pay a few compliments to one another just as sort of a farewell.

With the close of these kind expressions, President Baker announced that the last session of the Council of 1898 stood adjourned.

EXEMPTS, IN OLD AGE, WANT THEIR OWN HOME.

COMMITTEE TO LOOK FOR A PLACE.

Silver Hose Carriage and Trumpet Received and Accepted by Exempts From Alerts.

A meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association of interest and importance was held last night in their rooms, at which time the silver hose carriage and silver trumpet owned by Alert Hose Company was formally presented to them. The attendance was large and the enthusiasm at the meeting was unrestrained.

There was no speech made at the presentation of the hose carriage and trumpet. The papers, which had been drawn up, were passed from one association to the other, and a vote of thanks was tendered Alerts from the Exempts. Among the members of Alerts present were Foreman Roger F. Murray and C. C. Burnet, both of whom are also exempt firemen. In fact, all of Alerts are exempt now, and will be members of the association soon.

Another matter of great importance taken up was the erecting or purchasing of a house or building of some sort to be used by them as a meeting place and headquarters. The place must be centrally located, and perhaps for that reason a lot will have to be bought and a building erected, as a house to fit the requirements will be hard to find. The Exempts want room enough below to store their apparatus, now numbering the hose cart and the old hand engine, the silver trumpet, and other curiosities they have. Upstairs they will want meeting rooms, etc.

The president, Auguste Saltzman, was empowered last night to appoint a committee of five to find a lot or a house suited to their needs, and these members the president will appoint before the next meeting. Mayor Fisk will probably be named as one of the members. The association now numbers about 175 members, and it is likely that when they get ready to build or purchase they will form themselves into a stock company.

Councilman Got Booby Prize.

The Misses Adelaide and Catherine Ball, daughters of Councilman F. H. Ball, of Myrtle avenue, gave a progressive euchre party last night to about 40 friends. There were ten tables going, and the prizes were carried away by Miss Warman, who won the first lady's prize and Miss Eleanor T. VanDeventer, the second; and Fred O. Ball, who took the first gentleman's prize and Mr. Willis, the second. Councilman VanHerwerden secured the booby prize, and his sister, Miss Lida VanHerwarden, was consoled with the consolation prize.

One of the social events of the week was the dance given at the Union County Country Club Casino last evening by Miss Louise Fisk, daughter of Mayor Charles J. Fisk. Miss Fisk was assisted in receiving by her mother.

The Casino was prettily decorated in green and red, holly and evergreens forming a large part of the decorations. The National colors were also prominently displayed. The stage was arranged as a resting place for the guests. Palms were in profusion. There were 100 guests present.

Only Three Awaiting Action.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Dec. 30.—There were only three prisoners in the Union county jail waiting for the Grand Jury to pass upon their cases at the January term of court. This is the smallest number that has ever been in jail in Union county awaiting the action of the Grand Jury, and the next term will be the shortest in the history of the court. The prisoners in jail are John Dwyer, of Elizabeth, who beat his sister-in-law to death; Henry Gorman, of Elizabeth, charged with grand larceny, and Frank LaFrank, of New Providence, accused of assault and battery.

Slashing Among Italians.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Dec. 30—There was a cutting affray among the Italians at Graceland yesterday, in which Tony Fontozzi, who is one of the bootblacks at the Westfield depot, got his hand badly cut. The difficulty started over a game of Lotto. Constables Todel and Chamberlin went to Graceland to arrest the man who did the cutting, but he saw them first and got away, but not before the officers had shot at him to make him stop.

OLD NINETY-EIGHT IS ALMOST GONE.

What is Going to Happen on New Year's Day.

MONDAY A LEGAL HOLIDAY.

WATCH MEETING AT MONROE AVENUE CHURCH TONIGHT.

That Church Will Celebrate Its Second Anniversary Tomorrow — "At Homes" at Y. M. C. A. and Hope Chapel Monday—Dance at the Sangerbund—Batchelors vs Benedicts Tonight.

With stooping shoulders and tottering form, the hoary headed old man is slowly climbing toward the end of it all. Poor old "Ninety-eight," he only has a few hours more to live, then his lively young successor will rise up and the days of '98 will exist only in the memories and in the records of the past. The last days of the old fellow have been quite lively, however, for an old chap as he. In Plainfield, there has been such a round of pleasure and excitement during the last week that the city could barely recognize itself. There have been a host of strangers in town. Then, too, the college boys and girls are home for the holidays. Besides those, a few homes have been in general rejoicing over the safe return of sons and brothers from service in Uncle Sam's army.

Monday marks the end of the holiday season that has reigned for the past week. Tomorrow, Sunday, is really the first day of the new year, but legally Monday will be observed as New Year's day. All the public celebrations will consequently be held on that day.

It's New Year's Eve now and will be observed as such. There will be many little social gatherings this evening when the young folks will watch the old year out and the new year in amid fun and festivity.

Of late there has been an increase in the popularity of the old-fashioned watch meeting. This year, however, services of that nature will be held this evening in the Monroe Avenue M. E. church and the Friends' meeting-house only.

The members of the Park Club and their families will see the old year out and witness the second of the bowling matches between the Bachelors and Benedicts of the club.

Sunday will mark the completion of the second year of the career of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church. Services will be held in the church morning, afternoon and evening. An elaborate programme has been prepared for the services.

Nothing particularly startling has been scheduled for Monday, the legal New Year's Day. The building of the local Y. M. C. A. will be "at home" to its friends and owners during the afternoon. So will Hope chapel, where the New Year reception has become a permanent feature. In the evening, the Gesang and Turnverein will hold a dance in its hall. An entertainment will be held at Y. M. C. A. Hall, one of the Star Course.

The Bennett & Moulton Comedy Company will open a week's stay at Music Hall Monday evening. There will be no matinee Monday.

TOM CUMING AS SANTA.

Sang His Way Into View of the Members of Loyal Temperance Legion.

Last evening in the W. C. T. U. rooms on East Front street the members of the Loyal Temperance Legion celebrated their annual Christmas entertainment. The attendance was large. Mrs. R. K. Case was in charge of the exercises, and the programme consisted of singing by the members of the legion, recitations by Miss Newman, several tableaux and a phonographic exhibition by Mr. Colgate.

Toward the last Santa Claus appeared in the person of Thomas Cuming, and as he approached the scene of the festivities he sang an appropriate song. The members of the legion were remembered in a substantial manner, and after the entertainment everyone went away feeling as though a profitable evening had been spent.

Star Course Entertainment.

If you want to spend a thoroughly enjoyable evening go to the Y. M. C. A. Hall next Monday evening and take in the Star Course entertainment. It will be one of the finest ever given and no one will regret the time and money it costs to be present.

Mr. White Starts on a Long Trip.

Edward White, of Myrtle avenue, the well-known merchant, left this morning for Pasedena, Cal., to be absent six weeks. The store will be left in charge of Miss Daly and Joseph Martin.

BLACKSMITH SHOP DESTROYED BY FIRE.

IT CAUGHT FROM THE STOVE.

Long Run For the Fire Department—The Losses Were About $150—No Insurance.

The blacksmith shop of McCready & Wenzer, corner of Clinton avenue and South Second street, caught fire last evening shortly after 6 o'clock and was almost destroyed.

The fire apparently started from the stove, although the proprietors were quite certain that there was no fire in it when they departed. Ex-Policeman Hartpence, who lives close by, saw the flames issuing from the window and sent in an alarm from Box 49 at 6:26 o'clock. The apparatus of the fire department responded promptly although they had a long run.

The blacksmith shop was a one-story frame structure, with no cellar. The walls consisted of one thickness of boards. The interior was all charred and the rear end of the roof burned off. The department laid a line of hose 700 feet long, from the nearest hydrant on Front street.

There was considerable stock on hand, which was all ruined. The loss to the contents will amount to $50. The building itself is a wreck. The loss to it will reach $100. There was no insurance on building or contents.

TRIED TO BEAT OUT HER BRAINS WITH A HAMMER.

DESPERATE ACT OF FARMER GIRL.

Gashed Her Head so That Thirty Stitches Had to be Taken in It—In Critical Condition.

Miss Mary Benneman, aged 23 years, lies at her home about two miles from Dunellen in a very critical conndition, the result of an attempt at suicide. Thursday Miss Benneman went out to the poultry yard to crack oyster shells for the chickens.

She had a large claw hammer, and when she was out of sight from the house she began to beat her head with the hammer. She inflicted several large and serious wounds in her head. When found sometime later she was in an unconscious condition. Dr. Brakeley, of Dunellen, was called and he was obliged to take thirty stitches in the lacerations.

The doctor is afaid that Miss Benneman will not recover. The young woman's actions are attributed to a temporary fit of insanity. A few years ago she had a smiliar attack.

LITTLE FOLKS TOOK PART.

Christmas Exercises Held at the Christian Church Last Night.

The annual Christmas entertainment was held last evening at the Christian church on Grove street. There was a large crowd present, and the children of the Sunday-school were treated by Santa Claus, impersonated by John Staats. The programme consisted of recitations by Lillian Scribner, Harry Smith, John Baldwin, Nettie Thompson, Henry Staats, Emley Victor, Mabel Scribner.

There was a pleasing song entitled "Santa Claus," by little girls, a drill by ten children from the school, a vocal duet "Flower Land," by Mr. and Mrs. McKane, and a tableau entitled "Harvest Gleaners," by members of the school. Santa Claus made his appearance at the close of the entertainment and distributed gifts to all present. The exercises were in charge of Rev. W. H. McKane, pastor of the church, assisted by Superintendent John Staats, of the Sunday-school.

Dance at a School.

The holiday dance at the Miss Scribner and Green school was held last evening at the school building on La-Grande avenue. It was arranged by a committee of young women who attend the school. The rooms were prettily decorated in holly, evergreens and red bunting, red and green being the prevailing colors. There were some forty couples who took part. The chaperones were Mrs. Lapsley and Mrs. Howard Fleming.

Postponed Again.

The case in tort of the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company against Fred Hand, which was to have been tried in Justice Moffett's court yesterday, was again adjourned until January 6th. The case was tried two weeks ago, but the jury couldn't agree, so a new trial will have to be held.

Pastor Will Keep Warm Now.

Rev. Scott Wallace, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, was presented last evening with an overcoat and a sum of money by some of the sisters of his congregation. The pastor was very thankful for the gifts.

Christmas Music to be Repeated.

The music rendered by the choir at the special Christmas service Sunday last at the First Baptist church will be repeated at the church tomorrow evening.

WHERE SANTA WAS GOOD

CHRISTMAS TREE AT CHILDREN'S HOME YESTERDAY.

Each of the Twenty-five Little Tots Were Well Remembered With Presents—Many Visitors Were There to See It.

Santa Claus in all his glory certainly stopped at the Children's Home this year, for everyone of the twenty-five little tots now residing there were well remembered yesterday afternoon when the annual Christmas entertainment was held. The present number at the Home is the largest in its history and it means much work to look after them. The tree was lighted yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and at the same time the children marched into the room as they sang a familiar carol. Some of the little ones had never seen a Christmas tree before and their faces brightened with joy as they beheld the brilliantly lighted tree laden with lots of good things for them.

The gifts, both useful and ornamental, were distributed to the children by Mrs. Kimball and her assistants, Miss Ella Serrell, Miss Margaret Serrell, Miss VanBoskerck and the matron, Mrs. Hendrickson.

The home has been remembered very kindly in a substantial manner this year, and those in charge desire to express their appreciation for what has been done. They also hope for a continuance of support from Plainfield people. It was through the goodness of the people of the city that the children were given such a good time yesterday.

Two former residents of the home were present yesterday and enjoyed the festivities and received words of encouragement from the managers. The exercises came to an end about 5 o'clock, when the children were served with a bountiful supper. During the afternoon there were about sixty guests present at the home, and they enjoyed the celebration quite as well as the children.

PYTHIANS WHO WILL RULE.

Annual Election of Officers of Perseverance Lodge.

A regular meeting of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, was held last evening, when the annual election of officers was held. It resulted as follows: Chancellor commander, Robert Kenney; vice-chancellor, David Bowden; prelate, Robert L. Lee; master-at-arms, George Hartfelder; master-of-exchequer, Joseph C. Blimm; master-of-finance, J. B. Higgins; keeper of records and seals, Charles McGinley; master-of-work, Donald McInness; inner guard, Alfred Jackson; outer guard, Peter Stram; representative to Grand Lodge, Capt. J. E. Flannery; alternate, Charles McGinley; trustee, for three years, J. J. Crouse.

SUFFERING WITH LOCKJAW.

Otto Hensen Run a Nail Into His Foot With Bad Results.

Otto Hansen, a young son of Contractor Hansen, of Grove street, is a sufferer from lockjaw, the result of running a nail in his foot sometime ago. At first no ill-effects were experienced, but recently symptons of the disease developed, and yesterday Dr. Buchanan was called to treat the young man. While at present his condition is not considered critical, he suffers greatly. There seems to be hopes that the young man will recover.

Knights Templar Service.

The members of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will assemble in their Asylum tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock for the purpose of attending the funeral services of the late John Brooks. The full Templar service will be used. This is the first time the Commandery has been called upon to perform a similar rite. A male quartette from Somerville will assist at the services.

Expert Opinion.

Insanity experts have given abundant testimony to the conclusion that a large percentage of the cases that have come under their observation are resultant from defects of sight. These are of such slow and insidious growth that only a timely examination of the eyes will prevent their dangerous development. Such examinations are free to you at Collier's.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Ella Milligan, daughter of Mrs. Esther Milligan, of 419 West Fourth street, to Hubert N. Holder, of 91 Westervelt avenue. The marriage will take place next month.

Library Hours.

Monday, January 2d, being a legal holiday, there will be no circulation of books at the Free Public Library. The reading room will be open from 2 until 6 o'clock p. m., and the art gallery from 2 until 4 o'clock p. m. January magazines on the tables.

DRUNK QUART OF RUM, DID IT CAUSE DEATH?

That is What a Coroner's Inquest is Trying to Find Out.

JURY IS UNABLE TO AGREE.

JOHN KEENAN'S DEMISE MAKES A LOT OF TROUBLE.

Prosecutor English Was on Hand to Ask Questions and Try to Bring Out Who Was Responsible for the Drinking—Bartender McGillvery Says That He Did See the Liquor Drunk.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Dec. 31—The inquest into the death of John Keenan, who drank a quart of whiskey said to contain kerosine, at the Park Hotel in this place on the morning of December 7th, and died on the afternoon of the same day, was resumed at the town rooms on North avenue yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

After the names of the jurors had been called by Coroner MacConnell, Dr. Herbert B. Baldwin, the chemist, of Newark, was sworn. Dr. Baldwin certified that he had performed a medical analysis of Keenan's stomach and testified that there were no signs of a mineral poisoning. In reply to a question from Prosecutor English, Dr. Baldwin said that Keenan might have died from the effects of acute alcholism. If poison of a mineral nature had been in the stomach the chemical analysis would have shown it.

The next witness was a most important one, Hughey McGillvery, the bartender, who was on duty at the hotel when Keenan drank the whiskey. McGillvery was ill, and the jury, in order to get his testimony, went from the township rooms to the parlors of the hotel, where the witness, seated in a large arm chair in the midst of blankets, gave his testimony. McGillvery did not see Keenan drink the whiskey, and when asked by the Prosecutor why he did not make an effort to get medical attendance for Keenan at the time he left the hotel after drinking the whiskey, replied that he did not think it necesary as he did not realize his condition.

He informed Charles B. Burtis about Keenan one hour after the whiskey had been drunk.

The jury then went back to the Town rooms. They were in session behind lock and key from 3:30 o'clock yesterday till 6 o'clock this morning. Then they were unable to agree and the Coroner discharged them.

VICTIM OF SWINDLER.

ROBERT LEWIS' BARGAIN WAS A COSTLY ONE.

Paid $10 to a Book Agent Who Had No Authority to Act and Who Kept All But $2 of It—Lewis Wants Revenge.

Robert Lewis, of this city, appeared before Justice Mosher yesterday morning to make a complaint against the Universal Publishing Company, who, Lewis claimed, has swindled him. Lewis says that last June an agent, who claimed that he represented this company, came to him and secured an order from him for a set of historical books. There were to be ten volumes, and they were to cost $20 for the set, $2 to be paid on the delivery of each volumne.

The books were not all ready for distribution then, said the agent, but would come out at regular intervals. The agent, before he went away, offered Lewis a bargain which he accepted, and now mourns his loss as a consequence.

The offer was that if Lewis would pay $10 down upon the delivery of the first book he would receive the whole set as fast as they came out, for half price. Lewis agreed to these terms and in June last received the first volume and paid his $10. He was told that volume number two would follow in less than a month, but he has been waiting ever since for it. Lewis said that he had written to the firm of publishers and showed the Justice his answer, which stated that the company had no agents, that the works Lewis had received had been on the market for years, and that the so-called agent was no more than a swindler, who had made about $8 clear profit out of the deal. Upon this Justice Mosher refused to take any action except against the agent, whose name Lewis did not know.

KEPT HORSE TILL HE SETTLED.

A Dunellen Liveryman Sues a Blacksmith for Damages As a Result.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Dec. 21.—Mr. Williams, who runs a livery stable here, has brought suit before Justice Warden against Paxson VanArsdale, the blacksmith, for damages for retaining possession of a horse which he refused to give up until he was paid for the shoeing.

A few days ago Williams took his horse to VanArsdale's to have him shod, leaving orders to have the work done immediately as he needed to use the animal. The horse was not shod in time, so Williams grew angry and refused to pay for the work. Thereupon VanArsdale refused to deliver the horse until he got paid, and Williams had to put down the money before he could get his horse. He thereupon brought the suit which will be tried next week.

GRAND JURY'S LABOR LIGHTENED.

Frivolous Complaints Made by Union County Justices Sent Back.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Dec. 31.—The Union County Grand Jury at the October term severely denounced justices of the peace for the taking of frivolous complaints and sending the same to the Grand Jury. The October Grand Jury threw out 125 of these complaints as being unworthy of notice. The jury also intended bringing in a presentment against the offending justices, but it was decided to simply instruct the Prosecutor te send back to any justice complaints taken of a frivolous character.

This order Prosecutor English has rigidly complied with, and hence it is that there are so few matters to be passed upon by the January Grand Jury. The term of court in consequence will be remarkably short, and a large saving in time and money will be thereby effected for the taxpayers of Union county.

Christmas at Warren Chapel

The Christmas entertainment at Warren chapel was held Thursday afternoon for the children, and in the evening for the grown up folks. Both programmes were alike, being moving pictures. The little ones in the afternoon received gifts of candy and fruit, and in the evening ice cream and cake were served to the others. The Berean class, of which the pastor of the chapel is teacher, presented him with a camera outfit, and the Ladies' Bible class gave Robert Clark, their teacher, with a gold pen.

MYSTERIOUS PATIENT IDENTIFIED AT LAST.

HE WAS HURT ON THE RAILROAD.

Raritan Overseer of Poor Says That He is Thomas Flynn—Probably Befuddled by Whiskey.

At last information has reached the hospital concerning the man who was found last Tuesday morning at Vanderveer's cut, just south of Raritan, on the Central Railroad. Yesterday afternoon Overseer of the Poor Michael Corcaran, of Raritan, came to this city and gave the facts as far as he knows them. He states that the man is Thomas Flynn, aged about thirty-five years, and that he was employed as a farmhand for Jacob Drake at Flagtown.

Last Monday evening Flynn went to Somerville and attended a masquerade ball, and while there he imbibed pretty freely. It was early in the morning when he started for home. Instead of his going by the South Branch Railroad, he walked along the Jersey Central. On the way he met the trackwalker, who accompanied him for a short distance. That was the last seen of him until he was found along the tracks in an unconscious condition. He was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital. There does not seem to be any doubt but what Flynn was struck by the early morning mail train on the Central Railroad. His condition today does not seem to be any worse, and the nurse in charge are inclined to think that he realizes in a measure what is said to him, although he is apparently unable to make any answer.

EVENING WHILED AWAY BY MERRY DANCERS.

HOLIDAY EVENT AT THE PARK CLUB.

Patronesses Included Several of Leading Society Women Who Reside in the Borough.

The regular holiday dance was given last evening at the Park Club under the direction of the house committee, Elston M. French, Edward T. Wilson, H. D. Hibbard and the following patronesses: Mrs. James T. Scott, Mrs. Joseph Howell, Mrs. George T. Rogers, Mrs. George P. Dupee and Mrs. Samuel Townsend.

The affair was very largely attended and was in every way a complete success. Music was furnished by Eisler. It was rather late when the guests arrived, but they remained late and thoroughly enjoyed the hospitality of those in charge.

Among those present were many whose faces have not been seen at the club for some time, and the committee in charge feel as though there is an increased interest being manifested. President B. A. Hegeman, Jr., was present and he added not a little to the pleasure of the guests by his affable manner.

ALLEGED ASSAILANTS GO FREE.

Judge Bartine Discharges East Millstone Young Men.

(Special to the Daily Press.)

Somerville, December 31—Thomas Wright, Thomas Shine and Jerry Washington, who were convicted in the Somerset Court of assaulting and robbing Watchman Henry Jones, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, last September, were discharged from the Somerset County Jail Thursday. Judge Bartine recently granted an application for a new trial for the convicted men on the affidavit of Jerry Washington, the State's witness, that his testimony, which convicted the men, was false. The case was nolle prossed. The watchman, Henry Jones, died a short time before the trial. The action of Washington in confessing himself a perjurer left the State without a witness.

Bethel Chapel's Good Time.

VOORHEES TO GO IN WITH PLAIN CEREMONY

No Spectacular Display at His Inauguration.

ELECTING A NEW SENATOR.

PROCEEDINGS FOR CHOICE OF REPUBLICAN TO SUCCEED SMITH.

Not the Slightest Intimation Has Been Given as to the Lines of Policy the New Governor Will Indicate in His Inaugural Address—Next Month Will be Interesting in Legislative and Public Circles.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Dec. 31—There are no signs of a spectacular display at the coming inauguration of Governor Voorhees. The Legislature which is to meet next week will, of course, appoint a committee to arrange the ceremony, but the movement and bustle usually noticeable at inauguration time among outside organizations are not visible anywhere.

Some organizations have indicated a desire to take part in a street parade, but there has been no attempt at organization, and those that go to Trenton will probably act indepently for want of time to form them in military processional lines.

His preference has been for as simple an installation as the conditions will permit. The oath will be administered by his old preceptor, Chief Justice William J. Magie, and probably in the Opera House. The transfer of the great seal of state will be made by Acting Governor Watkins, and at the close of the exercises there will be a handshaking in the newly-decorated reception room at the Capitol. A recess will be taken for dinner at 5 o'clock, and at 8 the doors will be flung open again to the throng of hand-grasping visitors.

Not the smallest intimation has been given as to the lines of policy the new Governor will indicate in his inaugural address. He has already served the State as Governor for several months, however, and the people know just what they may expect from him within the next three years. It is not impossible that he may recommend the allowance of State pay to the soldier boys summoned to the front, who did not get there during the recent hostilities with Spain; and he may urge some changes in the administration of the State's reformatories and charities that will bring the Commonwealth abreast in that direction with her more enlightened and progressive sister States.

It is only known that he has decided not to surround himself with the staff of tinsled colonels and majors that have given color to the outing of his predecessors from Abbett's time. The National Guardsmen, who have looked with no favor upon these untrained civilian soldiers, will like the new Governor the better for this determination of his.

The next month will be an interesting one in legislative and public circles. The Legislature is to assemble for the session January 10th. The new Governor will be inaugurated the following week, and John Kean will be elected to succeed James Smith, Jr., in the United States Senate the week after that. The House organization has been practically arranged. The Senate organization caucus will be held on the night before the opening of the session. Johnson, of Bergen, or Reed, of Somerset, will be named for president. A week ago Reed seemed to have the right of way, but Johnson has made a new display of strength that throws a shade of doubt over the result of the rivalry. The chances are, however, still with Reed.

The Republicans of the two houses are yet to meet in joint caucus to name Mr. Kean. It was expected that the Assembly Republicans would take some action at their recent caucus toward putting him formally afield. But Mr. Kean's managers advised him not to try it. They were afraid it might hurt; they believed, too, that he has so sure a thing of the nomination and the office that there was no necessity of forcing the situation.

The houses will vote separately for the new Senator Tuesday, the 24th prox. The Senate and House both being Republican, Mr. Kean will be elected in each branch. On the following day the two houses will assemble in joint session to compare journals. As the comparison will show a concurrence on Kean, the president of the Senate, sitting as chairman of the joint meeting, will have only to declare Mr. Kean elected to succeed Senator Smith, and the ceremony will be at an end.

It is assumed that Senator Smith will be the choice of the Democratic minority of the two chambers.

LET US ARM YOU!

It's quite necessary, because while Uncle Sam is settling scores with the Spaniards you're bound to have a little brush at home at the same time, and there's nothing like being ready for emergencies. Until you can sign a perpetual truce with sun, wind and storm, your house and other buildings will need to be fortified with paint, and ours are like a 20-inch chilled steel armor.

The Power of Example.

A man, who had long been an attendant at a Glasgow church without making any profession of religion, presented himself one Sunday for membership, says the Boston Golden Rule. He was asked by the examining committee if any special sermon by the pastor had influenced him to take the step, and he replied, "No."

He was asked if any member of the church had been talking with him on the subject, and he said, "No."

On being urged to give the reason, he said: "There is a man who has worked beside me in the shop for several years, who I knew bore the name of Christian. I have watched this man, and his patient, faithful daily work, and consistent walk, though he has said no word to me in regard to religion, have made me a believer in its reality, and have led me to the Saviour whom he owns as his Master; and have also led me to a desire to be numbered with the people of God."

Unjustly Accused.

Lord Eldon, so the story goes, had occasion to discharge a coachman whom he suspected of purloining his corn.

In a few days after he received a letter from a merchant inquiring into the man's character, and his lordship's reply was that he was sober and a good coachman, but he entertained suspicions that he had cheated him.

The man came next morning to return thanks to his lordship for procuring him so excellent a place.

"My master," he said, "was content to find I was sober and a good coachman, but as to cheating your lordship, he thought the devil himself could not do it."

Solved.

Biggs—Well, the theater hat problem is solved at last.

Boggs—Is that so? I haven't heard of it.

Biggs—Yes, the managers have agreed to put up signs in the lobbies of all theaters requesting all ladies under thirty years of age to remove their hats during the performance.—New York World.

The Perversity of Moods.

"Don't you feel more like working at some times than at others?" inquired the young woman.

"Yes," he replied; "I do. When I am riding in a railway car, where I can't possibly find a pen, pencil or paper or anybody to talk business to, I get to feeling so industrious that it makes me nervous."—Washington Star.

Foresight.

A prudent man had his portrait painted recently. His friends complained to him that it was much too old. "That's what I ordered," said he. "It will save the expenses of another one ten years from now."

NO EVACUATION JUBILEE

Proposed Celebration at Havana Postponed.

THE CITY IS NOW ORDERLY

Action of the Patriotic Committee Following the Disapproval of the Programme by Gens. Brooke and Ludlow. Advice of the Latter.

Havana, Dec. 31.—The Cuban patriotic committee, consisting of 150 leading Cubans, lawyers, doctors and business men, at a meeting which lasted until four o'clock yesterday morning, decided to yield without reservation to the wishes of General Brooke and General Ludlow in the matter of postponing the proposed six days' celebration of the formal surrender of Havana by the Spaniards, and has approved a manifesto to the Cuban population of Havana on the lines of General Ludlow's communication on the subject of the proposed celebrations, quoting some portions of his letter and paraphrasing others.

The Cuban citizens in Havana and the Cuban soldiers outside the city are intensely excited, but the patriotic committee and the military chiefs of the Cubans think that they can quiet this feeling and prevent violent incidents.

MAJ. GEN. WILLIAM LUDLOW.

Following is the text of General Ludlow's reply, referred to above, made to the Cuban deputation which visited him Thursday and presented him with a written programme of the six days' festivities:

Messrs. Mora, Nunez, and others, representing the patriotic committee of Havana:

Gentlemen: I have given careful consideration to the matter of the proposed celebration by Cuban citizens of Havana, during next week, on the exchange of national flags that will take place on January 1, and as I promised you, I have taken the occasion also to ascertain the views of Major General Brooke, commanding the division of Cuba, upon the subject. I regret to inform you that a celebration of this character must, at this time, be deemed inexpedient and cannot for the present be authorized, for the following reasons:

(1) Havana has for a long time suffered from strife and contention, and it is the supreme duty of all at this critical period to suppress disorder and preserve public peace. All other considerations for the moment should give way to this.

(2) At the present time the only effective means of maintaining order is the presence of United States troops in the city, since the local police in several districts have disappeared with the departure of the Spanish soldiers.

(3) It is in the interests, both of citizens generally and particularly of the more distinctively Cuban citizens themselves, that the occasion be one of peace and order, and of quiet rejoicing only, and that everyone should be controlled by a patriotic desire to do what is best for the community.

(4) The American authorities sympathize fully with the Cuban feeling of rejoicing, and at a proper time hereafter, when affairs are in a more settled condition, they will be glad to further and participate in the plans of the celebration; but they are convinced that this is not a suitable or expedient time for it.

Senor Frederico Mora said yesterday: "We are sorry we cannot execute our programme, but we agree with General Ludlow's desire. He will have difficulty in keeping the low people down, and restraining the young men in the army; but we are sure that only detached acts of disturbance will occur. Nothing will be done in combination against the American wishes. Now is Cuba's opportunity. If we go wrong now we shall never attain independence, never reach national life, and the Americans would never leave Cuba."

This morning the city and suburbs of Havana were very quiet and last night there was not one instance of disorder. The United States patrols and officers were on the alert, penetrating into every corner of the town.

Will Wave Over Morro Castle.

Camden, N. J., Dec. 31.—The authorities in Merchantville have been notified by the secretary of war that the large American flag presented to the federal government at the beginning of hostilities with Spain will be raised over Morro Castle, Havana, on Sunday at noon.

This flag formerly belonged to the late United States Senator Alexander Cattell. When he died it was purchased by New Jersey veterans and presented to the war department with the understanding that it was to be used over Morrro Castle.

Appropriate exercises in Camden at noon on Sunday will mark the event.

Killed in the New Hebrides.

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 31.—The Royal Mail Steamship Warimoo has arrived here from Honolulu and Australia.

She brought the crew of the City of Columbia, which ran from Seattle to Hilo; also news that a lieutenant and thirteen men of the French warship Eure had been killed in the New Hebrides by natives.

A common expression is: "The human race is growing weaker and wiser." That we are growing weaker is proved by the large number of pale, thin and emaciated people.

That we are growing wiser may be proved by overcoming these disorders with the timely use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites which gives strength, enriches the blood, invigorates the nerves and forms fat.

HONORS TO BARON CURZON.

The New Viceroy of India Receives a Royal Welcome in Bombay.

Bombay, Dec. 31.—Baron Curzon of Kedleston, the new viceroy of India, who arrived here Thursday from England, with Lady Curzon and their children, landed yesterday. The warships in port fired a royal salute.

The city was decorated with flags, and Lord Curzon was received by the heads of the military, naval, ecclesiastical, legal and civil departments.

An address of welcome was presented to the new viceroy by the corporation of Bombay. It was inclosed in a silver casket of Indian workmanship, and expressed the intense gratification experienced by all classes at his appointment.

Lord Curzon expressed thanks for the gracious welcome extended to him and to his wife, who, he added, came to India with sympathies as warm as his own, and who looked forward with earnest delight to a life of happy labor in their midst.

At the conclusion of the reception Lord and Lady Curzon were driven in an open landau to the government house, escorted by the Bombay light horse.

Immense crowds of people had assembled in the native quarter. They were demonstrative, and evidently keenly interested.

Lord Sandhurst, the governor of Bombay, and Lady Sandhurst, received Lord and Lady Curzon on the steps of the government house.

The new viceroy and Lady Curzon will start for Calcutta this evening.

WAR DEPARTMENT CHANGES.

Merritt Ordered to Governor's Island and Gen. Shafter to California.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—Several important assignments were announced at the war department yesterday. Major General Wesley Merritt has been relieved from the command of the Pacific, and from further duty pertaining to the Philippine islands, and will proceed to New York city and resume command of the department of the east.

Major General William R. Shafter has been relieved from the command of the department of the east and assigned to the command of the department of California, to relieve Major General Henry C. Merriam.

General Shafter will proceed at once to San Francisco and enter upon his duties.

New Porto Rican Tariff.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—The treasury department will probably decide to postpone the promulgation of the new Porto Rican tariff until February 1.

Numerous letters and telegrams are being received daily at the department from New York manufacturers and shippers inquiring as to the plans for putting the new tariff schedule into operation.

Many of these firms are embarrassed in their plans on account of uncertainty regarding the date on which the regulations will take effect.

In justice to shippers who have goods afloat, and for other reasons, it has been thought best to give ample notice of the time when the Porto Rican tariff will be put into practice.

Forming a Paper Trust.

Providence, R. I., Dec. 31.—Dean & Shibley, brokers and bankers, have taken charge of the arrangements to consolidate the paper manufacturers of this country.

The deal will involve about $40,000,000 and will include the mills making fine writing paper, bond paper, wrapping, ledger, envelope and news paper. There are forty-seven important mills in the United States, thirty-five being in New England within a radius of seventy miles. These mills have been making an average of 350 tons of paper a day, which is said to be from thirty to forty tons over production.

Railway Incorporated.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 31.—The Jamestown and Chautauqua Railway Company, with its principal office in the city of Jamestown, has been incorporated with the secretary of state with a capital of $475,000, of which $125,000 is preferred and $350,000 common stock. The road is a reorganization of the Jamestown and Lake Erie Railway Company, which was sold under foreclosure on the first of last November.

The company will operate the former Jamestown and Lake Erie company's steam line.

Liners Met Fierce Gales.

Officers of the Lucania and the Germanic, which arrived from New York yesterday, describe the storm which they passed through as the fiercest gale they have encountered for some years.

The vessels' decks were swept by the tremendous waves, and a great deal of water found its way into the saloons of both ships.

OLD GLORY OVER CUBA

The United States Takes Formal Possession To-morrow.

THE TRANSFER CEREMONY

To Morrow Marks the End of the Spanish Rule in Cuba. Gens. Brooke, Lee and Ludlow Will Now Manage Affairs, Gen. Castellanos Will Surrender the Island to the American Commissioners.

Havana, Dec. 31.—To-morrow will see the American flag floating over Havana, for when it is unfurled it will mean the end of Spanish rule in the West Indias.

From this date on Cuba will be under American protection and for a time at least under the absolute rule of the United States.

The officer who will formally give up the island to General Brooke is General Castellanos, who succeeded General Blanco some weeks ago. Those who will represent the United States government are Major General John R. Brooke, military commander of the island, Major General Fitzhugh Lee, governor of the province of Havana, and Major General William Ludlow, military governor of the city of Havana.

General Brooke, the new commander, was appointed from Pennsylvania and retires July 21, 1902. He was made captain of the Fourth Pennsylvania Infantry on April 20, 1861, being honorably mustered out July 26, 1861. He was made colonel of the Forty-third Pennsylvania November 7, 1861, and served through the war.

On May 12, 1864, he was made brigadier general for specific distinguished service. He was brevetted major general of volunteers August 1, 1864, for gallant and meritorious services in the battle of Tolopotomy and Cold Harbor.

He has had these commissions in the regular army: Lieutenant colonel of the Thirty-seventh infantry, July 28, 1866; transferred to Third infantry, on March 15, 1869; colonel of Thirteenth infantry, March 20, 1870; transferred to Third infantry, June 14, 1870; brigadier general, April 6, 1888; brevetted colonel, March 2, 1867, for gallant and meritorious services at the battle of Gettysburg, and brigadier general March 2, 1867, for gallant and meritorious services at the battle of Spottsylvania Court House.

MAJ. GEN. JOHN R. BROOKE.

General Brooke has had an exceptionally varied experience as commander of posts, which, it is believed, will add to his natural qualifications to fill the position he is just about to assume in Cuba.

How the Transfer Will be Made.

The transfer of authority from Spain to the United States will take place promptly at noon to-morrow. Just before twelve o'clock the American war vessels will fire a salute of twenty-one guns in honor of the Spanish flag.

Promptly at twelve o'clock the Spanish flags on the various public buildings will be lowered and immediately thereafter the Stars and Stripes will be hoisted over El Morro and the public buildings of the city, while the Spanish artillerists at Cabanas fortress will salute the American flag with twenty-one guns, the Spanish warships in the harbor participating in the salutes.

At the same hour the Spanish troops, if any then remain in the city, will be paraded in barracks and will render proper salutes to the American forces in passing.

Just before noon the United States and Spanish military commissioners, General Jimenez Castellanos, the Spanish captain general, and Major General John R. Brooke, who will then be the ranking American officer in Cuba, will assemble at the palace.

The Spanish commissioners will then formally surrender the government to the United States commissioners, who will immediately transfer it to the American general commanding.

GOMPERS AFTER JOHNSON.

He is Determined to Have the Scalp of the Engraving Bureau Director.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, is determined to secure the scalp of Director Claude Johnson of the bureau of engraving and printing.

The movement to oust him from office, President Gompers says, will be prosecuted both in Congress and the treasury department, and, if necessary the president himself will be appealed to.

"Johnson is one of the holdover gold Democrats," said Mr. Gompers, "and has defied the present Congress in the most insolent manner possible by deliberately placing machine presses in the bureau contrary to the explicit orders of Congress.

"He takes upon himself all the power, and when importuned to pay union wages and employ union help in his department, says:

"'Why, I can get any number of girls to do the work at three dollars a week.'

"For years the smaller denominations of our money have been deteriorating. The one, two and five dollar bills have been getting poorer and poorer. These are the bills the common people get. But the hundred, five hundred and thousand dollar bills, that the rich only handle, are put up with all the skill and art that science can command.

"The smaller bills are the ones in common use, the ones most often counterfeited, and should be surrounded with all possible safeguards. Johnson thinks that he is intrenched in the treasury department, and is doing his utmost to drag Secretary Gage and his other superiors into the controversy, to make them stand between him and the consequences of his acts.

"Let these superiors beware lest they receive the punishment that he deserves, and that he will surely receive."

Starts for the Capital.

New York, Dec. 31.—Colonel Roosevelt left this city for Albany on the one o'clock train over the New York Central Railroad yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied by his entire family and was met at the Grand Central station by Congressman Sereno Payne, with whom he said he would discuss political affairs on his way to the capital.

A big crowd had gathered in and about the waiting room to see the incoming governor off.

Colonel Roosevelt eluded it at first by entering the station through a side door. He soon had to go to the waiting room entrance to meet his family, which had driven to the station in a carriage, and when he appeared many rushed forward, eager to grasp his hand.

When he passed through the gate to the train the gathered crowd wished him good luck.

Palestine and the Jews.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—The department of state has received from the United States minister at Constantinople information that the minister of foreign affairs, of Turkey, had informed him that the Turkish government had no intention of preventing American citizens, whether Jews or Christians, coming as individuals, and not en masse, from visiting Syria or Palestine as travelers or visitors, the only object of that government being to prevent further colonization of Palestine by Jews, as the settlement there of religious bodies in preponderating numbers might lead to political complications, which it is the purpose of the Ottoman empire to avoid.

The foregoing official announcement appears to have a direct bearing on the Zionist movement for the establishment of a Jewish nation in Palestine.

Two-Cent Postage for Canada.

Ottawa, Dec. 31.—The government's New Year present to the people of Canada is the announcement of a two-cent letter rate.

The announcement was made yesterday and will be officially gazetted to-day.

At the last session of the Dominion Parliament the government was authorized to take this step when it saw fit to do so.

Letters may now be sent to any part of Canada and the United States for two cents, as well as to all parts of the empire outside of Australia, New Zealand and the South African republic.

These colonies have not fallen in with the imperial penny postage which came into force on Christmas day.

Sailor Robbed of $210.

Kankakee, Ill., Dec. 31.—John Walsh, ex-gunner's mate of the Baltimore, and a resident of Chicago, was robbed of $210 on an Illinois Central train between this city and Effingham Thursday night.

He received his discharge in New York on December 7, and was on his way home.

The money was abstracted from his overcoat, which was thrown over the back of his seat while the sailor was asleep.

Walsh was in the battle of Manila bay and was wounded during the attack on Manila on August 13.

West Point Cadets Ill.

West Point, Dec. 31.—La grippe has invaded the Military Academy and is playing havoc among Uncle Sam's boys in gray.

The cadet hospital, which is a large, commodious building, is crowded to its full capacity with future generals, whose coughing and sneezing is pitiful to hear.

The surgeons and the hospital corps are having their hands full, but have no fear of any fatal results. There are now 31 cases in the hospital, and they are still coming in.

SENOR ROMERO DEAD

The Mexican Ambassador Passed Away in Washington.

HIS CAREER AN ACTIVE ONE

He Always Sought to Strengthen the Ties Between His Country and the United States, Was One of the Most Eminent Statesmen of Mexico.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—Senor Don Matias Romero, the Mexican ambassador to the United States, died at the embassy here at 4.10 o'clock yesterday morning.

On Wednesday an operation for appendicitis was performed upon the ambassador, and the shock proved to be greater than he could bear. A high fever setin and he sank rapidly until his death.

About his bedside were his sister, Mrs. Garcia, and his aunt, the secretaries and other attaches of the embassy, his physicians and ex-Secretary and Mrs. John W. Foster.

The death of Mrs. Romero, which occurred some months ago, was a great shock to the ambassador, and on his return from Mexico, whither he had taken her remains for interment, his friends remarked that he was greatly broken and showed unmistakable signs of failing health.

While in Mexico Mr. Romero was stricken with fever, and although he was able to return to the United States he never fully regained his health.

No arrangements have been made for the funeral, but it is said that in all probability it will take place at one o'clock Sunday afternoon at St. Matthew's Catholic church.

Senor Romero was one of the most eminent statesmen, writers and diplomats of Mexico. He was born in the city of Oaxaca, February 24, 1837. He received his first education in his native place, and finished it at the capital of that republic, where he received his diploma as a lawyer.

In 1855 he first entered the foreign office, although still pursuing his legal studies. In 1857, when President Comonfort made his coup d'etat, forcing President Juarez to leave the capital, Senor Romero accompanied him to Vera Cruz, where he continued in the service of the department of foreign relations.

In December, 1859, he came to Washington as first secretary of the Mexican legation, and remained here in that capacity until August, 1860, when, in the absence of the minister, he became charge d'affaires.

He returned to Mexico in 1863 to take part in the war against the French, and was appointed colonel by the president.

General Porfirio Diaz appointed him as chief of staff. Soon afterward President Juarez accredited him as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Washington.

He remained at this post from October, 1863, until January, 1868, having rendered most important services to his country.

On his return to Mexico he was appointed secretary of the treasury, but was obliged on account of ill health to give up that office in 1872. For three years he remained in Soconusco, devoting himself to agricultural pursuits, and from 1877 to 1878 was again secretary of the treasury.

In 1880 he served as postmaster general. In March, 1882, he came back to Washington as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary and remained in that capacity with an interruption of only ten months, until 1892, when for the third time he was called to serve as secretary of the treasury.

As representative of his country in the United States Senor Romero showed himself to be a most efficient and able diplomat.

His efforts were successful in strengthening the friendly ties between the two nations and with this object in view he had written a great deal, his productions always receiving the highest eomiums from the press of the United States and other countries.

Another Big Battleship.

San Francisco, Dec. 31.—Work on the battleship Ohio has been begun at the Union Iron works. The Ohio will be the largest ship built on the Pacific coast and one of the three largest in the American navy.

She will have a displacement of 12,500 tons, and will be twenty feet longer than the Wisconsin and forty feet longer than the Oregon.

The Ohio's contract speed is two knots faster than the Wisconsin and three knots greater than the speed of the Oregon.

Glasgow Exhibition.

Glasgow, Dec. 31.—The lord provost of Glasgow has charged three commissioners, Messrs. Crawford, Simons and Mason, to visit the United States and lay before President McKinley and his cabinet particulars regarding the Glasgow exhibition, to be held in 1901, to insure adequate American representation.

The commissioners will sail for New York on January 7, on the American line steamer St. Louis.

No News From Iloilo.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—It was stated at the war department just before the cabinet meeting yesterday that no advices from General Otis had been received, showing the condition of affairs at Iloilo.

These advices are awaited with interest, but without apparent anxiety by the officials.

Fire at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 31.—Fire broke out about 11.30 o'clock yesterday morning in the large planing mill of the John Schroeder Lumber Company, located on the North Side.

The coal yards of the Louis Hanes, Jr., Coal Company are also burning. The loss will probably be considerable.

DUN'S WEEKLY REPORT.

The Years Summary Shows a Marvelous Gain Over All Previous Records.

New York, Dec. 31.—Failures in the year 1898 have been 12,192 in number, with liabilities amounting to $148,681,251, against $182,581,771 in 1897, $276,514,975 in 1896, $192,906,270 in 1895, and $198,658,891 in 1894.

The ratio of defaults to solvent payments is only $1.89 against $2.69 last year and $4.37 in 1896.

The number of failures, 1.06 per cent. of the firms reported in business, although smaller than in any other year since 1892, is somewhat swelled by the multitude of small traders, who start without adequate capital, so that the average liabilities per failure is smaller than in any other year of the twenty-four for which full records exist.

The year 1898 has not only been one of victory, of important increase in territory, and of incalculable expansion of the influence of the United States among other nations, but has surpassed all other years in financial and industrial results.

The center of financial power has crossed the ocean. After paying debts of several hundred millions abroad, and conducting a war to an honorable end, the country is lending so many millions in Europe that for the first time banks abroad look to New York to dictate the rate of exchange.

Exports have been about 1,250 millions, and the excess over imports about 617 millions, against 357 millions in 1897 and in only two previous years has the balance risen to 300 millions.

In no past calendar year have net imports of gold reached seventy-five millions, but this year they have been about one hundred and forty millions. November passed all previous months in value of produce exports over imports, but December has gone much beyond November.

Exports of breadstuffs have been in value $283,918,294, in eleven months, and have never been as large in any other year.

Exports of wheat for the year, lacking a day or two, have been 218,594,686 bushels, flour included, slightly exceeded only by 225,665,512 in 1892, and of corn 200,979,077 bushels, only approached by 189,127,570 in the year of 1897.

The triumph in finance has been largely due to industrial progress. The output of pig iron has been about 11,645,000 tons, the greatest yet reached in any year by two million tons, and greater than Great Britain ever reached by 2,800,000 tons.

Textile industries have been retarded by high prices of wool and abnormally low prices of cotton, both deterring purchases.

In three months cotton reached 5.31 cents, the lowest price for fifty years, the greatest yield ever known being followed by receipts since September 357,000 bales larger than last year. Exports have increased, but not as greatly.

Nobody can dispute the record of payments through clearing houses, which exceed seven thousand millions for the month and 68,500 for the year, ten per cent. more than in any previous year.

The December report is by five per cent. larger than any other month, November being nearest.

Against all European influence the country is just now demanding gold, having taken 140 millions already this year. It is in a position to demand more than all other markets together are prepared to pay.

Philippine Improvements.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—General Greely, chief signal officer of the army, has made arrangements looking to the early connection by cable of the four most important islands in the Philippines, namely, Luzon, Masbate, Cebu and Leyte.

This will require nearly two hundred miles of deep sea cable.

The developments of the cable industry in the United States enable the signal office to carry out this plan without the long delay and increased expenses which would have been required had it been needful to consult foreign manufacturers for this purpose.

The machinery will weigh over seven hundred tons, and for its transportation and laying, a ship especially fitted up for cable work is necessary. It is expected that this ship will leave New York about February 1, and proceed to Manila through the Suez canal. The different cables should be laid and in working order by the end of the month of April.

The Miles-Eagan Dispute.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—The row that has been stirred up by Major General Miles, in the opinion of those who have been keeping close track of the war investigation, will undoubtedly delay the final report of the commission.

The commanding general, by his statements, backed by the testimony of others high in grade, has started afresh the controversy over the beef supply; and from remarks made by General Miles within the past twenty-four hours, his blood seems to be up, and it is also quite certain that he will ask to answer General Eagan, who, it is understood, will go on the witness stand again.

The prospects, therefore, for a long drawn out squabble are regarded as excellent.

12th New York Off for Cuba.

The Minnewaska carried General John C. Bate's headquarters staff, the Sixth Ohio regiment, 1,250 men and sixteen nurses, to Cienfuegos.

The Manitoba carried General Sanger's headquarters staff, the Twelfth New York, 1,175 men and thirty-six nurses, to Matanzas.

Imprisonment for Life.

San Francisco, Dec. 31.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Cordelia Botkin, charged with the murder of Mrs. John P. Dunning and her sister by means of poisoned candy, came in late last night with a verdict of murder in the first degree. The jury fixed the penalty at life imprisonment.

Mayor's Message.

Councilman Barrows advances the opinion that the custom, which, however, is described by law and must be so, of the incoming Mayor at the beginning of a new municipal administration communicating with the Common Council and aiming to outline a plan of action for their consideration, is not in the line of practicability that the true condition of affairs suggests.

In communicating by annual message with the Common Council the Mayor is presumed to have an intimate acquaintance with city affairs and capable of recommending action for the Common Council to take to improve the general welfare of the town. It is obvious that upon assuming office a Mayor must know but very little of the general conditions of city government.

Whatever he says in his first message must needs be of little practical use to the solons owing to the lack of firm and definite information on the part of the executive to base his sentiments on. It is thus that the first messages of Mayors are usually but perfunctory papers and of little value to the Common Council.

On the other hand, at the end of his term the Mayor has had three years of solid experience with city affairs and is without doubt more capable of recommending in a practical and sensible light than at any time during his career as the executive head of the town. He is able to dwell in detail on matters that need attention from the Council and to make his opinions and suggestions of value. It is at this time, more than any other, that he should communicate with the incoming Council to prepare and instruct them in public business.

Of course, there are times when there is a Mayor who assumes office for the purpose of making radical changes in the policy of municipal government and has peculiar and personal ideas of what should be accomplished during his administration. To deprive him of the opportunity of communicating those ideas to the Council would be wrong. In view of this it would seem proper that at the expiration of a Mayor's term both the incoming and the outgoing Mayors should send messages to the Council—the former briefly to cover any personal opinions he may have, and the latter in detail to acquaint the Councilmen with the exact condition of city affairs and his views of what should be done.

Newark papers have frequently made fun of the wild and woolly ways of the Middlesex county jail. Let it be said, however, that Newark's jail is not without its curious affairs. A woman, awaiting transfer to the State prison to serve two years, is to be wedded to the man of her choice before leaving the jail. The woman may well be expected to go to prison singing joyously "He Certainly Was Good to Me"—referring, of course, to the Warden for having permitted the tieing of the nuptial knot.

In the decision of who shall lead the Democrats in the Assembly this winter there is not likely to be any dissension, for it is agreed among the minority members that Assemblyman Benny, of Bayonne, is the most available man. The Democratic members will meet in Jersey City, Janurry 5th, to map out some line of action. What that will be is an uncertainity as yet, but it can be assumed with a degree of correctness that it will not be conducive to a settled peace of mind among their G. O. P. colleagues.

NAVAL CONSTRUCTOR CAPPS AT MANILA.

Naval Constructor Washington Lee Capps has succeeded in raising and sending to Hongkong under their own steam, for repairs, three of the Spanish vessels sunk by Dewey in Manila harbor. These vessels are the gunboats Don Juan de Austria, Isla de Cuba and Isla de Luzon. They are especially adapted for use in shallow waters.

Our news columns record the fact that Prosecutor English is carrying out the orders of the Grand Jury recently in reference to Justices of the Peace, to the letter. 'Tis well. There are many things the Legislature needs to do or to undo, and one of the matters that come under the latter definition is the Justice of the Peace system that prevails in New Jersey.

Tomorrow the American flag will float in Cuba. In many places a concerted effort is being made to have a special display of the red, white and blue simultaneously with that in Cuba. We hope that Plainfielders will not forget to show their patriotic interest in the same way. At least, the city flag should be raised at noon tomorrow.

Evidently Chief Doane's views of how the fire department of the city should be constituted do not take into view the averseness of the taxpayer to foot the bills. With a tax rate of $2.42 on the $100 we hardly think that the proposition of nothing but paid men in the department could be expected to receive a very warm reception.

During the excitement of the municipal campaign a good deal was said about how shabbily the Fourth ward fared in the matter of street improvements. A perusal of the report of the street committee, published in The Daily Press yesterday, shows that the Fourth ward fared in about the same proportion as the other wards.

The fact that the number of arrests made by the city police force this year were nearly 200 less than last shows that as Plainfield grows bigger she grows better. The experience of most other towns in this respect is the reverse.

George Gould, the youngest heir of the Gould family, has just paid $30,000 for a seat in the New York Stock Exchange. That's pretty stiff in view of the fact that most of Mr. Gould's time will be spent on the floor.

The Toronton World sounds the note of alarm, saying that Canada is in more danger of absorption by the United States than ever. Yes, there is no telling where we will end now that we have started.

The severest cold wave of the season is reported on the way from the northwest, and is due here about tomorrow.

The Daily Press will continue being the best paper in Plainfield the next year the same as the last.

The Daily Press will not be published Monday.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The folly of ignorant zeal is shown in the action of a Florida Congressman, who has introduced a bill imposing a duty of ten cents a pound on Egyptian cotton. The Egyptian cotton is worth about two and a half times as much as the American product, is imported in limited quantities for special uses, and in no way competes with our own. The only effect of such a tariff would be to enhance the cost of American manufactured underwear, without benefiting the American manufacturer one pennyworth.—Newark News.

Burglars broke into the county jail at New Brunswick Monday night and robbed the sheriff of $500. There has been too much of this sort of thing lately, and the blame of it should be placed where it belongs—that is, upon the county legislative body. A sheriff is entitled to protection from burglars, and it is the duty of the Board of Supervisors to see that the jail is made secure. It will presently be impossible to find a man who will accept the office of sheriff at all if better provision is not made for keeping predatory persons from getting into the jail in the silent watches of the night.—Rochester Union.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

It is, by no means, an unusual occurrence for business men to celebrate the Christmas season by presenting their employees with some appropriate gift at that time, but it is seldom that this recognition assumes such a practical and beneficial shape as it did in the steps taken by the Chicago mail order house of Montgomery Ward & Co. This firm, appreciating the value of life insurance, presented to about one hundred and fifty of its married employees, who had been in their service for two years or more, as a Christmas gift, a life insurance policy of $1,000 each, in the Prudential Insurance Company of America, whose home office is at Newark, N. J.

With regret and sorrow depicted in every feature, the three Bachelors heard that their mission was fruitless and that there was little prospect of securing the mascot they wanted.

"Our bird has flown," dramatically exclaimed one of the Bachelors. His friend, whose instruction under the masters at Old Eli had made him somewhat critical, begged the speaker to remember that the pig is still a quadruped and does not possess such natural features as are necessary in navigating the air. So they retired with thanks and gathered together the rest of the Bachelors of the Park Club. A searching party was organized yesterday afternoon to scour the country in search of the missing pig. Some rode in front in the bicycle squad, while others continued to hunt afoot and on horseback.

The readers of The Daily Press will doubtless recollect the Christmas surprise that was presented to a Plainfield young woman, who was such an admirer in secret of the piggy tribe, all the circumstances of which were related in these columns. Among the readers of the tale were some of the Bachelors of the Park Club. Someone suggested the advisability of borrowing the pig for this evening to use as a mascot in the bowling match with the Benedicts. The Bachelors were delighted with the idea and forthwith sent a delegation of three to beg the loan of Sir Piggy for one night only.

On their arrival at the home in which Master Pig had been received Christmas Day, they were sadly informed that he had escaped, no one knew whither. He either followed Santa Claus' example and departed by the chimney or else left his resting place in the cellar by some other mysterious channel. This morning the search was still continued despite the weather. So far the discovery of any clue to the pig's whereabouts has not been reported to police headquarters, but the Bachelors are still hopeful that he will be found in time for this evening's game.

One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

E. H. BIRD, P. M.

Rise of a Country Boy.

One of the most extraordinary achievements that has come to the notice of Street Lounger, says that writer in the Lansing, Mich. Republican, is the rise of W. H. Canniff, general manager of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad.

Canniff began his railroad career at Pittsburg, where he sawed wood in the depot. While employed there he learned telegraphing and railroad business. His first boost was at Trenton, on the Detroit branch. When the Union Pacific was opened he took a station at Lone Tree, Nebraska. He thought the country was rather new and returned to the Lake Shore. He was made station agent at Salem Crossing, now Otis, Ind.

Two division superintendents had graduated from that obscure station, and the boys joked "Bill." "Are you in line?" they said. Bill was. "I expect to be superintendent in due time," he said in seriousness. Soon afterward he was made track master of the Northern Michigan Railroad, now the Lansing branch. In quick succession he became acting superintendent of the Lansing division and assistant general superintendent respectively. Now he is general manager and when he occasionally stops at the little village of Clayton to visit his remaining relatives on the old farm, his private car stands on the side track, and the newspapers make a note of it.

Fashionable Adverbs.

One evening a gentleman came home with a budget of news. An acquaintance had failed in business. He spoke of the incident as "deliciously sad." He had ridden uptown in a car with a noted wit, whom he described as "horribly entertaining," and, to cap the climax, he spoke of the butter that had been set before him at a country hotel as "divinely rancid."

The young people stared and the oldest daughter said: "Why, papa, I should think that you were out of your head."

"Not in the least, my dear," he said, pleasantly. "I'm merely trying to follow the fashion. I worked out 'divinely rancid' with a good deal of labor. It seems to me rather more effective than 'awfully sweet.' I mean to keep up with the rest of you hereafter. And now," he continued, "let me help you to a piece of this exquisitely tough beef."

Adverbs, he says, are not so fashionable as they were in his family.—Boston Post.

A Happy Moment.

"John," she asked blushingly, for it was the seventh anniversary of their marriage, "what was the happiest moment of your life?"

"Ah, dear," he replied, "I remember it well. I shall never forget it. If I live to be a hundred years old, that moment will always stand out as plainly as it does to-night."

She sighed and nestled a little closer, looking longingly up into his honest blue eyes. After a moment's silence she urged:

"Yes, but John, dearest, you haven't told me when it was."

"Oh," he answered, "I thought you had guessed it. Surely it ought to be easy enough for you to do so. It was when you came to me last autumn, if you remember, and told me that you had decided to trim over one of your old hats so as to make it do for the winter."

Then the celebration of the seventh anniversary of their marriage became formal and uninteresting.

No Right to Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvet skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run down invalid. Only 50 cents at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

A PHILOSOPHER.

In winter time he's happy
When he's pelted by the snows;
In summer time he's singing
If he gathers one sweet rose;
And earth seems ever better
For the happy way he goes.

If dark the tempest's frowning
And no stars are in the night,
He thanks God for a shelter,
And sleeps and dreams of light.
And somehow earth is brighter,
For he ever makes it bright.

And so, in joy and sorrow,
He walks his earthly way,
And thanks God for to-morrow,
And does his will to-day.
And somehow Earth is brighter
For that lesson—love—obey!
—Atlanta Constitution.

A LIFE GAZE.

A few years after the close of the war I was one of a party of men from my town of Harrison and the adjoining town of Bridgton who went to Cambria county, Pennsylvania, and worked in the woods for the late Honorable Abraham A. Barker, a congressman from the Keystone state. Our camp was in a large tract of pine woods where settlers and squatters were few and far between.

An old hunter, Calvin Trott, whose acquaintance I made, speaking of the wild beasts indigenious to that region, instanced the catamount, otherwise known as the North America tiger, as the kind most to be feared, albeit it was rarely seen in those parts.

He said that a catamount's usual trick was to watch for his prey from ambush, up in a tree, and when the intended victim was sufficiently near, leap down upon it, fasten his teeth in the neck, cutting the jugular vein, and causing speedy death. But sometimes this terror of the forest would be encountered on the ground; in which event, if one was unarmed, the only hope of escape lay in quietly facing the animal, catching its eye before it made a spring, and litreally looking it out of countenance.

I little thought that I was to be afforded occasion to try what seemed to me a very doubtful expedient, to say the least.

My job was ox-teaming, and my route was a logging road, of a decidedly primative kind—simply a wide pathway cut through unbroken woods, too rough for carriage use, but answering for logging purposes.

It was a bright day in early autumn, and I was returning to camp. I had halted the oxen to give them a short rest, had sauntered some rods ahead of them, intending when they had sufficiently rested to order them to advance—a mandate they were sure to obey. All at once, from behind a pine shrub beside the road, not over six paces from me, appeared the form of a huge animal of the cat species, which I knew only too well was the terrible catamount!

The animal at once crouched down close to the earth, his face towards me, while his tail begun that peculiar gentle twitching movement which with the cat kind forebodes mischief.

That I, like grandfather's clock, stopped short, goes without saying. To turn and run was my first impulse, but I well knew this would be a fatal move. I was unarmed, and to advance would only serve to abridge my probably few moments of existence. What the hunter, Trott, had told me flashed across my memory, and I resolved to try the life-or-death experiment.

Now I had known what it was to face hostile cannon and rifles, but in the excitement of battle one in a measure loses his consciousness of danger, and besides, a battle is a lottery in which the number are not all blanks, but in this case, alone and unarmed as I was, and in the heart of a great forest, far from human help, to stand and face at close range a pair of eyes which represented what was more deadly than gunmuzzles, was the most appalling position I was ever in. I trembled from head to foot, and I could feel the cold sweat start from my forehead, but I nerved myself for the task, and at once, with head slightly advanced, fixed my eyes directly on those of the catamount, which evidently was ready for the fateful leap.

How long I thus stood I cannot say. It might have been five minutes, it might have been ten minutes, but to me it seemed at least half an hour. It was a dramatic tableau in real life—we two thus posed, his eyes riveted on mine, my eyes riveted on his, neither of us for an instant removing our gaze. Events in my past life, and thoughts of the dear ones at home whom I might never see again swept through my brain in quick succession, but the central idea that it was a game for life, with the odds tremendously against me, held me straight to the line, and I faltered not.

And I was destined to win!

Presently the catamount rose to his full height, gave a low, disgruntled growl, as he, for the first time, averted his head, then slowly walked off, at a right angle, into the woods.

I remained motionless except keeping my face turned towards my retreating foe. At the edge of the thicket he halted and gave me what proved to be the last look; seeing my gaze still upon him, he gave a second snarl, and disappeared in the forest.

Yes, thank God! I was saved.

I silently returned to my team, and as noiselessly as possible resumed my journey, which ended without further incident.—Exchange.

Lady—Now that you have partaken of a good dinner, are you equal to the task of sawing some wood?

Tired Tim—Madam, equal is not the proper word. I'm superior to it.

A ROYAL DENTIST.

Dr. Evans, Who Has Treated Teeth for Many European Sovereigns.

Slowly, and with the aid of a strong cane, an aged man made his way down the gang plank of a French liner, from Havre the other day. He was Dr. Thomas W. Evans, the most celebrated dentist in Europe, a friend of Napoleon III., and of Empress Eugenie.

Dr. Evans has done what no American can boast; he has treated and filled the teeth of every ruler in Europe, save only Queen Victoria. He went to Paris in 1846, and has resided there ever since.

His wealth is estimated at $35,000,000, besides a matter of $5,000,000 or so which is invested in real estate on Riverside drive in this city. He purchased this property in 1876, when he last visited this country.

It was during the reign of Napoleon III. that Dr. Evans came into prominence. He had succeeded in elevating dentistry and in perfecting methods far in advance of that time. The Emperor practically insured the doctor's future, for, hearing of his fame, he sought his skill.

A warm friendship sprang up between the Emperor and Dr. Evans. It was through this that Dr. Evans was enabled to accumulate wealth rapidly, for to be the Emperor's dentist meant to be that of every member of the court.

Kaiser Wilhelm I. of Germany, sought his aid. The present Czar of Russia, when a boy, also sat in the doctor's chair and had his teeth filled.

Napoleon's friendship enabled the shrewd American to make real estate investments in Paris that rapidly swelled his wealth. He now owns an elaborate office building and a magnificent residence on the Bois de Boulogne, besides many other valuable properties in the French capital.

The Empress Eugenie was also his patron, and when the French empire tottered to its fall and she feared for her life, Dr. Evans assisted her to escape at night from the Chateau de Pierrefonds. In his own carriage Dr. Evans took the Empress to Calais, and from there on board his yacht, where she remained during the horrors that followed in France.—New York Journal.

THE GATE WAS TAKEN OFF.

What Lady Burton Couldn't Get by Asking She Obtained by Force.

Summary measures may often be taken when human motives conflict, if only, at the same time, "mercy seasons justice."

When Sir Richard Burton was British Consul at Damascus, his wife, Lady Isabel, found that a large wooden gate, in the garden next hers, swung continuously on its hinges, and that it was keeping one of her guests, an English official, awake at night.

The garden belonged to an old woman, and Lady Burton asked her to have the gate fastened; but she sent back word that it was impossible. It had been broken for years, and she had no money to repair it. So the English lady took the law into her own hands. That night her guest slept well, and at breakfast he asked gratefully how she had managed about the gate.

"If you look out of the window," said she, "you will see it in the courtyard. I had it pulled down at sunset."

He drew the long face of official rebuke.

"Oh!" said he, "but you really must not treat people like that! Suppose they knew of these things at home?"

"Suppose they did," echoed she, laughing.

After her guest's departure, she ordered the gate to be mended and replaced at her own expense; and the next time she went out, the little old woman next door ran after her, crying:

"O thou light of my eyes, thou sunbeam! Come and sit by the brook in my garden, and honor me by drinking coffee, and Allah grant that thou mayest break something else of mine, and live forever!"

He Followed the Advice.

"How far can you swim, Willie?" inquired the visitor.

"Oh, I don't know," replied Willie.

"Across the ocean?" persisted the visitor, facetiously.

"I shouldn't wonder," answered Willie, promptly.

"Why, Willie, do you know how far it is across the ocean?" demanded Willie's mother.

"Don't care how far it is," retorted Willie. "Pop told me once never to admit that I couldn't do a thing until I'd tried and failed, and I never tried this."—Chicago Post.

Locating the Garden.

"Dó ye know, Jamie, that oi hev an oidea that the Garden of Ayden was in owld Oireland?"

"Mebbe it's so, Patsie; but sure, man, ye hev no proof."

"Whisht now, Jamie, till ye hear me; ye'll not be that foolish as to be denyin' that the first marriage took place in the Gyarden of Ayden."

"Av coorse not, Patsie."

"Thin, me oidea is sertifoied to, for isn't marriage a D'ublin' ordinance?"—Richmond Dispatch.

To Tempt the Bargain Hunters.

"I see that a number of women are going to Klondike."

"Yes, I noticed it. I was thinking of going up there and selling potatoes at 98c apiece."—Indianapolis Journal.

WHEN I PLAYED GOLF.

When I played golf I learned to eat
Some things I dared not eat before.
I learned another tongue complete,
I learned to lie about my score.

When I played golf I learned to flirt—
An opportunity most rare—
And as I cameoed the dirt
I picturesquely learned to swear.

When I played golf I learned to steal
The balls the other players lost.
I learned to spend my all and feel
'Twas wrong to stop and count the cost.

When I played golf my great concern
Was this:—I say it to my shame—
The only thing I did not learn
Was how to play the cussed game.

TOM'S BLUNDER.

Tom Bentley was a fool. That is, to say, he was generally accredited with having less sense than his fellow men. Certainly he had abilities of a fair order, but they were not of the kind adapted to carry him through the ordinary affairs of life without some blunder here and there.

Tom fell in love. Not that this might be considered as the natural result of his affliction, but it led him to the blunder here recorded.

When Tom first met Miss Amanda Smith he was acting as private secretary to a wealthy, retired senator. Just about the time Tom's heart bade him unburden himself at the feet of Miss Amanda, his employer went abroad, taking his secretary with him. Why he did not propose to her by letter, I do not know; nor was it any of my business; I record simply the facts.

A year passed by before Tom's employer was disposed to return, and then his return was unexpected, else Tom would hardly have had the chance to make this blunder.

It was a beautiful May morning. After a good night's rest, Tom had strolled down town to attend to some business, in order that his mind might be freed from all cares, preliminary to a call upon Miss Smith. Toward noon, his business completed, he entered a fashionable cafe, which was, to him, replete with memories of happy visits, in company with her for whom he had been languishing a whole year. The seat he took gave him a position whence he might admire his own attractions in a full length of French plate, and also observe the other guests.

Before he was half through lunch, the mirror made known to him the presence of a very striking couple. She was young, beautiful and—Miss Amanda Smith! He—well, Tom did not know him, but observed, with paling cheek, that the two were very much devoted to each other. Finally he noticed a startling fact. Miss Smith, with feminine care, was just in the act of passing a beautiful white hand over her tresses. Tom watched it, in all the fascination of a lover; until suddenly his heart began to sink. On the third finger of Miss Smith's left hand was a wedding ring!

I knew nothing of all this until some time after; in fact, not until I received a letter from Tom, in which he upbraided me for a lack of friendly interest, in not having acquainted him with the news of Miss Smith's marriage. He detailed the scene in the cafe, and told me that his life was ruined; that he never cared to return again to his native town. He was now holding a good position in New York, and would stay there.

I was a little perplexed by this turn of events, yet I correctly guessed the affair to be complicated by his stupidity. I resolved to see Miss Smith, and, if possible ferret out the mystery. Accordingly, one fine afternoon, I called upon her, in the hope that circumstances would bring about some solution of Tom's troubles.

The first thing I observed, when we were seated for a chat, was her left hand. Neither there, nor on the other hand, could I see anything, in appearance approaching a wedding ring. I resolved upon a bold expedient.

"I miss the plain gold ring you sometimes wear," I said.

"Oh, yes," was her reply. "Excuse me for a moment, and I will get it. There is a very sad story connected with it."

She returned shortly, and handed to me what was unmistakably a wedding ring. While I was examining it she related to me the story of a dear cousin, who, after wearing it one short year, had died in far off India.

"But, Miss Smith," I asked, with the freedom of a friend, "are you not afraid to wear this in such a way that it might mislead people?"

"I never do," she replied. "Indeed, I make it a point of wearing it always on my right hand."

This was all the more perplexing. I knew her to be precise and careful; I knew Tom was not such a fool that he could not tell the right hand from the left. It was certainly strange, and for a few minutes we dropped the matter. At last, an idea having struck me, I asked Miss Smith to put the ring where she usually wore it—on the third finger of the right hand. Then I gently turned her to a mirror, held up her arm, and asked what the mirror said. Astonishment spread over her fact as she looked.

"Why, it seems to be on my left hand! I never thought of that."

I did not explain to her the reason of my interest, but that night I sat down and wrote a long letter to Tom, calling him some choice names, and warning him that his folly would ultimately bring untold trouble upon himself if he did not reform.

My harshness, however, did not prevent me from being, three months later, the best man at Tom's wedding.—Waverley Magazine.

THE HOUSE BREAKERS.

A New Year's Story,

By Francis Miller.

[Copyright, 1898]
(Permission Owl Pub. Co.)

"Move! Move! Not I!"

"Then I shall not stay here another moment!"

That ended it. I must move! My wife said so, and what my wife says—goes.

I, who had settled down here since the day we returned from our wedding trip—a confirmed old stayer like myself, must either change houses or wives, and as I was perfectly satisfied with both, it was a hard matter to decide. After a short but wise reflection I decided that good houses were common and that I could probably find one just as homelike as the present one—but good wives are rarities.

We had lived on Ray street five years. The house was large and built for two families. All had gone serenely, and we had not been troubled with our neighbors, for we had none. I had charge of the other part of the house and made it a point to discourage all inquirers. In the face of my descriptions—my mentioning poor water, gloomy rooms, cold hallway, etc., one rent-seeker had the audacity to declare that it was just the place he was looking for—a place where his mother-in-law wouldn't come and stay twelve months each year—and he moved in bag and baggage. My wife was frantic. The woman, who had been our neighbor less than a day, had called on us sixteen times, and by actual bookkeeping had borrowed ninety-seven articles.

All this was bad enough, but when Johnny came in to sleep with my son Bradley because they were going to have company—it was too much.

My wife protested. She would stand it no longer! Either I must get a house or she would.

I had always declared that whatever happened—small pox or German measles—I would never go rent hunting.

"Well, I will!" she exclaimed, and she nearly froze me with a Klondike glance. She put on her hat and coat (her rubbers she had loaned), and slamming the door behind her, started off.

I settled back with my newspaper and was in the midst of an exciting description of how New York society had given a swell cotillion and all the blue bloods were there, when the door opened, and in walked my wife, her head up in the air as though she had fallen heir to millions.

"Ha, ha!" I exclaimed—"back early, what luck?"

"HA, HA! BACK EARLY."

"Luck!" she replied, "the greatest in the world! I have been gone less than an hour and have got the dearest, sweetest, little house in all Wayne City."

"Is that so!" I replied, becoming somewhat pleased with her success—"where is it?"

"Oh, you can't guess!"

"No—I don't suppose I can. I'm not a mind reader or the chief of the United States weather bureau—Where is it?"

"Down Bancroft Avenue!"

"Down Bancroft Avenue! Why that will ruin me! That's the most aristocratic portion of the city. No one but a banker and a stock broker, or a bunco steerer can live there!' But what's the rent? Where's the house?"

"Well, it's on Bancroft Avenue—eighth house on the right—going down—just across from Sevill Hotel, big house with large veranda—Queen Anne roof—elegant portico—palatial bay window—conservatory—trailing ivy—charming hall—painted ceilings—hard oak railings—Why it's the loveliest house in the city! All for eighty-five dollars!"

"Eighty-five dollars! Great heavens—eighty-five dollars! More than a lawyer sees in a lifetime! What do you think I am a supervisor of, some trust fund or the Superintendent of the Connecticut School for Boys!"

But then it was no use talking! My wife refused to live here any longer She undoubtedly knew what she wanted, and I knew that she generally got it—and so I gave in calmly and told her I would call round and look at the house on the following day.

The landlord had allowed her to retain the key—there were a few goods still there belonging to the owner which had not been removed—hall carpet, shades, etc.

It was my custom to spend a few hours at the Lawyer's Club each evening, and as it was New Year's Eve I hurried down to the club rooms. As usual I met with a warm reception and joined the judge and a party from the district attorney's office in a quiet smoke. The evening was pleasantly passed discussing various subjects and finally I told the tory of the intrusion of the Houser family. I also mentioned my proposed change in residence.

"By the way, gentlemen," I remarked, "I have to go around and look at a house. Now, what's the matter with all of you appointing yourselves an investigating committee and coming around with me! The rent is eighty-five dollars. Form your opinion of what an eighty-five-dollar house should be and we'll make a visit and pass judgment. It's only around the corner on Bancroft Avenue. Yes! Yes! I'm getting aristocratic—the woes and the wails of the people this week have been many, necessarily business bummed in the law office."

The gentlemen of the law seemed to consider the proposal favorably.

"Why, yes," exclaimed Judge Cullom. "Let me see—ten o'clock, New Year's Eve. Why, yes! I'm willing to sereve on this committee. The judge was law in club as well as court, and our party of ten of the leading lights of Janes County bar were soon walking leisurely down Bancroft Avenue.

"The house we want is the eighth, on this side—one—two—three—this is right! This is it!" I exclaimed, and we all walked single file through the big iron gate, around the house and halted at the back door.

"SILENCE IS THE WATCHWORD."

"Gentlemen," I said "I have forgotten the key. We'll have to try our luck at housebreaking. Is there a man here who has had experience? Be as quiet as possible. We do not wish to disturb the neighbors or get the fire department out! It won't do to strike a light. Silence is the watchword!"

We made the rounds and soon found a window which went up accommodatingly. It being my house I was the leader, and was given a boost by the judge, and was the first one to enter. Next came the judge—followed by the other eight attorneys.

A very dim light from the street gave us just about the amount of light we desired. I could see that we had entered the elegant hallway my wife mentioned.

"These rugs belong to the owner. He has a few furnishings here," I remarked.

"Well, gentlemen?"

"Great!" came the unanimous reply.

"Upstairs first," I whispered, and all followed quietly.

We stood in another elegant hallway.

"How's this?" I asked.

"Palatial!" was the reply again.

I opened a door at the right, and stepped into the room.

"Ah! I exclaimed, "here we have it! This is the room of which my wife requested me to take special notice. If you don't like this your taste is degenerating."

We sat down on the window-seat and looked out, watching the flood of New Year's callers.

"This is grand!" remarked Judge Cullom, as he took a light from my cigar.

"What do you intend using this room for, Travelyan?"

"Why—it's a smoking room—especially designed for Broker Rawson, said to be one of the finest in the city—I believe that it has been used as a bedroom recently. In fact I know it has. That is a couch over there, isn't it?"

There was a slight moving—a cough—"Joseph! I wish you would stop smoking! Are you ever going to retire?" inquired a sweet voice, as the springs squeaked.

The silence was oppressive! "Great Scott!" I whispered. "Judge! judge! For heaven's sake where are we?"

The judge was more frightened than myself. I put my hand on him in the dark, and he gave a start. I was about to throw open the window and jump—when Lawyer Alton, who was never known to refuse to rise to an occasion, replied in the most husbandly, just-married tones, "a happy New Year, dear."

"Is that you, Joseph?" she asked.

"Yes, dear," replied Alton again, and it was hard for me to suppress a laugh.

Alton then turned to us—we were huddled in the dark corner, and whispered, "For heaven's sake, gentlemen, get out!"

As he spoke there was a light moving of the sheets—a white figure arose—stretched out her arms, and said yawning:

"Joseph! did you lock the catch on the hall window when you came in?"

It did not seem as though this could last long, but Alton again replied, "Yes, dear."

She laughed and said: "You are unusually extravagant with your 'dears' to-night, Joseph, and happy New Year's."

I turned, looked out of the window, just in time to catch a glimpse of a man coming up the front walk to the house. He stepped on the veranda, and in a moment I heard the click of the lock. My heart rose in my mouth, literally speaking!

"It's her husband! Lord help us!"

Alton was holding out wonderfully well in the conversation. "What is that, Joseph?" she said excitedly. "I hear some one down stairs! Hark! Listen! You had better go down, Joseph!"

We all wanted to be Josephs now and made a grand rush for the door—a rush that would have gained fame for any college athlete; and Alton, he was the calmest, coolest man I ever saw.

'Did you fall Joseph? Are you hurt?" she exclaimed. Had it not been for Alton we should have met our Waterloo here, but he replied in the same suave manner:

"Only a chair, dear."

As we stood on the top of the stairway at the railing a man came up the stairs whistling; he had no light—and feeling his way along, passed into the handsome bedroom, and was quickly met with the same feminine voice.

"What was it, Joseph?"

"What was what?"

"What was that?"

"A dream, I guess!" he replied with a laugh.

"No! I heard an awful noise. It sounded like a man down stairs!"

"There was a man downstairs. I just came up myself!"

"Oh, I know—but before you went down!"

"Oh, you're asleep," he sneered, "I'm the only racket you've heard to-night!"

"But, Joseph, I say I heard some one downstairs at the door! And you know it as well as I do! And you're afraid to go down, and I don't believe you went down at all!"

And this heartless husband began to whistle the strains of: "She may have seen better days—when she was in her prime," ending with "I'll tell you what you heard! The little black cat! He fell off the shelf with the milk pan!"

Then we heard him climb into bed, and let go our tight grasp on the banister. We were about to make a grand slide for safety, when the judge grabbed my arm.

"Look here, this will never do! If we make a slight noise we'll be caught! It would ruin the reputation of every member of the Lawyers' Club! No excuse would answer—we'd all be disbarred at the next meeting of the Janes County bar. We must be cautious!"

"Gentlemen," whispered Alton, "I have it. You stand right here like sprinters ready to receive the signal. When you hear a tremendous crash or the cry of 'murder! help! rush for your lives. Make a straight line for a breath until you are safe on your own bed!"

Alton removed his shoes, handed them to me as protector, and stole stealthily to the door of the room. We could see his shadow as he disappeared. Following his directions we took our positions for the signal.

Suddenly there was a crash that would have startled the dead.

With one grand leap I struck the bottom stair, and the entire Lawyers' Club was in a heap upon me. Alton sprung over us and leaped out of the window like an escaping maniac. One by one the pile grew smaller and each man followed Alton. I got up, saw I was the last, and hobbled out of the window on one leg, and tumbled down the walk in hot pursuit. What became of the other members of the "investigating committee" I did not know. The last I saw was a streak in the darkness going at breakneck speed!

I hobbled home the best I could and spent the rest of the night in applying arnica and bandages to the footprints of Judge Cullom, which were indelibly stamped on my skin. The next morning when the newsboy brought my paper, I was receiving a short speech from my wife on "late hours, clubs, etc." I picked it up and in big glaring headlines these words met my eyes:

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT!

Folding Bed Closes in the Home of President Joseph Glaron, of Home National Bank, on Bancroft Avenue.

Mrs. Glaron found unconscious—Mr. Glaron succeeded in escaping after three hours in the trap! Defective spring the supposed cause.

At first I felt somewhat uneasy—and then I read "Defective spring the supposed cause!"

I was sitting in the district attorney's office a few hours later when a tall, dark individual entered in uniform.

It was the chief of police. Stepping to the table he remarked "Good-morning, Mr. Newberry. I have a case here that may bring out some results. You heard of the robbery at Solon's dry goods store last night? Yes, well, the patrolman brought in these!" (and untieing the bundle he held them up before us.)

Great Scott! They were Alton's shoes! I had not thought of them since he handed them to me in the hallway. The district attorney looked rather blandly at the shoes, which the chief of police threw on the table, and then at me.

"Now this may prove a good clew," continued the chief. "Murphy found them shortly after midnight on his beat—in front of Banker Glaron's house. That Solon robbery was a huge thing and I believe we have a strong point here! I have had a photograph of the shoes taken this morning; the number, width, shape etc., have been telegraphed to the stations in the surrounding cities——"

Just then Alton walked in—"Say, Trevelyan," he exclaimed, "what on earth did you do with my—with my—with—!" the chief stood and looked at him. Alton walked up to the table and picking up the shoes he remarked: "Hello, here they are!"

"Yes," replied the chief, "it's a mighty good clew, too! If we don't run down the Solon robbers with them then we're of no use to the service!"

"Why, what about them?" drawled Alton slowly.

"What about them?" inquired the chief, surprised.

"Why they are the clew to one of the biggest robberies of the year, and if we find the man whose foot fits that shoe, woe be unto him. We'll soon fit him out with a new pair, and a pretty striped suit of summer clothing too!"

"I will try to find the culprit," said the district attorney.

"Well, do the best you can!" called back the chief, as he closed the door and left the office.

"I will!" replied the district attorney, and throwing the shoes at Alton remarked: "Here Alton take a last look at your shoes before we put them in the rogue's gallery!"

Alton now wears an entirely different style shoe. His former style is on exhibition in police stations.

I have walked down Bancroft Avenue a hundred times since then. Some way I cannot refrain from counting the houses on the right.

I live in the eighth. One house further down from the place where the investigating committee of the Lawyers' Club spent the greatest night in their history.

Last time I met Judge Cullom he whispered:

"Don't forget! Take the eighth house on the right!"

We recently presented each member a card on which this motto is inscribed: "When you hear a crash, sprint for your lives. (Alton.)"

And now I have told you the secret story of the Housebreaker's from the Lawyer's Club.

A NEW LEAF.

He came to my desk with a quivering lip—
The lesson was done.
"Dear teacher, I want a new leaf," he said;
"I have spoiled this one."
In place of the leaf so stained and blotted,
I gave him a new one, all unspotted—
And into his sad eyes smiled—
"Do better now, my child."

I went to the Throne with a quivering soul—
The old year was done—
"Dear Father, hast Thou a new leaf for me?
I have spoiled this one."
He took the old leaf, stained and blotted,
And gave me a new one, all unspotted,
And into my sad heart smiled—
"Do better now, my child."

NEW YEAR IN ALASKA.

Mrs. Chilkold: A 'appy New Year to you, Mr. Nuggets. But we won't be able to go to the reception. Mr. Chilkold came down from the creek yesterday, and 'e's not quite thawed out. 'Is nose is doin' nicely, but I'm afraid 'is hear will break hoff."

Thought He Would Call.

He was a very lonely looking little man. He unfolded the newspaper with great care and began to look over the list of people who announced that they would receive New Year calls.

"Looking for any name in particular?" inquired the friend who happened by.

"Yes," was the reply. "You see my wife belongs to seven clubs and holds office in every one of them. I thought I'd see if she is to be at home to-morrow, and if she is, I'm going to call on her."

Why She Protested.

The proud young husband of the beautiful young wife, declared that it mattered not to him how poor he might be in the world's goods.

"For thou," he exclaimed, "art wealth untold!"

"But I expect to be told everything," she protested, fearful lest there arise misunderstanding between them.—Detroit Journal.

How He Swore Off.

Van Chump, Sr. My son, I was greatly shocked on passing your room this morning to hear you using profane language, and only the day after you promised me to swear off.

Van Chump, Jr. That must have been what I was doing when you heard me.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Special Correspondence

The recent sale of unclaimed parcels from the dead letter office, proved to be a lottery with but few prizes. This is an annual event and comprises some hundreds of thousands of packages—and letter offices accumulations.

Sometimes something worthy of attention as to value arrives. It is put by itself, in a separate parcel, and suitably described in the catalogue. There is no deception in this business. A couple of years ago one of the packages was declared to contain an opera-glass holder of gold and pearl. It was further advertised that the name of Rosalind Bright was engraved on the article in question. A man came along who knew Rosalind Bright—an actress she was, it appeared. Nay, more, according to his account, he had been one of a committee which presented the opera-glass holder in question to the lady. Nevertheless, the dead letter office could not deliver it to him, because he was not the owner. Miss Bright was communicated with, and—astonishing to say—she declared that she had owned such an article, but that it was still in her possession. The solution of the problem was that Miss Bright had instrusted the holder to a gentleman of her acquaintance, who was to have it mended. He dropped it, accidentally, in the Chicago postoffice, whence it was forwarded to Washington. Not wishing to acknowledge his fault, he had another made, as nearly as possible like the original, by a local jeweler, and handed it over to the fair Rosalind.

Detached parts of bicycles, such as sprocket-wheels, tires, saddles and all sorts of other stray fragments of wheels, float in to the dead letter office, and have to be made into suitable parcels for auction. Cheap jewelry has been more plentiful in lost offices during the last twelvemonth or so before. This seems to be because many publishers nowadays give such stuff as premiums to their customers. Tobacco firms also, and other concerns, give jewelry in exchange for a specified number of coupons removed from their own particular products. Even the most conservative insurance companies have adopted this sort of business.

Thomas Jefferson's Library.

In his search through the national library for the books formerly belonging to the collection of Thomas Jefferson, Librarian Young has succeeded in identifying between 6000 and 8000 volumes by the secret mark inserted in the books in Jefferson's own handwriting. These books are to be gathered together and preserved behind glass doors, in a room adjoining the reading room for the blind. The new library building is in a very large measure a monument to the venerable Senator Morrill who is nearly 90 years old, for it was under his fostering care that the project grew in national interest and application.

American Beer in Hong Kong.

According to recent information from Hong Kong, China, it appears that since the arrival there of the American squadron, at least three brands of American beer have firmly established themselves there, and one brand of whiskey. Canned meats and fruits have also come to stay. Our bicycles are favorites; but as the opportunity of using them is restricted, the demand can never be great or worthy of serious competition. Within the last three months the agent of an American sewing machine obtained an order for 1200 machines from an English firm, and at the same time an order for a considerable number of bicycles, which his company makes with the same plant that they use for the sewing machines. There will be an increasing demand for cheap sewing machines among the Chinese, and energetic measures ought to be taken to control the market.

The Chinese Trade.

The trade with the Chinese is a peculiar one, requiring much patience, tact and perseverance. Generally speaking, the class of goods most in demand is of a cheap, flashy nature, commonly known as Birmingham wares, and those of a kindred class, "made in Germany," in imitation. The Germans are the sole importers of the latter, and their small commissions and methods of doing business enable them to compete keenly with the former. The method of carrying on business is peculiar to the East. Credit of from three to four months is usually given, but it is worthy of note that its observance is oftenest respected in the breach. In consequence of keen competition, the agreed term is often disregarded, the Chinaman taking delivery and paying for his goods in installments to suit his convenience.

Division of Parties.

Is imperialism to divide parties and sever close friendships? It begins to look so. Think of Senators Hoar and Vest working for the same end. Indeed, party fealty seems to have little influence whenever this question is considered. And if this is so in Congress, how much more striking is the list of anti-imperialists among public men. Take the vice-presidents of the league, for instance: Andrew Carnegie, Charles F. Adams, former Senator George F. Edmunds, Samuel Gompers, John C. Bullitt, of Philadelphia; Herbert Myrick, orator of the National Grange; Edward Atkinson, Patrick A. Collins, ex-United States Consul to London; Samuel Bowles, of the Springfield Republican; Carl Schurz, John Sherman, James C. Carter, Bishop Henry C. Potter, Governor H. S. Pingree, of Michigan; Grover Cleveland, Reverdy Johnson, of Maryland; Congressman Henry U. Johnson, of Indiana, and John G. Carlisle.

On almost any other question of economics or public policy these men would mix about as easily as oil and water.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD.

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World.

Large and appreciative audiences are witnessing the production of that sensational comedy drama "Side Tracked," which will be the attraction at Music Hall tonight. Its startling denouments and mirth-provoking situations evoke rapturous applause. The company is a strong one in every particular, and the members appear thoroughly at ease in their various characters. The specialties, consisting of up-to date songs, dances, duets, trios and choruses, are given in a very capable manner. The principal figure in the drama is a tramp, through whose persistent efforts a mysterious crime is finally cleared up. This character is assumed by E. H. O'Conner, who is deserving of much praise for his performance. He is a clever singer and dancer, and is to be commended for overcoming the perceptible temptation to buffoonery. Billy Bowers, as Fritz Grabhold, a German section gang boss, makes many friends by his specialties. L. C. Yeoman has a good face and figure, which together with his ability as an actor, makes him one of the favorites of the cast. Harry Leslie, as Miles Wellington, the express agent, and R Edgar Vance, as Judge Pecksniff, of Johnsonboro, are excellent in their respective characters. Gertrude Barnes, the soubrette, establishes herself as a decided favorite by her natural acting and songs and dances. Cecile Lorraine, Marguerite Mayfield and Josephine Roberts appear to advantage in their different characters.

* * * * *

At Stillman Music Hall theatre goers will have no cause for complaint next week. The famous Bennett & Moulton Company is now in its twentieth year of continuance existence. In order to give their performances as perfectly as possible they carry a car load of their own scenery, and all the furniture and appointments used in the productions. They have one of the best acting companies ever organized to play at popular prices, 10, 20 and 30 cents, of which they are the originators. There is not a moments delay from the time the curtain rises till it falls and the opinion will be that the Burnett-Moulton Co. surpasses anything seen in this city at popular prices. The play selected for the opening night will be "Darkest Russia." It will be presented in a manner that has seldom been seen in this city by any high priced company. The specialties and moving picture machines, the wargraph, are a feature by themselves. There will be no matinee Monday, it being impossible to get ready as the company carry such a large amount of paraphernalia. Tuesday the matinees begin. Seats are now on sale.

Miss Viola Allen will continue her present great success, "The Christian," at the Garden Theatre in New York until Spring. Next season she will be seen in but seven of the principal cities of the country, which will end her career as "Glory Quayle" in Hall Caine's powerful play. The following season she will appear in a new drama now being written for her by a noted English playwright. Another company will present "The Christian" in cities Miss Allen cannot visit next season. It will in no sense be a "No. 2," as the play will be mounted with the same elaborate detail and every effort will be made to secure an equally strong organization to act it.

—Friday night Howell Division, Sons of Temperance, will hold their postponed entertainment.

WHAT IS "SOCIAL POSITION?"

The Peanut Vender Considers Himself Above the Organ-Grinder.

People who belong to what is called the best society in large towns or cities are usually quite unconscious of the fact that society is graded just as minutely beneath them as it is in the plane with which they are familiar. But, in fact, every individual in a complex society, down to the beggar in the steet or the tramp on the highway, has his "social position." The city missionaries of Boston report with some astonishment, that a great social gap exists between the peanut-vender on the sidewalk and the peripatetic organ-grinder, and that the children of the former are forbidden by their parents to play with the children of the latter. It is indeed asserted, and with considerable truth, that mere wealth is a passport to the best society; but this is less true in America than it is in England, and less true in Australia than it is in America. The reason is that in England the best society is a State institution, and, therefore, is more sure of its position and can afford to be less exclusive—to be more hospitable, not only to wealth, but also to intellect and originality—than is possible for the corresponding class in a democratic country. Moreover, even from the most aristocratic point of view, a good reason can be given for accepting wealth as a substitute for birth. The fact that a man has made much money implies as a rule, that both his mind and his physical strength are far above the average. From what better stock, then, could the best society be recruited? This, of course, is not the motive of the rich man's reception in good society. It might better be described as nature's reason for permitting the anomaly.—Henry Charles Merwin, in Atlantic Monthly.

ELECTRICITY AND ENGLISH BIRDS.

Fears That the Little Warblers May Be Exterminated.

An English journal has become alarmed at the relation of electricity to song birds, which it maintains is closer than that of cats and fodder crops. How many of us, it asks, foresee that electricity may extirpate the song bird. Yet, unless some unknown factor intervene, the chain of cause and effect would seem to be far simpler than that of the cat that kills the field mice that would rifle the nests of the bumble bees that ought to fertilize the red clover. With the exception of the finches, all the English song birds may be said to be insectivorous, and their diet consists chiefly of vast numbers of very small insects, which they collect from the grass and herbs before the dew is dry. As the electric light is finding its way for street illumination into the country parts of England, these poor winged atoms are slain by thousands at each light every warm summer evening, battering themselves against the globes until the ground beneath is strewn with them The fear is expressed that when England is lighted from one end to the other with electricity, the song birds will die out from the failure of their food supply. Americans have long been familiar with the destruction of insects wrought by arc lights in the warm months, but it is not on record that the naturalists in this country have given themselves any particular concern about it, or that it has reacted to any serious extent against any other part of the animal kingdom.

CHINESE CONSERVATISM.

It Took the Celestial Some Time to See the Utility of Telegraphy.

Many tales have been told of the unwillingness of the Chinese to see the advantages of the introduction of the telegraph into China. A telegraph journal now adds to the number by the recital of an incident connected with the first cable along the coast from Pekin to Shanghai Soon after the cable was laid a lottery drawing came off in Pekin, in which many of the residents of Shanghai held tickets. One of the gamblers so far overcame his distrust of the cable as to have the winning numbers sent him, and he bought the tickets bearing them from his more skeptical townsmen, realizing a small fortune on the transaction. Not long after there was a scanty crop of rice in the upper provinces, and a Shanghai merchant telegraphed to Pekin instructions to buy heavily. The ultimate result was that he sold out at an immense profit and retired on an independency. By degrees it began to dawn on the Chinese that it was just as well not to tear down telegraph wires, as the telegraph was a fairly good thing to have around.

How the Moon Fixes Soft Crab Prices.

The prices for the soft crabs are governed largely by the phases of the moon. The sloughing season of the crab is after the dark of the moon, increasing as the moon nears its full. Operated upon by the unvarying law of supply and demand, as the supply becomes more abundant at the moon's full, prices often drop to ten or fifteen cents per dozen, while at other seasons the fancy prices of from sixty to eighty cents are received.—Philadelphia Times.
